Since the 1st January, 1876, the entire of the petty sessions and court fines for all offences, save excise, customs, and militia fines, have been paid over to the credit of the Corporation, amounting for quarter ended 31st March to £50 2*s.* 8*d.*, and quarter ended 30th June £42 7*s.* 9*d.* The total amount is shown on the abstract.

Arrears, 1st September, '75,	809	10	8
Omitted as irrecoverable,	1	9	11
	808	0	9
Rental for year,	3,378	16	1
	£4,186	16	10
Received,	3,233	11	8
Remaining, 31st August, '76,	£953	5	2

It appears from the above that the arrears of rent have increased from £809 10*s.* 8*d.* to £953 5*s.* 2*d.*—showing the necessity for more exertion in the collection of the rental. This is the more necessary, as it may be seen that on the expenditure side of the abstract there is a charge of £13 18*s.* by the bank as interest on overdrawn account. This charge has hitherto been made and allowed, although considered as of very doubtful legality; but, in accordance with the legal opinion forwarded in your letter of November last, I have stated that such a charge is not a legal expenditure of the town funds, and will not be allowed after the present date.

I have disallowed, under the head of Salaries, the sum of £30, portion of the salary of £130 per annum paid to Mr. Greene, engineer. This salary has been paid to him since his appointment in June, 1871—at £50 as Surveyor and Inspector, and £80 as Sword Bearer. It has, however, recently come to my knowledge that Mr. Greene is only in receipt of £100, the difference—£30— being paid over by the treasurer to a Mr. Cogan, who held the appointment prior to Mr. Greene. This appeared to me to be a very irregular proceeding, being an indirect and illegal mode of superannuating Mr. Cogan—the power of superannuation given to the Corporation, under the Act 32 and 33 Vic., c. 79, not having been acted on by a direct minute to that effect—and I accordingly held that the true amount of Mr. Greene's salary was only £100, and that the difference—£30—was not a legal charge upon the funds of the town, and I surcharged the amount to the Town Councillors who by their signatures to the cheques authorized the payment.

I have the honour to be, Gentlemen,

Your obedient servant,

Thomas Collot.

To the Local Government Board, Dublin.

REPORT of CONSULTING SANITARY OFFICER to SANITARY COMMITTEE.

Report of Consulting Sanitary Officer.

City of Derry, 5th October, 1875.

In compliance with the resolution of the sanitary committee adopted at its last meeting, that I should submit a scheme as to the best means of removing and abating nuisances from houses and yards, I beg to offer the following, viz. :—

The most fertile, though by no means the only cause of disease in this, as well as in other large towns, is the non-removal of human excreta, more particularly in thickly populated, and imperfectly drained localities. To this may be added, as belonging to the same category, the keeping of animals, especially swine, in small yards and close proximity to dwelling-houses.

Having regard to this evil, the requirements of this city are—

1st.—The construction of privies where they do not already exist ;

2nd.—The alteration and repair of such as are deficient in construction or condition ;

3rd.—The keeping of them clean and in proper repair, so that they can be used with decency, comfort, and safety by both sexes.

4th.—Properly constructed receptacles for ashes, excreta, and other refuse ;

5th.—Removal of the contents of these at short intervals.

6th.—Drainage and pavement of all yards, so as to prevent soakage of slops and foul fluids.

For several reasons I do not recommend water-closets in connexion with the houses of the working classes. The expense of erecting, fitting, and keeping them in repair is very great ; and, if badly constructed, out of order, or deficient in water supply, they become an intolerable and dangerous nuisance. Earth closets are in the abstract, superior to all others, but are liable to the same objection ; a great amount of waste would take place with either, and constant inspection, involving great expense, would be necessary.

I believe the most efficient, and at the same time simple and economical mode of systematically remedying the evil now under consideration, would be a modified form of what is usually called the "pail system," which has been adopted with great success in some of our very large towns. This may be said to consist of a wooden trough or vessel, sufficiently large to contain the excreta, ashes, and refuse of the family, for (say) a week, and so placed in relation to the privy as to receive the excreta which would be absorbed, deodorised, and in a great degree disinfected by the ashes of the house, daily emptied into the receptacle by a simple arrangement. The pail or receptacle must be fitted with a lid and handles, and be made of such a form as to be easily removable, for the purpose of being emptied into the scavenging carts. These should call at each house within a specified district at an early hour on a fixed day, so that every portion of the city would be cleansed weekly. There is little doubt that the quantity of rich manure so collected would go a long way towards defraying the expense incurred, and perhaps leave a margin of profit.

Should the Corporation carry out this system, it would be necessary to have several depots at some distance outside the inhabited parts of the city.

With regard to animals, more particularly swine (if, unfortunately, the latter are to be allowed within the city), special rules approved by the sanitary committee, and carried out under the orders of the executive sanitary officer, should be made for enforcing cleanliness, and removal of manure, &c., with a proviso that no accumulation should remain longer than a week. The law gives ample power to enforce this.

In connexion with the words "early hour," I strongly recommend that the street sweeping should be done at night, and the sweepings removed in the morning before the doors and windows of dwelling-houses and shops have been opened, and before the street traffic makes the operation more difficult and less complete. The premises in each district should be cleansed on the same morning that its streets are swept.

By the 54th section of the "Public Health Act," it is made imperative on the Local Board, "to see and provide that all drains whatsoever, and all water-closets, privies, cesspools, and ashpits, are constructed and kept so as not to be a nuisance or injurious to health," and by the previous section there is ample power given to enforce the construction of water-closet, or privy and ashpit. The means for enforcing this are most simple, and are detailed in the several Acts bearing on the subject.

WILLIAM BROWNE, M.D.,
Consulting Sanitary Officer.

App. No. 8.

Londonderry. Executive Sanitary Officer's Report.

Executive Sanitary Officer's Report on cost of carrying out Consulting Sanitary Officer's Recommendation, dated 5th October, 1876.

To the Urban Sanitary Committee:

Gentlemen,—In compliance with your order on 2nd November last, I herewith submit a report on the probable cost of carrying out the recommendation contained in the consulting sanitary officer's report, dated the 5th October previous.

That I might be in a position to lay the full facts bearing on so important a matter before you, I directed the sub-sanitary officers to make a full examination into each house within the urban sanitary district, and make out statistical returns of each street, and which not merely for the present purpose but for future reference will be found to be of great value.

In the summary of returns it appears there are 3,846 houses within the city; attached to these there are 2,188 privies and 878 water-closets; there are 997 houses which have no accommodation of either water-closet or privy.

With the consulting sanitary officer I have gone very fully and closely into the probable cost of having his suggestions carried out.

The first of these, viz., the construction of privies where they do not already exist, supplying them with pails, so as to carry out the pail system, would cost at least £6 per house; this would amount to £5,982.

Second, the altering and repairs of such as are deficient in construction, so as to carry out the pail system, of 2,188 privies at £2 each, £4,376.

Repairs to pavings of yards, £600.

Recommendations 3, 4, & 5 include "the keeping of yards and privies clean."

Providing a proper receptacle for ashes, excreta, and other refuse;

And removing the contents of the pails at short intervals.

The cost of these of course, would require to be borne by the sanitary authority, against which there will be the value of the manure.

In the first place there will be required at least three depots, which will cost, say, £20 each per annum, £60.

Each house requiring to have the excreta removed once a week, and assuming that it will occupy two men and one horse and cart for half an hour every week, which costs 1*s.* 6*d.*

The annual cost of, say, 4,000 houses amounts to	5,200
Total cost per annum,	5,260

Against this will be the value of the manure, which, estimating 15,000 inhabitants, making allowance for those using water-closets, and assuming the value per head being 5*s.*, will amount to £3,752.

I have examined the difference in cost of carrying out the arrangements recommended in paragraph nine, viz., cleansing the streets at night, and that at present of cleansing them in daylight,

I don't think the work could be done at all as effectively, and I should say I am below the mark when I estimate that night work will cost one-fifth more than day work.

At present the cleansing costs £800 per annum; by doing it at night it will cost £960 per annum.

In a summary of the entire cost to owners making preparation for the recommended system, it appears—

The cost will be	10,958
Annual cost of carrying out the cleansing to be borne by Corporation,	5,340
Deduct value of manure, provided a market can be obtained,	3,752
Balance,	1,588

* Henry Rochford, as the direct representative of the original lessee, applied in 1869 for a new lease.

All proposals for 31 years are subject to have roof newly dry slated with best Duchess slates, to be approved by City Architect.

All proposals for 75 years, subject to rebuilding on outward plan, approved by Corporation and City Architect.

I have recommended that the houses, now Nos. 105 and 106, Grafton-street, should be rebuilt, capable of internal formation into one house. A passage not exceeding 4 feet wide to be constructed from the rere of No. 105, Grafton-street to the stable lane in the rere, which will also give back entrance to the ground, now Nos. 16 and 17, Suffolk-street.

The City Architect has laid before Committee No 3, a ground plan for rebuilding the two tenements, Nos. 105 and 106, Grafton-street, and the entire of the south side of Suffolk-street, according to which plan the ground in front from No. 16, Suffolk-street should be let by the frontage foot, with corresponding breadth to the stable lane in the rere.

The ground now occupied by the three houses, Nos. 18, 19, and 20, Suffolk-street, to be relet for rebuilding in two lots of equal frontage to Suffolk-street. The reres to extend in straight lines to the stable lane.

Nos. 21 and 22, Suffolk-street to be rebuilt according to their frontage to Suffolk-street. The rere of each to extend in straight lines to the stable lane.

The lots now comprising Nos. 23, 24, and 25, Suffolk-street, to be rebuilt, according to their present dimensions, front and rere.

REPORT of FRANCIS MORGAN, Law and Land Agent.—EXPIRATION OF LEASES, SUFFOLK-STREET, GRAFTON-STREET, and WICKLOW-STREET.

To the CHAIRMAN and GENTLEMEN of COMMITTEE No. 3 (FINANCE).

27th March, 1875.

Adverting to my report of the 13th instant, I have since prepared, and herewith submit a tabular schedule of above twenty-six tenements near expiration, also the map prepared by the city surveyor from the several leases and measurements, and the report of the city architect, that—

10 Houses in Suffolk-street
7 Do. in Grafton-street
2 Do. in Wicklow-street
} Require rebuilding.

3 Do. in Grafton-street, to be new roofed.

21	Do.	Assignee, Atkinson,	Do.	1880	Vacant.
20	Do.	Boucher (late Waller),	Do.	1880	Alderman Harris has suggested that two new houses of equal frontage, with reres extending direct to Stable-lane, should be erected instead of Nos. 18, 19, and 20, Suffolk-street.
19	Do.	Harris,	Do.	1880
18	Do.	Barnes,	Do.	1880	The City Architect concurs in the suggestion, which I also recommend.
17	Do.	Griffen,	Do.	1880	Requires rebuilding.
16	Do.	Beaumont,	Do.	1880	Do. do.
106	Grafton-street,	Huleat,	Do.	1880	The City Architect concurs with me that Nos. 105 and 106, Grafton-street, be rebuilt together, capable of junction or separation.
104	Do.	Foster and Figgis,	Do.	1880	To be new roofed, on lease for 31 years.

97	Do.	M'Master,	Do.	1880	Do. do.
96	Do.	Boon,	Do.	1880	Do. do. Mr. Boon will rebuild both.
1	Wicklow-street,	Travestino,	Do.	1880	Do. do.
2	Do.	Mallett,	Do.	1880	Requires rebuilding. I recommend that on rebuilding of this holding the urinal on west flank be abolished and added to No. 3, Wicklow-street.
3	Do.	Ogilvy,	Do.	1880	Lately rebuilt. Connected with No. 99, Grafton-street.
4 & 5	Do.	Forrest,	Do.	1880	Connected with 100 and 101, Grafton-street.

Twenty-five of the above now produce £386 1*s.* 7*d.*

On repeal of the 55th By-law, and securing each amount of profit rent by a rentcharge, the full increased value can be immediately realized.

As I expect your Committee will have to make more than one inspection to fix the letting value of each lot, I have not yet inserted any amount for my own valuation, but I will be prepared to do so at the proper time, when so directed. I again urge the necessity to procure the repeal of the 55th By-law, and memorial for assent of the Treasury to grant a rentcharge to each person entitled to profit rent pending duration of present interest.

FRANCIS MORGAN.

MUNICIPAL CORPORATION of DUBLIN.—PROPOSED BY-LAW for the Regulation of LETTINGS of CORPORATE PROPERTY.

Proposed By-Law.

I, Francis Morgan, of No. 35, Dawson-street, in the city of Dublin, solicitor, a burgess of the borough of Dublin, very respectfully object to the amended form as published in the Freeman's Journal of 26th February, 1876, for the following reasons :—

1st. That the proposed form of amendment is vague and uncertain, as it does not distinctly state whether all the words commencing with the word "that" on the first line, and ending with the word "judicious" on the ninth line, are or are not to remain in force, together with the amendment.

2nd. And for the further reason "that in case a tenant in actual occupation, under a lease within five years of expiration, shall present a memorial to the Council for a renewal of such lease, the Council may, with the consent of the Treasury, grant a renewal of said lease, without offering same to public competition, for a term not exceeding thirty-one years, or not exceeding seventy-five years for rebuilding, at a yearly rent as the yearly value of the premises to be calculated by a competent sworn valuator to be appointed by the Treasury."

That the Act 3rd and 4th Vic., cap. 108, confers no authority upon the Council or the Treasury to assent to a renewal of any lease unless under a subsisting covenant, nor contains any restriction to prevent acceptance by the Council of an actual surrender of a lease within five years of expiration without assent of the Treasury.

3rd. The words "on the express condition that before execution of such new lease of expending so much money upon the premises as the city architect for the time being shall on oath declare to be necessary, having regard to the term of years of such new lease, and for the purpose of having the premises put into such a state of repair as may, so far as practicable, enable them to be delivered up at the expiration of the term in good and substantial condition."

This form of amendment is not only open to doubt and dispute, but would, by implication, require the city architect to outlive the term of such new lease.

4th. That all ambiguity can be avoided by the simple repeal of the 55th By-law, and the exercise of proper vigilance and supervision by the Corporation and their officers upon offers made by occupants to ascertain the true value of each holding before letting, and declare the particular covenants to be contained in each lease before creating any new tenancy by agreement with the occupant, the rent to be reserved in such new lease to be not less than the latest revised valuation for relief of destitute poor in Ireland.

Dated 8th of March, 1876.

NOTICE of MEMORIAL to TREASURY, pursuant to Act 3rd and 4th Victoria, cap. 108, sec. 141, and 6th and 7th Victoria, cap. 93, sec. 8.

Notice of Memorial.

TAKE NOTICE that, pursuant to the provisions of the Act 3rd and 4th Victoria, chapter 108, section 141, a memorial, in writing, from the Right Honorable the Lord Mayor, Aldermen, and Burgesses of Dublin (the Municipal Corporation of the city of Dublin), was agreed to by them in Council assembled on Friday, the 23rd day of March, 1877.

That said memorial stated that King Henry VIII., by Royal Charter, in the thirtieth year of His reign, granted to the then Municipal Corporation of the city of Dublin the several townlands in the county of Dublin and elsewhere in Ireland, which had formed part of the possessions of the suppressed Monastery of All Hallows or All Saints, then situated near the city of Dublin.

That one of said townlands, formerly called King-

wood, but now called Ringwood, situate in the barony of Newcastle, parish of Newcastle (Lyons), and county of Dublin, containing 53A. 3R. 9P. plantation measure, equal to 87A. 0R. 26P. statute measure, was last demised by lease dated 10th July, 1819, granted by the Right Honorable the Lord Mayor, Sheriffs, Commons, and Citizens of the City of Dublin (the legal name and style of the then Municipal Corporation of Dublin) to William Sherlock, esq. To hold for fifty-eight years from the 25th day of March, 1819, at the yearly bulk rent equal to £116 2*s.* 9*d.* sterling.

That by virtue of an Act passed in the Imperial Parliament in the fifty-eighth year of the reign of His Majesty King George III., entitled An Act for enclosing certain Commons Land in said county of Dublin, including the Commons of Newcastle, in said county, a part of said last mentioned commons, containing about 7A. 0R. 10P., was in the year 1824, by a written award under said Act, allotted and awarded to the said then Municipal Corporation of Dublin, as owners of said adjoining lands of Ringwood; and that such allotted portion of said late commons was allowed by said Corporation of Dublin to remain, without payment of any additional rent therefor, in the enjoyment of said lessee of said lands of Ringwood, pending the duration of said lease.

That all the interest of said lessee, William Sherlock, in said lands of Ringwood and said portion of said former Commons of Newcastle subsequently, by mesne assignment dated 1st February, 1839, became vested in Edward Gerty, therein described, who had since said last mentioned date held and occupied said lands of Ringwood and said part of said commons so added as aforesaid.

That all the estates of the said then Municipal Corporation of Dublin had, by operation of the Act 3rd and 4th Victoria, chap. 108, section 12, become vested in said memorialists under their new name of the Right Honorable the Lord Mayor, Aldermen, and Burgesses of Dublin.

That said memorialists on 1st January, 1851, made a code of by-laws for regulation of the public business of said memorialists, the 55th of said by-laws setting forth that no property of said memorialists could be disposed of on lease without being first set up twice to public auction. That said 55th by-law was varied and amended on the 13th day of March, 1876, with consent of His Excellency the Lord Lieutenant, according to the printed form to said memorial annexed, will appear.

That said Edward Gerty, occupant of said lands of Ringwood under said lease (to expire 25th March, 1877), had proposed in writing to said memorialists for a new lease of said lands for thirty-one years from 25th March, 1877, at the yearly bulk rent of £116 2*s.* 9*d.*, reserved in said lease. That although said memorialists were advised that last mentioned rate of rent was quite insufficient, they were aware that said Edward Gerty had kept his lands well manured during his occupation thereof. Said memorialists were, therefore, desirous to give him a preference of a new tenancy at the present fair letting value of said lands; and said Edward Gerty, when required by said memorialists, procured and furnished to memorialists a written valuation of said lands, dated 30th October, 1876, signed by Messrs. Brassington and Gale, who have valued said lands, as follows:—

Fifty-six acres, Irish plantation measure, at the rate of £3 10*s.* per Irish acre, . .	£196	0	0

As by a copy of said valuation to said memorial annexed will appear.

That said Edward Gerty had also sent in an amended proposal for thirty-one years at the said yearly rent of £214.

That although said memorialists wished to give the preference of tenancy to said Edward Gerty, they were first desirous to ascertain what value would be placed upon said lands by a sworn valuator to be appointed by the Lords of the Treasury, according to the terms of said amended 55th by-law; said memorialists therefore agree to present a memorial praying for appointment of a sworn valuator.

That as said lease, A H 80, will expire on the 25th March, 1877, said memorialists were desirous before that date to fix the rent to be reserved in any new lease to be made by memorialists to said Edward Gerty.

That pending the presentation of such memorial the said Edward Gerty died on 25th February, 1877, having first made his will in writing, whereof he appointed his daughter, Frances Gerty, spinster, his sole executrix and legatee, as will appear by a copy of the probate grant to said Frances Gerty to said memorial annexed.

That said Frances Gerty has petitioned said memorialists for, and agreed to accept, such new lease on the same terms that were intended to be granted to her deceased father, Edward Gerty.

That said memorialists, on Friday, the 23rd day of March, 1877, adopted the following resolution:—

"That this report be adopted, and that the memorial be sent forward with a clause to the effect that the rent to be reserved in the lease shall not be less than the sum fixed by the sworn valuator asked for in the memorial, or that offered by Miss Gerty."

And said memorial prayed the appointment by their lordships of said sworn valuator to fix the fair letting value of the above and several other holdings now coming within the scope of the 55th by-law, as amended.

And take notice that said memorial will remain posted in my office, for inspection during office hours, for one calendar month from the publication hereof.

JOHN MARTIN,
Assistant to the Town Clerk.

Dated this 14th day of April, 1877.

Report of Mr. Morgan.

REPORT of Mr. MORGAN, Law and Land Agent.—TOWN of BALDOYLE.

Henry Hutton, esq., J.P., had, during more than twenty years, before 1855, enjoyed the lessee's interest in eight leases of the lands and town of Baldoyle. He had resided in the town until about the year 1851. He was a most considerate landlord, and never resorted to eviction to increase his rental by removal of occupants to the poor-house.

Mr. Hutton had for many years appointed the late Mr. Pat Butterly as collector of his rents of the town of Baldoyle. Mr. Butterly subsequently became and continued Mr. Hutton's collector or under-tenant, until expiration of the leases in September, 1855, when Mr. Morgan, on part of the Corporation, received formal possession of each separate tenement on the lands and in the town of Baldoyle.

The town of Baldoyle then consisted chiefly of thatched mud-cabins and huts of the most wretched description; and although almost every such dwelling contained two or more half-naked and half-fed children of fishermen or sailors employed on board of colliers, it was quite evident that the very poorest of the poor residents shared their own very miserable means to preserve the more destitute children from actual starvation.

Yet, notwithstanding such poverty, not an habitual beggar, vagrant, or loose character, was found resident amongst them.

Twenty-three tenements in the town of Baldoyle are now held under leases, or agreements for leases, for thirty-one years from September, 1856, producing an aggregate yearly rent of £264.

The remaining portion of the town contists of 110 to 120 tenements, chiefly small cabins, held quarterly, monthly, or weekly, the rents of which were collected for the Corporation direct, and paid in to the City Treasurer quarterly by the late Mr. Pat Butterly, producing the net average yearly sum of £250.

Total rents from town of Baldoyle, . . .	514
Do. Leaseholds, town lots, and town parks,	1,658

Note.—The late Mr. Patrick Butterly died on the —— March last; Committee No. 3 have appointed his son, Mr. John Butterly, collector.

The realization of £2,000 per year out of the lands and town of Baldoyle, naturally suggests to those members of the Council who had taken an active part in the regulation and reletting of that property, that some fixed amount of annual expenditure would be necessary to improve and reconstruct the town by the erection of so many new cottages, built of stone and slated, as would sufficiently accommodate the occupants of the most miserable cabins intended to be removed in the proportion of ten new slated stone cottages to be erected instead of twenty mud cabins to be removed. It was also recommended to prevent the habitual flooding of part of the lands adjoining Kilbarrack, by construction of a new road, and of a proper sewer or culvert for effectual drainage of that part of the Corporation land which became frequently flooded.

Upon the recommendation and report of the Committee then charged with the management of the Corporation land, it was ordered by the Council in 1857, that an annual sum, not exceeding £600, should be expended out of the rents of the lands and town of Baldoyle, upon building suitable cottages, construction of the new road and sewer, and other improvements there.

The actual expenditure of the Corporation in building or improvements during the same interval was not continued progressively, according to the resolution of 1857, as will appear by the following particulars, viz. :—

1857 to 1858.	Paid for erection of ten new cottages,	660
1862 to 1863.	Do. do. do.,	1,038
1863 to 1865.	Paid for construction of new road and sewer, ...	1,156
1863 to 1865.	Paid for construction of walls and footpaths, ...	88
1857 to 1866.	Paid for pumps and repairs, .	88
	Total expenditure,	£3,030

It will appear by the late Mr. P. Butterly's accounts that there has been no loss of rent on any of the new cabins since their erection, and that the annual rents received for those so erected have realized £5 or £6 per cent. on the expenditure.

I have in several Reports to Committee No. 3 repeatedly urged upon their consideration the pressing necessity for an annual expenditure in the erection of new cottages and removal of decayed cabins in Baldoyle; but I regret to state that the question of such expenditure has been considered and discussed upon its probable results as a remunerative investment, irrespective of any obligation on part of the Corporation as owners to renew the dwellings falling into natural decay, and preserve the proper means of shelter for the inhabitants. In my latest Report on Baldoyle to Committee No. 3 (7th March, 1874), I felt bound to call particular attention to new devastation caused by the severe storms within the previous month. I regret to state that no remedial action has yet been taken.

The erection of proper labourers' dwellings is not only authorized but favoured by existing legislation; and I firmly believe that the judicious outlay of £2,000 at Baldoyle within the next two years in such dwellings would prove fairly remunerative in rent, and present material inducements to purchasers, in case the Corporation shall determine to act upon the recommendation contained in my printed Report of 25th May, 1872, for the sale in small lots in perpetuity, rent free, of all the Corporation lands in the county of Dublin, including the lands and town of Baldoyle, the proceeds to be applied in payment of City Debentures.

Having lately attended a Committee, at which Sir John Gray, M.P., the Chairman of the Waterworks Committee, was present, when the subject of a supply of Vartry water to the town of Baldoyle was casually mentioned, I now recur to that subject in order that he, being also Chairman of this Committee, may consider and advise whether such a water supply is practicable as an engineering project and financially.

I have also to mention that I have very recently learned that a late natural alteration in the tidal currents of the estuary, which ebbs and flows by the town of Baldoyle, is believed very likely to prove encouraging to the cultivation of oysters on that part of the beach which belongs to the Corporation.

Francis Morgan, LL.D.

Report of No. 3 Committee.

To the Right Hon. the Lord Mayor, Aldermen, and Burgesses of Dublin.

Your committee beg leave to report that they have had under their consideration the proposal of Miss Frances Gerty for A H 80, lands of Ringwood, containing about ninety statute acres, on lease for thirty-one years from 25th March inst., at the yearly rent of £214.

The following is a copy of Miss Gerty's proposal :—

To Corporation Committee No. 3.—To the Right Honorable the Lord Mayor, Aldermen, and Burgesses of Dublin, the Municipal Corporation of the City of Dublin.

Lord Mayor and Gentlemen,—Whereas you have been pleased to accept the proposal of Edward Gerty, of Lower Baggot-street, in the city of Dublin, and Zion-road, Rathgar, county of Dublin, for the farm and lands of Ringwood, in said county, for a renewal of the lease under which he held the same, for a term of thirty-one years from the 25th March inst., at the yearly rent of £214. And whereas the said Edward Gerty departed this life on the 24th ult., having previously made his will, whereby he gave, devised, and bequeathed all his property, of every nature and kind soever, which he should die possessed of or be entitled to, to me, Frances Gerty, his daughter and only child, for my own sole and absolute use and benefit, and thereby appointed me sole executrix of his will.

Now I, the said Frances Gerty, do hereby propose and agree to become your tenant for said farm and lands in lieu of my said father deceased, for a term of thirty-one years from 25th March instant, subject to said annual rent of £214; and I hereby propose and undertake, at my own cost and charges, to execute such lease, to be prepared by your law agent, same to contain the usual covenants in your leases of similar character, and to pay the last year's rent in advance, and in other respects to comply with the conditions usually required from your tenants.

I am, gentlemen, your obedient servant,

Frances Gerty.

Dated 1st March, 1877.

Present—John W. Lane,
4, Garville-avenue, Rathgar, Solicitor.

Your committee now forward herewith for your consideration and approval a memorial to the Lords Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, praying that their lordships may be pleased to appoint a competent and sworn valuator to fix the annual amount of rent, pursuant to the amended 55th Corporation By-law.

All which we submit as our report this 17th day of March, 1877.

Ignatius J. Kennedy, Chairman.

APP. No. 15.

Dublin. Statement of facts.

Re THE TOWN CLERK.—STATEMENT of FACTS drawn up by COMMITTEE of the WHOLE HOUSE, in pursuance of Order of Council of 23rd March, 1877, pursuant to the following Order of Council:

"Refer to a Committee of the Whole House, to be summoned forthwith, to report on the facts of the case without recommendation, to a Special Meeting of Council to be summoned for the purpose."

To the RIGHT HONORABLE the LORD MAYOR, ALDERMEN, and BURGESSES of DUBLIN.

Your committee beg to report that an account, amounting to £106 18*s.* 3*d.*, for works executed by Committee No. 1, for the London and North-Western Railway Company, was presented by the secretary for payment, in a letter dated 27th November, 1876, in which it was requested that the money be paid "to the city treasurer." On the 28th December the money was again applied for in a letter again requesting that it be paid "to the city treasurer." In consequence of instructions received early in February Mr. Morrison, overseer under No. 1 Committee, called, by direction of the secretary, on Mr. Pownall, of the London and North-Western Railway Company, at the Company's office, at the North Wall, to mention the matter. Some time afterwards, viz., on Monday, the 12th inst., Mr. Pownall called on the Secretary to No. 1 Committee, and stated that the money had been paid, and receipt received. The Secretary requested a copy of the receipt, and was sent the following by Mr. Pownall on the same day.

London and North-Western Railway,
Engineer's Office, North Wall,
March 12th, 1877.

DEAR SIR,—Referring to conversation I had with you this morning, enclosed is copy of receipt for the paving done by the Corporation for their Company.

You will see that the draft bears date so far back as January 11th, and that it was presented for payment a month subsequently.

I am, yours faithfully,

C. A. W. POWNALL.

J. Beveridge, esq., City Hall.

London and North-Western Railway,
Euston Station.
January 11th, 1877.

The Royal Bank of Ireland.

Pay the Corporation of Dublin the sum named below, on the receipt being presented, duly stamped, signed, and dated.

F. HARLEY, Assistant-Secretary.

Received of the London and North-Western Railway Company the sum of £106 18*s.* 3*d.*

For the Corporation,

W. J. HENRY, Town Clerk.

9th February, 1877.

The same day, viz., the 12th inst., on receipt of this letter the secretary to No. 1 Committee saw the town clerk, and handed him Mr. Pownall's letter, and called upon him to lodge the money to the credit of the improvement fund, on or before the succeeding Thursday, the 15th inst., so that it might appear in the financial statement of the succeeding Saturday, when the committee was to meet, which the town clerk undertook to do. As a matter of fact the money was lodged on the Saturday referred to, viz., the 17th inst., and did appear on the financial statement submitted to the committee. On that day the committee met, and the secretary reported the facts in the following letter:—

Corporation of Dublin,
Secretary's Office, City Hall,
Committee No. 1.

Dublin, 17th day of March, 1877.

GENTLEMEN,—On the 25th November last an account, amounting to £106 18*s.* 3*d.* for works executed by you for the London and North-Western Railway Company, was laid before you, and you instructed me to forward it for payment. I did so on 27th November, and again applied for the money on 28th December. Early last month I told Mr. Morrison to call on Mr. Pownall when next at the North Wall, and mention the matter; and on Monday Mr. Pownall came here and said it had been paid, and a receipt given. I asked for a copy of the receipt, and he forwarded it with the accompanying letter. You will perceive from the financial statement that the money has been lodged.

I am, gentlemen, your obedient servant,

J. BEVERIDGE, Secretary.

To the Chairman and Gentlemen of
No. 1 Committee.

The committee thereupon had Mr. Henry before them, and subsequently ordered that he report in writing, which he accordingly did, as follows:—

Town Clerk's Office, City Hall,
Dublin, 21st March, 1877.

GENTLEMEN,—In reply to your resolution of the 17th instant, forwarded by your Secretary to me for my explanation or report in writing, and for the production of certain correspondence with the London and North-Western Railway Company; I have to report that on or about the 12th January, 1877, I received a cheque from the London and North-Western Railway Company for the paving done for them by the Corporation. That cheque, owing to my absence from office, through illness, remained in my desk in the City Hall for some time, and was I must say quite forgotten by me. However I subsequently cashed it at the Royal Bank, and gave a receipt for its amount, signed with my name, as follows:—"For the Corporation, W. J. Henry, Town Clerk," and after some delay, which I will not attempt to excuse, I lodged the amount of the said cheque to the credit of the proper fund, viz., "The Improvement Fund."

I have had no correspondence whatsoever from or with the London and North-Western Railway Company or their Secretary on the subject.

I have the honour to remain, gentlemen,

Your obedient servant,

W. J. HENRY, Town Clerk.

No. 1 Committee of the Corporation.

By order of the committee the secretary applied to the London and North-Western Railway Company for copies of any correspondence between them and the town clerk on the subject, and the following was received in reply:—

London and North-Western Railway,
Secretary's Office, Euston Station,
London, N.W., 21st March, 1877.

Sir,—I have to acknowledge receipt of your letter of the 17th instant, and in reply to inform you that the Company have had no correspondence with the Town Clerk of Dublin in reference to the cheque for £106 18*s.* 3*d.*, which was made payable and addressed to the Corporation of Dublin, City Hall, Dublin, and the receipt is signed for the Corporation of Dublin, W. J. Henry, Town Clerk, 9th February, 1877.

I am, sir, faithfully yours,

F. HARLEY, Assistant Secretary.

J. Beveridge, esq., Secretary's Office,
Dublin.

Your committee have since had both the secretary to No. 1 Committee and the town clerk before them, and have ascertained that the cheque was received by the town clerk on the 12th January; that he cashed it in the Royal Bank, on the 9th February, as the receipt attached thereto, and given above, indicates; and that, as also stated above, he lodged the money to credit of the improvement fund in the Bank of Ireland, by receivable order, on March 17th.

All which we submit as our report, this 24th day of March, 1877.

(Signed) JAMES W. MACKEY, Chairman.

Report of Francis Morgan, esq.

Report of Francis Morgan, Law and Land Agent.

27th March, 1875.

To the Chairman and Gentlemen of Committee No. 3 (Finance).

Conversion of City Debenture Debt into Transferable Stock—Sale of Corporation Lands in County of Dublin, &c.

Although your Committee had kindly granted to me permission in certain cases to make reports direct to the Council, I consider it more respectful to submit the following for your consideration :

In my Report of 25th May, 1872, presented to your Committee, printed with their sanction, and circulated to members of the Council, I enumerated nine separate objects as then desirable to be attained by a private Corporation Estate Act, viz.—

1. Power to commute leases for lives into leases for adequate fixed terms of years at same rents.
2. Power to accept surrender of leases for years within seven years of expiration, to secure vested interests by grant of rentcharges to all parties entitled to profit rents.
3. Power to realise the full value in rents of surrendered holdings by grant of a lease to the occupant of each separate tenement at the full yearly value without fine, such yearly value to be ascertained by survey and valuation, or by mutual agreement with each occupant, and in case of disagreement the rent to be fixed on survey by the head of the Government Valuation Office in Ireland, such Government survey and valuation to be final and conclusive, and paid for by the Corporation and their lessees in equal moieties. To grant leases of tenements for thirty-five years ; leases for rebuilding for 105 years.
4. Power to sell, at not less than twenty-five years' purchase, the perpetual yearly rents of sixty-eight denominations in City rental, amounting to £1,357, which cannot increase, and invest the proceeds in purchase of City Debentures. To survey and sell, in lots not exceeding twenty or less than ten acres, six townlands in the County of Dublin, containing together about 2,000 acres.
5. Power, in case said perpetual rents and six townlands should not produce sufficient sums to purchase all outstanding City Debentures, to sell the slippage and anchorage harbour dues, averaging £1,250 per year, and apply proceeds in purchase of City Debentures.

THOMAS O'DONNELL, City Accountant,
May 2nd, 1877.

6. Power to enclose and reclaim part of the North Liffey Wet Acre Lots, containing about fifty-five acres, lying between Clontarf-road, at Donnycarney, and the Dublin and Drogheda Railway.
7. Power to sell rents of Wide Street Estates and apply proceeds to widen streets.
8. Power to sell the holdings, late toll houses, on Circular-road Estate for repairs of Circular-road.
9. Power to agree with owners of land comprising Richmond Bridewell for purchase of some for ever.

Since my Report of 25th of May, 1872, your Committee have in part adopted my suggestions and secured two of the foregoing objects, by recommending the Council to present a memorial for assent of the Treasury to—

No. 1. Commutation of Leases for lives now in operation.
No. 9. Purchase from Lord Meath of head rent of Richmond Bridewell now completed.

I therefore recommend resolutions of the Council, expressive of approval, and memorials to the Treasury for assent so far as empowered, to the remaining seven objects above specified, but I am induced to place in the foreground two objects of more immediate importance not mentioned in my former Report, viz.:—

Report of Francis Morgan, esq.

To repeal the 55th Corporation By-law, and discontinue lettings of Corporation property by public auction. Such discontinuance has now become indispensable, in consequence of the expiration in 1880 of the leases of twenty-four very valuable holdings in Suffolk-street, Grafton-street, and Wicklow-street, held by respectable traders who have been long in occupation, and are now willing to accept leases at the full present value, and rebuild such as require rebuilding.

The very valuable lease A R No. 4, held by the Trustees of Viscount Clifden, a minor, of ground on Arran-quay, Ellis's-quay, and Pembroke-quay, comprising about 150 tenements, will expire in 1881. The trustees have proposed to treat for its immediate surrender or sale to the Corporation. The occupants would join and enter into new tenancies if lettings by auction be discontinued.

To obtain the consent of the Bank of Ireland, and the holders of all outstanding City Debentures, now amounting to about £200,000, to their conversion, at £5 each under par, into City of Dublin Estate Stock, secured by deed upon all the Corporation Landed Estates, Stock to bear 4 per cent. interest, payable half-yearly at the Bank of Ireland, or their conversion at par into like stock, bearing interest at 3½ per cent. payable half-yearly at the Bank of Ireland, the City Estate Stock to be transferable in like manner as Government or Bank of Ireland Stock.

Such conversion of City Debentures, amounting to about £200,000, into 4 per cent. City Estate Stock, at £5 under par, would effect a saving of £10,000 (principal), or the reduction of interest to 3½ per cent. on the Debenture Debt, converted at par, would save annually over £1,000.

App. No 15.

Dublin. Report of Francis Morgan, esq.

The late purchase by the Hibernian Bank from the Corporation of their reversion in fee in six leaseholds in College-green, &c., at £13,436, applied in purchase of City Debentures, has proved that sufficient City Debentures of £92 6*s.* 2*d.* were purchased at about £80 each.

Sale of Lands.

In relation to the sale in small lots, rent free for ever, of six Townlands in the County of Dublin, containing about 2,000 acres, the produce to be invested in City of Dublin Estate Stock.

Since my Report of 25th May, 1872, Earl Charlemont has advertised for sale his interest in the Lands of Donnycarney, held under two leases from the Corporation, viz. :—

One, 50 statute acres, held for ever at the yearly rent of	£113	19	0
One, 223 „ „ „ to expire 1920 „ „ „	743	13	3

His Lordship proposes to sell to the Corporation his interest in both leases for £12,000, payable within two years, give immediate possession of his house and about 150 acres of Donnycarney within his demesne, Marino, Clontarf, and assign to the Corporation the rents payable by his six tenants, holding 127 acres on leases for forty-five years, at yearly rents amounting to . . £600 0 0

These demesne lands, so near the city, if sold in five-acre lots, statute, I believe to be worth £6 10*s.* to £7 per acre, and thirty years' purchase.

I submit the following estimate of purchase and proceeds :—

Purchase by the Corporation of Dublin of Earl Charlemont's holdings, Donnycarney.

If the purchase and sale of Donnycarney shall be effected, and prove remunerative, I recommend the following lands to be also surveyed in lots not less than five acres, and sold, rent free for ever, on expiration of subsisting leases :—

Colganstown,	200 acres, lease expires March, 1877.
Ringwood,	100 acres, lease expires March, 1877.
Ballycoolane,	600 acres, lease expires 1880.
Baldoyle Lands,	600 acres, held on 16 leases, to expire 1886,	may be sold separately next after Ballycoolane.
Do. 16 Town Parks,	100 acres, held yearly,	may be sold with the town at or immediately after erection of 30 new cabins.
Do. 28 Town Lots,	do.
Clonturk,	350 acres, held on 26 leases of various expiration, to be sold separately.

Any surplus amount of converted City Debentures realized by sale of the foregoing Lands, or by sale of the Slippage and Anchorage Harbour Dues (which dues are not charged to secure City Debentures) would be properly applicable to the building of at least twenty suitable cottages in the town of Baldoyle, and procuring a supply of Vartry water to that town.

Also to enclose and reclaim about fifty-five acres, part of the North Liffey Wet Acre Lots, between the lands of Donnycarney and the Drogheda Railway Station.

Sale of Wide Street Rents.

To sell the rents of the Wide Street Rents in the City of Dublin net amount £312, now relieved from the annual charge of £154 10*s.* payable to the late solicitor.

The proceeds of the Wide Street Rents are properly applicable to widen streets, construct new streets, or a tunnel from Winetavern-street to Patrick-street, if approved by the Municipal Council.

To sell the holdings, late toll-houses, on the Circular-road, and apply proceeds to repairs of that road.

To extend present leasing power of the Corporation from thirty-one years of tenements, and seventy-five years for building, under Act 3 & 4 Vic., cap. 108, to fifty years for tenements, and to 100 years for building.

If your Committee will, as in the case of my Report of 25th May, 1872, direct this Report to be printed and distributed to Members of the Council, I shall be prepared to add all such further information in detail as will vouch the several statements, and enable the Council to determine if memorials in support should be presented to the Treasury.

Francis Morgan.

Report.—Proposed Disallowance.

Report—Re Proposed Disallowance.

Secretary's Office, City Hall,
Committee No. 1.

Dublin, 23rd February, 1877.

Gentlemen,—I beg to report that the auditor has intimated his intention of disallowing the sum of 7*s.* per week, drawn by the committee for each of seven worn-out workmen during the year ended 31st August last. He objects to the payment on the ground that the men are returned on the wages book as "Men employed in Whitehorse-yard by order of Committee No. 1," one of the men being dead (the case inquired into by you in last November), and the others not having worked during the year.

I beg to submit the following resumé of the facts :—

On the 7th November, 1868, the City Engineer having brought under notice instances of workmen unfit for further duty, by reason of advanced age, and having recommended some of them as worthy of the utmost consideration of the committee, on account of their long services, a report was forwarded to the Municipal Council recommending that they should be superannuated on 7*s.* per week, to be paid out of the borough fund. The report was confirmed on the 5th February, 1869, the order of Council applying to three of the men now referred to. No. 3 Committee having charge of the Borough Fund, was then requested to provide for the future payment of the allowance, and to lodge to the credit of the improvement fund the amount disbursed while the report was under the consideration of the Council.

On the minutes of 12th June, 1869, a report of Mr. Morgan appears to the effect that he was of opinion the payments were not properly payable out of the borough fund, and that the direction for their payment out of that fund must have been inserted by mistake, and recommending that a further report should be presented to the Council to vary their order in that particular. No steps appear to have been taken with this object, however; the following order in regard to the men having been made a fortnight before, on receipt of a communication from No. 3 Committee:—

"To be employed in the yard, Winetavern-street, cleaning lamps, &c., and as messengers, as Mr. Caul shall direct, from week to week, at 7*s.* per week each, from the 11th inst."

The Wages Book for 1868–9 shows that while the matter was under the consideration of the Council the men were returned as "Superannuated watchmen," and afterwards as "Labourers in yard, per Committee order of 29th May, 1869."

Subsequently the four other men were ordered by the Committee to be classed with these. I append a summary showing their advanced ages, length of service, and peculiar claims. I have ascertained that for some time these men discharged such slight services as were required of them, but probably through becoming more feeble, they attended less regularly, finally ceasing to go at all to Winetavern-street, and appearing at the City Hall only to receive their money.

I have not been able to find the returns of labour in Whitehorse-yard at this period, but Mr. Caul, the former storekeeper, informs me that when the men did not attend he noted this on the return sent to Mr. Doyle, the former book-keeper, who explains that he did not bring the fact specially under notice, as he considered the payment was understood to be a kind of retiring allowance for past services, and that the fact of the men working or not was not material to the humane intention of the committee. Mr. Boyle, the present storekeeper, was appointed in February, 1875, and continued to send returns as his predecessor did, and the fact of the non-attendance of the men is noted on his returns; Mr. Rosborough likewise continued to make the entries in the Wages Book as made while he was assistant to Mr. Doyle. Both appear to be perfectly satisfied that the position of these men was clearly understood. Mr. Boyle, from time to time, inquired from Mr. Doyle, as to the continuing of this payment, and the explanation of Cody's money being so long drawn by a person representing him to be alive is found in the fact that the payment was not made in presence of the overseer at Whitehorse-yard, as in other cases, but at the City Hall, and that the duty of making the payment successively devolved on several officers, through unavoidable circumstances. Cody died in December, 1874, and the payment was early in 1875 superintended by Mr. Doyle; after his superannuation, conducted by Mr. Connolly until his illness, then by Mr. Burke, who died, then by Mr. Eyre, until the duty was transferred to Mr. Shannon. To each of these officers was made the false representation that Cody was bedridden. Had one continued to discharge the duty of paying the men, Cody's continued absence would have caused inquiry.

During last year the treasurer thought it desirable to pay these men and others (numbering about 800) at Whitehorse-yard, and Cody's non-appearance attracted Mr. Boyle's attention, and before the truth transpired he had instituted inquiries, which would have led to the discovery of the imposition. It is a common practice with those who employ large bodies of men to pay a workman's wages to a person recognised to represent him, and it is inseparable from the payment of the vast number of men in your service, many of whom live at a distance, and have been working under the rain or in the sewers all day.

The general supervision of the accounts of the committee is part of my duty, and I have, from time to time, brought under notice any matters that attracted my attention in the Wages Books, through which these payments were made, as well as in any other matters of account. These Wages Books, as you are aware, are an abstract, extending from fifty to sixty pages weekly, of all the Overseers' Time Books, and it would be impossible, even if desirable, with the present small staff, to check each week all the items of this abstract; but I believe it to be prepared with the most conscientious care by Mr. Rosborough, and that his knowledge of works peculiarly aids in its being properly done. I also believe it to be an accurate summary of the returns, and during the past year I have imposed a check on a considerable portion of it, which, in my opinion, proves this—namely, that I have obtained directly from the overseers of paving, through the inspectors of works and the city engineer, returns of all details of the extensive paving works, and that the amount of the wages paid in the course of each work has been found at its completion to tally within a few shillings with the amount passed through the Wages Book. The comparison was made with critical accuracy, and was difficult, but the results obtained are worth the time and labour. The wages paid during the year under audit amount to £26,572 17*s.* 11*d.*, and the items questioned to £129 17*s.*

Such are the facts relative to the proposed disallowance; and I would beg to observe that if it be sustained, it will bring prominently forward the grave disadvantage at which the Corporation will be placed as compared with other extensive employers, in being totally debarred from showing any consideration for meritorious services rendered by workmen, or making any, or even the slightest provision for cases of extreme old age or of incapacity for further work, arising from serious accidents incident to the employment, as in two of the cases under consideration. The admirable provisions of the laws for the relief of the poor do not adequately meet cases like these, the receipt of poor relief being to decent workmen a great social degradation, as in a painful instance recently before you, in which one of your workmen had contracted an incurable disease from inhaling sewer gases. I would especially direct the attention of the committee to the Rathmines and Pembroke Main Drainage and Improvement Bill, now being promoted. The Township of Rathmines has not hitherto had a public auditor, and seeks the services of one under clause 65 of this Bill; but also at the same time seeks under clause 22 power to grant to "any servant incapable of discharging the duties of his office with efficiency, by reason of permanent infirmity of mind or body, or of old age, an allowance not exceeding two-thirds of his salary, and likewise out of their funds make a reasonable allowance in any case to workmen or others employed in or about the sewers, when the circumstances in their discretion shall justify the same."

If such power and discretion be not already inherent in the Corporation, as incident to its powers and functions as an employer, it would appear desirable to acquire them at the earliest opportunity.

I am, gentlemen, your obedient servant,

J. Beveridge, Secretary.

The Chairman and Gentlemen, No. 1 Committee.

Dublin. Duties of Officers of Committee No 2.

Return of Duties of Officers in connexion with Committee No. 2.

For the information of the Right Honorable the Lord Mayor.

Inspectors of Weights and Measures (Lord Mayor's men—sworn).

Ephraim G. Webb, appointed 5th May, 1865.
George Edwards, „ 19th October, 1869.

Salary, each, one-half of £160 per annum as inspectors of weights and measures, and one-half of £30 per annum as deputy clerks of the market.

Duties.—To attend each morning on the Right Honorable the Lord Mayor at the Mansion House, to receive his lordship's directions as to the locality he wishes to inspect, or such other instructions as to the duty to be performed that day.

On two days in each week, accompanied by the van, to inspect weights and measures at the stores or shops of traders, to seize all fraudulent beams, scales, weights, or measures, and cause the owner to be summoned before the Right Honorable the Lord Mayor, and attend the hearing of such cases to give evidence.

To take charge of any weights or measures that may be incorrect from wear and tear (when fraud is not intended) for adjustment.

To, on other days, inspect suspected persons, either singly or accompanied by an assistant, with a view of discovering attempted frauds.

All fines imposed by the Right Honorable the Lord Mayor are, when received, lodged to the credit of the borough fund by the registrar of the Court.

As deputy clerk of the markets, to visit and inspect the several meat, fish, fowl, and vegetable markets, with the view of detecting any unwholesome or unfit food exposed for sale, and, if any such, to seize same, and send it to the gardens of the Royal Zoological Society for the use of the animals therein.

In addition to the above duties the inspectors of weights and measures in Dublin adjust any weights or measures that may be slightly incorrect (when fraudulent intent is not apparent) for which they make a charge long adopted and acquiesced in by the general public, and has been found to work well in practice. This charge includes the cost of lead, labour, coal, stamping, and the cost of which is paid by them, not out of the corporate funds.

They retain the proceeds as additional salary. A return of all inspections and adjustments furnished weekly to the Committee No. 2.

Inspector of Petroleum.

Mr. Ephraim G. Webb, appointed 1870; salary, £10 per annum.

Duties.—To inspect and report to Committee No. 2 as to the fitness of the premises for storage and sale of petroleum before license is issued to the owner.

To inspect from time to time all premises, the owners of which are licensed, for storage or sale of petroleum, to ascertain that a larger quantity than authorized be not stored, and to obtain samples of mineral oils for testing.

To report the result of such inspection from time to time to Committee No. 2.

To attend and give evidence in any case of infringements of the Acts.

The inspectors of weights and measures make no charge for testing weights or measures if sent in, and found to be correct, and previously stamped with an authorized stamp, either English, Scotch, or Irish.

They also test the several Corporation weigh-bridges, and all weights used in the water-bailiffs' department free of charges to the Corporation.

Duties of Officers attending the Sword.

Corporation of the City of Dublin.—Extracts from Schedule of Duties of Officers attending the Sword, as certified under the hand of Alderman George Roe, Lord Mayor, on date December, 1842.

The Mace Bearer's Duty.

His duty is to attend on all public days, waiting Sundays, and to invite part of his Lordship's company on collar days.

Officer of Commons' Duty.

His duty is to summon all post assemblies himself; to acquaint the master of each Corporation of the general assemblies; and likewise when they, their numbers and wardens, are to attend the sword on all scarlet days, and all other public occasions, and when to attend on waiting Sundays; to summon all committees, and to wait their commands; to summon the key-keepers on the sealing of leases or other deeds; to deliver the warrants for riding the franchises, and returning of numbers; to invite the toast-masters on entertaining of the commons, and summon the juries for trying the worthiness of apprentices.

Water Bailiffs' Duty.

Their duty is to attend the sword on all public days; one on waiting Sundays; to invite part of his Lordship's company for collar days, the Aldermen and Sheriff's Peers for waiting Sundays; to summon all Boards of Aldermen, general and post assemblies; one to attend each market day, and whenever his Lordship thinks proper to walk; to invite the Captain of the Guard, and the minister that preaches on waiting Sundays.

High Constable's Duty.

His duty is to attend his Lordship every morning, and take his directions for that day's business. To invite part of his Lordship's company for public days. To summon the music for collar days; to summon the constables to attend his Lordship; and to provide and deliver billets necessary for the troops to be billeted in this city.

George Roe, Lord Mayor, 1842.

John Martin,
Assistant to the Town Clerk.

I certify the foregoing to be a true abstract of the Receipts and Expenditure of the Corporation of Sligo for the year ended the 29th September, 1875.

Dated this 28th day of August, 1876.

EDWARD J. BROWNE, Auditor.

Sligo Butter Market.

Master of the Rolls' Opinion.

I think that the report states correctly the several Acts of Parliament bearing on the important subject-matter of this case; but in some of the conclusions which it draws it will require variations, the extent of which will appear in the answers to the other queries which I annex, 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, and 6. The offices of public weighmaster (as stated in substance in the report), are entirely distinct and separate, the former deriving his authority from the statute of Anne, and the latter from the 52nd Geo. III., c. 134. It appears to me that the appointment of butter weighmaster is vested in the Corporation, and if no appointment was made to that office since Mr. Wynne's death, it seems to me that the office is vacant. The Court of Queen's Bench, in a case from the borough of Sligo itself (Kelly v. Molony, 4 Irish C. L. Reports, p. 413, which see), decided that the offices of weighmaster of butter and of taster of butter were not two separate offices, and that tasting was merely a function of the office of weighmaster of butter, and that therefore there was but one office under 52nd Geo. III., c. 134, viz., weighmaster of butter. Having regard to the decision I think the Corporation can only appoint to one office, that of weighmaster of butter, who will or can thereby become taster also. This office of weighmaster I think is a freehold office, and whoever is appointed he will, I think, be entitled to hold it for his life, except in case of his misbehaviour for which his removal is provided by the statute. I do not think that the Corporation can make by-laws for the management of the market. It would seem from the case of Kelly v. Moloney, above referred to, that the general tolls and customs of Sligo were considered to be vested in Mr. Wynne, and it is to be observed that the charter sent only grants such markets, &c., in the Corporation theretofore enjoyed, but, no doubt, a butter weighmaster, if the public resorted to him, would be able by his own arrangements to regulate, to a great extent, the conduct of the market. The 10th Geo. IV., c. 41, has this important effect, that weighing and tasting before exposure to sale, is no longer obligatory; and therefore it depends very much on the public themselves now whether the appointment of a weighmaster will have sanction. With respect to the vacancy of the office, this is also to be borne in mind, that if anyone has been for any time acting in the office of butter weighmaster, it is evidence to go to a jury of his lawful appointment; and in reference to this matter the case of Dexter v. Hayes, 11 Irish Common Law, 106, is a very strong decision. It would however appear to me very difficult for a pretender to the office in the borough of Sligo to sustain a presumed appointment, but it is a view which cannot be altogether lost sight of. I think that the Corporation could not farm out the office or the fees of the office of weighmaster. The statute gives those fees to the officer and not to the Corporation; and it appears to me that a farming out of the office in appropriating part of its revenue would be contrary to public policy.

7 & 8. In my opinion the Corporation is not entitled to any account in respect of the emoluments mentioned, they are no part of the corporate revenues; and during the time these fees were received, when there was no legal weighmaster of butter, the only persons who could get back the money seems to me to be the persons who paid it, but their right to recover back would depend upon a variety of circumstances, which in any given case might be different from any other; but it seems to me that in no view would the Corporation be entitled to any account which was received by the party usurping the office. The proper course for the Corporation to pursue and strikes me is to make this appointment, and then the butter weighmaster could bring his action against any one disturbing him in his office. See Dexter v. Hayes, above mentioned.

Edward Sullivan.

Opinion on Additional Queries.

I have stated in my former opinion that the Corporation of Sligo could not farm out the office of butter weighmaster, so as to get the fees, or a portion of them, for the benefit of the town. It appears to me that any agreements made with a person appointed to the office, whereby any part of the fees payable to him would go to the Corporation, would not be binding on the weighmaster, but I think that it is very plain that if a person be appointed weighmaster he could voluntarily surrender or give up to the Corporation all or part of the fees of his office, and his so doing would not in any way render his appointment less valid. Indeed, I think further, even if the appointment was made on the express condition of his giving up the fees, that the appointment would stand good, and the condition would be considered void, and the appointee would take the fees just as if no such condition was imposed. In making an appointment now, it will, however, be safer to make no express condition or stipulation as to the fees. Let the appointment be made unfettered by any such arrangement, and then let the weighmaster deal voluntarily with the fees. There can be no possible objection to a private understanding in the matter, and the same course ought to be observed with respect to a resignation. It will be better not to appoint the mayor, such an appointment may cause embarrassment in more ways than one. There can certainly be no objection to the proposed bill containing clauses modifying or altering, as to the town of Sligo, the provisions of the old statute as to the butter weighmaster in his fees, &c. It unquestionably would be most desirable that the Local Act for the government of Sligo, viz., that of 1803, should be materially and substantially altered, and it would appear to me that the regulation of the butter market would most properly come within the scope of such bill.

Memorial of the Butter Merchants of Sligo.

To the Mayor, Aldermen, and Burgesses of the Corporation of Sligo.

Sligo, March 26th, 1877.

The undersigned, who are engaged in the butter trade in Sligo, beg leave to memorialize and solicit the aid of the Corporation of Sligo, for the purpose of remedying the grievances under which the trade consider they have been suffering for some considerable time.

1st—The memorialists consider a principal grievance, the deficient and faulty qualification of the different classes of butter, and also the want of uniformity in such qualification.

App. No. 17.

Sligo. Memorial of Butter Merchants.

2nd—That memorialists consider it a grievance, that butter bought in country markets by shippers, is qualified in Sligo market for the buyers of it, differently from what it would be, if brought in by the makers of the butter.

3rd—That the effect of such qualification has been most injurious to the buyers of legitimate Sligo crane brands, bought in the Sligo market, the consequence of which has been, that butter represented to be Sligo Market crane brands, although bought in country markets, and qualified they believe so differently, has been offered for sale, and sold in the Glasgow and other markets, at a lower price than Sligo legitimate crane brands could be purchased for in the Sligo market, an unfair competition being thereby established to the extent of at least 9*s.* to 10*s.* per cwt., and sometimes more.

4th—The memorialists represent that such a state of affairs is most injurious to the character and the brand of the Sligo Butter Market, in which they believe that not only the trade, but the Corporation and the public generally, including sellers as well as buyers, have a direct interest.

It was not until memorialists felt the injury to themselves and to the trade, and found that the character of the Sligo butter market was becoming degraded in the estimation of English and Scotch buyers, and that to such an extent that orders which would have come here, had been directed to other markets, that they endeavoured to get a remedy from the present weighmaster.

As an illustration of the evils the memorialists complain of, butter under the very same brands, representing the same qualities, and implying that it is Sligo butter, although bought in country markets, has been sold in the Scotch and English markets at 10*s.* per cwt. lower than Sligo legitimate crane brands, to the prejudice of the Sligo trade.

With the view of remedying these evils, the memorialists have held several meetings, and passed resolutions which memorialists now submit to the Corporation, having submitted the same to Mr. Tighe, your weighmaster, and he having failed to make such changes as are required, memorialists therefore pray the Corporation to take the whole matter of the butter market into consideration, and take such steps as may seem to them to be appropriate for the purpose, and for the occasion.

The resolutions will be found appended hereto :—

Meeting, November 28th, 1876.

1. That this meeting has no confidence in the present inspector of the Sligo butter market.

2. That any inspector existing, or to be appointed, should be paid by salary.

3. That butter, previous to weighing, is not properly or sufficiently cleaned, thereby entailing a loss to the trade in the net weighing of the article.

4. That the system of weighing in Sligo market should be one pound from standing beam, and uniformity secured.

5. That the construction of the present butter market is almost prohibitory of proper inspection of butter, but until a proper construction can be provided, this meeting recommends that more assistance be provided to arrange the casks for inspecting, and preventing crowding of persons round the inspector.

6. That a copy of the resolutions passed at this meeting be sent to Mr. Tighe, the weighmaster and butter taster, with a request that he take them into consideration, and that he will kindly communicate his intentions to a meeting to be held on Tuesday next, December 5th, at 7, P.M., or such meeting as he may appoint, to which time this meeting is adjourned."

Meeting, December 5th, 1876.

The following reply was received from Mr. Tighe :—

Sligo, December 5th, 1876.

My dear Sir,

I have your esteemed favour of 29th ultimo, and copy of six resolutions passed at a meeting of the trade held on the evening of the 28th, in the Town Hall.

1st—It is to be regretted that after so many years' service the butter inspector should have lost the confidence of the trade, and would be glad to have any suggestions from the trade that would remedy the evil they complain of, without resorting to dismissal of Deputy Inspector M'Clean.

2nd—Paying inspector by salary would be contrary to the statute, which settles his fee at one penny per firkin.

3rd—I have always instructed the master cooper, Mr. Haire, to be particular, and am rather surprised to hear this complaint, and would be glad to have any suggestion from the trade that they think would remedy the cause of complaint, or make the cleansing of butter more effectual; same time I am not aware of any legal authority invested in me for doing so.

4th—I refer the trade to the Fairs and Markets Bill, which regulates the weighing of all produce.

5th—I believe the same protection is given the inspector now that has been given heretofore. Would the trade kindly say what more assistance is required for the arranging of casks, and who is to pay for it?

Your sixth resolution requires no remark from me; but I cannot conclude without suggesting to the trade to consider and think over some reforms required (in my mind) in their system of doing business in the butter market.

If the trade could, without injury to their own private interests, manage the purchase of butter, so as to give more confidence to the seller, so that, no matter how innocent or ignorant he may be, he will be certain to receive the full and fair market value of his butter, and I firmly believe this confidence is the first necessity to the making of the Sligo butter market at least double its present supplies.

Very truly yours,

James Tighe.

John Pettigrew, esq., Secretary.

After considering Mr. Tighe's letter, it was resolved—

1st—That this meeting repeats and confirms the expression of dissatisfaction and want of confidence in the present deputy inspector, and unhesitatingly requests that the weighmaster shall appoint a new deputy inspector, who shall be in a position to act independently of both buyers and sellers, and there being nothing in the statute to prohibit him (the weighmaster) from appointing his own deputies, he can therefore pay them by salaries, whilst his own perquisites may be limited to a fee of one penny per cask.

2nd—That as regards the third resolution, this meeting is of opinion that the master cooper should also be paid by salary, the weighmaster taking his fee in the same manner as for inspecting and weighing, and that stated persons should wait on and attend the master cooper for the purpose of properly cleansing the butter. This meeting expresses no want of confidence in the master cooper, but strongly recommends a change of system of coopering and cleansing.

App. No. 17.

Sligo. Memorial of Butter Merchants.

3rd—That as regards the third and fourth resolutions, additional assistance should be supplied to the master cooper, in order that the operation may be more effectual, as applicable to both cleansing and the nett weighing of the butter.

MEETING, December 12th, 1876.

1st—That the meeting being now assembled as an adjourned meeting from that of 5th instant, for the purpose of hearing from Mr. Tighe, the weighmaster, his decision as to the request of the trade, to appoint a new deputy inspector, and having waited till after eight o'clock without having received any intimation from Mr. Tighe, this meeting feels much disappointed and dissatisfied with Mr. Tighe's inattention to the interests of the butter trade, as expressed to him, and to his breach of promise in not informing this meeting of his decision as regards the appointment of a deputy inspector.

2nd—That this meeting believes Mr. Tighe's inattention to the representations of the butter trade indicates his indisposition to remedy the grievances complained of; and inasmuch as the appointment of butter weighmaster and butter taster was made by the Corporation, and although the appointment having been made for life, which implies irresponsibility to their authority, yet this meeting cannot believe that such large interests as are involved can exist without some control; that a memorial, embodying the resolutions passed at previous meetings of the trade, and already communicated to Mr. Tighe, be presented to the mayor, with a request that he do call a special meeting of the Town Council for the purpose of considering the whole question of the butter market as affecting the trade, the Corporation, and the interests of the public generally, and that a deputation be permitted to attend such meeting for the purpose of expressing their views.

3rd—That a committee consisting of the following gentlemen draw up a memorial to the Town Council, and that they also form a deputation to wait on the Town Council in case the mayor calls a meeting:—

J. SINCLAIR, sen.	M. BRAY.
J. LAWRENCE.	R. PETTIGREW.
J. M'MORROW.	J. PETTIGREW.
F. H. POLLEXFEN.	J. KIDD.

After the foregoing business had been transacted, a letter from Mr. Tighe was handed in at 9.20, which it was decided could not then be received, and the Secretary was requested to return the same to Mr. Tighe, with an intimation that if he wished to make any communication to the trade, a meeting would be held for the purpose of receiving it, or that it could be received and entertained at the meeting on next Tuesday evening, at 7.30, P.M., to which time this meeting stands adjourned.

Moved by Mr. Dolan, seconded by Mr. Coman—

"That Thomas Heffernan of Ballynatun, and John Loughnane of Boytenrath, be appointed to value said lands, and that they be paid a sum of £10 each for such valuation they first subscribing a declaration to the following effect:—

"We, Thomas Heffernan and John Loughnane, do solemnly declare according to the provisions of the statute in that case made and provided, that we will truly, faithfully, and diligently examine into the value of the different lands, farms, and tenements (the corporate property of the city of Cashel), which we may be appointed to value by the Commissioners of the said city, and that we will estimate the value of said lands, farms, and tenements to the best of our judgment, knowledge, and skill, at such value as would be according to our judgment, knowledge, and skill a fair and reasonable rent between landlord and tenant in this county, according to the circumstances of each case."

1844, February 26.—Moved by Mr. Coman, seconded by Mr. Power—

"That leases be made to such of the tenants as apply at the rent exclusive of the rentcharge ascertained by the valuation, and that our agent be directed to take proceedings against those tenants that do not settle."

An amendment was moved by Mr. Corby, seconded by Mr. Desmond—

"That leases be only made on the old rents."

The motion was carried by a majority of 10 to 3.

"That the tenancy commence at 29th September, 1843."

"4*th June*, 1860.—Ordered—That the agent, Mr. Coman, be directed to have a notice to quit served upon Richard Stapleton for having entered into the possession of Judith Ryan's farm, without liberty from the Commissioners, and for not satisfying the tenant in a just and reasonable claim which she had on the land."

Cashel. Extracts from Minute Books.

The following resolution was passed by the Town Commissioners of Cashel, on the 7th May, 1860:—

Moved by Dr. Russell, seconded by Mr. James Dunn—

Resolved:—"That the resolution entered on the minutes of the 6th March, last, ordering James Keating to be ejected in consequence of having subdivided his farm shall be rescinded, but that in future any tenant parting with a portion of his land without the sanction of the Commissioners shall be dispossessed."

Appropriation of Corporate Funds.

Scheme for the Appropriation of the Corporate Funds, Cashel.

The Right Honorable the Attorney-General at the relation of Robert Stritch, ... Plaintiff;

William Pennefather, Charity M. Pennefather, his Wife; Richard Long; and the Commissioners of the City of Cashel, ... Defendants.

To the Right Honorable Sir Edward Burtenshaw Sugden, Lord High Chancellor of Ireland.

May it please your Lordship,

Pursuant to a decree made in this cause, bearing date the 19th day of January, 1843, whereby it was referred to me to take an account of the rents and profits received by the defendant, William Pennefather, out of the lands and premises comprised in the lease bearing date the 13th day of September, 1830, from the commencement of the said lease to the present time; and also to approve of a proper scheme for the appropriation of the income hereafter to arise from the estate in the pleadings in this cause mentioned, and of the funds which shall be paid into Court in this cause; I have inquired into the several matters so to me referred in the presence of the respective counsel and solicitors for the plaintiff and defendants, and also (with the concurrence of the Attorney-General) counsel and solicitors for certain of the inhabitants of the city of Cashel; and I find that the rents and profits of the lands and premises comprised in the said lease amount to the annual sum of £600, and the several parties, plaintiff and defendants in said suit, having ascertained among themselves, and reciprocally agreed that the rents and profits received by the defendant, William Pennefather, out of said lands and premises from the commencement of said lease to the present time, after making him all just allowances, amount to the sum of £6,000 sterling, I find same accordingly, and the following scheme for the appropriation of the income arising from the estate above mentioned, and which amounts to the before-mentioned annual sum of £600, and of the funds to be paid into Court, consisting of the above-mentioned sum of £6,000, having been submitted to me, and canvassed and discussed by the counsel of the several parties hereinbefore mentioned, I have, with their assent, approved thereof, to wit:—

"Proposed scheme for the appropriation of the sum due for mesne rates and the annual rents and profits of the lands and premises in the pleading mentioned, in pursuance of the decree in this cause, which said mesne rates amount to £6,000, and which said annual rents and profits amount to £600 per annum.

First—That a sum of £700, portion of said mesne rates, shall be laid out by the Commissioners of the city of Cashel, elected pursuant to the provisions of the Act passed in the ninth year of the reign of his late Majesty King George IV., intituled 'An Act to make provision for the Lighting, Cleansing, and Watering Cities, Towns Corporate, and Market Towns in Ireland in certain cases'—in paving, flagging, and improving the streets of the city of Cashel.

Second—That the sum of £300, portion of said mesne rates, or such part thereof as may be necessary, be applied by the said Commissioners in liquidation of the costs incurred by them in this cause and in the trial of the issues therein directed, when same shall be duly taxed and certified, and if there be any residue of said £300 after payment of said costs, that same shall be laid out in the purchase of clothing, to be distributed to the poor of Cashel by a committee of the clergy of Cashel of all denominations.

Third—That a sum of £2,000, portion of said mesne rates, be expended by the said Commissioners in erecting a suitable gas house, and procuring and laying down the necessary pipes and other matters necessary for lighting the city of Cashel with gas.

Fourth—That the sum of £1,000, portion of said mesne rates, be expended by the said Commissioners in procuring the necessary supply of water for the inhabitants of said city of Cashel, by digging wells, laying water pipes, forming water cuts, erecting fountains, and erecting such other works as may be necessary for securing to the inhabitants a constant supply of pure water.

Fifth—That a sum of £100, portion of said mesne rates, be applied towards the formation of a lying-in hospital for the poor of the city.

Sixth—That a sum of £460, portion of said mesne rates, be applied by the said Commissioners in payment of the purchase money of the Rev. Mr. Whitty's interest in the lands and premises called Cottrell's lot, part of the Corporation lands in the city of Cashel.

Seventh—That a sum of £200, portion of said mesne rates, be applied in making a short road from said city of Cashel to the Commons of Cashel, or in repairing the present road from same to same.

Eighth—That the sum of £240, portion of said mesne rates, be applied in erecting a mechanics' institute and temperance hall in said city of Cashel, said several sums of £2,000, £700, £300, £1,000, £100, £460, £240, and £200, be duly accounted for by said Commissioners before the Master in this cause.

Ninth—That a sum of £1,000, portion of said mesne rates, be advanced to the Cashel Loan Board, established in said city of Cashel, in connexion with and under the control of the Dublin Board.

Tenth—That a sum of £160 a year, portion of the rents of said premises, be applied by the said Commissioners towards the lighting, cleansing, and supplying with water the city of Cashel.

Eleventh—That a sum of £200 a year, portion of the rents and profits of said lands and premises, be applied to the support and maintenance of schools in said city of Cashel, that is to say:—£180 a year for two day schools, one for the education of boys and the other of girls, under the control of the National Board; and £20 a year for the support of similar schools under the control of the Protestant minister.

Twelfth—That a sum of £120 a year, portion of said rents and profits, be applied towards the maintenance and support of the said lying-in hospital heretofore mentioned.

Thirteenth—That the sum of £40 a year, portion of said rents and profits, be applied to the purchase of blankets to be distributed to the poor housekeepers of Cashel—to be distributed at Christmas by a committee of the clergy of Cashel of all denominations.

It is further proposed, as soon as there shall be any accumulation of the surplus rents and profits, to apply to the Court to have same expended for any charitable purposes which circumstances may render advisable. All which I certify and submit to your lordship as my report, this 2nd day of January, 1844.

(Signed), E. Litton.

LOCAL GOVERNMENT AND TAXATION OF TOWNS INQUIRY COMMISSION (IRELAND).

SUPPLEMENT TO PART III.

SPECIAL GENERAL REPORTS

ON

KINGSTOWN AND DALKEY.

KINGSTOWN.

A local governing body of Commissioners was first constituted for Kingstown by the 4 & 5 Wm. IV., cap. 90 (Local), under which the town was governed until the adoption in March, 1855, of the provisions of the 17 & 18 Vict., cap. 103, the "Towns Improvement (Ireland) Act, 1854." Upon the adoption of this Act, and the election of Commissioners under it, the 4 & 5 Wm. IV., cap. 90, ceased to be operative, except as to things already done. In 1859 the Local Act, the 22 Vict., cap. 18, for providing a public water supply for Kingstown was passed, but there does not appear to have been anything ever done under this Act. By the 24 & 25 Vict., cap. 118 (Local), the "Kingstown Improvement Act, 1861," the duty and care of maintaining the roads and bridges within the town were transferred from the Grand Jury of the county of Dublin to the Town Commissioners of Kingstown. The Municipal Commissioners were empowered to levy rates for the purpose of paying the costs of obtaining the Act and the Kingstown proportion of the county at large charges, the expenses of maintaining roads and bridges within the township, and providing compensation for the barony collector of county cess and the Secretary of the Commissioners, whose duties were to cease on the Act coming into operation. Sec. 9.

Under this Act the finance committee of the county of Dublin Grand Jury make their warrant each half year defining the amount of the county at large charges to be contributed by Kingstown. Secs. 10, 11, 12.

The Commissioners are empowered to levy "a Kingstown road rate" not to exceed 1*s.* 6*d.* in the pound in the year, unless with the assent of a majority of not less than two-thirds of the ratepayers at a meeting specially convened by the Commissioners for the express purpose of considering the propriety of making an increased rate; but the entire rate is never to exceed 2*s.* 6*d.* in the pound in the year. The rate is to be assessed upon the same occupiers of premises, and in and at the same manner and times, and subject to the like exemptions, and with the like remedies by way of appeal or otherwise, as the other rates under the "Towns Improvement (Ireland) Act, 1854," and the Acts incorporated with it. Sec. 13. Sec. 14.

Compensation, the amount of which was to be fixed by the Lords Commissioners of the Treasury, was provided for Mr. Alma, the collector of county cess, for the loss of emolument consequent upon the separation of Kingstown from the county. Provision was made for the case of future extension of the town limits. Sec. 17. Sec. 19.

A superannuation or retiring allowance, at the discretion of the Commissioners, but not to exceed two-thirds of his salary, was provided for Mr. Murray, the clerk to the Commissioners for upwards of twenty years then past, and who had on account of ill health placed his resignation in their hands; and the Act contained a saving of the rights of the Kingstown Harbour Commissioners. Sec. 20.

In 1869, the 32 & 33 Vic., cap. 133 (the "Township of Kingstown Improvement Act, 1869"), was passed. By this Act the Town Commissioners are incorporated, a new division of Kingstown into four wards, hereinafter named, was made, and the number of Commissioners to be returned for each ward was fixed. Sec. 3.

KINGSTOWN.

Sec. 9. The qualification of a voter is the being the immediate lessor, resident in the town or within seven miles of the boundary of it, of premises within the boundary rated at £50 a year; or being the occupier as tenant or owner, or being the immediate lessor (rated for such premises to the relief of the poor to the net annual value of £4 and upwards) of any lands, tenements, or hereditaments in the township.

Sec. 10. The qualification of a Commissioner is the being a lessor, resident in the township or within seven miles of the boundary of it, of premises rated at £50 a year; or being the occupier as owner or tenant of premises within the township rated at £25 a year. Ecclesiastics, bankrupts, insolvents, and arranging debtors are disqualified. The lists of voters are revised annually by a barrister appointed for the purpose by the Lord Lieutenant.

Sec. 41. The Corporation of Dublin are bound to supply water at the rate of twenty gallons for each inhabitant per day, for which the Kingstown Commissioners pay to the Corporation, by way of rent, an annual sum, equal to 5*d.* in the pound on the Government valuation of the property in the township.

Secs. 47–52. Provision was made for the appointment by the Lord Lieutenant of an auditor of the accounts. (This audit is now superseded by that under the Local Government Acts.)

Sec. 56. The Commissioners are empowered to borrow and re-borrow, upon the security of the general yearly assessment provided for by section 60 of the "Towns Improvement (Ireland) Act, 1854," sums not exceeding £16,000, at a rate of interest not exceeding Sees. 57, 59. £5 per cent., to be repaid by a sinking fund of one-fortieth of the money borrowed.

Sec. 60. The Commissioners are required to make, once in each year, a "sinking fund special rate" on all persons rateable under section 60 of the Act of 1854, provided that the total amount to be raised in any one year shall not exceed the amount required for that year for payment of interest and sinking fund, and shall be deemed to be part of, and not an addition to, the general yearly assessment under section 60 of the Act of 1854.

Sec. 61. There is a power of appeal to the assistant barrister of the county of Dublin against any rate.

Sec. 67. The expenses of obtaining the Act were to be paid out of moneys raised by or on the credit of the rate under section 60 of the Act of 1854, provided that the rate to be made for defraying such expenses shall be distinctly set forth, and shall be paid, deducted, and retained by the same persons, and in the same proportions, as if the same were a rate levied for relief of the poor. This direction does not appear to have been ever acted upon or followed.

Ev. 352. The 34 & 35 Vict., cap. 109, the "Local Government (Ireland) Act, 1871," was adopted in Kingstown in January, 1873.

In 1874 the 37 & 38 Vict., cap. 167, the "Kingstown Township Extension Act, 1874," was passed. By this Act the limits of the Township were extended and the newly added places were removed from the control and government of the county Grand Jury to that of the Kingstown Commissioners; further compensation was provided for Mr. Alma; there was a re-arrangement of the wards into which the town was divided; the Com-

Sec. 25. missioners acquired a further borrowing power to the extent of £3,000; and they were authorized to pay out of the rates £200 towards the costs and expenses of applying for the Act, and also their own costs and expenses of opposition to it. This Act had been promoted not by the Commissioners but by persons resident outside of the township

Mr. Ennis, Ev. 28. boundary, in order to have their district made part of the township. The Commissioners petitioned against the Bill.

By the 38 Vict., cap. 2, passed in 1875, confirming a provisional order of the Local Government Board in Ireland, the Kingstown Town Commissioners were empowered to borrow £10,000 to be applied in the making of internal drainage works. Of this £10,000, £2,000 was to be expended for works in that part of the Kingstown Township called Glasthule, and £8,000 on works in Kingstown not comprising Glasthule.

Ev. 36. The municipal limits of Kingstown contain 1,450 acres, and the gross valuation is

Ev. 235. £77,000, the valuation for taxation being about £65,000.

Ev. 35. The population was about 17,500 in 1871, but is constantly increasing.

Under the several statutes above referred to the Township is divided into four wards, the names, area, rateable value of property, number of voters in, and representation of, which respectively are as follows:—

CAPITAL DEBT.

The Commissioners have borrowed the following sums, viz., £16,000 on the 1st December, 1870, from the Patriotic Assurance Company, under the powers of the Act of 1869, at £5 per cent. interest, and repayable by instalments of £400 a year. Of this £16,000, £2,400 has been paid off, and £13,600 remains due; the interest has been paid up. Ev. 178–183. Ev. 220.

Under their power of borrowing £3,000 under the Act of 1874, the Commissioners in December, 1875, borrowed from the Treasury £1,300 at 3½ per cent. repayable, by means of a sinking fund, in thirty years, upon the security of the rate under the "Towns Improvement Act, 1854," for the purpose of laying pipes for the distribution of water to the extended districts under the Act of 1874, for which purpose it was applied. The Commissioners borrowed from the Treasury, under the "Provisional Order Confirmation Act" of 1875, on the 20th May, 1876, £2,000, for the purpose of the Glasthule internal drainage, and on the 27th May, 1876, £8,000, for the purpose of the Kingstown internal drainage. These sums, amounting to £10,000, were borrowed upon the security of the sewer rate levied under the "Public Health Act, 1874." They also borrowed, on the 14th November, 1876, under the authority of the Local Government Board, £8,000 to build a town hall, and also on the 14th November, 1876, £1,700, the balance of the £3,000 they were authorized to borrow under the extension Act of 1874, and £2,000 for the purpose of asphalting the footways of the town. These sums of £8,000, £1,700, and £2,000 were borrowed from the Royal Exchange Assurance Company, at 4½ per cent., repayable in forty years by annual instalments. The £1,700 was borrowed for and applied in the payment of the costs hereinafter mentioned. At the time of our Inquiry the principal sum remaining due on these loans was £36,600, less by at least one instalment of the £1,300 amounting to £49 4*s.* 8*d.* The interest on all was paid. Ev. 221, 222. Ev. 224. Ev. 225. Ev. 226. Ev. 228. Ev. 228. Ev. 231. Ev. 344, 350. Ev. 414–424. Ev. 347. Ev. 398, 399, 400, 472–481.

We consider it necessary to call attention to the account given to us of the application of these sums, amounting to £39,000. Of the £16,000 borrowed on the 1st December, 1870, £2,797 8*s.* 10*d.* was paid for the costs of Messrs. Anderson and Lee, the Dublin solicitors for the promoters of the Act of 1869; £1,856 8*s* 3*d.* was paid for the costs of Mr. Sharkey, their Parliamentary agent; and £1,421 3*s.* 10*d.* was paid for costs to Messrs. Casey and Clay, the solicitors who opposed the Bill on behalf of the Kingstown Commissioners. All these costs amount to £6,075 0*s.* 11*d.* The costs of obtaining the Act of 1869 were payable under its 67th section, but the Act does not sanction the payment of any costs of opposing the Bill. Ev. 184.

Before entering an opposition to the Bill the Commissioners had been advised by counsel that the costs of opposition could not be legally paid out of the rates, and their solicitor, Mr. Lalor, declined to act for them in opposing it. Messrs. Casey and Clay, solicitors, of Dublin, were employed to oppose it on the terms of a special agreement, which is as follows:— Ev. 204–208.

"We hereby agree and undertake to look only to the Township rates for payment of such costs and expenses as we may incur in opposing the passing of the Kingstown Township Bill, now before Parliament, in pursuance of the resolution of the Commissioners of this date.

"And that it is expressly and distinctly understood, and we hereby undertake and agree not to hold the Commissioners, either individually or collectively, personally liable to us for said costs or expenses on condition that the Commissioners will not give any opposition to our being paid out of the rates, if we shall be legally entitled to be, as your solicitors, in preserving and protecting the rates and property of the Township.

"Dated this 9th day of March, 1869.

(Signed), "CASEY & CLAY."

After the Act passed, Messrs. Casey and Clay brought an action in the Court of Common Pleas in Ireland against the Commissioners for their costs of opposing the Bill. They appeared and took defence by their attorney, and by consent of the plaintiffs, Messrs. Casey and Clay, and the defendants, the Commissioners, a case was stated for the opinion of the Court of Common Pleas, the question to be decided being whether the rates and the moneys raisable upon the security thereof, could be properly applied for the payment of Messrs. Casey and Clay's costs. The Court declared that the rates were properly applicable for the payment of these costs, and accordingly the above-mentioned amount, £1,421 3*s.* 10*d.*, was paid out of the £16,000 to Messrs. Casey and Clay. The ratepayers of Kingstown were not parties to or represented in this action, save so far as they could be said to be represented by the Commissioners, whose interest in the action was, as appears to us, opposed to their duty on behalf of the ratepayers, of defending the rates from liability. The costs of the action in the Court of Common Pleas were also paid out of the £16,000, and the balance of it, about £9,500, was applied in the pipe-laying works for the public water supply. Ev. 195. Ev. 196. Ev. 200, 201.

Of the £3,000 borrowed under the Act of 1874, £1,300 was expended in pipe-laying Ev. 226, 227.

works for the public water supply in the then recently extended districts of Kingstown. The remaining £1,700 which was afterwards obtained was applied in payment of £200, portion of the costs of obtaining that Act mentioned in section 25, and about £1,400 was applied as follows:—In the session of 1873 the Commissioners opposed a gas Bill promoted by the Dublin Corporation, and for that purpose employed Mr. Sharkey as their Parliamentary agent. Their costs of opposition were not in any way provided for by Parliament, and Mr. Sharkey sued them in the Court of Common Pleas in Ireland for £1,237 7*s.* 4*d.*, the amount of his costs.

Ev. 471–481.

A special case was, as in the former instance, stated for the opinion of the Court, whether the rates or the moneys borrowed upon the security of them, were applicable to the payment of these costs, and the Court declared that they were. Accordingly the £1,237 7*s.* 4*d.*, and £54 17*s.* 9*d.* for interest at £4 per cent., and the costs of the suit were paid out of the £1,700 borrowed under the Act of 1874. The ratepayers were not represented in this case any more than they were in the former action. The Commissioners contend they were justified, under the Act of 1874, in making this application of the £1,700; and it was stated before us that they had the opinion of counsel to that effect.

Of the £8,000 to be applied for drainage works in Kingstown, there had been, up to the time of our Inquiry, £1,764 15*s.* 3*d.* expended upon those works, and the balance of £6,235 4*s.* 9*d.* was to the credit of the Commissioners at their bankers; and there was, at the time of our Inquiry, a proposition pending, and to come on before the Commissioners, for the investment of at least a portion of that sum in Government stock, until it should become necessary to use it in payment for works.

Ev. 330, 331.

There was a matter connected with the drainage works in Kingstown made under the Provisional Confirmation Act, 1875, which we feel bound to notice. Before a Provisional Order is made by the Local Government Board, they send one of their officers to hold a local inquiry and ascertain whether the proposed works are proper for the designated purpose, and whether the amount in respect of which borrowing powers are sought is fairly sufficient, and not excessive. Plans of the proposed works are submitted to him. That was done for the purpose of obtaining the power to borrow the £8,000, but a change in the plan of drainage works was made by the Commissioners, and a sum of £390 of the £8,000 was ordered to be expended in the drainage of Crosthwaite-park, which was chiefly the property of Mr. Crosthwaite, the then chairman of the Commissioners, while a place designated on the plan referred to by the Provisional Order for drainage was omitted. It was represented to us that on the 4th September, 1876, the Commissioners passed a resolution for applying to the Local Government Board as to the means of carrying out this proposition, and on the 20th September, 1876, the secretary of the Local Government Board wrote to the Commissioners that the officer of the Local Government Board reported to them that—

> "It does not appear there is any particular objection to the proposed variation, but they, the Local Government Board, are not aware their sanction is necessary, or that they have any authority to give their sanction. The question for the Town Commissioners is, whether the proposed variation in a matter of details of this kind involves a material departure from the general plans referred to in the Provisional Order, and to the carrying out of which the money borrowed under the Act is directed to be applied."

Ev. 284.

After the receipt of that letter the Commissioners directed the drainage to be made at Crosthwaite-park instead of the place designated on the plan referred to by the Provisional Order. It was represented on the part of the Commissioners, to the Local Government Board, that the town surveyor of Kingstown forgot to include Crosthwaite-park in the plans he prepared for the Board. The place designated in the plans referred to in the Provisional Order has been altogether omitted from the works, and Crosthwaite-park has been substituted for it. It appears, too, that the resolution of the 4th September, 1876, was not passed at a meeting of the Commissioners called in reference to that particular business, but at an ordinary meeting of the Commissioners in committee as the urban sanitary authority. It appeared to us that an impression existed that the place originally designated to be drained and sewered was omitted, and Crosthwaite-park substituted, in order to benefit the property of the Chairman of the Commissioners.

A great deal of dissatisfaction was, as will be hereafter seen, expressed as to the quality of the sewerage work done under the Provisional Order.

The £8,000 borrowed for building a town hall in November, 1876, at four and a half per cent., and repayable by forty annual instalments, has not yet been applied for its purpose.

KINGSTOWN.

The Commissioners propose to take a site from the Kingstown Harbour Commissioners for 999 years, at a rent of £65 a year, but any estimate the Commissioners have as yet got for building a town hall very far exceeds £8,000, and there does not appear to be any prospect of their being able to get a town hall built for £8,000. In the meantime interest at four and a half per cent., equal to £360 a year, is payable on the £8,000, and the principal is repayable by annual instalments of £200. As against these outgoings the Commissioners receive only the dividends on the Government new three per cent. stock, in the purchase of which the £8,000 was invested on the 9th February, 1877. This is not profitable for the ratepayers, and it appears to us that the borrowing of the £8,000 at the time was premature and unnecessary. Ev. 347–378. Ev. 360. Ev. 377. Ev. 353–347, 1035. Of the £2,000 borrowed for the purpose of making asphalte footways and crossings, the sum of £624 12*s.* 9*d.* had been expended in such works up to the time of our Inquiry, and the balance remained in bank to the credit of the Commissioners available and in course of being applied for the purposes for which it was borrowed. Ev. 414–424.

Complaints were made that the sewerage of the town was in many instances imperfect. No map of the existing sewers was ever made as required by the provisions of the 13th section of the Towns Improvement Clauses Act of 1847. Some years since the then Board of Commissioners employed Mr. Palles, C.E., to make a map of the then existing sewers, and he did so, but not on the scale required by the Act of Parliament. We could not ascertain for certainty whether or not that map has been continued by having marked thereon the new sewers made from time to time. Some time since the Commissioners ordered Mr. Doyle, their present surveyor, to make a complete map of the then existing sewerage, but he has not prepared it, and does not consider it any part of his duty to do so. In 1873 the Commissioners constructed a new sewer from George's-street to connect with one leading from Mulgrave-street to the Fortyfoot-road. This sewer was made under the following circumstances:—Mr. Doyle made the sewer by men employed by him under the superintendence of a man named Duff, the head ganger of the Commissioners. While the work was going on, Mr. Brady, a ratepayer, who had been employed by the Commissioners for five months under Mr. Palles in examining and preparing the map of the sewers, saw the sewer and alleged that it was being constructed on a wrong level, and the flow in it was going the wrong way. He reported the fact to Mr. M'Evoy, the then chairman of the Board, and Mr. M'Evoy and Mr. Kelly (Town Commissioner) agreed to visit the place. When they met the sewer was quite dry, and Brady requested Mr. Kelly to go down into the sewer by a ladder placed there. He did so, and Brady suggested to Mr. Kelly to order that a dam which had been placed across the sewer between the point where the ladder was placed and the Mulgrave-street end of the sewer should be knocked away. That was done, and the sewage stuff from the Mulgrave-street sewer immediately flowed so fast along the newly constructed sewer to the ladder that Mr. Kelly had to leave the sewer at once. This indicated that the level of the sewer was the wrong way. Duff the ganger stated that he made it on the wrong level; but according to that given him by Mr. Doyle, and that he told Mr. Doyle so, but was told to mind his own business as he was only a servant. After Mr. M'Evoy and Mr. Kelly had so inspected this sewer its condition was brought before the Committee of the Board, and, according to Mr. M'Evoy's recollection, he proposed to them that some other engineer should be appointed to examine the condition of this and the other sewers, but that his proposition was rejected; while Mr. Kelly states that such a thing did not take place. The Committee, however, appointed three of their body to examine this sewer, which they did. On the day of their going there Mr. Doyle called the police, and required them to remove Brady, who was also there, from the works, which they refused to do, as Brady stated he was there as a ratepayer, and was not interfering with Mr. Doyle or the works. The sewer was finished, notwithstanding Mr. Brady's representations; and it is stated that it is still out of level, and that at Mr. Buckley's end of it there is twelve inches of deposit as against only four at the other end. This was denied by Mr. Doyle and also by Mr. Barnes, an engineer examined by him, who stated that the sewer was on a proper level; while Dr. Roche, who was with Mr. Barnes on his recent examination of it, admitted that there was the difference of deposit at the two ends of the sewer; but he stated that that did not necessarily prove that the level of the sewer was not correct. The necessity for making such a sewer appears to be very questionable, as, if Duff's account of it be correct, it cannot drain the houses at one side of the street through which it is made, while those of the other side of the street can be and are, in fact, drained by another sewer; and Mr. Barnes himself stated that the sewer was too small, and that it, as also other sewers, were improperly trapped. It was evident that there was a strong feeling on the part of some ratepayers as to the action of the Com- Ev. 3198. Ev. 3200. Ev. 3162–3168 –3201. Ev. 3226, 3174. Ev. 3242. Ev. 3262. Ev. 3247–8–9. missioners about this sewer, and, as we understood it, the feeling was that the Town Commissioners should not have employed Mr. Doyle to plan and design other and more extensive and expensive sewerage works until they had ascertained by the employment of an independent engineer that he had not made the mistakes imputed to him with respect to the sewer in question. Mr. Doyle is also of opinion that no one should supervise or inspect any work which he is doing for the Commissioners.

Ev. 1335-1341.

Ev. 238.

After this sewer was made, or during its construction, Mr. Doyle prepared plans for the drainage of the Kingstown and Glasthule districts with a view of enabling the Commissioners to obtain a provisional order from the Local Government Board for making sewers at a cost of £8,000 for the Kingstown and £2,000 for the Glasthule district, as already stated. These plans showed the line of the proposed sewers, and by the colours whether they were to be made with bricks or pipes. No levels or sections were shown on the plans, but the sizes of some of the sewers and pipes were given. These plans were laid on the table of the board-room for two months, and Mr. Robinson then held the necessary inquiry for the Local Government Board, which resulted in the plans being passed, and the provisional order was made which was confirmed by the Act of the 38 Vict., cap. 2. The provisional order recites the preparation of plans by the surveyor showing the works necessary for the drainage of the two districts, and that the sums of £8,000 and £2,000 were sufficient to carry out the said works within the respective districts, and then sanctions the borrowing of £10,000 for the execution of the works.

Ev. 241.

Ev.2057-2062.

After the passing of the Act Mr. Doyle thought fit to alter his designs as shown on the plans in several instances. At the end of the Glasthule district he had shown on the plan a brick sewer three feet by two feet, which he must then have considered necessary to carry off the sewage of that large district at its termination near the sea; but he afterwards without the authority of anyone substituted a fifteen-inch pipe in place of that sewer which is considered wholly insufficient. He stated at first he thought it would be sufficient by his increasing the fall, but this statement was evidently incorrect from the fact that he admitted that he intended the level of the new sewer to meet the level of the old one which he was to use as the outlet at Bullock harbour. Having admitted that it would be impossible for him to carry out the contemplated sewerage works in Kingstown district for which the loan of £8,000 was granted, according to his plans and specifications, in consequence of the contractor's tenders for the works being so much higher than his estimate, he stated that he would get over the difficulty by altering his plans and making the sewers at higher levels than he had originally contemplated. He considers that he has ample powers to do so without the authority of anyone, and he has not even applied for or obtained the sanction of his own board to his doing so. When pressed by us as to what he would do with houses the owners of which had constructed their basements on the faith of his original levels, as shown in his plans, though not on the one placed before Mr. Robinson, if he now raised the levels of the sewers adjoining those houses, he was unable to give any reasonable suggestion as to what he would do for them, nor could he now give to any builder the levels he designs for the new sewers to enable such builder to place the drains from his houses to such new sewer.

Mr. Doyle distinctly stated that he thinks he may alter the sewers and plans as he likes from time to time. We pointed out to him that such a power if it were exercised might in fact annul the Provisional Order and Act of Parliament entirely, and allow a surveyor who had obtained large sums of money for one set of works which were approved of by the Local Government Inspector to apply them to other works which never would have been approved of by that Inspector. Beyond a doubt a strong feeling prevails in the minds of many of the ratepayers of a highly respectable and influential class that the sewerage works as designed by and partially constructed under the superintendence of Mr. Doyle are wholly defective and insufficient, and that the money expended on them has been partially if not entirely thrown away. It is right, however, to add that the Commissioners were wholly ignorant of the several changes in Mr. Doyle's plans as to the construction of the sewers and their levels, and that Mr. Doyle never gave them any information on the subject.

Several cases of defective and insufficient sewerage were brought under our notice by different individuals, some of which were admitted by Mr. Doyle to be well founded. One related to Sandycove Harbour, into which a large sewer leads. It is made of masonry about one foot square from the sewer, running along the public road called Sandycove-avenue. The sewage through that sewer has largely increased of late from the building of new houses, and it originally discharged at the high watermark. This was afterwards carried out to low watermark by a six-inch metal pipe leading from the one-foot square sewer. This pipe appears to be quite insufficient in size, besides being completely broken up and lying about the harbour, the bottom of which dries at low water, and is now in a horrible condition. The smell in summer is intolerable. A ladies' and a gentlemen's bathing place are situated close to the entrance of this harbour, and at certain times of the tide it is impossible for anyone to bathe there from the foul condition of the water and the fearful smell. The place has been allowed to remain in that condition for a number of years to the great discomfort of, if not danger to, the inhabitants of this populous district. With regard to one of the pipe sewers more recently constructed, it was lately found to be completely choked and had to be broken open and cleansed by Duff the ganger, as described in his evidence. Numerous other complaints were made as to the condition and insufficiency of the sewerage, which it would take up too much time further to allude to in this Report, but which satisfied us that the existing sewerage of this populous and important township is in a defective condition and requires immediate and careful supervision and attention. The main streets of the township are twenty-two miles long, fourteen of which only have sewers, viz., eight miles of old sewers and six of new, which have been made by the Commissioners since the year 1868. Those which have been recently constructed under the provisional order of 1874 were done by contractors under specifications which provided inter alia, that the bricks should be the best county Dublin grey stock bricks; in some cases these bricks were not used to the knowledge of the surveyor and the Clerk of Works employed by the Commissioners, and the defective quality of the bricks used in the sewers is complained of. One gentleman stated that "sewers constructed with such bricks could not be of a lasting character." Mr. Doyle admitted that some of the bricks used were not according to the specification, but he passed them and certified for the work as done, because, as he said, he had power to vary the contract and specification as he thought proper. There is not, however, any clause in the contract or specification giving him any such power, as we pointed out to him.

The cement used in the construction of the sewers was not of the description or quality stipulated for in the specification, which provided that the cement to be used should be the "best London Portland cement." This is the best cement known in the trade, but what was used was different both in quality and value, and yet it was accepted and certified for by Mr. Doyle. The specification further provided for the use of "Jenning's patent pipe with a junction on the saddle" for the purpose of making proper connecting drains with the houses, but not one was used to the knowledge of Mr. Doyle, and the clerk of works stated that although he read the specification he did not carry it out, because he could not get the materials as they were not in the country. Objections were also made as to the mode in which the pipes were jointed, the surveyor stating that he would not allow cement to be used while the clerk of the works stated that he allowed it.

Evidence was also given as to the mode in which the pipes were laid and covered with large stones, which must have been most injurious to vitrified pipes. It also appears that a number of the connecting drains from the houses with the sewers are put in and made by the scavengers of the Commissioners under the superintendence of Duff, the head ganger, who said that they were laid by him, and also that some sewers were constructed by him without any levels being given or pointed out to him by the surveyor. He also spoke as to the bad level and size of some of the sewers, in answer to which the surveyor stated that Duff knew nothing about it, and further, "that he was not competent to give an opinion on sewerage works or drains either."

It occurred to us, and we so stated, that if the surveyor entertained such an opinion about the man, he ought not to have employed him to undertake such important works. Mr. Kelly, on the part of the Commissioners, assured us "that they were ignorant of what was going on about the sewers and connecting drains, as they had never received any report from their surveyor or ganger on the subject." It would be impossible to go through, in detail, the several matters connected with the sewerage which was brought under our notice by several persons from different localities, many of whom were persons of intelligence and position, and fully competent to express the opinions which they did. The evidence of the witness Duff alone will show the defective nature of the sewerage executed by himself, and that with the other evidence satisfied us in the conclusion we came to at the Inquiry, and have above expressed, as to the insufficiency and defective nature of the existing sewerage.

It has been already stated that the sewers are not sufficiently trapped according to the opinion of Mr. Barnes, while Mr. Palles and Dr. Roche are of opinion that they are not sufficiently provided with ventilators. There does not appear to exist between the Commissioners and Mr. Doyle that harmonious action which is desirable, and complaints appear to have been made against him from time to time, which have been investigated before the Commissioners, and on one occasion they sent a memorial to the Lord Lieutenant for his removal, but this idea was afterwards abandoned.

Ev. 812-815.

There are two matters connected with Mr. Doyle's conduct which we feel bound to allude to. Messrs. Edmundson were the contractors for laying, for the Commissioners, the water mains in the town. They had agreed as part of their contract to provide hydrant stones, three feet six inches square, of Dalkey granite. At the time the contract was signed Mr. Doyle assured Mr. Wigham, one of the firm, that there would be no difficulty in getting the necessary size of granite at Dalkey for those stones, and he actually offered to get a person there to provide them. Mr. Wigham agreed and gave the order for the stones, and Mr. Doyle afterwards certified for them when furnished as if they were the proper size, and Messrs. Edmundson paid the man who supplied them under Mr. Doyle's order as if for the full-sized stones. It turned out, however, that the stones supplied were only three feet square, instead of three feet six inches, and were not Dalkey granite at all, and the Commissioners afterwards deducted the sum of £50 from the Messrs. Edmundson's account for the difference in the value of the stones.

Ev.1252-1264. Ev.1265-1275.

Ev. 822.

Mr. Doyle's conduct in relation to this matter, and also as to certifying for stones and crossing blocks not delivered, was investigated at the time by a Committee of Inquiry appointed by the Commissioners, and their report laid before the Commissioners on the 18th August, 1871, will be found set out in full at question 817.

Ev. 1817-8.

During the progress of Messrs. Edmundson's contract, Mr. Doyle on one occasion applied to Mr. Wigham for a loan of money, which he gave him on his I O U, and afterwards paid; and on another occasion Mr. Doyle went security for Mr. Brady, a contractor employed by the Commissioners for the laying of asphalte, to enable him to obtain certain materials on credit from a Commissioner. We cannot but think it wrong for a person in Mr. Doyle's position to borrow money from or go security for a contractor, when he is the person to stand between the Commissioners and the contractors, in order to see that they perform their contracts. It was not, however, even suggested that any loss occurred to the Commissioners from Mr. Doyle's having acted in this way.

Ev.1232-1240. Ev.1249-1251.

Ev. 884-892.

The sanitary condition of the township is in many places far from satisfactory. The Commissioners have two sub-sanitary officers who appear most attentive and efficient, one of them being a sergeant in the Metropolitan Police, who is permitted to act for the Commissioners. They have also efficient sanitary and consulting sanitary officers. The sub-sanitary officers appear to report nuisances regularly to the sanitary officers, who report them to the Sanitary Committee of the Commissioners, and they make all necessary orders thereon. In the year 1866 the sanitary condition of Kingstown was very bad, as will appear from a report of the late Mr. Charles Halliday made to the Statistical Society of Dublin, and which was, after the death of that gentleman, edited with notes in the year 1867 by Dr. Thomas More Madden. Extracts from that report as to the condition of parts of Kingstown will be found at questions, 2176, 2203, 2206, 2214, 2222 and 2227.

Ev. 49. Ev. 1499. Ev. 1506. Ev. 51-2.

It will be seen from the evidence of Dr. O'Flaherty, the sanitary officer, that much has been done to improve the condition of the places referred to by Mr. Halliday, but that there is still a great deal that has not been done, and he also stated that he could show us courts "that ought to be swept off the face of the earth," and further that if an epidemic were now to break out in Kingstown it would most probably be attended with serious consequences. Mr. Doyle likewise stated that there were some exceedingly poor houses in the centre of Kingstown which were very badly provided with any accommodation, and he added that the whole of those places should be levelled to the ground to make other arrangements. We invite your Grace's attention to the entire evidence of Dr. O'Flaherty, in which he describes the sanitary condition of the township. (See evidence, questions 2151 to 2251.) The difficulties in carrying out the Sanitary Act were pointed out by Mr. Ennis at questions 580 and 2721.

It will be perceived in that evidence that Dr. O'Flaherty is of opinion that the greatest sanitary want in Kingstown is the want of a proper connexion from the dwelling-houses to the main sewers, and that this should be at once supplied. We allude to this opinion, expressed by a man in the position of the sanitary officer, who ought to know the matter well, in contradistinction to the evidence of Mr. Doyle, who told us that almost all the houses had connecting drains.

Ev. 2198-9, 2200.

Ev. 789.

Many cases of individual nuisances were pointed out, and with respect to some it was alleged that the sanitary officers and Commissioners were not sufficiently active in enforcing the abatement of them; but although in some few cases there may have been partial delay, on the whole it appears to us that in all cases where reports were made as to the existence of nuisances by the sanitary officer the Sanitary Committee did all in their power to have his recommendations carried out. The consulting sanitary officer also, while stating that great improvements had been made in sanitary matters, fairly admitted that much more was necessary to be done. KINGSTOWN. Ev. 2520–1.

We were also referred by Mr. M'Evoy to the evidence given by him before the Select Committee of the House of Commons which passed the Kingstown Act of 1869, with reference to the sanitary state of Kingstown, and to that given before the same Committee on the 22nd April, 1869, by Mr. James M'Henry, an Inspector of the Dublin Sanitary Board, some extracts from which will be found at questions 2524–2526. Ev. 2522.

A great deal of the improvement in sanitary matters, particularly in the poorer parts of the town, is to be attributed to the introduction of the Vartry water, which is now supplied in almost every, if not in every, lane in the township, whereby the poor have an ample supply of pure water, and by it the scavengers are enabled to scour and wash out the lanes, many of which are not provided with sewers, and could not be at all cleansed before from the want of any water supply. Ev. 2197–8.

Complaints were made that in some localities night soil and refuse was thrown into some of the lanes and public streets. Having regard to the condition of some of the localities as above described, and the total want or insufficient means of accommodation provided, it is easy to believe that those complaints are well founded. Ev. 800, 1922. Ev. 1581. Ev. 1590. Ev. 1921–1927.

The slaughter-houses of the town, with only two or three exceptions, caused from some legal difficulties, are registered, and appear to be frequently visited and properly attended to. Ev. 1577–1579. Ev. 1612, 1629.

The lodging-houses are all duly registered and inspected. The owners have been furnished with the proper rules and regulations for their guidance, and overcrowding is not permitted in them. Ev. 1570–1574.

The Commissioners have not established any morgue or disinfecting apparatus within the township. They provide a proper means of conveyance for persons who are suffering from infectious disease being removed to hospital, in which ample accommodation is provided for such cases within the township. Ev. 1554–1557. Ev. 1558.

The Commissioners have a store-yard in the market house and another behind the Town Hall, in which their property, consisting of asphalte and other materials, including a large quantity of broken stones for the repairs of the roads, is stored from time to time. The tools of the workmen and carts owned by the Commissioners are also kept there. They have a storekeeper, Mr. Tomlinson, at a salary of 25*s.* a week, who is supposed to take charge and keep an account of all the goods and materials from time to time stored there, and also what is received in and delivered out of each yard. We say he is supposed to do this duty, but it is impossible for him to do so, as he is employed each day in the market as weighmaster for the Commissioners, from six in the morning till six in the evening, and during his absence, as far as we could see, there is not any responsible person in charge of the Commissioners' property in either yard. The men employed by the Commissioners go and take what materials they want, and it is impossible that any sufficient account or check could be kept of the materials taken away, as it sometimes is taken without any order. In April, 1875, the storekeeper was called before the Board, and it was resolved— Ev. 2531. Ev. 2643, 519. Ev. 2538. Ev. 2640. Ev. 1074–1130. Ev. 2590–2595, 2611–12.

"That the storekeeper for the time being should consider himself in charge of all goods, both in the Town Hall yard and market, and that no goods are to be removed from the Town Hall yard or market without notice to the storekeeper, and on an order from the Town Surveyor, and signed by him." Ev. 2623.

And on the same day a resolution was passed, as follows—

"That the storekeeper is to be in the market from seven in the morning to six in the evening." Ev. 2625.

There can be no doubt that this resolution has not been carried out, as goods and materials have been frequently delivered and taken from the yards without any order signed by the town surveyor. A complaint was made before us with reference to some asphalte which had been taken from the yard by one of the carters and brought to Mr. Crosthwaite's premises for his private use. The storekeeper having heard of its removal, reported the matter on the following day to the Board. The matter was investigated by them, and afterwards Mr. Crosthwaite returned some of the same kind of asphalte, or some of a better quality, and also paid something towards making up the value of what was taken. Mr. Brady was laying some asphalte for Mr. Crosthwaite, and Duff alleged that Mr. Doyle told him to give Brady whatever he required for Mr. Crosthwaite without any order, and that in consequence of this he gave it. This was denied by Mr. Doyle, but no order was produced by him as having been given to authorize the removal of these goods. A question was raised as to whether the actual quantity taken had been returned or paid for by Mr. Crosthwaite. Brady said he got 25 or 26 cwt. altogether, and by the surveyor's book he got only 13 cwt., and only 10 cwt. was returned. in such a way, and that the quantity taken could not be clearly ascertained, shows the necessity for an alteration in the management of the Commissioners' property.

The Town Commissioners have not any property, and do not receive any income save from rates, fines, and interest of moneys to their credit, and tolls from a public market.

Ev. 68. They levy an Improvement Rate under the Act of 1854, which for this year is 1*s.* 5*d.* in the pound, a Road Rate under the Act of 1861 of 1*s.* 6*d.* in the pound, and a Sewer Rate of 2*d.* in the pound, for the purpose of paying off the money borrowed for the in-

Ev. 68. ternal Drainage works. The Municipal Rates for the year are 3*s.* 1*d.* in the pound,

Ev. 69. being the highest ever levied. The Improvement Rate was estimated to produce

Ev. 70–71. £4,590, the Road Rate, £4,860, and the Sewer Rate something over £540, making a total income from rates for the year of at least £9,990. The entire receipts for the year, including £11,700 borrowed as above mentioned, exclusive of Sewer Rates and moneys borrowed for drainage purposes, amount to £21,278 17*s.* 11*d.* (For particulars see Accounts, Appendix No. 1, page 114.)

The expenditure in making main sewers for internal drainage has been made out of the moneys borrowed for the purpose. There was paid to the Dublin Corporation for the public water supply £1,325 14*s.* 3*d.*, and the other expenses in respect of the water supply bring up the total expenditure for the year under this head to £1,699 6*s.* 2*d.* The township's contribution to the county at large purposes of the county of Dublin amounted for the year to £1,723 19*s.* 1*d.* The expenditure also includes £250 paid to

Ev. 409. Sir John Hawkshaw, the eminent engineer, for plans of main drainage.

Under the head of law and parliamentary costs credit is taken by the Commissioners

Ev. 472. for £1,919 12*s.* 6*d.*, including £1,237 7*s.* 4*d.* above mentioned as paid to Mr. Sharkey, and £54 17*s.* 7*d.*, interest thereon, and the costs of the action brought by him. The entire expenditure, exclusive of that under the head of sewer rates, amounted to £10,649 11*s.* 1*d.*, leaving an apparent balance in favour of the Commissioners of

Ev. 467. £10,629 4*s.* 10*d.*, which, however, is made up entirely of so much of the £11,700 loan as has not yet been expended by them. The particulars of these expenditures will be seen on the credit side of the abstract of accounts already referred to (Appendix No. 1, p. 114).

Estimates are prepared by the Town Clerk each year of the estimated amount of expenditure for the township for the then ensuing year, with a view of ascertaining and striking the necessary rates to meet such expenditure, and last year's estimate showed

Ev. 2036. an apparent surplus of £36 14*s.* 4*d.* only on foot of the improvement rate, calculated at 1*s.* 5*d.* in the pound. In preparing these estimates, Mr. Ennis charged as against the road rate, sums of money which it occurred to us were not, at all events to the

Ev. 380–387. amount charged, properly payable out of that rate; for instance, the town surveyor's salary of £250 was entirely charged on the road rate, while a large portion of his time

See as to Surveyor's duties. must necessarily be spent in looking after the new sewerage works which are being so largely executed in the town, and in other matters connected with the township unconnected with the roads. In like manner in the estimates £120 only is charged

Ev. 596. against the improvement rate for the scavengers' wages, and £800 is charged to the

Ev. 383. road rate, while it was proved that a large portion of the scavengers' time is occupied in making connecting drains, and in other matters in relation to the sanitary condition of the town. A separate account is not kept of the different rates, which are paid into

Ev. 97–8. a general fund in the Bank, out of which all the payments are made indiscriminately, and thus it is impossible to see whether the proper payments and no others are made out of each rate.

The Town Commissioners do not derive any profit or income from, or exercise any

Ev. 492–496. control over, the harbour of Kingstown, which is under the control and management of the Kingstown Harbour Commissioners, constituted under certain statutes. The road or

Ev. 65–6–7. the Town Commissioners, by whom also the township is lighted, the gas being supplied

Ev. 57. under contract by the Alliance and Dublin Consumers Gas Company.

We have referred to the 20th section of the "Kingstown Improvement Act, 1861," by which a superannuation allowance was provided for James Murray, the former Town

Ev. 1038–1048. Clerk or Secretary to the Commissioners, who had resigned on account of ill health. His superannuation allowance was fixed at £66 13*s.* 4*d.* a year, being two-thirds of his salary. For some years the Town Commissioners paid out of the public funds this superannuation allowance to James Murray, and at the same time continued to employ him as their Town Clerk and Secretary at a salary of £100 a year, which also was paid to him out of the public funds. In 1868 an information by Her Majesty's Attorney-General in Ireland, at the relation of Michael M'Garry, a ratepayer, was filed in the Court of Chancery in Ireland, against James Murray and sixteen of the Kingstown Commissioners, and Mr. Ennis, the Town Clerk, complaining of this transaction, and praying that James

Murray and the several Commissioners named in the information, should pay to the credit of the Town Commissioners of Kingstown the several sums improperly paid to Murray.

This suit resulted in a decree, made on the 15th April, 1869, by which it was ordered that James Murray do within a month lodge to the credit of the Kingstown Commissioners £166 13*s.* 4*d.*, and in default of such lodgment by James Murray it was declared that fourteen of the sixteen Commissioners named were liable jointly and severally to contribute the sum of £166 13*s.* 4*d.*, or so much thereof as James Murray should fail to pay, in proportions to be measured by the length of time that each of them held the office of Town Commissioner during the period of the payments, and the decree contained elaborate directions for contribution between themselves by the several Commissioners declared to be liable. James Murray never paid in any portion of the £166 13*s.* 4*d.* The Commissioners named in the decree became liable upon the expiration of one month from the date of it to pay in the £166 13*s.* 4*d.*, but they have not done so. Several of the Commissioners named in the decree are at present Town Commissioners. On our inquiring why this money had not been paid in it was suggested that the present Town Commissioners were not liable for it. It is manifest to us that the liability declared by the decree was an individual personal liability of each Commissioner named therein, and not the liability of a corporate or quasi corporate body, and that the Commissioners as a corporate body have neglected their duty by not enforcing for the benefit of the ratepayers payment of the amount payable under the decree.

The rates appear to be well collected by the collector, who gives security for the due collection of the rates, and the payment to the credit of the Commissioners of the moneys received by him. Ev. 77–8–9.

Upon our inquiry as to the ascertainment and writing off of irrecoverable arrears of rates, our attention was called to the report of the auditor, Mr. Finlay, on the accounts for 1876, in relation to an item of £1 3*s.* 4*d.*, the rate on premises in respect of which Mr. Crosthwaite, one of the Commissioners, had been rated, which had been described as irrecoverable by reason of non-occupancy of the premises, but had been afterwards paid in to the credit of the rate. The amount, £1 3*s.* 4*d.*, is small, but the circumstances are peculiar. Mr. Finlay says, in his report, that :— Ev. 102–144. Auditor's Report on Accounts to 31st December, 1876. See Appendix No. 1, page 114.

"It was objected to at the audit on a former occasion, that £1 3*s.* 4*d.* arrears of rate on a stable, the property of a member of the Board, and which was let by him to another member to enable him to complete his qualification for the office of Commissioner, and to which stable he was accordingly rated, was declared irrecoverable by the Commissioners, on receipt of a declaration of non-occupancy in the usual form. On inquiry into the matter it was quite apparent that the rate should have been collected, and on my expressing an opinion to that effect, the amount was at once paid in by the rated occupier. It was alleged that the declaration was made by the owner through mistake."

On our inquiry it was stated to us that, in January, 1875, in order to supply a vacancy caused by death or resignation, Mr. Lagan was nominated and elected by a resolution of the Commissioners, dated 25th January, 1875, as a Commissioner for Kingstown East ward. Previous to his election he occupied premises rated at £20 a year only, which did not constitute the qualification required by the Act. In order to qualify Mr. Lagan, Mr. Crosthwaite, the Chairman of the Commissioners, let him a stable in Crosthwaite-park, rated at £8 a year. This gave Mr. Lagan the required qualification. The terms of the letting were not disclosed to us. It was not suggested that this stable was not required to complete Mr. Lagan's qualification. Mr. Lagan on the 10th March, 1875, made before Mr. Crosthwaite, as a magistrate, the declaration of his qualification as required by the statute, which was produced before us declaring that he was an occupier of lands, &c., rated to the relief of the poor at the net annual value of £25 and upwards. On the 30th November, 1875, Mr. Crosthwaite, the owner of the stable, made before Mr. Barrett, the present Chairman of the Commissioners, a declaration in the words following :— Ev. 102–144, 173–177. Ev. 145–172. Ev. 174.

"I, John Crosthwaite, do solemnly and sincerely declare that the premises herein described have been empty, unremunerative, unfurnished, and unoccupied, save by a caretaker, from the 1st January, 1875, to the 14th December, 1875." Ev. 119.

The premises described consisted of the stable let to Lagan. On this declaration the arrear of £1 3*s.* 4*d.* was returned by the collector in the list of uncollectable arrears which were afterwards declared uncollectable by the Commissioners.

Mr. Lagan's name was not put on the rate book until some time in 1876. A very unsatisfactory explanation of this matter was offered by Mr. Ennis, the Town Clerk, but neither Mr. Crosthwaite nor Mr. Lagan, who both had ample opportunity during our Inquiry at Kingstown of doing so, gave us any explanation of the matter. Mr. Redmond, the collector, stated that the practice of making the declarations of non-occupancy some Ev. 166. Ev. 122–137. Ev. 170.

KINGSTOWN.

time before the close of the financial year was adopted some years ago by the directions of the Commissioners in order to facilitate the closing of the accounts. This instance shows that the Commissioners' system of ascertaining uncollectable arrears is not always efficacious. It appears that arrears of rates are sometimes declared uncollectable upon receipt of declarations of non-occupancy made by persons who are not the owners nor even the agents of the owners of the premises in question.

Ev. 1705–1717.

The Commissioners in 1873 deemed it necessary that an enlarged system of main drainage of the township should be adopted. By their directions their town surveyor, Mr. Doyle, prepared plans of a system of main drainage, which were submitted to Sir John Hawkshaw for his opinion. Sir John Hawkshaw disapproved of Mr. Doyle's plans, and suggested a different scheme. The Commissioners, nevertheless, adopted Mr. Doyle's plans, and in 1875 memorialed the Local Government Board for a Provisional Order in respect of nineteen different matters, including powers for the compulsory purchase of lands, &c., for the purpose of making main drainage works according to the deposited plans. The proposed works were described in the memorial as sewers No. 1, No. 2, and No. 3. The advising counsel of the Local Government Board was of opinion that the memorial should not be entertained in respect of any matters save so far as it sought for the right to exercise powers of compulsory purchase. His opinion was communicated by the Local Government Board to the Commissioners, who applied to have the usual inquiry held by the officer of the Local Government Board limited to the matters mentioned in the opinion of counsel. The inquiry was accordingly held; and at it the Commissioners were opposed by some of the ratepayers, with the result that the sewer works No. 3 were rejected by the Local Government Board. When the Provisional Order was being made out as regards the works No. 1 and No. 2, the Commissioners were required to specify the lands in respect of which powers of compulsory purchase were sought. It appeared that before the inquiry was opened the parties, viz.—The Dublin, Wicklow, and Wexford Railway Company, and the Kingstown Harbour Commissioners, in respect of whose properties powers of compulsory purchase were alleged to be required, had made arrangements with the Town Commissioners, which rendered the exercise of powers of compulsory purchase unnecessary; and the Local Government Board have, by their letter of 2nd May, 1877, which is set out in the evidence No. 3117, intimated their intention of declining to make any Provisional Order, and stated fully their reasons for doing so.

The proceedings to obtain the Provisional Order are in the result useless. It was stated to us by the solicitor for the Commissioners that his costs of applying for the Provisional Order and the Inquiry have been paid to him by them out of the rates, but the amount was not stated. The costs of the Local Government Board have not yet been paid.

A complaint was made by Mr. Perrin, a ratepayer in the township, and a candidate at the election of 1877 for the place of Commissioner in Kingstown East ward, for which ward Mr. Crosthwaite was a Commissioner, that the election was improperly conducted. There were two vacancies caused by the going out of office in rotation of Mr. Crosthwaite and another Commissioner. There were three candidates, namely, Mr. Crosthwaite, Mr. Donovan, and Mr. Perrin. Mr. Crosthwaite acted as presiding officer at the election. The three candidates were duly nominated by two ratepayers, under the provisions of the Ballot Act, and their respective nomination papers were duly signed by eight assentors as required by the Act. Mr. Perrin stated, that he had at the solicitation of several ratepayers allowed himself to be put in nomination. He had received from the town clerk, on the 21st December, 1876, the usual notification that his nomination paper had been received, that he was a candidate, and that up to a date specified he could withdraw his candidature. He afterwards heard that his nomination paper had been rejected, and wishing to explain to those ratepayers who put him in nomination why he did not go to the poll, he applied to the town clerk and to Mr. Crosthwaite, the chairman, both verbally and in writing, to be allowed to see any objection put in to his nomination paper, but this was refused. The written objection was not produced to us.

Ev. 3012–3029.

Ev. 3013.

It appeared that at first there were not any objections to any of the nomination papers, and it was stated that Mr. Crosthwaite, the presiding officer there, himself wrote and signed an objection to Mr. Perrin's nomination papers. The ground of objection was stated to be, that the same individual had signed the nomination paper of each candidate as one of the assentors. Mr. Crosthwaite then as presiding officer ruled in favour of his own objection, rejected Mr. Perrin's nomination paper as irregular, and declared himself and Mr. Donovan duly elected. There was no evidence, at any time, to show which nomination paper had been first or last signed by the assentor in question.

We have every reason to believe that great advantages are likely to ensue to the ratepayers of Kingstown from the holding of this Inquiry, and the matters brought to light at it, which will appear from the statements of Mr. Myles Kelly and Mr. Reilly, two of the Commissioners, set forth at questions 3040 and 3041, and that of Mr. Barrett, the Chairman of the Commissioners, set out at question 3043. KINGSTOWN. Ev. 3040–41–43.

After holding our inquiry at Kingstown, we received a letter from the town clerk requesting us to append hereto a report made to the Town Commissioners, on the 22nd day of May, 1877, by Mr. Doyle, the town surveyor, with reference to the state of the sewerage works, and we have accordingly done so. DALKEY.

DALKEY.

DALKEY adopted the lighting provisions of the Towns Improvement Act of 1854, on the 26th August, 1863, but not any other. The number of the Commissioners has always been twelve. In 1867 they obtained an Act (the 30 & 31 Vic., c. 134) by which the Commissioners were incorporated, and powers were given to them to appoint officers, and to make rates, borrow money, and levy tolls. Ev. 2, 28. Ev. 4, 5. Ev. 8. Ev. 9.

The municipal area comprises 572 acres, and the valuation of the rateable property of the township for last year amounted to the sum of £12,534, which was an increase of £287 5*s.* from that of the previous year. Ev. 10. Ev. 11.

The population increased from 2,084 in 1871 to 3,167, according to a census taken by the town clerk, on the 31st August, 1875. Ev. 12, 13.

The only property possessed by the Commissioners is a bathing place in the township, the fee of which they purchased on the 18th March, 1870, for a sum of £350, which was paid for out of the rates, and is rent free, and they are also lessees of the town hall for a term of 150 years, at a rent of £15 a year, and for which they also paid out of the rates a fine of £150. There is a garden attached to the town hall, which the Commissioners let at a rent of £6 a year, but they do not derive any revenue from the bathing place. Ev. 16–25.

The other income of the Commissioners is derived from rates, the dog tax, interest on Government stock derived from the sinking fund account, and a few small miscellaneous items, the whole of which amounted for their financial year ending 31st December, 1876, to the sum of £2,060 16*s.* 1*d.* For particulars of all this income see account of receipts for year ending 31st December, 1876, Appendix No. 2, page 123. Ev. 27–49, 50.

The expenditure during the same year amounted to the sum of £2,628 10*s.* 7*d.* For particulars thereof see Appendix No. 2, page 123.

The amount of uncollected rates at the end of the last year was £682 4*s.* 5*d.*, while the debt due to the bank at the same period was £567 14*s.* 6*d.*, so that even supposing the whole of that rate to be collected the Commissioners had available only a little over £100 to pay the debts which they owe for lighting the town, and other matters besides current expenses. Ev. 266.

The debt for lighting the town amounts to a large sum, as the last payment for lighting appears in the account for the year ending December, 1875, when they took credit for a sum of £124 2*s.* 6*d.* as a payment to the Alliance Gas Company for gas to 31st December, 1873, and three years gas must be due up to the 31st December last. They also owe a large sum to the Dublin Corporation for the water supply, as they paid in the year ending 31st December, 1875, a sum of £240 7*s.* 6*d.* for water up to the 31st December, 1873, since which they paid on the 16th August, 1876, a sum of £179 2*s.* 8*d.* which is the only sum paid on that account for the three years ending last December.

The Commissioners struck and levied the following rates on the 24th May, 1876 :— A township rate of 1*s.* 5*d.*, under the 42nd section of the Dalkey Township Act of 1867 ; a sinking rate of 1*s.* 2*d.*, under the 51st section of the same Act ; a 5*d.* water rate, under the 43rd section of same Act, and a 6*d.* sewer rate, under the Sanitary Act of 1874, and having regard to the state of their finances, there does not appear to be any chance of their being able to strike lower rates. Ev. 27. Ev. 31, 34. Ev. 37.

DALKEY.

The Commissioners have power under the 47th section of the Act, to borrow a sum of £4,000 on each of the rates, that is to say—the township rate, the piers rate, and the water rate; but the amount of the entire sum to be borrowed is not to exceed £10,000. They have exercised this power to the extent of £7,500, by borrowing sums of £2,500 on the security of each of those rates. The first £2,500 was borrowed in March, 1869, from the Hibernian Bank, at five per cent. interest on the security of the township rate, and they have set apart an annual sinking fund as provided by the Act towards its repayment, which now amounts to the sum of £416 13*s.* 4*d.* Government new three per cent. stock. In May, 1867, they also borrowed from the same bank £2,500 on the security of the piers and harbour rate at the same interest, and the sinking fund on that loan has been also duly invested in the purchase of stock, now amounting to the sum of £413 13*s.* 4*d.* Under the 44th section of the private Act, they were empowered to strike a rate not to exceed 1*s.* in the pound, for the purpose of making piers and landings within the township, according to the plans and sections lodged pursuant to the standing orders of the Houses of Parliament. They have never struck any such rate, because, as the town clerk said, it would be illegal to do so, as they had not constructed the specified works, yet they have borrowed the money and must have paid the interest on it up to the present out of other funds not legally applicable thereto. The particulars, however, cannot be ascertained as no separate account of the different rates is kept, and the payments are made indiscriminately out of the general funds. The town clerk, however, stated that separate accounts were to be kept for the future, as the auditor had required them to do so. If this be done, it is difficult to see how the interest on this loan is to be paid, if the Commissioners cannot levy a rate to meet it. What was done with the principal of the loan cannot be ascertained further than that the town clerk stated it was spent on making the Coolemore harbour, on which no sum has been expended for several years until last year, when £16 5*s.* was expended in building a boat-slip. It appears that all the books of the Commissioners containing the accounts of their receipts and expenditure on account of loans and income during the years 1868, 1869, and 1870, have been long since lost, and we understood him to assign this as a reason for his not being able to give any detailed account of the expenditure of this loan.

The third sum of £2,500 was borrowed on the 9th January, 1871, from Mr. John Fleming, at 5¼ per cent., to be reduced to 5 per cent. in case the interest was paid regularly within a fixed time. This has not been done, and consequently the full interest has been paid. A sinking fund has been also set apart to pay off this loan, which now amounts to £333 6*s.*, Government new 3 per cent. stock.

Ev. 103–106. Ev. 83, 84.

The Commissioners do not capitalize the dividends received out of these sinking fund sums of stock, but receive them as they become due, and apply them as a part of their general income. The Commissioners still owe about £800 to the contractors for laying the water mains, but they have obtained powers to borrow this sum to pay off the debt.

Ev. 111–113. Ev. 160–167.

The Commissioners some time since incurred a debt of £500 in opposing in Parliament a Bill promoted by the Kingstown Town Commissioners as private individuals, for the purpose of bringing the sewage of Kingstown into Dalkey and discharging it there. This Bill was defeated, and the costs of the opposition have been nearly paid in full by the Commissioners out of the rates.

Ev. 168, 174.

The Commissioners have lately appointed a town surveyor at a salary of £25 a year, whose duty it will be to inspect the township once a week, attend the meetings of the Commissioners, and report to them on the state of the township. It is to be hoped that this action on their part will result in having more attention paid to the scavenging and care of the roads.

Ev. 145.

Our attention was called to the conduct of the Commissioners in not enforcing from the late collector of the rates and his sureties the amount of his defalcations, which amounted to the sum of £158 18*s.* 1*d.* The particulars as to this matter will appear in Mr. Finlay's report of the 23rd February, 1877, which we set out in the Appendix, No. 2, p. 125. There appears also to be a sum of £231 11*s.* 6*d.* for uncollected arrears due on the account for the year 1875, but whether the collector actually received that sum has not been ascertained up to the present. The Commissioners are now trying to ascertain the fact, having put the collection of these arrears into the hands of the town clerk. Mr. Burke called attention to the action of some of the Commissioners when he as chairman brought the conduct of this defaulting collector before the Board, and stated that if his advice had been then adopted this collector could not have acted as he did. Mr. Burke wished to give his opinion as to an alteration in the law as regards the election of Town Commissioners for Dalkey, but we declined to hear any such evidence.

Ev. 153–156. Ev. 271–274.

The sanitary condition of Dalkey does not appear to be sufficiently attended to.

DALKEY.

Under the 3rd section of the Public Health Act of 1874, the Commissioners are the urban sanitary authority, notwithstanding that the population is under 6,000. The town clerk acts as sub-sanitary and executive sanitary officer, at a salary of £15 a year, but no salary is paid by the Commissioners to the sanitary officer. He is, however, also their consulting sanitary officer, for which they have arranged to pay him at a rate of 10*s.* for each time he attends the meeting of the Commissioners. Complaints appear to have been made with respect to the sanitary officer, Dr. Mayne, in not reporting nuisances; and resolutions were passed in relation thereto, which will be found at questions 192 and 195. By the latter resolution he was required to inspect and report on alleged nuisances within twenty-four hours. This he refused to do, alleging that he was only bound to do so "as soon as may be." The Commissioners then applied to the Local Government Board on the matter, but they declined to interfere. At the time the former resolution was passed, sickness was prevailing in the part of the township in which the executive sanitary officer had served notices of their existence on the sanitary officer, which were not reported on by him, in consequence of which the nuisances continued for some, as the sub-sanitary officer could not act. Here, as in many other places, no book appears to be kept of the reports made with respect to nuisances, the order of the Commissioners made thereon, or any record to show whether they have been abated or not. There is not any hospital within the township, nor is any disinfecting apparatus provided, although there were several cases of scarlatina reported, and orders were made for the disinfecting of the houses in which they occurred. Mr. Burke, who had been chairman of Town Commissioners for years, however, stated that as chairman of the dispensary committee, he was able to state that there was not any contagious disease in the township district in March last. The sewerage is insufficient and defective, there not being any system, and in many cases the sewers are placed at too high a level to drain the adjoining houses, in consequence of which many houses are provided with cesspools, the overflow from some of which flows over the public roads. The Commissioners have expended in sewerage works, since the year 1870, a sum of only £47 14*s.* 3*d.*, while they have paid within the same period a sum of £190 to an engineer for plans and specifications for a system of main drainage; and they intend to borrow and expend £4,000 on those works. The Commissioners have the management of all the roads in the township under the 11th section of their private Act, but the condition of the roads and the scavenging of the town is certainly not properly attended to. Their whole staff consists of only three men, and horses are provided on Saturdays for carts owned by the Commissioners to remove the sweepings of the streets collected during the week; and one district was admitted not to have been cleaned for two months. They neglect entirely to scavenge Vico-road on the ground that it is a private road, although it is within the township, and the houses on it pay all the rates, and the Commissioners have themselves laid gas and water mains along the entire road. Close to this road there is a bathing place, for the site of which, as before stated, £350 was paid. The sum of £13 19*s.* 6*d.* was spent on the site in 1870, but nothing more has been since spent there. The bathing place was in fact destroyed by the sea years ago, and was described as being now a public nuisance, from the manner in which men exposed themselves when bathing there in the sight of ladies and others walking on the road, but the Commissioners have not taken any steps to abate it, although they inspected it in a body some time since, and were satisfied, from such inspection, that what they saw going on there should be prevented.

E. B. LAWLESS. (Seal.)
WM. A. EXHAM. (Seal.)

7th July, 1877.

H. A. ROBINSON,
Acting as Secretary.

MINUTES OF EVIDENCE.

KINGSTOWN.—APRIL 5, 1877.

(Before Mr. Commissioner LAWLESS, Q.C., and Mr. Commissioner EXHAM, Q.C.)

Mr. ROBERT JAMES ENNIS examined.

1. Mr. LAWLESS.—Are you the town clerk of the township of Kingstown?—Yes.

2. How long have you been town clerk?—Since November, 1866.

3. Under what Act of Parliament are the Kingstown Commissioners appointed?—The principal Act is the 17th and 18th Vic., cap. 103; the Towns Improvement (Ireland) Act, 1854.

4. When was that Act adopted in Kingstown?—In March, 1855; the year after it was passed—The next Act is the Kingstown Improvement Act, 1861. (24 & 25 Vic., c. 118.)

5. By that Act, were the powers of the Grand Jury over the roads and bridges in the township transferred to the Kingstown Town Commissioners?—Yes; the Towns Improvement Act was adopted in its entirety.

6. Under the Kingstown Improvement Act, 1861 did the Kingstown Town Commissioners acquire power to make rates?—Yes; a road rate not to exceed 1*s.* 6*d.* in the pound, except under certain conditions; by calling a public meeting of the ratepayers and getting their consent the rates could be increased by 1*s.*

7. It was not to exceed 2*s.* 6*d.* in the pound in any case?—Just so; we have never yet exceeded 1*s.* 6*d.*

8. I believe that by that Act the Commissioners were empowered to make a rate for the purpose of paying the expenses of obtaining the Act?—Yes.

9. And also to pay a portion of the baronial and county charges?—Yes.

10. And then for the repairs and maintenance of the roads and bridges in the township?—Yes.

11. And there was special power given them to give compensation to the late baronial cess collector and the late secretary?—Yes.

12. And provision was also made by that Act by which the amount of contribution to county charges could be ascertained by the warrant of the finance committee of the County Dublin Grand Jury?—Yes.

13. What was the next Act?—The Township of Kingstown Improvement Act, 1869 (32 and 33 Vic., c. 133.)

14. Were the Town Commissioners incorporated under that Act?—They were.

15. Was the town of Kingstown divided into wards?—Previous to the passing of the Act of 1869, it had been divided into two wards, but by the Act of 1869 it was divided into four wards.

16. What are the names of those four wards?—No. 1, Glasthule Ward; No. 2, Kingstown East Ward; No. 3, Kingstown West Ward; and No. 4, Monkstown Ward.

17. What is the number of Town Commissioners altogether?—Previous to the Act of 1869 the number was eighteen. The Act of 1869 increased the number to twenty-one, at which it still continues.

18. How are these Commissioners returned by the different wards? How many are returned by Glasthule ward?—The first three wards return six each, and the fourth ward returns three. That is, Glasthule six; Kingstown East six; Kingstown West six; and Monkstown three.

19. What is the qualification of electors by the Act of 1869?—The holding of premises rated at £4 and upwards, the same as under the Act of 1854—it was not changed since that Act of 1854; or being the immediate lessor of premises valued at £50 and upwards.

20. What is the qualification of a Commissioner?—Under the Act of 1854 the qualification was fixed at £12 as a rated occupier, or £50 as immediate lessor; but by the Act of 1869 it was changed to £25 as a rated occupier, or £50 as immediate lessor.

21. Were there provisions in that Act binding the Corporation of Dublin to supply Kingstown with water?—There were provisions to that effect.

22. What payment was to be made by the Kingstown Commissioners for that supply?—5*d.* in the pound on the valuation of the township; levied under the 60th section of the Act of 1854.

23. Did the Kingstown Commissioners acquire power under that Act to borrow money on the security of the rate?—They did; to the extent of £16,000, at interest not exceeding five per cent., and they were bound to provide a sinking fund of one-fortieth, so that the entire sum should be paid off in forty years from the date of borrowing. This was to be provided for by a sinking fund rate; but that was to be part of the rate I have mentioned, and not an additional rate.

24. Did the Township of Kingstown ever adopt the Local Government Act of 1871?—Yes; that Act was adopted in the year 1873, at a public meeting; the Gazette notice will show it. We have no minutes of that meeting in the book of the Town Commissioners.

25. Is there not another Act—the 37 and 38 Vic., chap. 167?—Yes; the Kingstown Township Extension Act.

26. When was that Act passed?—In 1874. It gave the Commissioners additional borrowing powers to the extent of £3,000. It was an Act to extend the limits of the municipal jurisdiction. The municipal limits were enlarged, and the extended limits were brought under the operation of the Act of 1861, so as to exclude the control of the Grand Jury.

27. I see that by the 25th section of that Act of 1874, there was special provision made that the sum of £200 should be paid for the costs of obtaining the Act, and the costs of the opposition to it. (Reads section.) Why was that provision inserted?—The Town Commissioners knew that it was legal to oppose the passing of that Act.

28. Who promoted the Act?—Outsiders; not members of the board. In fact the residents of the now extended district promoted this bill, in order to become part of the township of Kingstown, and they naturally had in the usual costs clause in the bill. The Town Commissioners objected to the bill, and to that clause amongst other things.

29. Did the Commissioners petition against the bill?—Yes; to secure a locus standi, and they got the promoters of the bill to pay the greater portion of the costs, they merely contributing the sum of £200 towards its carriage. It did not go before a committee, it passed as an unopposed measure ultimately.

30. I find that the most material provision of the Provisional Order dated 1874, and confirmed by the Act of Parliament, is that which gives power to the Commissioners to borrow an additional sum of £10,000?—Yes; for internal drainage.

31. So that the borrowing powers of the Commissioners under the Acts you have mentioned, enabled them to borrow £29,000?—Yes.

32. Do the Corporation of Dublin exercise or claim to exercise any power or control over the township of Kingstown?—No; except that they retain the power to deliver water to any district outside the township of Kingstown that can be supplied by the pipes of the township; they use the water mains of the Commissioners within the township to deliver water to parties outside the township.

33. Do the Grand Jury of the county Dublin exercise or claim to exercise any power or control within the township of Kingstown?—No.

34. Can you tell me what is the area of the Kingstown township at present—as extended by the last Act?—It was 910 acres; and it has been extended to 1,450 acres.

35. Can you give me the population?—The population in 1871 of the extended township was 17,500; in the year 1841, so far as I can make out from some blue books in my possession, the population was about 8,000; in 1851 it was up to 10,000; in 1861 to 14,000, and in 1871 to 17,500.

36. Can you give me the valuation of the extended township?—At present the gross valuation in round numbers is £72,000; in the year 1870, the valuation in round numbers, was something under £60,000; in 1860 it was £44,800, and in 1851 £29,500. The valuation of the recently added area was about £3,500.

37. Do the Kingstown Commissioners possess any property of any kind?—No.

38. Does this house or premises in which we are sitting belong to them?—No; they only rent it.

39. For what term?—Three years.

40. What yearly rent do they pay for it?—£65 a year; we also rent the market-yards where the goods are weighed and tolls charged on the weighing.

41. What rent is paid for the market-yard?—£30 a year; the market-yard is also used as a store.

42. Do you receive any income from that market-yard?—Yes; we receive £8 8*s.* for one stall, and we also receive the tolls which of course vary. We also get 3*s.* a week for another place, and 26*s.* a year for a small office.

43. What are the tolls?—Very trifling indeed; they are charges for weighing hay and straw, which is afterwards sold to persons in the township.

44. Under what authority do the Commissioners levy those tolls?—Under the general provisions of the Act of 1854.

45. Are those tolls which you have mentioned, the only receipts of that nature received by the Commissioners? Do they receive any others?—No.

46. Can you give me the number of voters in each ward?—I can furnish it.

47. Mr. EXHAM.—What is the valuation of the wards?—Monkstown Ward is £12,500; Kingstown East is £21,668 10*s.*; Kingstown West is £20,376 5*s.*; Glasthule is £15,183; gas mains, £837; water mains, £563.

48. Mr. LAWLESS.—What officers are employed by the Kingstown Commissioners?—There is myself, town clerk——

49. You may mention the salary paid to each at the same time?—Very well; my salary is £200 a year as ordinary salary, and £50 a year additional as executive sanitary officer; the next officer is the town surveyor, who has a salary of £250 a year; and then the collector, who is paid a poundage fee of 5*d.* Then there is the nuisance inspector, £52 a year; consulting sanitary officer, £50 a year; and sub-sanitary officer, Duffy, £89 9*s.* 4*d.* The nuisance inspector already mentioned is also sub-sanitary officer at £6 10*s.* a year, in addition to the salary above stated. There is also a market clerk, who is also store-keeper, at a salary of £65 a year, and a water inspector at £78 a year.

50. Are those all the officers employed by the Town Commissioners?—Yes.

51. You mentioned a consulting sanitary officer. Is there not a sanitary officer?—There are two medical sanitary officers for the district, but they are both paid by the Board of Guardians.

52. Do they make their reports to the Town Commissioners?—Yes. In the case of all the sanitary officers, except the nuisance inspector, the Treasury pays one half of the salaries.

53. Besides those already mentioned, do the Town Commissioners employ any other staff?—Yes; there is a foreman scavenger, carters, scavengers, lamp-lighters, house-keeper, and messengers.

54. Mr. EXHAM.—You say you have no separate sanitary officers of your own—can you say what proportion of their salaries is paid by the Board of Guardians. Is it thrown on the entire district?—The dispensary officers were appointed by the Local Government Board under a sealed order, as medical sanitary officers, for which they get £20 a year additional. It is the same way in every town in Ireland that I know of.

55. Of course the Town Commissioners here are the urban sanitary authority?—Yes, they are.

56. Mr. LAWLESS.—Do the Kingstown Town Commissioners light the town?—Yes.

57. Who supplies the gas?—The Alliance Gas Company of Dublin; they have special works in Kingstown.

58. What is the rate at which the company charge for the gas?—Until the year 1874 we paid them £3 7*s.* per lamp per annum, the plant being our own—the lamps belonging to the Commissioners; under an agreement made in 1874 we pay them the same rate per thousand cubic feet as the general public pay, only deducting twelve and a half per cent. The present charge is 5*s.* per 1,000 cubic feet, less that twelve and a half per cent. Five per cent. of the twelve and a half per cent. being an allowance for all the plant—lamp posts, &c., that belong to the Commissioners.

59. Is that contract made for one year?—It was made for three years only; it will expire this year; it was made in the year 1874.

60. Have you got the agreement?—I have it in the office.

61. By whom are the lamps kept in repair?—By the Town Commissioners.

62. By whom are any additional lamps required supplied?—By the Town Commissioners; we have everything to do with the maintenance and repairing of the plant.

63. You already mentioned that the town is supplied with water by the Corporation of Dublin, under the provision of one of your Acts of Parliament?—Yes.

64. Mr. EXHAM.—When did they first begin to supply it?—In the year 1870.

65. Mr. LAWLESS.—By whom are the roads and streets in Kingstown kept?—By the Town Commissioners, except the Harbour road, which is kept by the Harbour Commissioners.

66. Do the Grand Jury of the county Dublin do any part of that work in the town?—They do nothing at all in the town.

67. By whom is the scavenging of the town done?—By the Commissioners.

68. What rates do the Commissioners now levy?—The last rate made was struck on Monday last, the 2nd April; it was the largest rate we have yet levied, and is as follows:—An improvement rate, under the 60th section of the Act of 1854, of 1*s.* 5*d.* in the pound; a road rate, under the Kingstown Improvement Act, 1861, of 1*s.* 6*d.* in the pound; a sewer rate, under the Public Health Act, to repay principal and interest of the £10,000 already referred to of 2*d.* in the pound. These make a total levy of 3*s.* 1*d.* in the pound. The highest rate previously made was 2*s.* 11*d.*

69. What does the improvement rate of 1*s.* 5*d.* in the pound produce?—I estimate that it will produce £4,590.

70. How much will the road rate produce?—£4.860.

71. And the sewer rate?—It will produce over £540.

72. Can you give me the exact amount it will produce?—Not within a few pounds.

73. At what time of the year are those rates struck?—The time varies between the months of March, April, and May. We struck the rates this year on the 2nd April.

74. At what time does your financial year end?—With the natural year—the 31st December.

75. By whom are these rates collected?—By the rate collector appointed for that purpose by the Board.

76. How is he paid?—By a poundage of 5*d*.

77. Does the collector give any security?—He gives security to the extent of £500.

78. In what way?—Formerly he gave it in the shape of a bond—by himself and two others; now the existing security is that given by means of a fidelity policy of the Guarantee Society.

79. Is there not any bond at all?—No.

80. Does he give his own bond?—No; the Guarantee Society guarantee the Commissioners to the extent of £500.

81. Have the Town Commissioners a treasurer?—No.

82. Where do they keep their banking account?—In the National bank, which has a branch at Kingstown.

83. Practically the bank is the treasurer?—Yes.

84. Are there any rules or regulations by which the rate collector is obliged to lodge his receipts at any particular intervals of time?—Yes; he lodges weekly.

85. Is he obliged to do so by a rule of the Commissioners?—Yes; by a rule of the Board.

86. Does he as a matter of fact comply with that regulation?—He makes weekly returns, and lodges his receipts weekly.

87. To whom does he make the returns?—To the Commissioners; I check the return every week.

88. Are the bank-book and the returns submitted to the Commissioners weekly; how often do the Commissioners meet?—The finance committee is called together weekly.

89. Is the collector's return, as checked by you, and the bank-book submitted to the finance committee?—Yes; they are placed on the table before the finance committee.

90. Is it generally examined by the committee?—It is, frequently.

91. Will you tell me how payments are made?—By cheque only.

92. Do you happen to have the bank pass-book here?—Yes. (Bank-book produced.)

93. When you are about to make a payment is the matter brought before the finance committee?—The abstract-book is filled, showing the names of the parties to whom payments are to be made, the nature of the account, and the amount, and placed before the chairman. When the account has been examined by the finance committee, and reason shown that it should be paid, a cheque for the amount is filled up by me, which is signed by the chairman, two of the members of the committee, and by me as town clerk, and then handed to the party in whose favour it is drawn.

94. Is there any particular form of lodgment-book?—No, only the docket produced on the bank form. At each meeting of the finance committee I have the pass-book filled up. The lodgment is made weekly, and I send down the bank-book weekly, and have the amount entered in it.

95. I see some very small sums entered as lodgments in the bank-book—here is one item of 6*s*.?—You will see some as low as 2*d*.

96. Are those small sums lodged by the rate collector?—No, they are miscellaneous receipts.

97. Mr. EXHAM.—How is it that you do not keep separate accounts at the bank? Do you not keep a separate account for the improvement rate?—No; they are all lodged together.

98. But you have no right to apply any portion of the improvement rate to the payment of the road rate?—A great many sums on the estimates must be divided between both of the rates. I could not, for instance, draw a cheque against the improvement rate for a portion of my salary, and against the road rate for the rest of it. We find it answers best to have these two rates laid together, but we take care when making the estimates to keep them distinct and separate.

99. Mr. LAWLESS.—I find in this balance-sheet for the twelve months ending the 31st December, 1876, that you represent £58 3*s*. 2*d*. as arrears outstanding?—No, we have no arrears outstanding for 1876.

100. Then you have struck off £58 3*s*. 2*d*.?—Yes, as irrecoverable.

101. By whom are these irrecoverable rates ascertained and struck off?—The collector has to make out his returns; he shows all the collections; he is debited at the commencement of the year with the full amount of his warrant, and has to account for that amount. At the end of the year he gives in the name of each person from whom he cannot recover the rates, and the Commissioners go into his reasons, and if they are satisfied that they could not be recovered they strike off the amount as irrecoverable. If not, they call on the collector to give an explanation.

102. Mr. EXHAM.—I see that Mr. Finlay, in his report, calls attention to a small matter of £1 3*s*. 4*d*.?—Yes.

103. Mr. LAWLESS.—Does the collector make a return of the rates he has not recovered, and is it then discussed whether or not they are to be considered as irrecoverable?—Yes.

104. By what committee or by whom is that duty done?—It is the finance committee does it; but they have to submit their decision to the full meeting of the Board.

105. Mr. EXHAM.—Mr. Finlay, in his last report calls attention to a declaration which turned out to be untrue, and the Commissioners had the means of knowing that it was untrue to say that the premises were not occupied. It appears that the collector allowed that untrue statement to be acted upon?—I previously gave an explanation as regards that. As a matter of fact, the premises were unoccupied though the rate was paid.

106. It is very curious that you should be able to state that now when the explanation was not given to Mr. Finlay. Mr. Finlay says in his report—

"It was objected to at the audit that on a former occasion the sum of £1 3*s*. 4*d*., arrears of rate on a stable, the property of a member of the Board, and which was let to another member to enable him to complete his qualification for the office of Commissioner, and for which stable he was accordingly rated, was declared irrecoverable by the Commissioners, on receipt of a declaration of non-occupancy in the usual form. On inquiry into the matter, it was quite apparent that the rate should have been collected, and on my expressing an opinion to that effect, the amount was at once paid by the rated occupier. It was alleged that the declaration was made by the owner through mistake."

You say now that it was not a mistake. You say the declaration was true. Have you got the minutes of the meeting of the finance committee relating to this matter?

Mr. Barrett (Chairman of the Town Commissioners).—We have no other way of knowing what rates are irrecoverable except by receiving declarations; nor has the rate collector any other way of knowing.

Witness.—I'll produce the list of exemptions for that year, and here is a rough draft of the explanation I gave.

107. According to Mr. Finlay there must have been two members of the board cognizant of the fact?—Of the finance committee.

108. Of the board he calls it. How many members are there on the finance committee?—Three, generally.

109. If that be so then two out of the three must have known about it. This is not a question of £1 3*s*. 4*d*. it is a question of principle.

110. Mr. LAWLESS.—I find here from the minute book that the secretary was ordered to examine into the exemptions and to report to the finance committee, and on the 9th December, there is the following:—"The secretary reported that he had examined the collector's list of exemptions and found the same correct; the committee accordingly adopted the statement."

111. Who was the secretary?—I was.

112. Do you act as secretary to all the committees?—Yes.

113. Have you got the declaration?—Yes.

114. I think it would be well to produce those documents. (List of exemptions produced.)

115. Mr. EXHAM.—Until Mr. Finlay brought this matter to light was anything heard of it?—No.

KINGSTOWN.
April 5, 1877.

Mr. Robert James Ennis.

116. Mr. LAWLESS.—Who makes these declarations?—The parties who claim to be exempted from the payment of the rates.

117. Mr. EXHAM.—Do they make declarations unless they are specially required to do so?—The collector must submit a declaration for every case in which he does not produce the money in payment of the rates.

118. Mr. LAWLESS.—What is the collector's name?—John Redmond.

119. Mr. EXHAM.—The valuation of the stable was £8, and the amount allowed was £1 3*s.* 4*d.*, rates for twelve months. The declaration of the owner was as follows:—

"I John Crosthwaite do solemnly and sincerely declare that the premises herein described have been empty, unremunerative, unfurnished and unoccupied, save by a caretaker, from 1st January, 1875, to 14th December, 1875."

This declaration appears to have been made on the 30th November, 1875, before Mr. Barrett. The curious part of the matter is that the gentleman made a declaration on the 30th November, 1875, that the premises were unoccupied on the 14th December, 1875. If it is the case that a gentleman who is a member of the board, and who is the owner of a stable lets that stable to a gentleman whose qualification as a Commissioner would be otherwise insufficient, and if the first gentleman makes a declaration of non-occupancy, and if the Act of Parliament attaches a penalty to a false declaration, would not the best way of testing the matter be to prosecute the person who made the declaration?—Perhaps I had better read the explanation.

120. Is that an explanation by Mr. Crosthwaite, who made the declaration?—It is an explanation given by me so far as I know of the matter.

121. I should like to hear an explanation given by the person who made the declaration, it being Mr. Finlay's expressed view that so far from its being unlet, it was let to another Town Commissioner to enable him to complete his qualification as a Town Commissioner?—There is a furthur paragraph in the report which also requires explanation.

122. Mr. LAWLESS.—First tell me has the £1 3*s.* 4*d.* been paid in?—It was lodged at the request of the auditor. I will just read you my explanation:—

"A small house built a good many years ago"——

123. Where is the house situated?—In Crosthwaite-park. (Continues reading)—

"But never having been occupied, there was an annual declaration made under the 60th section of the Towns Improvement Act, 1854, and the rate was accordingly written off. It appears that a gentleman about to be a candidate for the office of Commissioner would not have been able to retain his seat at the board owing to the premises in his occupation being valued at only £20, the minimum qualification being £25, and to remedy this he agreed with the owner of the house above mentioned to become his tenant for the said house, thus amending his qualification."

124. Mr. EXHAM.—Can you give me the date of this gentleman's becoming a candidate for the office of Commissioner?—I think it must be about three years ago. (Resumes reading explanation)—

"As a matter of fact it would appear that actual occupation in any way never took place—and the owner at the end of the year (who is the possessor of a great number of houses, and every year makes several declarations of unoccupied houses), overlooking, or most probably forgetting the circumstances of the case, made (as he had each year previously been in the habit of doing), a declaration along with some others exempting the house from liability to the payment of the rates."

125. I wish you to stop there. The intended Town Commissioner wanted £5 added to his rating in order to make up his qualification for a Town Commissioner. What rent was he required to pay for this place?—I cannot tell you that.

126. Was the rent ever paid, and what was the amount of it, and who was the caretaker referred to? There must have been two arranging parties to a matter of this kind, and I should like to know who was the caretaker?—I should finish the paragraph I was reading. (Reads)—

"The Commissioner who had become tenant knew nothing of the matter and never was applied to for the rates, but when the case was brought up before the auditor the amount was at once handed in by this Commissioner."

127. Can you tell me is it a fact that on two previous occasions Mr. Crosthwaite made a similar declaration?—There was an exemption made for him on several occasions.

128. Did these particular premises, at the time they were exempted from rates as unoccupied and unproductive, constitute portion of the qualification of the intended Town Commissioner?—No, not for the entire time.

129. Was it done in 1874?—I do not think the gentleman was a Commissioner in 1874.

130. How long was this qualification made use of?—I cannot tell you.

131. Was it for 1876?—It was for 1875.

132. Was it for 1876 also?—I think so.

133. Did he continue a Commissioner on the same qualification, and if so, was there a declaration of non-occupancy in 1876?—The rate was paid in 1876. There was a question brought before the auditor about it in 1875, but nothing was done, and in 1876 all the rates were paid.

134. When the matter was found out in the early part of 1877, Mr. Crosthwaite paid the rates?—No, the other gentleman.

135. Well, then, the rated occupier?—Very well.

136. And now I must ask you what is the name of the occupier?—Mr. Lagan is the gentleman.

137. Mr. LAWLESS.—I see that Mr. Finlay, in his report, says—

"If the facts known to the Commissioners be at variance with the declaration, they ought not to be influenced by the latter"?

I deal with that in my explanation. (Again reads)—

"I do not know on what grounds the auditor makes the following statement, except that some one of the Commissioners may have expressed an opinion on the subject, namely—'The Commissioners appear to be under a misapprehension as to the effect and force of a declaration of non-occupancy; they seem to think that they are bound to accept it as conclusive evidence that a tenement was unoccupied although they might have the evidence of their own senses to the contrary.' There is no such practice at the board either expressed or implied, and I am aware that is quite different. The collector, if he was personally aware of any declaration paper being at variance with the truth, would not receive it, and if the secretary, when checking the collector's accounts, or if any of the Commissioners at the annual meeting, when such accounts are checked by them, were personally aware of anything incorrect in any of these papers, he or they would, of course, require the collector to explain, and if the explanation were not satisfactory the Commissioners would not hesitate to have the matter set right.

138. I find here that on the 30th November, 1875, the gentleman who made this declaration was himself chairman, and he also signs the minutes of the meeting on the 18th December, 1875.

139. Mr. EXHAM.—May I ask you was it not known very well how this gentleman made up his qualification?—No; it was not necessarily known to the members of the finance committee.

140. It must have been known to two of them, Mr. Crosthwaite and Mr. Lagan?—I was not supposed to know anything about it.

141. But how was the rating of £25 made up? Was it not by the additional rating given him as tenant of another place?—The Commissioners cannot go into that. If a gentleman is elected a member of the board and comes in and makes the required declaration to the effect that he is a rated occupier to the extent of £25 and upwards, the matter cannot be inquired into by the Commissioners at all. It is open to any person to take what steps he may think fit, but the Commissioners, as a body, cannot inquire into it.

142. But the rate collector was supposed to collect rates upon a valuation of £25 from that gentleman?—No; the collector is not supposed to go into any man and say, "You must pay rates on the full amount of your qualification as a Town Commissioner." I wish to remind you that the auditor labours under a mistake about the mode of receiving declarations by the Town Commissioners.

143. How does it appear he is mistaken?—He says it appears to be the practice——

144. What he says is this, "They seem to think that they are bound to accept it as conclusive evidence that the tenement is unoccupied although they might have the evidence of their own senses to the contrary." Now I take the meaning of that to be, that Mr. Crosthwaite, who was chairman, must have had the evidence of his senses to show him that this was a sham transaction, and there must have been another member of the board who was also aware of it—so there were two. Mr. Crosthwaite must have known every day he sat at the board that there was a gentleman sitting there as a member who was not qualified (and of course the other gentleman must have been aware of it himself) if the declaration was true in fact.

Mr. JOHN REDMOND examined.

145. Mr. LAWLESS.—Are you the rate collector?—Yes.

146. How long have you occupied that office?—I have been collector eleven years.

147. Do you know this particular holding; this property, marked 1575 in your rate book?—Yes; I do.

148. What is the name of the place?—Crosthwaite-park.

149. At what is it rated?—At £8.

150. Do you know whether or not that place is now occupied?—I do not know whether it is or not at this present moment, but I know that it was unoccupied up to the end of the year and for years previous—that is unoccupied so far as I could see; there was no person there, and the door and windows always fastened.

151. What sort of place is it?—A stable.

152. Did the warrant given to you include the rates assessed on those premises?—Yes.

153. Did you ever receive any rate with respect to them?—No; never.

154. To whom did you ever apply for any rate with respect to them?—When I did speak of it, it was to Mr. Crosthwaite, the owner. I had to get from Mr. Crosthwaite a declaration of non-occupancy, made before a magistrate, so as to be able to produce it before the Commissioners.

155. Did you get that declaration of the non-occupation of the premises by Mr. Crosthwaite?—Yes; so far as my memory serves me, but I could not say whether it was made by his agent or by himself. The declarations were sometimes made by his agent and sometimes by himself.

156. Did you ever make any application to any other person for the rates on that place?—Yes.

157. To whom?—To Mr. Lagan.

158. When did you make that application?—I finished my collection in November; I think it must have been early in November.

159. Why did you make application to Mr. Lagan then, and not to Mr. Crosthwaite?—Because I had heard that Mr. Lagan had taken the stable from Mr. Crosthwaite. I am employed by the Commissioners every year to make a revision of the rate book. In this town the residents and occupiers change very frequently—a great many people go away, and great numbers of strangers come here, and the Commissioners pay me for making the revision of the books, and so for that reason I have to inquire at every house and find out who the occupiers are. One purpose of this revision is to enable the rates to be collected, and another is to see who is entitled to have the franchise.

160. Did you make any special examination of these premises in the year 1875?—No; nothing more than my observation, when passing repeatedly. I always saw the door shut, and the grass growing about the place.

161. Was Mr. Lagan a member of the body of Town Commisioners in the year 1875?—I think he was, but I won't speak positively.

162. Was he a member in 1874?—I think not. I won't speak positively, for I cannot remember as I take very little interest in such matters.

163. Is Mr. Lagan rated for other premises, and do you receive rates from him with respect to those other premises?—Yes.

164. At how much are those other premises rated?—At £20.

165. Are they situated near Crosthwaite-park?—No.

166. And did you, when you found he was connected with those premises in Crosthwaite-park report it to the secretary in order to have it put on the rate-book?—Yes; that was in 1876.

167. When did you first hear of any agreement by which Mr. Lagan was to become the tenant of these premises?—Several months ago. I really could not fix the month.

168. Is this document prepared by you (handing document to witness, headed "Declarations of Commissioners")?—It was made by my dictation. The document is in my son's handwriting; he assists me at home.

169. It appears to have been sent in on the 13th December, 1875, and it gives this holding, No. 1575, as rated at £8, and in the possession of Mr. Crosthwaite?—Yes; that was as I understood it.

170. Mr. EXHAM.—Do you consider it your duty to see whether the gentlemen acting as Town Commissioners are rated at £25?—No, I do not. There is one thing I want to give an explanation about. There is a declaration there concerning this stable, which is dated 30th November, and yet declares the place to be unoccupied on the 14th December of the same year (the matter was referred to here). I applied to the Commissioners years ago, and got their permission to do it in that way. They, of course, are anxious that the collections should be completed and all the business done within the current year; that the accounts of 1876, for instance, should not get into 1877. I said that to enable me to do this I should be allowed to take declarations a month prior to the year. Suppose a house is let at the end of the year (a thing that is not likely to happen in Kingstown, for a great many of the houses are vacant during the winter), but if it did happen, we would have no claim over the house, and I might as well take the declaration at once. Accordingly the Commissioners gave me permission to take declarations of non-occupation from the 1st December, and give exemptions for the whole of the year. That explains it, I think. I may say further, that I fill up the principal portion of these declarations myself, because the great number of persons would not know how to do it, and some would not take the trouble to do it early enough.

171. Do you know how many years ago it is since Mr. Lagan was a candidate for the office of Town Commissioner?—No, I do not.

172. I want to know how long this thing has been going on?—I cannot tell.

The Town Clerk.—Here is a resolution passed on the 22nd January, 1875. "Resolved—That Mr. Patrick Lagan be and is hereby elected a Commissioner for Kingstown East ward. Question put and carried unanimously."

KINGSTOWN.
April 5, 1877.

Mr. Ennis.

Mr. ENNIS re-called.

173. Mr. EXHAM.—I want to know does anyone, when a candidate is proposed, see that he has the necessary qualification. Does the candidate make a declaration?—Yes, that he is rated at £25 and upwards.

174. Can you get Mr. Lagan's declaration?—Yes. (Declaration produced, which ran as follows):—

"Declaration to be made by Commissioners. Kingstown Improvement Act, 1851, and the Township of Kingstown Act, 1869.

"I, Patrick Lagan, of 10, Susan-place, Kingstown, do solemnly declare that I will faithfully and impartially, and according to the best of my skill and judgment, execute all the powers and authorities reposed in me as a Commissioner of the township of Kingstown by virtue of the above-named Acts, and also that I am an occupier of lands, tenements, and hereditaments rated to the relief of the poor in the said township of Kingstown, at the net annual value of £25 sterling, and upwards; that I am of full age, and that I am not an ecclesiastic of any religious persuasion.

"Signed, PATRICK LAGAN.

"Taken and declared before me this 10th day of March, 1875.

"JOHN J. CROSTHWAITE, J.P."

That is the usual form of declaration.

175. Mr. LAWLESS.—Nothing can justify a man in making a wrong declaration.

176. Mr. EXHAM.—Who filled in that declaration?—I fill in all those declarations.

177. Mr. LAWLESS.—By and to whom was the £1 3*s*. 4*d*. ultimately paid?—I took it from Mr. Lagan and gave a receipt for it, and lodged it to the credit of the Commissioners.

178. With respect to the amount of money borrowed by the Town Commissioners under the powers of their Acts, will you tell me the sums borrowed by them, and the security on which they were borrowed?—£16,000 were borrowed in December, 1870.

179. From whom was that sum borrowed?—From the Patriotic Insurance Company.

180. Was that sum borrowed under the powers of the Act of 1869?—Yes.

181. Mr. EXHAM.—At what rate was it borrowed?—We got that at five per cent. repayable by forty instalments, so that the whole sum should be paid off in forty years.

182. Will you tell me how that £16,000 was expended? How much in the first place was the cost of that Act? On what security was the money borrowed?—On the security of the improvement rate.

183. First of all it is as well for us to know if you have paid the instalments; you should have paid off £2,400 now?—Yes; that has been paid off.

184. And the debt now stands at £13,600?—Yes; the way the £16,000 has been allocated was:—the costs of the promoters of the Bill were in two separate amounts. Messrs. Anderson and Lee's (the Dublin solicitors) costs were £2,797 8*s*. 10*d*.; the costs of Mr. B. B. Sharkey, the parliamentary agent for the promotion of the Bill, were £1,856 8*s*. 3*d*.; Messrs. Casey and Clay's costs for opposition to the Bill were £1,421 3*s*. 10*d*.

185. The total costs were £6,075 0*s*. 11*d*.?—Yes. The Commissioners at first disputed their liability to pay to the solicitors employed by them the costs of the opposition to the Bill, but after a notice of action was served upon them they agreed upon a case to be stated under the Common Law Procedure Act; the court was unanimous in saying that the Commissioners had a right to oppose any Bill that affected their rights, and that they were liable to pay the costs out of the rates.

186. Do you say that the Commissioners were not the promoters of this Bill—the Act of 1869?—They were not; it was promoted by parties outside the Commissioners. The promoters of course having got the costs clause in the Act the Commissioners were bound to pay the costs.

187. What do you say was done with regard to the costs of the opposition?—They agreed under the Common Law Procedure Act to have a case stated before the Court of Common Pleas.

188. Did Messrs. Casey and Clay, the solicitors who acted for the Commissioners, bring an action against the Commissioners?—Well, notices were served of an action.

189. Did Messrs. Casey and Clay act as solicitors for the Kingstown Town Commissioners before the committee?—Yes; they appeared for the Commissioners. This Bill was promoted not by the Commissioners, but by other persons, and the Commissioners opposed it.

190. Did the Commissioners petition to be heard against it?—Yes, and Casey and Clay appeared for the Commissioners.

191. Did they apply for their costs, and did the committee refuse?—Yes; the committee refused to give the costs of the opposition.

192. Then by what authority did the Commissioners pay them this £1,421 3*s*. 10*d*.?—As I say, there was a case stated.

193. Have you got that case here?—I have. I should add that neither the solicitor for the promoters of the Bill, nor the solicitors for the Commissioners had anything to do with the solicitorship of this Board.

194. Mr. LAWLESS.—Who was the solicitor for the Board at the time?—Mr. John Lalor.

195. You say there was a case stated for the Court of Common Pleas?—Yes.

196. What was done upon that case?—The decision of the court was unanimous that the Commissioners had a right to oppose the Bill. It is settled now in what is called the Sheffield case.

197. Do you say the court decided that the Commissioners were justified in paying Messrs. Casey and Clay's costs out of the rates?—They held that the Commissioners were bound to pay them out of the rates.

198. Did they say out of the money raised on the security of the rates?—They did.

199. Mr. EXHAM.—Are you sure of that?—I am.

200. How was the balance of that £16,000 disposed of?—For the pipe-laying in the township, in connexion with the water supply.

201. How much was expended for pipe-laying?—£9,500; the remainder went in payment of the costs of obtaining the loan of £16,000, and the costs of the case stated.

202. Mr. LAWLESS.—By whom was the pipe-laying for the water supply done—was it by your own surveyor?—The water was brought to the reservoir by the Dublin Corporation at an expense of about £16,000. We then commenced under our own contractor—under the superintendence of our own engineer, and laid the pipes all through the township for the distribution of the water.

203. Who was your contractor?—The firm of Messrs. Edmundson and Company, Capel-street. Mr. Simpson, their agent, carried out the work to the township boundary, and Messrs. Edmundson did our portion of it.

204. Had there been any agreement between Messrs. Casey and Clay and the Commissioners as to the costs of the opposition to the Bill?—There was.

205. Have you got that agreement?—It is so long ago now, that I am not sure whether I have it or not.

206. Is it set forth in the special case?—I am not certain. The only agreement was, that Messrs. Casey and Clay gave the then Commissioners an indemnity that if they could not recover the costs out of the rates they would not hold the Commissioners liable. Mr. Lalor, the then solicitor for the Board, refused to carry out the opposition to the bill.

207. Can you tell me the reason why he refused?—Mr. Lalor took the opinion of Mr. John O'Hagan, Q.C., as to whether the bill could be opposed out of the rates, and he said it could not. Mr. Lalor then declined to go any further in the matter.

208. Except, I suppose, on the personal responsibility of the Commissioners?—That did not crop up.

209. Mr. EXHAM.—Was that bill of 1869, the bill promoted by third parties, to force the Town Commissioners to bring the water into the town?—That is a vexed question.

210. Was that bill first brought forward in the House of Commons or of the Lords?—First in the Commons.

211. After the Commons did the Commissioners go on opposing it in the Lords?—They opposed it in the Lords on clauses.

212. Did they not withdraw every single allegation of their petition before the Lords except one—that about the water?—I know that that was the principal point.

213. Was not that the only point on which they continued the opposition? Did they not withdraw their opposition against everything except the water supply?—They did not withdraw; they only contested the provisions about the water supply.

214. Were you not there yourself?—I was a witness there.

215. Did not the counsel for the Town Commissioners say—"We will withdraw every question raised in the case save one—the boundaries"?—No; he did not say that, he said the Commissioners opposed no clause except that of the boundaries.

216. Do you happen to have the Blue Book containing the report of what took place before the Committee both before the Commons and the Lords?—I have.

217. Can you let me see it?—Yes. (Blue Book produced.)

218. Did not the Town Commissioners actually apply for costs, and were they not refused? Was not an application made that you should get costs out of the rates, and did not the committee positively refuse to grant it? Were there not some very strong observations made in the Lords about the waste of the township money?—I have been a witness in a good many bills in Parliament, and I am aware that it is the invariable rule for parties opposing to apply for costs, but I never knew the committee to give costs.

219. They very frequently do so.

Witness.—The promoters would have given them costs in the Commons, but declined to give costs in the Lords.

220. Mr. LAWLESS.—I think you mentioned that some portion of the £16,000 has been paid off. How much has been paid?—£2,400 has been paid off; the balance now due is £13,600.

221. What was the next loan procured by the Town Commissioners?—The next loan, according to date, was obtained by the Commissioners in December, 1875.

222. How much was that loan?—£1,300, part of the £3,000, under the Kingstown Extension Act 1874, which was borrowed to pay for the pipe-laying in the township.

223. From whom was that borrowed?—From the Treasury, under the Public Health Act, 1874.

224. At what rate was it borrowed?—At three and a half per cent., for thirty years.

225. On what security is that £1,300 borrowed?—On the security of the improvement rate, the rate levied under the 60th section of the Act of 1854.

226. How was that £1,300 applied?—Solely to pay for the pipe-laying of the extended area; that is, the new district of the township.

227. Was that pipe-laying for the public water supply?—Yes.

228. Has any portion of that £1,300 been paid off?—We have made the yearly payments. That £1,300 is part of the £3,000 that the Commissioners were authorized to borrow by the Extension Act of 1874. There is also a Provisional Order under which the Commissioners were empowered to borrow £10,000, and we allocated £8,000 of that to the Kingstown sewerage, and £2,000 to the Glasthule sewerage. The £10,000 was borrowed from the Treasury on precisely the same terms as the £1,300. On May 20th, 1876, the £2,000 was lodged for the Glasthule district, and on that day week, 27th May, 1876, the £8,000 was lodged to the credit of the Kingstown sewerage district.

229. Can you give us now the number of rated occupiers in each ward qualified to vote?—Yes; they are as follows:—

Kingstown, east ward, . .	277
Kingstown, west ward, . .	390
Monkstown ward, . .	181
Total,	1,132

230. How were these sums of £8,000 and £2,000 applied?—They are at present being applied to the purposes for which they were borrowed—the internal drainage of the township.

231. Upon what security were those sums of £8,000 and £2,000 borrowed?—On the security of the sewerage rate leviable under the Public Health Act, 1874.

232. Has that sewerage rate been levied?—One penny was levied last year, and the rate struck this year to provide for the repayment of the £10,000 was two-pence.

233. How much will that two-pence produce in the year?—£540.

234. I see by this Provisional Order confirmed by the Act of 1875, that the assessable value of the premises within the limits of the township is £65,933?—That would almost apply to the present year, too; because in the Act of 1854, it is stated that lands used for farming and other such purposes shall be valued at only one-fourth—that is the rate shall be levied on only one-fourth, so that I have to give the net valuation to show the result.

235. Mr. M'Evoy.—About £65,000 is the net value at present.

236. Witness.—It was reduced by the valuation of the mains of the Gas Company being reduced by nearly £800.

237. You say that £10,000 was borrowed for the purpose of completing certain works in connexion with the Kingstown internal drainage?—The £8,000 was borrowed for Kingstown, and the £2,000 for Glasthule, which is a part of the township.

238. Preparatory to obtaining this Provisional Order were the plans prepared for those works?—They were laid before the Local Government Board, and also before the House of Parliament.

239. Were plans lodged preparatory to obtaining this money?—Yes; they had to be lodged.

240. When were they lodged?—I could hardly give you the exact date; but they were lodged before the inquiry which was held here in March, 1874.

241. Was the Provisional Order confirmed by Act of Parliament?—Yes, in 1875.

242. Has any portion of that £10,000 been applied, and for what purposes?—The £2,000 which was to be laid out in Glasthule has been already expended.

243. How has it been expended?—For the purposes for which it was borrowed alone, namely, the internal sewerage of Glasthule district.

244. Were there estimates prepared for that work?—Yes; by the town surveyor.

245. When was the first payment made out of that £2,000?—In the commencement of 1876. I will give you the exact date. The Provisional Order was passed in 1875.

246. But you did not get the money until the 20th of May, 1876?—No; but we got the powers to borrow the money for certain works. The first sum paid by us for that work was on May 4th, 1876, a fortnight before the loan was completed. Those plans that were submitted in 1874 of course embraced all the works that were to be paid for out of the £2,000. That first payment was £22 10*s.*, and then on the 9th June we paid our contractor the sum of £430 for portion of the plans dealt with in the Provisional Order.

247. Who was your contractor for those works?—A gentleman named Thomas Sexton.

248. Mr. EXHAM.—Is he a Commissioner, or a relative of the Commissioner of the same name?—He is his brother, but he is not himself a Commissioner.

249. When was the contract advertised for?—In 1875.

250. What is Mr. Thomas Sexton?—He is a general contractor for houses and sewers.

251. Were there many tenders for the contract of this particular sewerage?—I cannot say.

252. Was the entire of those Glasthule works taken by Mr. Sexton under one contract?—He got only one contract in the Glasthule district. All the rest of the contract work near there was divided between a Mr. John Pluck and a Mr. George Dixon. The £22 10*s.* was for a little bit of sewerage. £430 was the amount of all his contract work in that district.

253. Were not all the works put up for competition in one contract?—No; the drainage district was divided into sets of contracts, and Mr. Sexton got that contract only. All the rest of the £2,000 has been paid away between the two other contractors—Mr. Pluck and Mr. Dixon.

254. Is Mr. Dixon a relative of any of the Commissioners?—He is son-in-law to a member of this board, I believe.

255. Have the contracts been executed in that district?—No; one is going on at the present moment. In fact all the contracts have been completed except one, and that is going on towards completion.

256. Will the £2,000 complete all the sewerage contemplated in Glasthule?—No.

257. Was the estimate too low?—The money is expended, and the work cannot be completed. The works intended to be done are more than the money would cover.

258. Mr. LAWLESS.—Have you got the tenders that were put in for those works in Glasthule upon which the £2,000 was to be expended?—I was not prepared for this, but of course if you wish I can produce them.

259. Was Mr. Pluck a Town Commissioner?—Mr. Pluck had no connexion with the Commissioners in any way.

260. Mr. EXHAM.—Did the Commissioners bind themselves to take the lowest tender?—In advertising we put in the usual statement—"The lowest or any tender not necessarily accepted."

261. Who certifies as to the completion of the works?—The town surveyor.

262. Does he see that they are in accordance with the specification?—Certainly.

263. Are the payments made on his certificate?—Yes. Since we commenced to carry out these works we have appointed a clerk of works at £2 a week. He is only appointed temporarily during the progress of the sewerage works.

264. What is his name?—Peter Milligan.

265. When was he appointed?—On June 16th, 1876.

266. Were other works going on before that without a clerk of works?—Some small separate contracts at a time were previously going on, but when we came to expend all this money on the two districts, the Town Commissioners thought it necessary to appoint a clerk of works.

267. Mr. LAWLESS.—What was Mr. Milligan? What were his qualifications?—He was a man always connected with this sort of work.

268. Was he a builder?—I believe so.

269. Is he a Kingstown man?—Yes. [Reads minute appointing Mr. Milligan.]

270. Has he been since acting, and is he to act as clerk of works in respect to the Kingstown district as well as the Glasthule?—In respect of the entire township.

271. Had he been in any similar employment before?—I have always known him as a builder or a man connected with buildings. The only employment I know of his having been in was as surveyor to the Blackrock Building Society.

272. Mr. EXHAM.—Does he send in reports?—Yes, he is in constant communication with the town surveyor, and he sends in a short summary weekly to the board.

273. Did he ever object to the materials of these sewers?—I never heard of any objection to them.

274. Does the surveyor make reports weekly or monthly?—Monthly.

275. Has he always reported that the work was done in accordance with the contract?—I am not aware he ever said the works were not in accordance with the contract.

276. Did he object to the material of any of those sewers?—Not that I am aware of.

277. Did you look at the works while they were going on?—No; it was outside the proper sphere of my duties.

278. Mr. LAWLESS.—You have said that the £2,000 obtained from the Treasury in 1876 has been applied in doing the Glasthule sewer works mentioned in the Provisional Order of 1875. Now tell me has any portion of the £8,000 been applied in making sewers not specified in the plans sanctioned by the Provisional Order?—Yes, a change was made for the purpose of draining the fields to the south of Crosthwaite-park and Royal-terrace.

279. Were those works included in the plans for which the £8,000 was originally borrowed?—No; but application was made to the Local Government Board to sanction the change; they sent down their engineer, and he stated to them what had occurred. They said they did not see they had much power in the matter, but did not say the deviation was of any very great moment.

280. Will you just explain what was the deviation?—The surveyor can show you that.

281. Perhaps you can tell us how much of the £8,000 was expended on that deviation?—I cannot tell you the exact sum for this reason—that it was made part of another contract.

282. Mr. EXHAM.—Who proposed the change in the plans?—The town surveyor.

283. Did he propose to omit certain works shown on the plans and to do those others in their place?—Yes.

284. Did the Town Commissioners authorize the money borrowed for one purpose to be expended for another?—I suppose the Local Government Board said to you, "you know the plan of the works for the doing of which we authorize you to raise £8,000, and it is for you to see that you expend it properly." I should like to see the minute on that.

Witness reads minute:—

"September 4th, 1876.

"Tenders for the sewerage of Crosthwaite-park read.

"A resolution was moved that none of the tenders be accepted and the consideration of the subject be postponed until the next monthly meeting. An amendment to accept the tender was lost upon a division. The following amendment, proposed by Mr. Kelly, and seconded by Mr. M'Evoy, was put and carried unanimously:—'Resolved, that the sanction of the Local Government Board be applied for, to the variation of scheme of internal drainage formerly approved of by the said Local Government Board, by which the sewerage of Crosthwaite-park, not included in such scheme, may be legally carried out, and that the lowest tender (that of Mr. Thomas Sexton) for the carrying out of the work for the sum of £390 be accepted, subject to the obtaining of such sanction by the Commissioners from the Local Government Board.'"

The reply was as follows:—

"20th September, 1876.

"SIR,—The Local Government Board for Ireland acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 9th inst., and accompanying sketch plans, relating to an alteration proposed to be made in the plans which have been adopted for the internal drainage of Kingstown, with the view of providing for the drainage of Crosthwaite-park, which was omitted by the town surveyor in the preparation of those plans; and in reference thereto the Board desire to state that from the report of their professional officer, a copy of which is enclosed," (for report see Appendix), "it does not appear there is any particular objection to the variation proposed, but they are not aware their sanction is necessary or that they have any authority to give their sanction. The question for the Town Commissioners is—whether the proposed variation in a matter of detail of this kind involves a material departure from the general plans referred to in the Provisional Order, and to the carrying out of which the money borrowed under the Act is directed to be applied.

"By order of the Board,
"B. BANKS."

The next meeting of the sanitary authority was held September 22nd, 1876, when the last letter was read, and I was directed by the committee to call upon Mr. Sexton to proceed with the carrying out of his contract for the sewerage of Crosthwaite-park, for £390 according to his tender of the 4th inst.

285. How much of the £8,000 was expended for works not in the original plans?—None at all as yet.

286. I thought you said a portion was expended?—I did not use the word expended; I said there was a contract embracing those new works, but no money has been expended on it.

287. Has a contract been signed for doing that?—I think a contract has been accepted; but no money has been expended on it.

288. Can you state how much of the £8,000 is intended to be applied for doing the works not within the plans?—I cannot tell you that, because the work now under discussion is part of another contract embracing other works.

289. What works have been done within what is called the "Kingstown Drainage District," which are to be paid for out of the £8,000?—The Glenageary-road sewer.

290. Is that in the Kingstown district?—Yes; that has been completed.

291. Where is Matthews'-terrace?—In the Kingstown district.

292. And Mulgrave and Royal terraces, Tivoli-road, and Crosthwaite-park?—All in the Kingstown district.

293. I find here upon your account for the year ending December, 1876, under the head of contracts existing or entered into during the year, four contracts with Mr. Thomas Sexton for sewers?—Yes; he is the contractor "for Glenageary-road at £190;" for "Mulgrave and Royal terraces and Tivoli-road, at £679;" and for "Crosthwaite-park, £390."

294. Is the portion of the work to be done for Crosthwaite-park to be provided for out of the £8,000 or not?—I could not give a decided answer on that.

295. Are all the Sandycove and Glasthule works within what is called the Glasthule district?—All of them.

296. Are Albert and Adelaide roads and Tivoli-terrace in Kingstown?—Yes.

297. Mr. Thomas Sexton is put down as the person paid for Adelaide-road. The contractor put down for Albert-road is Mr. John Pluck?—That is another local contractor. That is a distinct sewer. The work was commenced in previous years; but being part of the plans embraced in the contract for £430, it was not carried out until 1876. The Adelaide-road sewer mentioned below is a continuation of the former sewer, and is a separate contract. This sewer is put down in another place as the "Albert and Adelaide road sewer."

298. According to that account (referring to account of payments produced) although you had power to pay contracts to the extent of only £2,000 you have paid £10 over?—Yes, we were pretty close.

299. Was Mr. Sexton the person who laid the pipes on a former occasion?—No, he had nothing to say to the former contract for laying pipes.

300. Was that contract for £1,300 for the pipe-laying submitted to public competition?—Decidedly.

301. Had Mr. Sexton any previous experience in laying mains or water-pipes?—Not in Kingstown.

302. Anywhere?—Not that I am aware of. I will read the minute about the contract for the works. I see on September 4th, 1876, tenders for the sewerage of Crosthwaite-park were read from Thomas Sexton at £390, John J. Long at £400, and George Dixon at £910.

303. Was that last sum for the same work?—Yes.

Witness then read the minutes of 4th September and 22nd September, 1876, which are already given. My letter to the Local Government Board followed on the resolution of the 4th September. (Reads)—

"September 9th, 1876.

"To B. Banks, esq., Secretary to the Local Government Board.

"SIR,—I am directed by the Commissioners of the township of Kingstown to state, for the information of the Local Government Board, that the town surveyor, when preparing the plans for the internal drainage of Kingstown, forgot to provide for the drainage of a very important district—namely, Crosthwaite-park, although he provided for the drainage of all the other similar localities in the township. The Commissioners, on learning of the matter, at once inquired as to the proper mode of correcting the mistake, and they found, that by omitting for the present the construction of the sewer to drain fields between Royal-terrace and Mr. Reid's premises, Holmston, and so varying to the slight extent the original scheme of internal drainage for which they obtained the sanction of the Local Government Board to borrow £10,000 to carry out, they will, without any inconvenience, be enabled to rectify the overlook made by the town surveyor. For this variation I am directed respectfully to request the sanction of the Local Government Board. The cost of the construction of the sewer at Crosthwaite-park is £390, and the tender to carry out the work for this sum has been received."

304. Were you instructed to make that statement?—I have to gather the opinions of the board, and I generally tell them what I will write.

305. Did the surveyor say he "forgot" to include the drainage of such an important place at the time?—He made the statement at the time or I would not have it here. (Continuing letter)—

"The saving, by now omitting the construction of the sewer in the fields north of Royal-terrace, is £225, and the saving in the sewer lately constructed in Tivoli-terrace (that is the amount for which the work was constructed under the town surveyor's estimate), is £233, total, £458, leaving a balance to credit of £68. Under the circumstances, the Commissioners trust the Local Government Board will sanction the proposed change in the original plans.

"I am, sir,

"Your obedient servant,

"R. J. ENNIS, Secretary.

"NOTE.—Sketch plans of both of the above-named sewers are submitted herewith."

306. Mr. LAWLESS.—The provisional order was confirmed by an Act of Parliament, and the Local Government Board say—"We can't alter that Act of Parliament."

307. Mr. EXHAM.—But there could be no alteration in this case, for the town surveyor says—"It is an actual piece of forgetfulness on my part."

Witness.—"Overlook" would have been a better word to use in the letter.

308. Mr. LAWLESS.—You used both, so that you are not at a loss for phrases.

309. Mr. EXHAM.—Mr. M'Evoy might have let the resolution be put, but he moved the amendment probably thinking that the Local Government Board had no power to do it.

Mr. M'Evoy.—That is exactly so.

310. Mr. LAWLESS.—Was there any action taken by the Commissioners after the receipt of that answer of December 20th?—The Local Government Board said there was not any such departure, and that we were warranted in making the variation.

311. Mr. EXHAM.—It appears that there were two separate portions of ground; the property of one was shown on the plans as ground necessary to be drained, and the sewers for his property were sanctioned by the Act of Parliament, and the property of the other was not. Then the resolution is passed to substitute the works on the property of the man who was not entitled to have them done under the Act of Parliament, and who is the chairman of the Town Commissioners, and to give up making for the other gentleman, whoever he was, the sewers that were represented and sanctioned as necessary for his property.

Witness.—In the resolution I have already read it said:—"Resolved—That the sanction of the Local Government Board be," &c.

312. Mr. EXHAM.—But the Local Government Board refused to sanction it. They said—"If you can legally do it, do it; but we will not give you authority."

313. Mr. LAWLESS.—At the time of obtaining the provisional order was evidence given as to the necessity of the works, and were those works at Crosthwaitepark represented as a necessary portion of the works to be done?—They were.

314. Witness reads following minute :—

"Amendment proposed by Mr. Kelly, seconded by Mr. M'Evoy:—Resolved—'That the sanction of the Local Government Board be applied for to the variation of the scheme of internal drainage formerly approved of by the said Local Government Board, by which the sewerage of Crosthwaite-park, not included in such scheme, may be legally carried out; and that the lowest tender (that of Mr. Thomas Sexton for the carrying out of the work for the sum of £390) be accepted, subject to the obtaining of such sanction by the Commissioners from the Local Government Board.' Amendment put, and carried unanimously; and then put as the original resolution, and carried unanimously."

I now see the contract for Crosthwaite-park was not what I said before. I see it is a distinct contract; it is so set forth here.

315. Mr. EXHAM.—Who proposed that resolution?—Well, in committee we don't always have formal resolutions.

316. Mr. LAWLESS.—Was that at a meeting of a committee? Was the meeting summoned, and was there any notice given of the meeting?—There is an hour fixed for the meeting of the urban sanitary authority. There was not any notice given of the meeting.

317. Mr. EXHAM.—But surely this was not to be done by the urban sanitary authority?—It was to be done by the Town Commissioners at their peril. The urban sanitary authority have entered into a contract for £390, which appears to be directly at variance with, or at all events is not sanctioned by the Provisional Order or the Act of Parliament.

318. Suggested by Mr. M'Evoy.—Did you give notice for that meeting?—No.

319. Is it not, in fact, voting away £390 which the Act of Parliament has directed to be expended in one way, in another to benefit the property of the then chairman of the Town Commissioners?—(No answer.)

320. Mr. LAWLESS.—This £390 was voted to be applied to works in Crosthwaite-park which was not included in the plans of the works on which any portion of the £10,000 was to be expended. Was not a portion of the work to be done in the original plans omitted to be done for the sake of doing this?—I believe so. That was the case.

321. Was it omitted in order that this particular portion of Crosthwaite-park might be substituted for it?—Yes.

322. What portion of the original works provided for by the original plans was omitted—in what district?—In the same district; in the immediate neighbourhood.

323. Mr. EXHAM.—Mr. Ennis, in his letter to the Local Government Board, says the surveyor forgot to include this portion of sewerage.

Witness.—Oh, I did not say he forgot it at all.

324. Mr. LAWLESS.—The contracts mentioned here for the year 1876 come altogether to about £2,578 You have made mention of some of the expenditure on this £8,000. How much of that has been expended now?—£1,764 15*s.* 3*d.*

325. Mr. EXHAM.—Have the works been stopped?—No works commenced have been stopped; but we advertised for contracts for other portions of the sewerage works, and finding the tenders so much in excess of the surveyor's estimate, none were adopted.

326. Mr. LAWLESS.—I see contracts were entered into to the extent of £2,378. Are they for the Kingstown district, and are they being carried out now?—Mulgrave-terrace has been completed, Glenageary-road has been completed, and £1,190 paid on account; and nothing has been paid on account of the other two.

327. Mr. EXHAM.—Can you tell us what was the estimate for Matthews'-terrace?

Mr. Doyle (town surveyor).—£130. The estimate for Glenageary-road was £1,290; for Mulgrave-terrace, £315; and Tivoli-road, off it, would be £188; the estimate for Royal-terrace is £285.

328. I see for Lower George's-street the lowest tender was £1,400, while the estimate was only £764; J. Sexton, for another portion, tendered at £590, and the estimate was £370. For Cumberland-street the lowest tender was £198, while the estimate was only £171.

329. Mr. LAWLESS.—What was the estimate for Crosthwaite-park?

Mr. Doyle.—I think £390. There was an explanation given about my estimates. The contracts that came in for the former works were under my estimate, and then the statement was volunteered here that the contractors having found out their mistake, wanted to levy the deficiency on the new contracts, by adding to them.

330. Mr. LAWLESS (to Witness).—You say £1,764 15*s.* 3*d.* has been actually expended up to this date out of the £8,000. Where is the balance?—To the credit of the Commissioners, in the bank.

331. Does it bear interest?—Yes; at the deposit rate allowed for current accounts, calculated from day to day; we are constantly drawing on them. When I last submitted my balance-sheet to the monthly meeting it showed £6,235 4*s.* 9*d.* to the credit of the Kingstown district. I then made a suggestion, acting on which the following resolution was passed on the 2nd April, 1877 :—

"Resolved,—That the suggestion to invest a portion of the sum in the bank lying to the credit of the Kingstown Sewer Account in new three per cent. Government stock be brought before the next meeting of the Board, with notice previously given to each Commissioner."

332. In the meantime, are not the ratepayers paying interest on that money, and sustaining a large loss thereby?—Yes; but it is in course of being expended.

333. Are all the works for which that money was borrowed actually now in progress?—No. The reason is, we could not advertise for carrying out the sewerage of two districts at once; we would have all the streets cut up at the same time. You cannot take the drainage of the town piecemeal; you can only take it in districts.

334. Was it not going hastily to work to put the ratepayers under the interest of £8,000 all at once?—I know in the case of the Corporation of Dublin they borrowed the sum in bulk, and paid them off. The way was this: If we applied to the Treasury to give us the money piecemeal, I doubt if they would not object, because we would have to give separate mortgages in each case.

335. Was there any attempt made to get the money in that way?—It was spoken of at the time, but it was thought so utterly impracticable that the suggestion was not acted upon.

336. Mr. EXHAM.—This last statement of yours sets out the contracts for the Kingstown district as four contracts, amounting altogether to £2,378. Are those the only existing contracts?—Those are all.

337. Is it contemplated to go on with the others?—Decidedly. We have been constantly trying if we could get contractors to send in lower tenders. We got trial pits made; in the case of one we found from the nature of the soil matters would be totally against the Commissioners, in another in favour of the Commissioners.

338. Are there any contracts before the Commissioners now?—No.

339. Nor tenders for contracts?—None.

340. The present occupiers of houses are paying rates to pay off the balance of the £8,000, and non constat there will be another penny expended for years. Has the surveyor stated what it will cost to do the residue of the works provided for by the Provisional Order Act?—That question was before the committee at the end of the year; and a recommendation of the full Board was then made that, in view of the difference in prices of the materials used in carrying out works now, from the prices current when the surveyor made out his original estimate some years ago, it would be advisable for the Board to fix what the gross price would be, and then apply to the Local Government Board for further borrowing powers to supply the deficiency.

341. When did the surveyor make out those estimates?—In 1874.

342. Do you mean to say that materials and labour for making and laying sewers have gone up since 1874 to such an extent as to make the difference between the surveyors, their estimates and the amount of the tenders?—Bricks have gone up very much—at least I am told so.

343. It may suit some persons' interest to say so. Other materials are cheaper now. We all know that prices went up considerably before 1874, but I thought they had now come down to something like their former range. Is that so?—I do not know.

344. Mr. LAWLESS.—Have the Commissioners borrowed any further sums of money than those you have mentioned?—On the 14th November, 1876, we borrowed, under authority from the Local Government Board, £8,000 to build a town-hall and court-house, we got besides £1,700 the balance of the £3,000 under the Extension Act, and we also borrowed £2,000 under the authority of the Local Government Board for the asphalting of the streets of the township. The £8,000 was borrowed under the provisions of the principal Act, that is, the Act of 1854.

345. Under what Act did you obtain the £2,000?—Under the Kingstown Improvement Act of 1861.

346. Under what provision of that Act—The provision dealing with roads; the power to levy a road rate of eighteen pence.

347. From whom did they borrow that £2,000?—The entire of these three sums of £8,000, £1,700, and £2,000—total £11,700—was borrowed from the Royal Exchange Assurance Company of England at four and a half per cent. repayable in forty years.

348. Mr. EXHAM.—What is the security for all this. Is it secured on the road rate? This is why I asked were there separate accounts kept of the road rate and the improvement rate.

349. We have acted on that principle. Our estimate shows that. The one-fortieth of the loan of £2,000 for asphalting is £50, and the interest at four and a half per cent. is £90. The entire of that is charged on the road rate. I put the interest of the different loans under the several headings here, the improvement rate, under the Act of 1864, and the road rate under the Act of 1861. I set further under each column the money chargeable properly to those two rates; and you will perceive that not a farthing of one rate is improperly charged to the other.

350. Among those latter sums you have mentioned you named £8,000 borrowed under the provisions of the Towns Improvement Act of 1854, to build a courthouse and townhall. What provision in that Act gave you that power?—Under the Act of 1871 you will find full powers given to the Local Government Board to enable bodies such as the Kingstown Commissioners to borrow for those purposes; and under that Act they gave us power to borrow those sums of £2,000 and £8,000. The 20th section of the Act of 1874 states:—

"The Commissioners may, from time to time, for the purpose of defraying any costs or expenses incurred or to be incurred by them under the principal Act, or any Act incorporated in said Act, &c., borrow any sums of money for such charges and expenses."

351. When did you obtain that £8,000?—In November, 1876.

352. When did you adopt the provisions of that Act?—In January, 1873. (Orders of the Local Government Board for the £2,000 and £8,000 handed in.)

353. The result appears to be a bad one for the ratepayers here. Is there not an actual loss of £310 a year by paying the interest on this loan of £8,000, which is not being used at present?—No, for the money has been since invested in purchasing Government stock, and we get the dividends.

354. Mr. LAWLESS.—Has anything been done towards the erection of a town-hall or a court-house?—Mr. Barrett.—Plans have been prepared.

355. Mr. EXHAM.—Have there been any tenders?—Witness.—I drew up an explanation with reference to this to the Board the other day. It is this:—

"With reference to the statement as to the loss of one and a half per cent. arising to the rates from the sum of £8,000 borrowed to build the town-hall and court-house not being at once required, it would appear to assume that it is possible for a public body to always arrange matters, so that such a thing should not occur. From the long and tedious negotiations carried on, both as regards the obtaining of this loan and of procuring a proper site for the town-hall and court-house, before a definite result in either case was arrived at, it is very clear that instead of there being anything unwise or unbusiness-like in the transaction, the Commissioners should congratulate themselves on having both matters (that is as regards the site and the loan) completed within so short an interval as has actually taken place. The loan was placed to the credit of the Commissioners on the 14th November, 1876, when they were aware that the Board of Works had obtained the Kingstown Harbour Act, enabling the latter to allocate a site for the town-hall and court-house on terms and conditions already agreed upon, and when they were aware that the lease itself was under consideration."

As a matter of fact an advertisement for tenders will appear in next Saturday's paper for this town-hall and court-house.

356. The Commissioners have had this money since 1876. Have they fixed upon a site for a town-hall? Has it been ascertained that there is a site procurable?—Decidedly.

357. What are they to pay for the ground?—We have arranged with the Board of Works, which arrangement is sanctioned by the Treasury under the Act of 1875, and there has been marked as a site on the Royal Marine-road, 130 feet in length by 100 feet in depth, on a 999 years' lease, at 10*s.* a foot frontage. The lease is before the agent of the lord of the soil, and we expect the matter will be very soon completed.

358. Have you got any plans for the building of this courthouse and town hall?—We adopted plans in September, 1874, but before the Board of Works had given their sanction with regard to the site the plans had to be altered; and they were finally adopted on September 4th, 1876.

359. Have you got specifications for the works?—There is a specification now with the architect, which will appear with the plans in the advertisement on Saturday.

360. What is the amount of his estimate?—The architect did not formally submit an estimate; but his estimate for the works before the Board is something like £13,000 or £14,000.

361. So that having £8,000 to expend on a certain building the Commissioners propose to put them under a rent of £65, and to expend £13,000 or £14,000?—No; they will have tenders for contracts; there will be gross tenders first. They will then open the detailed tenders of the persons whose contract they accept. They will go through the works with their architect, and see where the building can be cut up in different places so as to keep the sum to be expended either at the £8,000, or as near to it as the requirements of the town will admit. If they find they can have a building, after consideration with their architect for the £8,000, the matter will be ended. If they require £10,000 or £8,000 in addition, it will be necessary for them to lay a statement of these facts before the Local Government Board, and they may proceed for the borrowing of a further sum.

362. But, surely, the plans must have been already laid before the Local Government Board?—They were.

363. Did you purport to do the work in those plans for the £8,000 which you asked leave to borrow?—Yes.

364. Do you mean to tell me the plans which you then submitted as being possible to be carried out for £8,000, your architect now estimates at £13,000?—You forget certain parts of my statement. The plans adopted in September, 1874, were then estimated to cost £8,000, the sum applied for from the Local Government Board. The site was marked. We have to deal with the Treasury through the Board of Works. We had to get the Board of Works' approval of the plans for the courthouse and town hall, before they would give us the site. The architect's plans having been submitted, the Board of Works made certain alterations, and suggested further expenditure which, with the increase of prices, will account for the increase in the proposed estimate as the architect assures us.

KINGSTOWN. April 5, 1877.

Mr. Ennis.

365. Did you not get £8,000 from the Local Government Board last year, and send in certain plans to the Board of Works last year. Were they approved of by your architect?—They were.

366. Who was your architect?—Mr. Robinson of Brunswick-street, Dublin.

367. Did you tell the Local Government Board you were going to execute these works?—When we applied for the £8,000 we did.

368. What did your architect tell you at the time these works might be estimated for? You must have represented to the Local Government Board that everything shown in those plans could be done for a sum not exceeding £8,000. (Reading)—

"Such money shall not be borrowed until an estimate of the amount required has been laid before the Commissioners, &c."

We did so then.

369. Was your estimate for the works shown on the plans laid before the Local Government Board?—I should say that both the plan and estimate for doing the works for the £8,000 were submitted to the Local Government Board.

370. I think you said all the conditions were complied with?—Yes, that is so.

371. Did the plans laid by your architect before the Local Government Board show certain work to be done—so many feet of masonry, &c.?—No, they did not. The detailed estimate was not laid before the Local Government Board: a gross estimate and plan was sent to the Local Government Board.

372. Did your architect, Mr. Robinson, tell you that all the works purporting to be shown in that plan could be done for £8,000?—The original plans were to be done for £8,000.

373. Did your architect, Mr. Robinson, tell you that in his opinion those works could be done for £8,000?—I cannot say that he did. The plans sent in to the Local Government Board were copies of the plans originally adopted in 1874 with the same estimate. Then we came to deal with the Board of Works. They suggested certain amendments to those plans which would require an increased expenditure of money; and we could not go on with the plans without it.

374. On what did you get the order from the Local Government Board to borrow the £8,000?—Not on the new plans of our architect, but on the plans originally adopted in 1874, which were only to cost £8,000.

375. Were the plans altered in 1876?—They were amended, as suggested by the Board of Works, in 1876.

376. Do you mean to say that an amended copy of those plans, with the increased estimate necessitated thereby, was never sent to the Local Government Board?—No, because we are not in a position to send them in. We do not know whether we will be in a position to carry out the works. We will first see, having got a detailed estimate from the architect, if the works can be kept within the limits.

377. If that is so, where is the excuse for taking the £8,000, and leaving the ratepayers under the loss of interest per annum thereon, when you do not know whether the Local Government Board will ever sanction your altered plans or not?—You have bound yourselves for forty years to pay off this money, and to pay interest at four and a half per cent. for forty years; and now you have been obliged to invest it in Government stock, and are only getting £250 a year, while it may happen that you will never be able to carry out these new plans, because if you increase your proposed expenditure on the new plans by £5,000, or more, and apply to the Local Government Board for the necessary power to borrow the additional money, they may not give it to you. Have you the letter of application sent by you to the Local Government Board?—I think the letter about that transaction was sent to them by our solicitor.

378. Is there any resolution of the Town Commissioners at the time this application was being made?

379. Mr. LAWLESS (referring to minute-book).—I find here, from minutes of meeting so far back as 1st October, 1874, that the site on the Royal Marine-road was applied for to the Board of Works, and that on the 12th October plans were directed to be placed on the table, and a resolution passed on September 11th, was confirmed?—We were then proceeding under the Act of 1854.

380. Mr. EXHAM.—Do you put the whole of the salary of £250 for the town surveyor on the road fund?—Certainly.

381. On what principle did you do it or by what authority?—The authority is, that in doing so I acted according to the best of my belief as to what I thought was right. The town surveyor's entire duties are devoted chiefly to the out-works in connexion with the roads of the township.

382. Do you mean to say that it is not part of the surveyor's business to see that the drains and sewers are properly constructed, and according to his plans and specifications, and to look after ruinous dwellings?—No; I think those matters are part of his duties.

Mr. Barret.—His principal duty is on the road.

383. Mr. EXHAM.—I beg your pardon. What is done here is to allocate his entire salary to the road-rate, although if he does his duty he has a great deal to do looking after the new sewerage and sanitary matters. The reason of attending to this is very important, because, putting everything you can on the road-rate in your estimates for this year, you have only estimated a surplus of £36 14*s*. 4*d*. on foot of the improvement rate. The weekly wages for the scavenging, &c., charged to the improvement rate are only £120; while you charge £800 to the road-rate.

Witness.—If what you state were carried out, and if those items were charged to improvement rate, the gross total would amount to the same sum on foot of both rates.

384. Mr. EXHAM.—If you made the proper charges only against each rate you might have a balance coming to you on one rate, and a large deficiency against you on the other; and when you say you will go for increased borrowing powers, the whole way you have been dealing with the two rates and the charges against each comes forward, and it might be shown that your improvement rate was wholly insufficient to pay even the existing charges on it, and thus the way the Commissioners have been dealing with the ratepayers' money, becomes important. There is also a charge for "horses." What are the horses employed in doing?—In scavenging the streets and repairing the roads. The cost is £45 per horse per annum; and there is charged for horses £97 to the improvement rate, and £200 to the road rate.

385. Is not the greater part of the work in which these horses are employed, done in carrying out sanitary matters?—I would not say the greater portion.

386. Why do you charge any "part of the election expenses, £20; revision of Parliamentary Voters' List, £20," to the road rate?—The Commissioners are elected to carry out both the Acts of 1854 and 1861, I have always held, consequently, that the rates levied under both Acts should bear their respective proportions of such costs, and I have to learn yet I am wrong.

387. In other places—Cork and Limerick—the amount produced by, and the payments made out of each rate, are kept under separate heads; and in Limerick an opinion was produced before us from a very eminent counsel in which he advised the Corporation to be cautious as to charging each rate with its proper expenditure or proportion of expenditure, as the case might be. Is it not part of your surveyor's duties to look after the sewerage?—We deal with that work in connexion with the sanitary business almost exclusively by our two sub-sanitary officers.

388. Is there anything charged to the improvement rate for the money you have expended on the sewers?—Not a shilling.

389. Is the loan of £10,000 you have obtained borrowed altogether on the security of the sewer rate?—Decidedly.

390. And does the surveyor do nothing about the sewers?—You are mixing up sanitary business per se with the loan of £10,000 for sewerage purposes. I hold that the sanitary matters you speak of are wholly distinct from the work carried on with the loan of £10,000.

391. Do you mean to say the surveyor does nothing whatever but look after the repair of the roads?—I do not mean to say so.

392. Mr. LAWLESS.—You referred us to him already as the party to give us information about the sewers.

Witness.—I have already explained that branch drains, et cetera, are sanitary matters, and there are medical sanitary officers and others whose duty it is to inspect and report upon this subject, such as where new branch sewers should be made, old ones repaired, &c.

393. Mr. EXHAM.—Will you read us the minute of the Commissioners appointing your town surveyor? (Witness read the minutes of proceedings at the time of the appointment of town surveyor, from which it appeared that the town surveyor was not to carry on any other works without the special permission of the board.

394. Was he informed by any person, and if so whom, as to the duties he should perform?—Yes.

"Town surveyor's duties, as fixed May 26th, 1863, and January 21st, 1868.

"He shall make himself by personal inspection acquainted with the state and condition of the road, footpaths, flagging, &c., personally inspect the repairs of same, and direct the men employed by the board in the work to be performed by them, and shall see and be responsible for the proper performance of such work. He shall see to the weight, quantity, measurement, and quality of road shingle, flagging, and stone supplied to the town by contract, so as to protect the interests of the township against fraud, and shall also from time to time report thereon to the board. He shall, by personal examination and inspection from time to time, inform himself of the quantity of materials of all sorts that may be necessary to be procured for the proper maintenance and repair of the roads, flagging, footpaths, and crossings, and the probable cost of same, so as to enable the board to contract for or procure a sufficient supply, and also to form correct estimates of the moneys to be raised by rates under the Town Commissioners Clauses Act, 1847, and he shall yearly, at the time directed by the board, prepare a list or schedule of all work necessary to be done during the year, stating the measurement and details of all such works, and affixing to each item the probable cost and expense of same, and whether in his opinion it would be advisable to do same, or any, and what portion of said works by their own workmen, or by contract. He shall have control over the working staff in their employment, subject to the following conditions:—Previous to the employment of additional men, or to the dismissal, as the case may be, he shall be guided by the opinion of the board with respect thereto. In case, however, it may be proper either to employ or dismiss men without delay, the surveyor shall be at liberty to exercise his own discretion, and his acts shall be allowed, until approved of, or set aside by the board at its next meeting. With respect to contracts, it will be his duty to advise the board about them, but the making of them will be the business of the board, or the board committee for the time being. As regards drainage and sewerage, he shall, as soon as possible, turn his attention to the carrying out of all the provisions of the Act, especially sections 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, and 18, and the provisions respecting public sewers as contained in the Towns Improvement Clauses Act, 1847. He shall, as soon as possible, prepare on a scale reduced from the Commissioners' map to a more convenient size, a skeleton plan of the district, and mark thereon the elevations required by said Act and the portions of the existing sewers, as well as the position wherein, in his opinion, sewers and drains should be made, and the lines at the altitude required in said Act, and shall also, if necessary, prepare a chart with vertical sections of the district, said plans, &c., to be on the scale as in said Act, and such as may be deposited in the office of the Commissioners for the inspection of the public. The surveyor should also, as soon as possible, do all necessary acts and things to enable the board of Commissioners to divide the Township into drainage districts, as required by the 23rd and 24th sections of the Town Improvement Clauses Act, 1847. He shall also in all other respects prepare and fulfil the duties of local surveyor of paving, drainage, and other works, as contemplated by the Act of Parliament."

395. Will you show me the report made by him on or before the 1st of April this year, on the works necessary to be done in the township?—(Referring to report.) He says he will require 310 lamps for the lighting of the township; men for the repair of the roads of the township in Monkstown, Glasthule, and other places; and he requires a certain amount of limestone. He does not give a detailed account.

396. Do you consider that complies with the provisions of the Act, and the duties as pointed out to him by the chairman when he was appointed?—When road committees or works committees sit down to go over estimates for the year, the surveyor will not bring up a very elaborate statement of what he can go into in conference.

397. Mr. LAWLESS.—Is this the only estimate of works he has given, and the only report he has made?—Yes.

398. How has the balance of that £3,000 been disposed of?—Under the Extension Act we got very general powers of allocating that money. We allocated it for Mr. Sharkey's costs.

399. What costs were these?—The Commissioners, in 1873, opposed a Gas Bill promoted by the Dublin Corporation in connexion with the Alliance Gas Company; and there was also a "Citizens'" opposition committee. Mr. Sharkey got judgment, and demanded payment of his costs, amounting in round numbers to £1,287. Both parties appeared by counsel in Court, and the case was argued on behalf of the two parties. First there was a case argued before the Court, and the result was a judgment in favour of Mr. Sharkey. This bill of costs came to about £1,400; you have then £200 you already came across under the Extension Act. Then you have a balance for general outlay.

400. Is that the way the £1,700 is accounted for?—Yes.

401. Mr. EXHAM (Reads from the estimate)—

"Repair of carts, £50; brushes, shovels, and repairs of old, £40; standposts to supply Vartry to watering carts, £30; new valves, £40; hose, £15; two new stone carts, £28; lamps to be ordered and put up during the year, £30; general repairs, stables, sheds, &c., £10, &c.; total, £243."

402. Of that why do you put £43 to the improvement rate, and £200 to the road rate?—You cannot in these cases, cut down to a finite point exactly what you will charge to each rate. If I can tolerably approximate the amount to each rate I think it is as much as I am called upon to do.

The Town Clerk handed in the following documents: Agreement with the Alliance Gas Company, the bills of costs of the promoters, and of the opposition in connexion with the Act of 1869; the guarantee bond given by the collector, and that given by himself (the Town Clerk); and the indemnity given by Messrs. Casey and Clay to the Commissioners.

403. Mr. LAWLESS.—I find that the outstanding loans, including £1,700 for the extension of sewers to the extended districts, and giving the Commissioners credit for having paid off £2,400 of the £16,000, is £36,600; and of the moneys that were received with respect to those loans, there was paid for the costs of proceedings before the Houses of Parliament, £7,396; and in the year's account for 1876 there are claims for costs, not included in that sum, amounting to £693

KINGSTOWN. April 6, 1877. Mr. Ennis.

12*s.* 1*d.*, making a total for which the Commissioners claim credit of £8,089 12*s.* 1*d.* Are those figures correct?—They are.

404. Has your guarantee bond for £200, which bears date February, 1872, been renewed since?—No; it does not require to be renewed, but the premium has been paid yearly. The auditor expressed his opinion that this class of security is the best.

405. Does the auditor prefer it?—Yes; and so do the Commissioners; the premium is paid annually; and I have the receipts.

406. Is the collector's security for the year not out yet?—You will see that it is more satisfactory to have that form of guarantee than security by two parties to a bond, one of whom may die at any time.

407. There are conditions in these which would render it very difficult to enforce liability?—I believe those are the usual conditions of a policy.

408. Have you given us all the documents we asked for connected with the bills of costs, except the very material one, the special case stated to the Court of Common Pleas?—Yes.

409. I see that under the head of miscellaneous charges there is credit taken for having paid £250 to Sir John Hawkshaw, C.E., for "report and plan on main drainage?"—Yes.

410. What was that?—A report that he made in the year 1873 on the main drainage. I gave in a copy of that report.

411. Was the report in 1873?—Yes; his fee was £350, and he reduced it to £250.

412. Were that report and plan made use of for the purpose of obtaining the loan of £10,000 afterwards?—No; it had nothing to do with the £8,000 and the £2,000. It was used on the inquiry held by Mr. O'Brien.

Mr. M'Evoy.—It was used by the opposition.

413. Mr. EXHAM.—Is it a fact that instead of adopting Sir John Hawkshaw's plan after getting the provisional order, you threw it over, and went in for a new plan?—Not quite; it would be better to say that Sir John Hawkshaw's scheme has been varied. The result of the inquiry was that the town surveyor's plan was adopted. (Hands in the report of Sir John Hawkshaw.)

Mr. M'Evoy asked for the remonstrance sent in on this subject.

414. Mr. LAWLESS (to town clerk).—When, and from whom, was the £2,000 for asphalting obtained?—On the 14th November, 1876, from the Royal Exchange Insurance Company (England).

415. At what rate?—At four and a half per cent., repayable in forty years by equal annual instalments.

416. What were the particular objects for which that £2,000 was borrowed?—For asphalting the footpaths.

417. Under what Act did the Commissioners borrow it?—Under the 28th section of the Local Government Act of 1871.

418. In what way was it proposed to do the work?—There was no particular way proposed; the Commissioners reserved to themselves the power to do it in any way they chose.

419. Are there companies who do that particular kind of work by contract?—Yes.

420. Did the Commissioners contract with any particular company for doing it?—Not with respect to this £2,000.

421. Was there any of the proposed work done since November, 1876, with this money?—There was.

422. Can the surveyor mention the amount of work done?—I can tell you what was done up to the end of the year; in fact, you will find it in the balance-sheet.

423. I find here that you take credit for having expended on asphalte works:—"Purchasing eight boilers for mixing asphalte, £95; contractor for laying asphalte, £183 1*s.* 5*d.*; Limner asphalte, £118; ground limestone, £180 16*s.* 6*d.*; Uphall Oil Company—shale tar, £38 7*s.* 10*d.*;" and some other small payments, which make up the total expense of this kind of work for the year £624 12*s.* 9*d.*?—Yes.

424. Did the Commissioners proceed themselves to do this work instead of getting it done by contract?—We advertised for tenders in February last.

425. In February, 1876?—Yes.

426. That was before you had got the money?—Yes; the tenders we received were of such a character that the Commissioners could not go on with the work.

427. Have you got those tenders?—Yes. The price sought for in the tenders was so large, that the Commissioners for the sake of economy preferred to go on with the work themselves.

428. Had you any offer from the Val de Travers Asphalte Company?—Yes.

429. Have you got a tender by the Limner Asphalte Company?—Yes. (Tender produced.)

430. This estimate appears to have been given on the 2nd September, 1875?—Yes.

431. Was this estimate rejected or considered by the Commissioners?—It was considered; but they thought the price was very excessive.

432. By whom had you previously got asphalting done?—By the Val de Travers Company.

433. At a lower rate than this?—At 3*s.* per square yard.

434. Instead of 5*s.*?—Yes.

435. When was the consideration of this estimate brought before the Commissioners?—Somewhere about that time.

436. Have you any offer from the Val de Travers Company?—Yes; on the 3rd September, 1875. (Offer produced.)

437. This appears to be signed by Mr. Fottrell individually. Was he chairman or a member of the company?—He was secretary for a long time.

438. Did you consider this to be an offer on the part of the company?—I considered it is such; it is dated from the offices.

439. And the offices are 39, Dame-street?—Yes.

440. Was anything done in consequence of this offer of Mr Fottrell's?—No; nothing was done. I have here the minutes of the meeting of the road committee, on the 8th September, 1875. (Reads.)

"Tenders for asphalte were read from the Limner and Val de Travers Asphalte Companies. The secretary was directed to convey to Mr. Fottrell, that the Commissioners were inclined to accept an offer at 70*s.* per ton."

441. Was there a communication sent to Mr. Fottrell?—I wrote him a letter to that effect.

442. Was his offer to supply the asphalte at £3 10*s.* accepted?—No; that is all that was done.

443. Was any advertisement published for tenders?—Yes; in February, 1876. The advertisement included a person to lay down the asphalte.

444. What was done in consequence of that advertisement?—There was only one tender, and nothing resulted from it.

445. Was there any communication between the Commissioners and Mr. Fottrell, with respect to laying the asphalte?—Very likely there was, but I cannot say. (Reads.)

"October 6th, 1875.

"Tenders for laying asphalte pavement read from Mr. Brady, price to be 1*s.* 3*d.* per square yard, the Commissioners to supply all materials and boilers, except fuel, tools and labour."

446. Was that contract actually acted upon?—Yes; and it has been acted upon since. I have a letter from Mr. William Murphy, dated from the offices of the Val de Travers Company, on the 24th February, 1876, offering to supply a limited quantity at £4 per ton, and Trinidad bitumen at 70*s.* per ton. We then purchased twenty-five tons of asphalte, and twenty-five tons of bitumen from him. Then we had a tender from Mr. Worthington, Limner Asphalte Company, to supply not less than 300 tons delivered ex-ship at Kingstown, at £4 10*s.* per ton, and also stating that he would give us every information as to the mixing of it, and send us competent men to do the work.

447. In accordance with that offer did the Commissioners purchase?—In consequence of that we ordered the same quantity of asphalte that we ordered from the other person (twenty-five tons), and that being ready for use we used it first.

448. Is that the asphalte paid for?—Yes; Mr. Fottrell at the end of 1875 ceased to be connected with the Val de Travers company.

449. Who represented the company then. Did they sell their business, or was it wound up?—Not at that time.

450. Did they not become bankrupt?—They were not able to go on. It was stated that they would be prepared to receive tenders for the plant and material.

451. With whom did the company propose to deal for the sale of the plant and materials? Did any persons offer to purchase?—I am personally aware that an offer was made.

452. By whom?—By the chairman (Mr. Crosthwaite) Mr. Fottrell and myself.

453. Was Mr. Crosthwaite chairman of the Town Commissioners at the time?—He was.

454. When was that offer made?—In January, 1876.

455. Mr. EXHAM.—Was the interest in the concern put up for sale?—We were in one day asking about the offer of 1875, and one of the directors (Mr. Murphy) told us that the directors would be anxious to receive proposals for the purchase of the material and plant, and afterwards, in January, we heard from Mr. Fottrell that the place was still undisposed of. I then went in to see if it would be a good investment, and I found it would be so. On being asked by the other two gentlemen to join them I agreed to do so.

456. Was anyone joined with you?—Yes; Mr. Crosthwaite and Mr. Fottrell. Of course you are aware that this transaction has nothing to do with the accident of my being the town clerk and Mr. Crosthwaite the chairman of the Commissioners.

457. It has something to do with your going on with the contract?—We did not go on with it; the three persons named signed an authority to a solicitor to make an offer for the material, plant, and premises.

458. Mr. LAWLESS.—What was the date of that?—January, 1876.

459. Was there any contract for asphalte after that?—No; Mr. Fottrell has a patent, and he sold during the year to the Commissioners some of the material that is used in making the asphalte. They bought 180 tons of ground limestone from him to mix with the asphalte. He alone supplied that ground limestone to the Commissioners, and he alone derived any profit from the sale of it. We had nothing to do with it.

460. You say it was not the property of the asphalte company?—Certainly not. Mr. Fottrell had to go to Liverpool to purchase some of it.

461. Is that the ground limestone for which the Commissioners take credit in this account?—Yes.

462. Mr. EXHAM.—But Mr. Finlay has surcharged that?—Yes; and Dr. Webb gave it as his opinion that Mr. Finlay acted illegally in doing so. I will just read you this minute of the 22nd September, 1876:—

"Report of 19th instant of No. 2 Committee on the terms proposed by Mr. Fottrell with reference to the mixing of ground limestone with Val de Travers asphalte and bitumen read. Mr. John Fottrell attended and handed in the following statement, the surveyor recommending its adoption. 'I propose to sell you 150 tons ground limestone for the purpose of mixing with the twenty-five tons of rock asphalte (Val de Travers) and bitumen at the rate of 24*s.* per ton in Dublin and Kingstown.' It was moved by Mr. O'Rorke, seconded by Mr. Kelly. Resolved—'That the proposition now made in writing by Mr. Fottrell to supply ground limestone 150 tons at 24*s.* per ton to be mixed with the Val de Travers asphalte and bitumen in the possession of the Commissioners be and is hereby acceded to.' Question put; division taken—Ayes, 6; Noes, 4. The resolution was accordingly declared carried."

"Special meeting 12th October, 1867. Letter of 2nd instant read from Messrs. Raynes and Company of Liverpool, and of 4th instant, from Mr. Fottrell, proposing that the former should be paid direct by the Commissioners out of the moneys coming to the latter on foot of the order given to him on the 22nd ult. for 150 tons of ground limestone. Moved by Mr. Reilly, seconded by Mr. O'Brien. Resolved—'That the finance committee be authorized to facilitate the procuring of limestone (ground) from Liverpool by paying the vendor for the material when delivered in Kingstown, and certified for out of moneys then payable to Mr. John Fottrell, first getting the latter's receipt for the amount to be so paid, in consequence of the saving of about £37 10*s.*, which will be effected thereby to the rates, the material being delivered in Kingstown instead of as at present being drawn from Dublin by the Board's staff.' Question put and carried; Mr. M'Evoy against."

When the material was delivered, and Mr. Fottrell was about to be paid, I brought this resolution before the Finance Committee, and I said that he should give an indorsed receipt and I would pay them. In that way he indorsed a cheque to me, and I drew my cheque against it and sent it to them, and then the balance was paid to Mr. Fottrell.

463. Was that brought before Mr. Finlay?—Most undoubtedly; I stated that before him at the audit.

464. Mr. EXHAM.—If it had been put up to public competition would it not have been got much cheaper?—We purchased that limestone from Mr. Fottrell, allowing him something above the actual value of the limestone for the liberty to use his patent.

465. Mr. LAWLESS.—That does not meet Mr. Finlay's objection at all?—I have Dr. Webb's opinion here saying that Mr. Finlay acted illegally.

466. How much of that £2,000 borrowed for asphalting has been paid?—You will see £206 in the account; that has been paid since on the surveyor's certificate of the delivery of the full amount, and £20 7*s.* 6*d.* to Mr. Worthington—and £280 5*s.* 11*d.* has been paid since the 1st January, for the laying of the asphalte.

467. Are the balances of the £2,000 for asphalte and of the other loans comprised in this balance of £10,629 to your credit in the bank?—Yes; that £10,629 covers the entire of those sums.

468. Do the Commissioners get interest for that £10,629?—They have invested £8,000 in new three per cent. stock.

469. And as to the rest?—It is in course of expenditure.

470. Are you receiving any interest on it?—No.

471. When was the £8,000 invested in the new three per cent. stock?—The order of the finance committee to buy it was made on the 9th February, 1877.

472. I find here that the Commissioners take credit for having paid Mr. Sharkey, for Parliamentary costs £1,237 7*s.* 4*d.*, and then interest on those costs £54 17*s.* 9*d.*?—Yes, interest from the date of the judgment at four per cent. We had not money to pay him till we borrowed the £1,700 from the Royal Exchange Insurance Company.

473. Mr. EXHAM.—Under what Act had the Commissioners power to raise that money to pay costs?—Under the Kingtown Extension Act they have power to borrow £3,000, and the purposes to which it is to be applied are for any purposes the Commissioners may think proper.

474. Do you hold that under the Act of 1874, the Town Commissioners could borrow £1,700 on the rates, for the purpose of paying costs?—Of course my opinion would not be worth much, but I can give you Dr. Webb's opinion on the subject. There is no doubt about the money being applicable for that purpose. We took the opinion of Dr. Webb, and he said it was.

475. The money was borrowed to be applied to the purpose for which it was so borrowed, and yet according to your view, the whole £3,000 could be applied to paying costs. Is that so?—Yes that is our opinion.

476. Mr. LAWLESS.—Was it borrowed for the purpose of paying costs under the opinion of Counsel?—Yes.

KINGSTOWN. April 6, 1877. Mr. Ennis.

477. Was the balance of the £1,700 after paying Mr. Sharkey's costs and interest applied to pay costs?—I said that £200 was applied to pay the costs of the Act.

478. Mr. EXHAM.—Instead of paying it out of the rates it is paid out of capital which is a very different thing?—It is really paid out of the rates.

479. No, it is not?—I may state that I was in London at the time, and this Act is the result of a compromise.

480. The Act of 1874?—Yes; the 22nd section. The clause was put in having it in view, that possibly Mr. Sharkey would obtain costs; the £1,300 was certainly applied for the pipe laying of the transferred area and the extended township has the benefit of that £1,700, because the work necessary to be carried out there will be paid for out of the general rating of the township as extended.

481. I have a strong opinion that not a member of the committee who passed that clause of the Act had the slightest notion of the use that would be afterwards made of it, and certainly it was done most skilfully, if you have the power of spending it as you have done?—The promoters of the bill, who were the ratepayers of the transferred area were represented, and did not object to it.

482. Why is a sum of £117, agents' commission for obtaining £11,700, charged to the ratepayers?—I have no further explanation to give than the face of the accounts show.

483. Is there any resolution of the Commissioners authorizing that payment to be made?—I know it is a very common thing for an ordinary borrower, but it is a very different thing in the case of a public body dealing with the public money. I want to know to whom it was paid?

Mr. Barrett.—I may say that I opposed it. I am one of those who gave a personal undertaking that if it was illegal they would pay it.

Mr. M'Evoy.—I also opposed it.

484. Mr. EXHAM (to Town Clerk).—Did you bring it under the notice of Mr. Finlay?—Yes. He said it was a perfectly legal charge.

485. Then I can only say, and I am certain Mr. Lawless will agree with me, that though we have investigated the circumstances of many large towns, this is the first time we have heard of any commission being paid for loans?—We wrote to the Local Government Board on the subject, and they said (I can produce their letter) that they did not see anything illegal in it.

486. Mr. LAWLESS.—I quite agree with what Mr. Exham has said, and I wish you to find the minute directing you to make this payment.

487. Mr. M'Evoy.—I object to another item which appears amongst the law costs. It is £400 for promoting the provisional order, which has not yet been granted or confirmed. It has not been issued by the Local Government Board, and of course has not been granted by Parliament.

488. Town Clerk.—At the meeting of the board on the 19th May, 1876. (Reads):—

"Read a letter from Mr. Lalor as to loans of £11,700 and £14,000, and copy of letter submitted, which has been forwarded to the Local Government Board, on the legality of paying one per cent. commission to the agents negotiating the loans. Moved and seconded—That should a reply in the affirmative be received from the Local Government Board as to the legality of paying one per cent. commission, Mr. Lalor be, and he is hereby instructed to complete negotiations for obtaining the loans of £11,700 and £14,000 on the terms already agreed upon by the board. Question put and carried."

At the subsequent meeting on May 30th:—

"Letter of 22nd inst. from the Local Government Board as to the legality of the Commissioners paying one per cent. commission on the loans of £11,700 and £14,000."

489. Have you got that letter?—I must have handed it to the solicitor, showing him the legality of the proceeding.

490. To whom were the £96 costs paid?—To Messrs. Richards, solicitors to the Royal Exchange Company, including £10 to the local solicitors, Messrs. Anderson and Lee. We had to deal with an English company. I went to the various insurance companies in Dublin, but no one would lend us the money under five per cent. The chairman brought the matter before the board, and said he was in communication with brokers in Dublin, and would procure the money at four and a half per cent., they charging one per cent. commission; and it was with the view to saving the half per cent. on the money that they paid that comparatively small amount of one per cent.

491. There is one item of expense in connexion with the Provisional Order which I wish explained. It is "Fees of professional witnesses, £60 18*s*." Were these witnesses examined before the Local Government Board Inspector with regard to the Kingstown and Glasthule drainage?—It did not affect either. There are two Provisional Orders. The counsel directed us to have two medical witnesses and two contractors examined before Mr. O'Brien, and those are their fees.

492. Do the Harbour Commissioners of Kingstown exercise any authority in Kingstown or levy any rate?—The Kingstown Harbour Commissioners are the trustees for the harbour, and take the boundary road along the harbour in their charge, but they do not levy any rate in the township; as to the tolls of the harbour I do not know what they are.

493. Do the Town Commissioners receive any of them?—No. The Harbour Commissioners maintain the main road along by the sea. They water and scavenge it occasionally, but do not get any rates: we get rates there.

494. Do you mean the Crofton-road?—Yes, and part of the Sandycove Harbour-road which is in our township.

495. Do they levy a rate of any kind whatever within the municipal limits of the Kingstown township?—No.

496. Do the town Commissioners of Kingstown light that boundary road?—They light it partly: the Harbour Commissioners put up a few lamps there which they thought sufficient for their own purpose, but the rated inhabitants there applied for improved lighting and we gave them some additional lamps.

497. Will you look to your abstract of accounts—the last accounts passed before Mr. Finlay. The total amount of rates as struck were £9,209 7*s*. 4*d*.?—Yes.

498. Then there are arrears of rates from 1875 (including £5 5*s*. written off last year but since recovered), £22 17*s*. 7*d*.?—Yes.

499. Those are the two rates included—the improvement rate and the road rate?—Yes.

500. The amount of rates collected for the year, were £9,010 14*s*. 10*d*.?—Yes.

501. The improvement rate of 1*s*. 5*d*. in the pound included 5*d*. in the pound water rate to the Dublin Corporation, and 5*d*. in the pound sinking fund rate, and interest on balance of the loan of £16,000; the road rate was also 1*s*. 5*d*. in the pound. Do those represent the entire rates levied in the year?—Yes; with the exception of the sewerage rate; you will also find the Kingstown sewerage rate and the Glasthule district sewerage rate were each 1*d*. in the pound.

502. From the rates of that year there are exemptions for non-occupancy £140 9*s*. 4*d*. under the Town Improvement Act. Are those exemptions obtained in the manner mentioned here yesterday?—Yes: by means of declarations of non-occupancy.

503. There is another item of £58 3*s*. 2*d*. for bad debts, and persons rated but not liable?—Yes. It is only persons rated at the time we make the rates that are liable to pay them: it is only a personal liability.

If one person leaves a house and another person comes in we cannot recover from him.

504. Was there a balance in favour of the Commissioners at the beginning of the last financial year?—Yes, of £129 19*s.* 4*d.*

505. How much were the market tolls and rent?—£31 6*s.* 4*d.*; I said yesterday that the market yard was let for £30 a year: we have a clerk there who weighs the hay and straw, and we charge certain tolls: the rent accrues in this way—3*s.* a week for the entrance house; £8 8*s.* a year for the stable, and 26*s.* a year for the month or six weeks that the adjuster occupies the little office.

506. By whom are these received?—I receive the 3*s.* a week and the tolls are received by the clerk on the spot. He keeps a book in which he enters his receipts and I check the blocks. He lodges the money with me, and I lodge it in the bank. The 26*s.* and the £8 8*s.* are paid to me, and I lodge them in the bank.

507. What is that £80 6*s* 3*d.* under the head "receipts for water services"? Having laid the mains through the township we compel the householders to bring it into their houses: we have a schedule of prices for doing it and the amount referred to was made up in this way.

508. What is that item of £1 2*s.* received from Mr. Crosthwaite for asphalte materials?—Some bitumen and limestone that he got from our store here. He said he would pay what was charged for it. That £1 2*s.* was the sum we charged for it, as made out by the town surveyor and storekeeper, and he paid it.

509. Do you mean to say that he purchased these materials from the Commissioners?—Well, it was not quite a purchase; the person who was laying the asphalte at the time brought some of the materials to Mr. Crosthwaite's yard.

510. Did he, while Chairman of the Town Commissioners, direct any persons employed by them to apply any of the materials paid for by the Commissioners to his own private use?—It was reported here that certain asphalte materials were taken from our yard to Mr. Crosthwaite's premises. The matter was brought before the committee and dealt with by them as an irregularity, and a minute was made to the effect that care should be taken that such a thing should not occur again. I was then directed to get a valuation made of the materials, which was done, and the amount was paid by Mr. Crosthwaite.

511. Is that £1 2*s.* the amount?—Yes. Previously Mr. Crosthwaite came to me and to the surveyor and said that he could not get these materials anywhere else, and that he would very much like to get them from us. I said to him "You had better come down to the committee next Wednesday, and you can arrange with them about it;" but when the Commissioners met (six days afterwards), the materials had been taken away and used.

512. Did they get a report from the storekeeper?—Yes.

513. Was it made to the committee before any action had been taken with regard to this matter?—Yes; that set the committee in motion.

514. Mr. EXHAM.—Who directed the storekeeper to give those materials out?—I cannot answer you that as I don't know.

515. Has not the storekeeper orders not to give anything out of the store without a written order from his superior?—He has.

516. Where is the store situated?—We use the yard attached to this building (town hall), as a store, and the market is also used partly as a store.

517. What is the name of the storekeeper?—John Tomlinson.

518. What is he paid?—25*s.* a week.

519. Has he all the property of the Commissioners (as regards stores), under his care?—He has the entire charge of the stock of the Commissioners.

520. Is he bound to keep a proper account of the stock, and also of the consumption?—Yes; of the receipts and disbursements—the stores received and delivered.

521. Delivered out by him?—Yes.

522. Who tests the accuracy of his accounts? Do you?—They used to be submitted to the committee. I have not checked his books for some time.

523. Are they ever laid before any committee now?—Yes; before the road committee. I think I stated already that I check his book of tolls weekly.

524. That is a different thing altogether. I am asking about the materials—the property of the Commissioners.

Mr. M'Evoy.—There used to be a store-book kept.

The Town Clerk.—And there is one kept now.

525. Mr. EXHAM (to the Town Clerk).—Are there any regulations or rules with respect to the conduct of the storekeeper?—No.

526. When was that book last brought before the committee?—In the commencement of the year 1876. The reason there is no great necessity for it is that all these materials that go out to be used for public purposes must be checked by the surveyor who is in weekly communication with the road committee. The surveyor is held responsible for all these goods.

527. Mr. LAWLESS.—Will you look to the credit side of the Commissioners' cash account. I presume you are acquainted with the particulars of all these accounts?—Yes.

528. Were those items of expenditure actually made in the course of the year?—Yes.

529. And do those items in the expenditure side of the account represent the entire expenditure of the Commissioners as such during that year?—Yes.

530. Mr. EXHAM.—You say that some of that £16,000 was taken to pay costs?—Yes.

531. Do you strike a separate rate here for the payment of costs?—Yes.

532. By what authority did you take any of that £16,000 to pay costs?—By the costs clause of the Act of 1869.

533. Did you strike a rate here—a regular rate—for a number of years for the purpose of paying these costs?—Yes. The cost of the Act of 1869 is laid at 2*d.* in the pound, I believe.

534. And have not to be paid out of the £16,000?—No. We pay that by annual instalments which require that rate.

535. Where is that rate in the balance-sheet?—The improvement rate is divided, and it is part of the improvement rate. Of that 5*d.* in the pound sinking fund rate, which you will see in the account, 3*d.* is for the water rate, and the remaining 2*d.* is for the costs.

536. What does 2*d.* in the pound amount to?—£540; and it is only reducible each year by a few pounds—£7 10*s.* The nearest rate you could make to pay that is 2*d.*?—As soon as it comes nearer 1*d.* than 2*d.* I'll make it 1*d.*

537. How do you get your tailings, and stone and sand for repairing the roads; is it got by contract?—Yes.

538. I see here the following minute. (Reads)—

"The secretary was directed to request Mr. Sexton to tender for 250 tons, and also for 500 tons of each of three kinds of material proposed to be supplied by him, namely, broken stones, sand, and tailings."

He was the only person in this part of the country who could supply us with those articles.

539. Was there any advertisement published inviting tenders?—We have advertised for road material from time to time.

540. Did you on this occasion?—I do not think there was; hearing the minutes read I should say there was not.

541. Do you state that there was no other person willing to tender?—I am aware there was no other person could supply them.

542. Is it a usual thing for the Commissioners to request a man to send in a tender?—In order to know the exact circumstances of such a matter as this, one must have local knowledge, and I know there was no other person ready to supply us. Knowing that he had the materials, and that we could get them from no one else, that resolution, which in fact simply meant for me to get from him the price at which he would supply us, was passed by the Commissioners.

543. Do you know did he send in a tender?—I believe he did. It is now some two or three years ago.

Mr. M'Evoy.—Patrick Byrne and another person applied for liberty to deliver a quantity of broken stone, but in consequence of Mr. Sexton's tender it was not accepted.

544. Town Clerk.—Mr. Sexton's tender was accepted, because it was the lowest. The resolution says for me to ask Mr. Sexton to send in tenders, to be submitted to the next monthly meeting.

545. Did those other men ask to send in tenders, and were they not allowed to do so because Mr. Sexton's tender was received?—Yes, and dealt with. The resolution directing me to ask him to tender was passed on the 8th April, 1874. Here is another resolution passed at the meeting on the 10th April, at which the monthly report of that committee was read—

"Moved and seconded that Mr. Sexton's tender, now read, to supply broken stone at 3*s.* 10*d.*, and tailings and sand at 2*s.* 10*d.* per ton, be accepted, and that 500 tons of broken stone and 250 tons of tailings, and 250 tons of sand, be ordered. Put and carried."

And the tenders of the other persons came in at a subsequent date.

546. Are the materials supplied ever since on that tender?—Mr. Sexton stated at the beginning of this year that he could not supply them any longer. I therefore advertised a few weeks ago asking contractors to send in tenders.

547. Mr. LAWLESS.—Does it not appear from what you now say that Mr. Sexton's contract was not accepted, because it was the lowest. I thought you said it was accepted for that reason?—No; I said it was the lowest that had come before the Commissioners.

548. Surely there was no competition at all: were there any tenders in previous to the 8th?—No, there were not.

549. And on the 10th Mr. Sexton's tender was adopted by the Board?—Yes.

550. I thought you said it was accepted because it was the lowest?—No; there were no other tenders before the Board. It was on April 22nd that the other persons appeared. They were persons having a very small stock of materials to dispose of; for instance, P. Byrne applied to deliver forty tons of stone at 4*s.* per ton.

551. Mr. EXHAM.—Are there not plenty of people in the country having stone to dispose of?—No; there is none to be got from anyone else except a few odd tons here and there.

552. Was there a contract for Bray Head stone? What was that contract?—It was a contract with Mr. Worthington. The limestone, sand and tailings that we got from Mr. Sexton is suitable for roads on which there is not much traffic, but for several of the main streets on which there is a great deal, we have to procure hard stone—Shankill or Bray Head stone, and we found it was much cheaper to get Bray Head stone.

553. Were tenders invited for supplying that stone?—There are only two kinds of hard stone we could get. I am not sure whether tenders were invited at that time or not—my recollection of the matter is that I wrote to the parties who could supply us with hard stone—the Bray Head tender was the lowest, and we accepted it.

554. Who was the owner of the Shankill quarry?—Mr. Seawright.

555. How much was the Bray Head stone per ton?—4*s.* per ton.

556. Is there any resolution on the books that the secretary is to write to these parties to see at what price they will supply the stone, and is there a resolution that it is to be put up to tender?—The railway company were supplying the stone, but they disposed of their interest to Mr. Worthington, and then he supplied them.

557. Is there but one quarry at Bray Head?—That is all—only one.

558. In fact we are to take it, these contracts were entered into with Mr. Sexton and Mr. Worthington without having been advertised at all?—I do not believe they were advertised. I know we did publish advertisements from time to time, but I cannot say in these particular instances.

559. Mr. LAWLESS.—I see you have a market, and it appears to be a losing concern?—No; the market clerk you will see is also our storekeeper, and has charge of the materials used by the Commissioners, and a very great quantity comes from the scales in the market every year. What you have there in the account would be for tolls or rent, or something extra.

560. I see that the entire expenditure on the market for the year is £104 5*s.* 3*d.*, including the £65 salary to the market clerk, who is also storekeeper. Deducting that £65 altogether would leave the expenditure on the market £40, and against that you only received £31 6*s.* 4*d.*?—You may add £8 8*s.* to that for the stable which is a part of the market.

561. What is your sanitary staff in the township, independent of the sub-sanitary officer, the sanitary officer, and so on? How is the scavenging of the township performed?—It is done by a staff of workmen.

562. What does that staff consist of?—We have now six horses; we bought two additional during the year. We found that owing to the extension of the township we required more horses.

563. What is the number of your sanitary staff?—We have fifteen men, who are employed at scavenging, road-making, and so on; and we have six carters, so that we have a staff of twenty-one altogether.

564. And their duty is to look after the scavenging of the town in addition to the road-making?—They do everything with respect to the maintenance of the roads in the township.

565. What is done with the manure?—We have no manure except what is made in the stables. We were very glad to get leave from the Board of Works to use it for filling up purposes. It is not fit for anything else.

566. Is there any collection of manure in the town?—No; we do not collect the manure; we collect the street sweepings. If we got a depot and filled it up it would be a nuisance.

567. Is it not a nuisance when pitched into a hole, the way you say you are allowed to do?—There has been no complaint of any nuisance arising from it.

568. Do you say that this stuff is not any value?—There might be some of it worth selling. I believe that in parts of the township, at a considerable distance from the quarry I referred to, some parties gave the carters who collect the sweepings leave, and they carted it into the fields of those parties, in the neighbourhood of the township.

569. Did the carters get paid for doing that?—No; there is no payment given to them.

570. Have there ever been complaints made of your officers selling the manure?—On one or two occasions we heard of its being purchased at 1*d.* or 2*d.* a load, but we could never trace it. I asked one or two gentlemen myself with whom I was acquainted, who had got some of this stuff thrown into their grounds, did they ever pay the men anything, and they said they never did. I have no doubt that if the men got 2*d.* a load for bringing it to any particular person they would do so.

571. Who is the person in charge of the scavenging staff?—The foreman, who is paid 30*s.* a week is immediately over them, and he is directly under the control of the town surveyor.

572. Who gives directions as to where the men are to deposit this stuff?—The town surveyor.

573. Is it the foreman or the town surveyor does it?

—The town surveyor will be best able to tell you that himself.

574. Mr. EXHAM.—Could you not sell it as they do in other places, and make money of it?—In one way it might turn out a loss; under the present arrangement it requires fewer men and horses. If we had to cart away the manure I believe it would certainly show a decided loss.

575. Are there any people living close to the hole into which you throw the sweepings?—It is a very wide place, and the part where we empty it is very near the sea, so that no nuisance can arise from it.

576. Where is it situated?—It is close to the baths; the railway runs near it. I do not think the farmers would take the manure from you unless you paid them for doing it.

577. Is the scavenging of the township satisfactorily done in your opinion?—Well, really I think we have one of the cleanest towns that I know of.

578. Does the sanitary officer make weekly reports to you with regard to the sanitary condition of the town?—He does to the Commissioners, sitting as the urban sanitary authority.

579. Is there a sanitary committee?—The full Board is the sanitary committee.

580. Do they meet only once a month?—The full Board meets on an average, three times in a month. The present working of the Sanitary Acts is most defective, owing to the roundabout system. First of all the inspectors make daily inspections; they find out where nuisances exist, and in some cases when they tell the person to have it abated it is done at once. In other cases when it is not done, they must fill up notices and serve them on the medical sanitary officers, who on receipt thereof fill up their reports, and make recommendations to the Commissioners. The Commissioners take action on the doctor's report; and then the matter goes back to the sub-sanitary officer again, and he serves another notice on the person to abate the nuisance. If he still refuses or neglects to comply with the terms of the notice a summons is taken out and served upon him; he then is brought into Court and a magistrate's order is obtained, and then of course after that there must be a warrant. It is a very roundabout way. If the matter came before us at once we could get it set right sooner.

581. Have you got one of the forms recommended by the Local Government Board?—I have.

582. Have you any book in which the sanitary officer's report is entered with the order made by the Board thereon; and a column showing if the notice has been served, and if so, whether it has been complied with or not?—We never got such a book since the adoption of the Public Health Act. We had something of the sort before then. Mr. Robinson appeared to be satisfied with the way in which we were getting on.

583. The Report goes in this form—"As sub-sanitary officer I hereby report that I have inspected a certain privy, and find it to be in a filthy state, and I recommend same to be cleansed." In other places we found that a copy of that was entered in the book. Is that done here? I do not find in your book any record to show that any cause of complaint was dealt with in any particular way. You, I believe, are the executive sanitary officer?—Yes; I receive all those reports, and submit them to the meeting of the committee, and send copies of them to the Local Government Board.

584. If the sub-sanitary officers see the work carried out effectually, have you as executive sanitary officer anything to do?—Yes; I have to sign all the recommendations. The sub-sanitary officers do all the outside work. In all cases of important summonses, such for instance, as cases of milk adulteration, I attend at the police court to conduct the case.

585. Is Albert-road a good part of the town? Is it a respectable place?—There are a lot of small lanes about it.

586. What sort of a place is Sandycove-road?—The road itself is a pretty good one, but there are a good many small lanes off it.

587. Has there been a house-to-house inspection here, to see if the houses have privies and ashpits, and branch drains connecting them with the main sewers?—Undoubtedly, that is being done.

588. When was it done?—It is being done now, and it is always being done.

589. Under the Act you are the urban sanitary authority?—Yes; I believe that year after year you will find work done under the Public Health Act, but it is not to be supposed that in two or three years so much work could be done as to render it unnecessary to do any more.

590. There is one gentleman reported on the 10th and 11th of March, as providing no privies for the use of his tenants; and here is a report that Messrs. Philips' premises have no connexion with the main sewer?—A main sewer was lately made there, and when we construct a main sewer we at once serve notices on the persons living there to connect with it.

591. Are you able to say that the 10th section of the Act of 1866 has been carried out here?—I am very well able to state that, because in one case where a main sewer was made we caused all the houses to be connected with it. There were something like seventy-two houses connected.

592. What is to be done about the houses in the rere of Islington, which I see referred to here?—I signed a notice, and it was served on the party; he got fourteen days, and the time is not expired yet. When the time is up if he has not done the work we will take proceedings against him.

Mr. FRANCIS A. DOYLE examined.

593. Mr. LAWLESS.—Are you the town surveyor of this township?—I am.

594. How long have you been town surveyor here?—Since 1st April, 1869.

595. Are you a civil engineer?—I am.

596. What are your duties?—They are those laid down by the Commissioners, which you heard read yesterday. (See question 394.)

597. Is that what you are required by the board to do and not your own idea of your duties?—Yes.

598. Is it not part of your duty from time to time to see that the scavenging of the township is properly done?—Certainly.

599. Mr. EXHAM.—What was your salary when you were first appointed?—£140.

600. And now it is £250?—Yes.

601. When you were appointed, was there any well-defined sewerage plan for the town?—No. They had employed Mr. Palles, and he had prepared plans of the sewerage.

602. Were these plans of Mr. Palles ever carried out?—No.

603. Have you ever made any sewers since you were appointed?—Oh, yes; a large amount of sewerage.

604. Have you made them on plans giving an outlet?—We have several outlets for the sewerage at the present moment.

605. Where is the principal?—The principal outlet is at the West Pier; and then we have another at the East Pier. We have the Glasthule river, and we have several openings in the foreshore towards Sandycove Harbour, eventually ending at Bullock Harbour.

606. Were these made by you?—No; they were not.

607. Were there connecting sewers made by you?—No. We have applied for powers to make intercepting sewers.

608. Did you make any sewer down at Sandycove Harbour?—Yes.

KINGSTOWN. April 6, 1877.

Mr. Francis A Doyle.

609. Was that the drainage of a large district or small?—Very small.

610. Is that sewer in the condition now it was in originally?—It has been broken up very much by the late rains.

611. Was the Glasthule river sewer made by you?—Yes. It is in the same condition; portion has been very much damaged by the late gales.

612. Do you examine the storekeeper's books or stores?—The storekeeper's books come before me when we are taking stock, and as a general rule, they are submitted to me; but I do not take on myself to be storekeeper.

613. Who gives orders to the storekeeper for materials?—The orders are generally lodged in this or the other yard. I have never given orders for anything to go out except the asphalte. Our town clerk issues orders for other matters.

614. If any one of the men come in with a cart, does he get whatever he asks for without any docket?—Oh, yes, so far as road materials; he just tells the storekeeper.

615. Is his word taken for it?—Yes.

616. Do you mean to say that if any of the carters goes and asks for a load of stuff he will get it without any further trouble?—I do not give any of it out.

617. Suppose a man wants a load of gravel—is gravel kept in store?—We have both sand, gravel, and block stone.

618. Has any carter liberty to fill what he likes into his cart and carry it away?—The carter is responsible to the head ganger, and he is to put it on the road.

619. Mr. LAWLESS.—Does the storekeeper keep an account of the material that goes out from the yard?—He does.

620. Mr. EXHAM.—Have you been consulted about the contracts for the stones, &c.?—Oh, yes.

621. Do you make reports as to the quality of them?—From time to time—at committee meetings.

622. Are they favourable or the reverse?—I make monthly reports showing the quantity of stones given out.

623. If the Commissioners want a quantity of stones, are you consulted by them as to the quality of the stones?—Yes, I am.

624. Are you consulted as to the price?—Well, the prices they generally decide on themselves.

625. You said you had the asphalte under your own charge?—Oh, no; I said I did not give any order for anything to go out but the asphalte.

626. Does the storekeeper who has the asphalte in charge give it out except on your orders?—He does not.

627. Did you give an order for this small quantity for Mr. Crosthwaite?—I did not.

628. Did you get any return of its having been taken?—Yes; from the storekeeper, I think, next day. In fact he was not aware the stuff was going in that direction until the man told him.

629. Who was the man who carried it away?—He was one of our regular staff.

630. Was it taken in one of your own carts?—Yes.

631. How many loads went out?—A few hundredweight.

632. Have you broken up some of that asphalte from time to time?—Occasionally.

633. Has any of that, do you know, been taken by people?—Not that I know of.

634. Is it worth much?—Oh, yes; if it is pure "rock" asphalte you can boil it over again and lay it down.

635. I allude to some of the old asphalte?—Possibly I may have allowed some of that to be taken.

636. Have there been complaints made from time to time before the Commissioners about you?—Oh, frequently.

637. Were those complaints investigated by the committee from time to time?—They were investigated fully.

638. What was done with respect to those complaints?—Really, I do not know—more than that I got an increase of salary.

639. Was there any complaint made against you for certifying for stones being delivered in when in point of fact they were not delivered in?—No.

640. Hydrant stones for instance?—No, I think not.

641. Was there any investigation by the Commissioners in June, 1871, about a thing of this kind?—There may have been about the quality of stones; but nothing that I remember about the stock. There was a difference about the material to be selected for hydrant stones. The material was to be Dalkey granite; some portion of the stones turned out to be not Dalkey granite, and on an investigation the Commissioners got a reduction in the price from the contractor.

642. Did you certify that the stones were Dalkey granite when they were not?—I did not. My certificate was thrown overboard, and the Commissioners paid the contractors without my certificate. I mean to say I never certified. The contract was paid by the chairman for the time being.

643. Were the stones taken into store?—They were delivered on the ground.

644. Were they used?—Oh, certainly.

645. Were they accepted by you, and used by you as being those contracted for?—Certainly, with the understanding that the benefit of the reduction would be given to the Commissioners.

646. What was the contract?—The contract was for hydrant stones of Dalkey granite, three feet square; and, in place of being Dalkey granite, some few were the mountain granite—an inferior kind of granite, for which the Commissioners got a reduction of £50.

647. Do you recollect Mr. Robinson's investigation in March, 1874?—Yes.

648. Did you then prepare the plans to be submitted to him for the drainage?—I did.

649. Are they the same plans that were afterwards submitted to Mr. O'Brien?—No; totally different ones.

650. Were the plans submitted by you to Mr. Robinson adopted?—They were. We got the money to carry them out.

651. Have they been carried out in their entirety?—Yes.

652. Were they the plans for which the £8,000 and £2,000 were borrowed?—Yes.

653. With regard to the plans for which the £2,000 was borrowed, will all your plans be executed for the £2,000?—Yes, with the exception of £10.

654. With regard to the Kingstown district, will they be completed for the £8,000 or anything like it?—We have not got tenders, but so far as we have gone I think the works are within my estimate.

655. Are not the tenders which were not accepted, nearly double your estimate?—Yes.

656. Can they be done, do you think?—Yes, I think I will be able to modify the plans.

657. But is it your opinion that the plans prepared by you and passed by Mr. Robinson can be done at your estimate?—Well, it is my opinion they can. Some portions of it may be more; but others will come in less, I think.

658. We understood from Mr. Ennis, yesterday, you could not carry out the plans in their entirety?—What he meant was that we would have to go to the Local Government Board to borrow more money for the internal drainage.

659. I understood the reason you were not going to carry out what was to be done for the £8,000 was because you had not got tenders for that?—No; the reason we stopped was because the tenders were altogether larger than my estimate.

660. I see by the last report that contracts had been accepted for Mulgrave and Royal terraces, Crosthwaite-park, and Tivoli-road, but not then started. Have those contracts been started?—In Mulgrave-terrace we have started; Crosthwaite-park is not started, Royal-terrace is commenced, and we are just at Tivoli-terrace. The weather was against us.

661. Have the contracts for those places been more than your estimate?—Yes.

662. How much of the £8,000 do they exhaust?—About £3,500.

663. Then you will have £4,500 more?—Yes, for Kingstown.

664. Do you think the £4,500 more will do the work for Kingstown?—I think I will be able to do it.

665. Is it correct to say that for Lower George's-street the lowest tender was £1,400, and your estimate was £764?—Yes.

666. Do you think you can get it done for £764?—I think we can get it done for sixty-five per cent. over it.

667. When was that tender sent in for the £1,400?—Late last year I think—September or October.

668. Is it your experience that the prices are getting low, so as to enable the men to come down with their tenders, or are they getting higher?—The prices of some materials are lower; the price of bricks is higher. But men's wages are higher, and they do less work.

669. Do you still think you can do the sewerage for the estimate?—Yes; I think I will be able to make a sewer for it.

670. A sewer; but will it be the sewer provided for in your specification?—Very nearly.

671. I ask you, can you get the work in your estimate done for £764?—Not without modifications.

672. I want to know, Mr. Doyle, do you propose to go to the Local Government Board to get their sanction for a "modification?"—I do not think it is necessary.

673. Have the Commissioners authorized you to modify the plans sent in to the Local Government Board Inspector, on the strength of which you got the money?—No; I intend to take upon myself the responsibility. You do not take the view I do of it perhaps. In designing these works here, for instance, out in the main street, we have got pits sunk in the street to see what is the class of material we will find. We find there is a quantity of rock, and that on examination, we need not have the sewer so deep as we originally intended, if I can modify the works. Again, down in Lower George's-street it was assumed by the contractor it was all rock, whereas it turned out to be a clayey soil. We have had test pits sunk all through, however, and we find the great majority of the soil is clay. I find I can lighten the work, and not have so much excavation. I believe those are modifications I can adopt.

674. The next contract, I find, is Mellifont-avenue and Lower George's-street. The tenders are £1,380, £1,480, and £1,490; and your estimate is £927. For Northumberland-avenue the tenders were £600 and £590. Is that so?—Yes; in those cases I believe the tenders are excessive.

675. What is your estimate for "No. 3" sewer?—My estimate is £5,900 odd. We have no power to make that yet.

676. At the time you went before the Local Government Board, or their inspector, had you satisfied yourself as to the propriety of the works that you recommended to be done by actual tests?—Of course, from my local knowledge; and without going into these test-pits, I arranged the plans as I thought best.

677. Did you consider the works you proposed to do would have been sufficient for the purpose that they were intended for—that is, for completely draining those ten districts?—Well, yes, at the time. It was decided not to go further than £10,000. In 1868 I made plans for internal sewerage, which would cost £10,000. These went to the Local Government Board, and were approved of; and we would have got more, but afterwards we thought the £10,000 would be sufficient.

678. Will you be able to give us your plans as laid before Mr. Robinson and Mr. O'Brien. Of course you ascertained yourself that the levels were all correct, and that the same was the case with regard to Mr. O'Brien's plans?—Yes, I did, very carefully.

679. Have you put ventilators in the sewers that are constructed?—Yes.

680. Of what description?—There are several kinds.

681. How many are there laid on the Glenageary-road?—Three.

682. Is that quite sufficient?—Quite enough.

683. What is the length of the Glenageary-road?—From beginning to end about 3,000 and odd feet.

684. Well, that is a good long distance—over half a mile. Have you only three ventilators in that?—There will be, when it is completed, three good ventilators. It is going up a hill very fast, and even one good one at the top would be sufficient.

685. I suppose in the works you have contracted for that you have a quantity of pipe sewerage?—A great deal.

686. In your specifications did you take care to provide that those sewer-pipes were to be properly jointed with cement?—No, I do not; I do not believe in it.

687. How are they fastened together?—By staunching clay. I am borne out in my opinion by Mr. Rawlinson, engineer to the Local Government Board in England.

688. What have you used in the construction of those sewers?—In the brick sewers the very best description of best county of Dublin grey stock bricks. We have been using in some parts of what we call cellars and man-holes some of the very best selected M'Cormack's bricks, which the builders here approve of, and which are equal to the best county Dublin bricks.

689. Did you inspect these bricks from day to day yourself?—Constantly.

690. Did you see there any bricks not properly burned, and broken ones?—Anything I do not approve of I order at once off the ground.

691. Did you see any bricks with the lime showing out through them?—I did not.

692. Mr. LAWLESS.—Did you ever reject any?—I did.

693. Mr. EXHAM.—Do you undertake to say now there are no bricks in the new sewers that are not half burned?—I do.

694. Were there any broken bricks used?—Some were used—may have been used.

695. Do you consider a brick to be a good brick that has a quantity of lime that you can scrape with your finger?—No; in the grey stock bricks, however, you find cores of lime in the middle of them.

696. Do you call those good bricks?—No.

697. Did you see any you could scrape the limestone out of with your nail?—I did not.

698. Do you say none were used?—I do.

699. Did you see any small bricks used?—Some.

700. Did you see any broken bricks used among the smaller ones?—No.

701. Did you not tell me just now that broken bits of brick may have been used, and were used?—There may have been some, to block a joint.

702. Did you see heaps of these kind of bricks deposited?—Yes.

703. Did you see heaps of broken bits of brick among them?—Yes, they were taken away.

704. Did you see them used in the building of the arch?—No; they were not even allowed to remain on the ground.

705. Had you a clerk of works there to see they were not left on the ground?—Yes, an efficient and competent man.

706. You say there were bricks used which were not county Dublin bricks?—They are county Dublin bricks.

707. Are they what are known in the trade as the "best county Dublin grey stock bricks"?—No, they were not.

708. Do you recollect this in your own specification—(reading):—

"All the bricks used must be the best county Dublin grey stock brick."

Were any used which were not of that quality?—There were.

709. Do you mean to say you reported to the Commissioners that they were not according to your specification, and that they authorized you to accept them?—There were bricks used in what we call the cellars and man-holes of the pipe sewers in which a few M'Cormack's bricks were used, but not the specified brick. That was brought before the Commissioners, and I said they were as good as the specified bricks, and they were used.

KINGSTOWN. April 6, 1877.

Mr. Francis A. Doyle.

710. Did you order the clerk of works to have the bricks removed?—No; I told him if the Commissioners rejected them to have them taken away.

711. Why were they not removed at once?—Oh, there is a latitude given to every man.

712. Mr. EXHAM reads:—

"No broken bricks or bits to be brought on the ground, and all inferior or rejected bricks must be instantly carted away."

Did you allow any to be used contrary to that?—Some were.

713. Mr. LAWLESS.—Did the Commissioners give you any directions in the matter?—The Commissioners knew a good brick as well as anyone, and they were perfectly satisfied.

714. Did you apprize them in your written report that bricks not according to the specification were used?—No, because I was here to make a verbal statement; and they submitted to these bricks being used. The inspector reported to the Commissioners that those bricks were inferior.

Witness (at the request of Mr. M'Evoy) then read his report of October, 1876, in which he stated that some of the bricks supplied were Athy stock bricks which were in witness's opinion as good as any county Dublin bricks.

715. Is it a fact that Athy bricks and Bog-hall bricks are not as good as the best county Dublin grey stock bricks?—Oh, you are perfectly mistaken.

716. Is there any difference in the price?—Well, in Kingstown I do not think there is; and if there is, the Athy being smaller it acts against the contractor.

717. Mr. EXHAM.—Who was the contractor in relation to whom the report of the clerk of works of July 7th, was made?—I think that was in Tivoli-terrace. That was the building a man-hole. The contractor was Mr. Pluck.

718. Have you any report made by that man as to the Glenageary-road, about seven weeks ago?—The best description of brick was brought there. An odd one may have escaped the best man in the world; but they were the best county Dublin grey stock brick.

719. Are not the Bog-hall bricks always considered inferior?—You can select some remarkably good bricks amongst them. Some, if properly burned, turn out as good bricks as any in the world.

720. If you see in a brick a great quantity of white specks like lime, is not that a sign of a brick being bad?—Well, it shows there is some limestone in it.

721. Is not such a description of brick particularly bad for sewers; because I always understood the moment the water comes in the material begins to waste away?—Yes.

722. Did you ever see a quantity of these bricks yourself up there?—I did not.

723. Was there to be a vacant space behind the arches to be filled up?—No.

724. Because by the specification is it not provided that portion should be wedged with granite?—When there is defective ground or anything of that kind, we back it with rubble concrete, or any hard stuff to prevent it from spreading.

725. What I want to know is this:—Do you think it was a proper thing to put heavy moist earth in the vacant space behind parts of the sides of the arches? I find you provide—(reading from specification)—

"Any vacant space between to be filled up with concrete, &c., previous to the bricks being put in."

Witness.—I saw that, and we changed it. I have had a great deal of experience in this class of work, and this work you allude to is carried out remarkably well.

726. Well, I supposed you satisfied yourself with regard to the lime and mortar?—Yes.

727. Was it prepared just as you stipulated, and in the quantities?—I venture to say, there is as good material in those works as there is in Ireland.

728. Why was this struck out of the specification in the conditions of the contract:—

"The contractor to make provision for a clerk of works to be appointed by the town surveyor at a salary not exceeding 5*s.* a day, to be paid in such manner as the town surveyor may direct"?

When I came to this town first that was the specification. I proposed about the necessity of the Commissioners appointing a clerk of works. I put it in the specification that the Commissioners appoint a clerk of works, and that was done. There was objection made, and in consequence of that this clause has been struck out of every specification. I got this form printed originally.

729. Mr. LAWLESS.—Do the Commissioners now pay the clerk of works?—They do. They pay him two guineas a week.

730. Mr. EXHAM.—You know a place called Breffni-terrace. Are you certain the pipes are connected with the main sewer there from the houses?—There is what we call a "saddle" left opposite each house, and all you have to do is to raise that saddle off when you want to lay a pipe. It amounts to the very same thing.

731. Do you mean to say that opposite Breffni-terrace there is some nine-inch pipe built with Roman cement into the side wall of the sewer opposite the houses?—No; but there is an aperture left in the sewer pipe to have the house pipe connected to it.

732. Do you leave an off-set from the sewer?—No, we leave what we call a "cover" opposite it.

733. Do you break a hole in it?—No, the cover is taken off. It is a patent. You lift the cover off, and then in the cover you make the aperture.

734. Mr. LAWLESS.—Is the working equally effectual?—Just the same.

735. Mr. EXHAM.—You stated that £390 was the amount for the drainage of Crosthwaite-park. Is it the case that in the works originally passed the drainage there was not contemplated or intended?—We did not then provide for the drainage of Crosthwaite-park. I did not consider it requisite.

736. Was it deliberately omitted by you at first?—Yes. After doing Tivoli-terrace we had £210 to spare. The sewers in Crosthwaite-park are running through private grounds. The owners objected to the making of sewers, because building was going on. Then the Commissioners thought the £210 we had from Tivoli-terrace might be devoted to the construction of the drains in Crosthwaite-park.

737. Did you not think the £210 might be applied to make the other sewers in the town which you considered to be so necessary?—There were no places to make sewers in with that money.

738. Who suggested the change?—With my own ideas about it, and the money we had saved, I thought we might make the change.

739. Were there any complaints of the works originally planned not being made?—There were.

740. At what time were these plans made?—In 1873.

741. When did you change your mind?—Last year, when we found we had £210 to save.

742. Were you ordered by any resolution of the Commissioners to alter the plans?—I was not.

743. Mr. LAWLESS.—Did you suggest yourself to the Commissioners to change them?—I did; and I think it was perfectly right to do so.

744. Mr. EXHAM.—Did you do it in writing?—No, I did it in committee of the house, I think.

745. Mr. Ennis says, and writes actually to the Local Government Board, that you forgot to do the work at the time and asked the Board to be allowed to correct the plans in consequence?—I did not forget it.

746. Well, Mr. Ennis says that he was directed to make the statement?

Mr. Ennis.—I said that "overlook" would have been a better word.

747. Mr. LAWLESS.—You used both words in your letter.

748. Mr. EXHAM.—But now he says he did not overlook it, but that he did it deliberately.

Mr. Ennis.—In the meeting of the sewers and market committee, August 11th, 1876, you have :—

"The town surveyor submitted plans and specifications of sewers for Crosthwaite Park drainage. It was moved by Mr. Edward Roche, seconded by Dr. Roche, and resolved :—'That the contract plans for the drainage of Crosthwaite Park be and they are hereby approved of, and that tenders for the carrying out the works in accordance therewith be advertised for to be submitted to next monthly meeting. Put and carried.'"

749. Who was the chairman?—Mr. Crosthwaite.

750. Who directed the town surveyor to make any plans for Crosthwaite Park?

Mr. Doyle.—I was directed certainly.

751. By whom?—Mr. Doyle.—It will be found on the books. I think if you go back to the sanitary part, Mr. Ennis, you will find there was some direction given in the matter.

752. You mentioned that your salary was at first £140. When was it raised?—It was raised to £200, I think when the waterworks were brought in, in 1870; and the last rise was in July, 1876. It is now £250.

753. Mr. EXHAM (suggested by Mr. M'Evoy).—Had you known Milligan before he was appointed clerk of works?—I often saw him working in the streets, and I knew he was surveyor to the Building Society.

754. Did you know whether he had any experience in laying pipe sewers?—Very few have that; it is only a late introduction into this country. As to laying pipes in the street, I do not suppose he had.

755. Were you consulted as to his fitness?—I do not think I was. He was a local man known to every gentleman here. I think his qualifications were well known to everyone.

[Mr. EXHAM then read Mr. Milligan's application for the appointment, which stated he was a stonemason.]

756. Mr. EXHAM (reading the application of another candidate) :—

"Having seen your advertisement in the Irish Times for a clerk of works, I beg leave to offer myself in the same capacity. I acted so in laying the Vartry mains for Messrs. Edmundson and Co.

"(Signed), WILLIAM ANDREW COOKE."

So that this, at all events, would be a set-off against Mr. Milligan's local knowledge. Here is another :—

"I have been clerk of works for many years in the Royal Engineering Department; and I retired from ill health in 1861, and proceeded to the Artillery department where I acted as assistant under a land surveyor.

"(Signed), JOHN M'MAHON, Clerk of Works,
"Royal Artillery, Engineer's Department."

Was your opinion asked as to the fitness of the candidates?—It was not; but there were some of the applicants that I would object to. There were some of them who would not know one brick from another.

757. Had you anything to say to the preparation of plans for the town hall?—Never.

758. Did you prepare plans different from Sir John Hawkshaw's?—I did, for the intercepting and outfall sewer.

759. Which are to be carried out?—My plans are to be carried out.

760. Were you required to prepare them after Sir John Hawkshaw's had been given in?—No; I reported my plans to Sir John Hawkshaw. In 1870 Mr. M'Evoy employed Mr. Hassard. I and some others made a set of plans, and Sir John examined them. He recommended an independent set of plans of his own, having an intercepting outfall, and that the best plan would be to run the whole of the sewerage to the west pier of Kingstown harbour. We are not allowed to do that by the Board of Works. We put as much to it, however, as we can; we have put all the Kingstown sewerage in that direction, and we propose to turn the Glasthule sewerage in the other direction.

761. Mr. LAWLESS (reading from minutes).—I find that at a meeting of the full board, it was—

"Moved by Mr. Kelly, seconded by Mr. Reilly, and resolved,—That plans and specifications for sewers in Mulgrave-street, Mulgrave-terrace, Royal-terrace, Tivoli-road, and Crosthwaite-park be and are here referred to No. 1 Committee, to be examined, and when approved of, Committee to advertise for tenders for carrying out same. Tenders to be advertised for on next meeting."

That was on the 3rd of July. Is there any trace of the directions by which those plans and specifications were made?

Mr. Ennis.—From the reading of the minute it would appear merely that those plans were laid on the table in furtherance of the resolution.

762. Mr. EXHAM.—You have certainly told us already, Mr. Doyle, that you got directions from the Commissioners to prepare these plans?—I am convinced I did.

763. Were they given in the board-room, or were written directions sent you?—It must have been in the board-room, I think.

764. Where is the order in the book?—(No answer).

Mr. Kelly.—Since the time of the inquiry by Mr. Robinson a large number of houses have been built which require sewerage accommodation.

765. Mr. EXHAM.—At the time your salary was raised was there a stipulation that you were to give your entire time to the Town Commissioners?—Yes.

766. Is there a resolution to that effect on the books?—Yes.

767. Do you consider yourself at liberty to accept a professional engagement out of Kingstown?—No.

768. Have you ever done work for any other town?—Oh, yes, for the Nenagh Board of Guardians I did a considerable amount of work, but I did not do it without getting leave of absence.

Mr. Ennis.—In January, 1868, this resolution was passed in reference to the town surveyor—

"That the surveyor is not to hold any other public employment, or to undertake any contract without the special permission of the Board."

769. Is there any other resolution since that?—Mr. Ennis.—That was the resolution passed at his appointment, but there is another on the 12th June, 1872, as follows. Mr. M'Evoy, chairman—

"On motion of the chairman, seconded by Mr. Sullivan. Resolved—'That, should the surveyor of this township undertake work other than that permitted him by the Act of Parliament without the leave of this Board, it would be the duty of the Board to take the necessary steps for his removal from office.' Passed unanimously."

770. Have you done any work besides the work you did in Nenagh?—Yes, I have done waterworks in Letterkenny.

771. When were the Nenagh works done?—They were finished last December.

772. How long were they going on?—About four months.

773. Did you prepare the plans?—Yes.

774. When were the Letterkenny works executed?—This time two years.

775. How often were you down in Letterkenny?—Only once.

776. Were you engaged in any other works besides the Nenagh and Letterkenny?—Yes; I was employed about the Letterkenny railway.

777. Did you superintend the carrying out of the work?—No; I only prepared the plans and specifications.

778. Mr. LAWLESS (to Mr. Ennis).—Is there any record of Mr. Doyle asking for leave to undertake those works?—No, only for leave of absence simply, without reference to anything.

779. Was it leave of absence to go to attend to other business elsewhere?—So far as application for leave of absence was concerned, it was for ordinary vacation.

780. Mr. EXHAM (to witness).—Did you ever ask the Commissioners' leave to undertake these works?—No;

KINGSTOWN. April 6, 1877.

Mr. Francis A. Doyle.

I did not think it came within their scope. I thought anything not interfering with the legitimate office of the township, I had a right to do.

781. Mr. LAWLESS.—Can you undertake to say that those works in Nenagh and Letterkenny did not interfere with your work in the township?—They did not.

782. Mr. EXHAM.—Have there been many branch sewerage communications made with the houses?—A number.

783. Have they been done by the people themselves?—No, by the contractor.

784. Have you taken any part in it?—No; during the time the contractor has possession of the sewer he does not allow anyone else to connect with it. But he undertakes the work of constructing branch sewers on either side; if they require a connexion he puts it in for them at a fixed schedule of prices.

785. Mr. EXHAM (suggested by Mr. M'Evoy).—Are the householders given notice of this?—They are, in every case. They generally submit all these points to me.

786. Mr. LAWLESS (for Mr. Perrin).—Is that outfall into Bullock harbour within the Kingstown township?—It is inside the Kingstown township.

787. Does it go into the Dalkey township?—It does not; we claim that portion as ours.

788. Was there any dispute about it?—They were beginning to dispute about it, but they thought better of it.

789. Mr. EXHAM.—Can you give me the per-centage of houses within 100 feet of the main sewers which are without connecting drains?—There are not any that I am aware of.

790. Mr. LAWLESS.—Not even some of the poorer houses?—Well, some of the poorer houses have no backs at all.

791. I believe there are some exceedingly poor houses in the centre of Kingstown?—Exceedingly poor.

792. Are these very badly provided with sewerage accommodation?—They are. The whole of those places should be levelled to the ground to make other arrangements.

793. Have you ever found any difficulty with the owners of property in Kingstown in getting works such as drainage done?—We find some difficulty to get in to make works, or to go there to examine.

794. Do the Commissioners generally show an anxiety to have those works proper for the improvement of the town carried out?—Oh, I should say so.

795. Have you anything to do with the carrying out of the sanitary arrangements of the town?—I do not consider I have, beyond telling the scavengers to go into the streets, lanes, and alleys occasionally; but the scavenging is not put under the head of "Sanitary work." You cannot keep the streets in repair without cleaning them. I wish to say there were a great many old sewers, when we commenced, doing duty very well; and since I came here we constructed about six miles of sewerage.

796. How many miles of sewerage do you calculate there are now?—There are eight miles of old sewers, and we have constructed since 1868 upwards of six miles. I calculate we have spent over £7,000 odd in their construction. The mileage of the town would be about twenty-two miles up the main streets.

797. Mr. LAWLESS (for Mr. Kelly).—How long do you consider it will take to work out the plans?—I think in two years we ought to finish all. I mean that in two years we ought to spend all the money on the sewers that the Local Government Board have approved of.

798. Do you think Kingstown will be properly sewered when those are completed?—I do; but the township is increasing.

799. Mr. EXHAM.—In your estimate for the year ending December, 1875, you estimate for 550 tons of Bray Head stone, and you only used 212 tons or not one-half?—I cannot get sufficient number of men to break the Bray Head stone in the quantities I require, and then I have to fall back on the limestone.

800. (Suggested by Mr. Kelly).—Is there any other man could supply you with lime or sandstone within five or six miles of Kingstown except Mr. Sexton?—There is nothing but what are called the Lansdowne quarries and we can only get one or two tons at a time.

Mr. Kelly.—With regard to the stone of Bray Head, it is of such a nature that we do not approve of it latterly; and a committee has been appointed at the present moment to go to Howth and Greystones to look for stone.

Mr. Ennis reads following minute:—

"April 2nd, Resolved—'That No. 2 Committee be authorized to spend £2 in inspecting the quarries in Howth, Greystones, and elsewhere, in order to enable them to report on the best quality of hard stone for metalling the roads.'"

A Mr. John Henry here complained that the sewerage of eight houses in his district were at present in a "frightful" state, owing to there being no proper accommodation or sewerage, that the night soil was thrown on the open street, and was often left for a long time before it was removed by the carters. Also, that he had reported to the sanitary officer at five o'clock yesterday evening that the soil was then lying there.

801. Mr. LAWLESS (to Mr. Henry).—To what sanitary officer?—To Mr. Craig, a very respectable man.

802. Has that occurred to your knowledge more than once?—It has. It lies against the opposite wall until it drains off. These men do not collect the soil.

803. Mr. LAWLESS (to Mr. Ennis).—Has this been made the subject of any complaint?—Of course, it has not come before us as yet.

804. Have these houses been ever made the subject of a report by any sanitary officer?—These houses are the property of two neighbours in dispute. I have got a notice from Mr. Henry to proceed against Mr. Long for nuisance.

The inquiry was then adjourned to the following morning.

April 7, 1877.

APRIL 7, 1877.

Mr. Francis A. Doyle.

Mr. FRANCIS A. DOYLE recalled.

805. Mr. EXHAM.—You mentioned yesterday the difficulty there was in getting hard stone?—I referred to the difficulty in getting limestone. It is not so difficult to get the hard stone. The reason there was not so much used as was in the estimate for that year, was because of the difficulty of getting the stone broken.

806. When did that difficulty occur?—In that year.

807. And not until then?—No.

808. I have now to ask you were there complaints made against you during the years 1871, 1872, 1873, and 1874, for irregularities?—I think there were.

809. What was the nature of the complaints made against you?—If Mr. Ennis will refer to the book he can tell you.

810. Mr. LAWLESS.—Was there ever an application made to remove you from the office of town surveyor?—No; there was one to reduce my salary.

811. When was that?—I think it was in 1872.

Mr. M'Evoy.—It was in November, 1871.

812. Mr. EXHAM (to Witness).—Was that application made to the Lord Lieutenant?—It was.

813. What was the result of it?—It fell through.

814. Mr. LAWLESS.—Was it an application made by the Commissioners as a body?—Yes.

815. Mr. EXHAM.—Was there a resolution of the Commissioners to, that effect carried either unanimously, or by a majority of the Commissioners?—It was carried by a small majority.

816. On what grounds was that resolution passed?—Really, I cannot remember exactly what it was.

817. Town Clerk.—Here is the record with respect to this matter. (Reads from minute book):—

"Report of the committee of inquiry laid before the Commissioners on the 18th August, 1871.

"Members present: John M'Evoy (chairman); Robert Henry Tilly, Robert Herron, Miles Kelly, and John Reilly.

"'To the Town Commissioners.

"'GENTLEMEN,—Your committee having inquired into the matters referred to them, report as follows:—First—That on the 7th October, 1870, the surveyor certified that there was in the depot at Orpen's gate 200 tons stone, for which Mr. Neil received £20 sterling on account. From the evidence submitted to us we are of opinion that a portion only of that quantity of stone was there, and the surveyor trusted Mr. Neil for the delivery of whatever was deficient. Second—That on the 6th January, 1871, the surveyor certified for the delivery to the Commissioners at Moore's quarry of crossing blocks to the value of £6 12*s.* 4*d.*, and on such certificate the account was presented for payment, but was not then paid. It was again presented in February, when the surveyor was present without any information being then given by him that the goods had been removed in the interval. From the evidence submitted to us we are of opinion that the full quantity of crossing blocks so certified for were not then in Moore's quarry when the account for them was submitted for payment the second time in the surveyor's presence. Third—That Messrs. Edmundson contracted to supply hydrant stone of Dalkey granite, three feet six inches by three feet six inches in size, but substituted others in the quantity set forth in the report of the inspectors (one appointed by your committee and the other by the surveyor), which shows a difference in money value of £75 10*s.* 9*d.* on an account of £171 9*s.* 9*d.*"——

818. Were those hydrant stones?—Yes. (Continues reading report)—

"'The township only getting 1,720 superficial feet instead of a total of 2,449. From the evidence submitted to us, we are of opinion that the surveyor did not report the substitution to the Board, or take any steps to protect the interests of the township in the matter until the subject was brought under the consideration of the Board in February. Fourth.—That Messrs. Edmundson did not repair the roads over the trenches in the time or in the manner contracted by them, which contract it was the duty of the surveyor to enforce. From the evidence submitted to us the committee, by a majority, have decided that it is not proved to their satisfaction that the surveyor in this matter altogether neglected his duty. That your committee recommend in conclusion, by a majority, that under the circumstances the surveyor be not called upon to resign, but that he be severely censured and informed that it will be impossible for the Board to continue him in their services should anything of a like character occur again. We think it advisable to have the pipes laid tested by some competent persons.' On the motion of Mr. M'Evoy, seconded by Mr. Reilly, it was resolved that the recommendation in the last paragraph in the report, relative to the measurement &c., of the pipes as laid, be referred to the road and water committee to have it carried out, and report the result to the full Board."

819. In consequence of that report, Mr. Doyle, I must ask you a question. I asked you yesterday was there a charge made against you of certifying these hydrant stones, which were not delivered, and I understood you to say in reply that what was alleged was that the hydrant stones were to be of a particular quality, and that the contractor substituted a different quality, and that the complaint was made against you for allowing that to be done. Why did you not tell us that the complaint was that you certified for stones that were not delivered at all—of any quality?—As a matter of fact, I never certified for them.

820. On this point we must have no mistake?—I objected to that report at the time.

821. The Commissioners had your explanation, but they appointed a committee to consider the matters of complaint. That committee had power to appoint an inspector, and one inspector was appointed by them, and one by you, and they measured and valued the stone, and you gave in a return to the committee, who then reported to the Board. According to the calculation of the inspectors the difference in value between the amount of stone delivered, and the amount that ought to have been delivered, was £75 10*s.* 9*d.*, out of an account of £171 9*s.* 9*d.*

822. Mr. Myles Kelly.—I was one of the committee. The stone should have been three feet six inches square, but it was only three feet by two feet ten inches, and it was not Dalkey granite.

823. Mr. LAWLESS.—Certainly, Mr. Doyle, the impression you left on my mind yesterday was that the difference in the stone was quality, and not quantity.

824. Mr. EXHAM.—The report says that you certified for material not delivered at all. Then the report also says—

"The surveyor certified that there was in the depot at Orpen's gate 200 tons of stone, for which Mr. Neil received £20 on account. From the evidence submitted to us, we are of opinion that a portion only of that quantity of stone was there, and the surveyor trusted Mr. Neil for the delivery of whatever was deficient."

Do you wish now to offer any explanation about that?—I wish to be put on my oath, and I will show that the quantity of stones was there.

825. Mr. LAWLESS.—You were not able to convince the committee that they were there?—That may be, but I will swear that they were there.

826. Mr. EXHAM.—The report goes on—

"On the 6th January, 1871, the surveyor certified for the delivery to the Commissioners at Moore's quarry of crossing blocks to the value of £6 12*s.* 4*d.*, and on such certificate the account was presented for payment, but was not then paid."

It was again presented in February when you were present, and you did not say that the goods had been removed?—The stones were laid in the quarry. I measured them there. In the meantime the men out of the quarry lent a portion of the stone to Mr. Sexton's contractor, it is said; and when we went to see if they were there we found they were not. I did not know that they had been removed.

827. Do you say that your men lent some of the stones to Mr. Sexton?—Yes. They were there when I went first to measure them, but were not there afterwards.

828. Do you mean to say that the removal of the stones took place without your knowledge?—Just so. I explained it at the time, and it would have been only fair for the committee to have taken that explanation down.

829. Mr. Kelly.—I was there and saw the stones measured. The committee did take down all the facts of the matter; what we found fault with was that a Bill was presented to us for stones that were not in the quarry.

Mr. Doyle.—I believe that the man left them there, but he was not paid, and thought he would not be paid, and he gave some of them to Mr. Sexton.

830. Mr. EXHAM.—I have to ask you (in consequence of a suggestion made to me) did you ever give any blocks belonging to the Commissioners to a gentleman named Lynch?—Not to my knowledge.

831. Nor to any other person?—No.

832. And, of course, if you never did you never got any money for them?—No.

833. Did you ever give any stone, or any paving stones to Mr. Tilley, of Glenageary?—No; he offered to buy them.

834. Did you ever give him any of them?—I think there was some given to him.

835. Who gave them; was he a Town Commissioner?—He was; he paid for them. They were paving stones taken off the paving when we were laying down asphalte, and we did not require them.

836. Was the payment for them made to you or to the Commissioners?—It was paid to me by a cheque which I handed to Mr. Ennis.

837. Mr. EXHAM (to the Town Clerk).—Do you remember getting that money from Mr. Doyle?—I do not remember, but I'll see if I can find any trace of it in the books.

838. Mr. LAWLESS (to Witness).—What was your salary at the time the committee made that report?—£200 a year.

839. To the Town Clerk.—Have you got the resolution with reference to the application to the Lord Lieutenant about the surveyor's salary?—Yes. (Reads):—

"At the meeting of the full Board on the 6th November, 1871; on the motion of Mr. Kelly, seconded by Mr. Reilly, it was resolved,—That as the salary of the town surveyor was increased on the 1st April, 1870, from £140 to £200 per annum, on account of the extra labour thrown upon him by the laying down of the water mains, and as the pipes have been laid, and the extra labour is now over it is hereby resolved that his salary be now reduced to the original amount—£140, and that the sanction of His Excellency the Lord Lieutentant be applied for, particularly as the work has not been done to the satisfaction of the Commissioners; resolution put, and division taken; five yes, and three no; resolution was accordingly declared carried."

The application was made to the Lord Lieutenant in consequence of the passing of that resolution, but they wrote back asking for the Commissioners' reasons for making the reduction, and the matter ended there. In the following January the constitution of the Board was changed—the majority became the minority—and they agreed to let bygones be bygones, and did not carry the matter further.

840. Mr. Reilly.—I, as a Commissioner, consider that the Lord Lieutenant should not have the power of veto on the appointment or dismissal of the town surveyor.

841. Mr. Kelly (Town Commissioner).—From my experience of surveyors, I may say that they never consider themselves our officers at all when we cannot dismiss them.

842. Mr. LAWLESS.—We consider that to be a matter outside the scope of our inquiry.

843. Mr. Kelly.—There was an action taken against me by a surveyor for dismissing him.

844. Mr. Barrett.—There was an action taken against me for trying to dismiss him.

845. Mr. M'Evoy.—It was mentioned that the last increase of salary took place in January, 1876. May I ask that the report of the committee to the full Board be read?

846. Town Clerk.—I find that in the years alluded to by Mr. Doyle, there is no record of such a sum being paid—the money from Mr. Tilley.

847. Mr. Doyle.—I paid it at all events.

848. Mr. EXHAM (to Mr. Doyle.)—To whom?—I paid it to Mr. Ennis.

849. Town Clerk.—I do not see any credit for it in the miscellaneous accounts. This is the minute asked for by Mr. M'Evoy. (Reads):

"May 9th, 1876.

"Meeting of the full Board.

"There was a report of the committee of the whole house read recommending the postponement for the present of the consideration of the town surveyor's application for an increase of salary."

850. Mr. M'Evoy.—The increase was given in the month of July. I would also ask to have read the notice of motion given by Mr. Kelly with regard to the increase of salary, some time in March, 1876. Mr. Kelly and Mr. Lagan both handed in notices of motion. They were withdrawn on the 10th March, 1876, so they are not on the minutes, but I suppose they are amongst the notices of motion.

851. Mr. Kelly.—I voted for giving the increase of salary, and my reason was because of the increased duties.

852. Mr. EXHAM (to Mr. Doyle.)—Do you recollect when it was that Mr. Tilley got these stones?—I really do not know, but I am perfectly confident that I got the money, and perfectly confident that I paid it to Mr. Ennis.

853. Did Mr. Tilley apply for the stone?—He did.

854. Mr. Crosthwaite.—I recollect distinctly that there was a great quantity of that description of stone at the time, in consequence of our laying down the asphalte. Most of us thought it would not be for the advantage of the town to break them up for road material, and we sold as much of them as we could. The impression on my mind is that the money was paid by Mr. Doyle.

855. Mr. LAWLESS (to Mr. Crosthwaite).—Do you happen to know as a matter of fact that he paid it?—My recollection of the time is not quite clear, but I am perfectly satisfied that he did pay it.

856. Mr. M'Evoy.—I do not think that Mr. Tilley was a Commissioner in 1870.

857. Town Clerk.—He was a Commissioner in 1871.

858. Mr. EXHAM (to Mr. Doyle).—Did you give a receipt for the money to Mr. Tilley?—No; I do not think I did.

859. Did you get a receipt for it from Mr. Ennis?—No.

860. Town Clerk.—If I had got it I would have given a receipt.

861. Mr. EXHAM (to Mr. Doyle).—You say that no blocks to your knowledge went to Mr. Lynch?—No.

862. During the time the Messrs. Edmundson were the contractors for the waterworks, did you borrow or did they lend you any money?—Mr. Wigham accommodated me at the time, and I paid him afterwards.

863. May I ask you how much he gave you?—I think it was £30 for a few months.

864. Was it a bill?—Yes.

865. Did he accept a bill to your draft?—Yes.

866. Was that during the time his firm were the contractors for carrying out the works for which you were to certify?—I am not sure whether it was during that time or not.

867. Mr. LAWLESS.—Was that the only transaction of the kind you ever had with him?—That was all.

868. Mr. EXHAM.—Do you mean to say, you cannot remember in what year that took place—whether it was during the year you had to certify for the work?—I cannot say.

869. Were Messrs. Edmundson the persons who supplied the stones for those hydrants?—Yes; they had a contract for it.

870. Were they the only contractors you ever got money from?—He was the only one.

871. Do you remember Mr. Holden?—I do.

872. Did you ever get any money from him?—He has drawn on me several times.

873. For what?—He is a friend of mine; he is not a contractor.

874. Was it for his own accommodation?—Yes.

875. Was he ever a contractor?—Yes, in 1871.

876. Was it at that time he drew on you?—No.

877. Was it before or after he was a contractor?—It was after.

878. While Mr. Sexton was a contractor, had you ever any money transactions with him?—Never.

879. Neither you with him, nor he with you?—No.

880. Or with the other Mr. Sexton?—There is only one Mr. Sexton.

881. Mr. Sexton.—I have a brother, but I am willing to make an affidavit that he has nothing to do with my contracts.

882. Town Clerk.—Mr. Sexton the Commissioner generally leaves the room when any question about a contract in which his brother is concerned is being discussed.

883. Mr. EXHAM (to Mr. Doyle).—I am further requested to ask you, whether you have had any money transactions with Mr. Sexton the Commissioner?—No; never.

884. Had you any with Mr. Sullivan?—I unfortunately did go security with him for some persons—contractors.

885. Do you mean contractors for the Town Commissioners?—Yes; some poor contractors.

886. Mr. LAWLESS.—Who is Mr. Sullivan?—He is one of the Commissioners.

887. Mr. EXHAM.—Did you go security with Mr. Sullivan for Mr. John Brady?—Yes.

888. Was he at the time in your employment—in the employment of the Town Commissioners?—He was laying the asphalte for the Town Commissioners.

889. Had you the supervision of that work?—Yes.

890. Was he doing the work under your supervision?—Yes.

891. Was it to enable him to get material to carry out his contract that you went security for him?—Yes.

892. Did you do so more than once?—No; only on one occasion.

893. Have you ever lent money to, or gone security for any other contractor, or any other workman, employed by the Town Commissioners, during your time as town surveyor?—No.

894. Did Mr. O'Brien refuse to adopt your plan as to No. 3 sewer?—He did not. The plan I recommended to the Local Government Board will be produced by the secretary.

895. Is there in the specification provision for branch drains?—Yes.

896. Do the contractors bind themselves to supply the branch drains at a certain fixed price for the owners of the houses which adjoin the sewers?—Yes.

897. Was any notice given by you, or by the Commissioners so far as you know, that such an arrangement existed with the contractors, namely, that they could make the drains at a certain fixed price?—No, there was not.

898. Was it mentioned that such a notice should be given?—No.

899. Was it not for the benefit of the householders that this arrangement was made, so that they should know how much they had a right to pay the contractors?—The contractor may refuse to do it at that price.

900. Mr. LAWLESS.—Have you bound him by contract?—He could refuse to do the extra work.

901. If there was an old drain to a house were you not bound to make that good?—Yes; but there was no arrangement about new ones.

902. Was there not any agreement or understanding with the contractor about making connecting drains with the new sewers?—There was an understanding about laying twelve-inch pipes as house drains, and also nine-inch and six-inch.

903. Mr. EXHAM.—Was he bound to lay them at a fixed price?—Yes, if the parties adjoining the streets where the new main sewers are made wish to connect.

904. If they wish to connect! Don't you know they are bound by the law to do it?—Yes.

905. Did you stipulate with the contractor that he was to make the connecting drains at a certain fixed price?—There was no notice of that kind given.

906. Are you aware that the contractor has been making bargains for constructing the connecting pipes in the streets?—Yes.

907. Did you not stipulate that the contractor was to carry the pipe to the bounds of the main wall at certain fixed prices?—Yes.

908. Did you apprise the householders of that fact?—No.

909. Were you directed by the Town Commissioners to apprise them of it?—I do not think I was.

910. You say you stipulated that the contractor should make them at a certain fixed price?—Yes, if we call upon the owners to do so.

911. What was the use of making that stipulation if you did not intend to call upon them?—It is no harm to have that provision made.

912. As town surveyor, are you acquainted with the provisions of the Public Health Act on this subject?—Yes, perfectly. Every house within 100 feet of the main sewer should be connected.

913. Town Clerk.—I said in my examination on the first day that when a new sewer is made we serve notices on the parties to make connexions.

914. Mr. EXHAM (to Mr. Doyle).—Under whose department does it come to look after the necessary arrangements in case of fire?—We have an old fire-engine here, but I may say I do not know in whose department it is, because we have no fire-brigade. We have a water inspector who, the moment a fire breaks out, rushes off with the hose, and with the great pressure of water we can command, it is not necessary to have a fire-engine. We have hydrants at a distance of every 240 feet apart.

915. Are they in all parts of the town?—We have nothing smaller than three-inch mains, and the hydrants are adapted for that. We have about 300 hydrants in the town.

916. Is the hose kept in good order?—It is in the very best of order.

917. Have you a fire-escape here?—We have not.

918. Do you know were the Commissioners ever applied to with regard to a fire-escape?—By whom?

919. By anyone; and were they ever offered a site for the purpose of keeping one in?—Mr. Barton, the magistrate, recommended the Commissioners to get one. He addressed himself to me, and I referred him to the Commissioners, and it is now under consideration to provide a fire-escape. It was very uncertain what we could do with it. It was recommended that we should keep it at the police station. Another difficulty is that it would require trained hands to use it.

Mr. Crosthwaite.—Mr. Barton said to me that he would give a place to keep it in, and that the police would take charge of it and work it. I brought the matter before the Board, but I am sorry to say did not meet with anything like fair support. If I had received sufficient support I would have been willing to pay one half of the cost myself, and if they do not agree to take action, I am not sure that I will not pay the whole of the cost of it.

920. Mr. LAWLESS.—When was this communication with Mr. Barton?—I think within two months.

921. One would imagine that all parties would agree to this proposition?—If we get the least encouragement we will have one soon.

922. It is one of the obligations imposed on the Town Commissioners to provide a fire-brigade?—We should have one.

923. Mr. Kelly.—We have a very good fire-escape, so far as ladders are concerned.

924. Mr. Doyle.—Most of the houses in Kingstown are very low—two story houses—some are three stories.

925. Mr. M'Evoy.—During my chairmanship we discussed the whole matter, and Mr. Ennis will find our report. I never before heard that the police were available for this purpose.

926. Town Clerk.—On the 3rd July, 1872, there was a resolution passed on the motion of Mr. Crosthwaite, seconded by Mr. Kelly, appointing a committee to see about the best means of procuring a fire-engine for the township, and where it was to be kept, and the following resolution was afterwards passed:—

"Resolved—That the recommendation of the road and water committee relative to the procuring of a fire-escape be adopted, and that the details be referred to said committee to carry out, and also to inquire into the quantity of hose purchased by the Board during the past two years, and if such quantity be now in stock. Passed."

In the following year when making out the estimates, the question of the fire-escape was before the Board, but as it involved an additional $\frac{1}{2}d.$ on the rates, nothing was done.

927. Mr. M'Evoy.—I may mention that I got the assistance of Captain Shaw, of London, and I never heard that the police were available for this purpose. The result of our investigation was that I came to the opinion the best way would be for Kingstown to join the other townships with the city of Dublin and have a general rate levied over the entire district, and one fire establishment for the entire metropolitan district.

928. Town Clerk.—Our staff work the hose, and as we have water at a very high pressure, we can put out fires without employing any additional labour, and there is a well-trained fire-brigade on board H.M.S. Iron Duke, which is available in case of fire.

929. Mr. EXHAM (to Mr. Doyle).—Did Mr. O'Brien report in favour of any of the plans?—Yes; of No. 1 and No. 2.

930. Mr. LAWLESS.—You mentioned yesterday that you thought these estimates would be reduced to a certain extent; that the work could be done for something less?—Yes, I thought so.

931. Would the expense of the work be reduced in this way—by making higher levels than was originally contemplated?—Yes.

932. Would that alteration not alter the character and efficiency of the sewer altogether?—No, not if the sewer will stand that.

933. Do you mean to say, as a matter of course, that the sewer will be quite as efficient?—It may not discharge the sewage equally fast, but it will give you as efficient a sewer as is necessary.

KINGSTOWN. April 7, 1877.

Mr. Francis A. Doyle.

934. Mr. EXHAM.—It won't give you the contemplated sewer. Your plan showed a sewer of a certain size and formation, and you got your money for making it so. Surely you do not mean to say now, that having got the money you will go and alter these plans and levels?—It will do as well.

935. Have you ascertained whether the basement story of every house along the line of the sewer will allow you to make the alteration? If there is one that won't, will not the whole thing be spoiled?—Yes; I have.

936. The sewer was intended to be ten feet deep, I think?—Yes.

937. Did you take the levels and so on of the houses and places before you made your plans?—Yes.

938. Can you now say that you will be able to make the new sewer do the drainage work as well at two feet less depth?—Not quite two feet.

939. Why then did you suggest the greater depth—why did you contemplate making a sewer ten feet deep, if eight feet or a little more will do as well? Was not the extra excavation money thrown away?—No man going into work of this kind knows what he can do, and my mind or any other man's mind may be changed. The best surveyor in the world might do that.

940. One of your means then of diminishing the estimate is by altering the levels of the sewers?—Yes.

941. Is it not possible that that alteration may destroy the efficiency of the entire or some of the work?—No; it is not.

942. To any extent?—No.

943. Supposing you find the level is not sufficient and that it won't work on eight feet, will its efficiency not be destroyed?—If the basements are only eight feet and I raise it one foot, I won't destroy the efficiency.

944. At the time you applied for the provisional order with respect to those sewers, did not the petitioners undertake to "make and maintain according to the levels shown on the said plan" (that is the plan laid before Mr. Robinson), the sewers herein described?—Yes; and Mr. Robinson looked at the plans.

945. Were any levels shown on the plans?—Not one. There was no engineering evidence at all brought before Mr. Robinson. (Copy of plan produced.) That plan was lodged in the Local Government Board offices, and there are no levels on it.

946. Was there a different plan lodged with Mr. O'Brien?—Yes; of course there was.

947. Do you state that when the provisional order was made in 1875, there were no levels shown on the plan submitted to the Local Government Inspector?—I do.

948. Is it your opinion that you may construct the sewers at any levels you like?—Yes.

949. Mr. John Henry (a ratepayer) stated that Mr. M'Evoy received a report as to the wrong levels of one of the sewers, and that as Chairman of the Board he made it a Board question. Mr. Henry asked to know what steps were taken by Mr. M'Evoy to ascertain the fact as to the report.

950. Mr. LAWLESS (to the Town Clerk).—Was there a report made about the defective level of the sewer in George's-street in 1873?—There was, and the result of the matter at the time alluded to was that the Commissioners went into the matter, and decided against Brady's objection.

951. Mr. EXHAM (to Mr. Doyle).—Have you any levels?—There were levels taken.

952. Are the levels shown on the plan?—They are never shown on the plan.

953. Are there any sections shown?—I do not think there are.

Mr. Ennis.—The plans lay for two months—the time required by law—on the table in the board-room.

954. Mr. EXHAM.—Yes; and Mr. Doyle says he cannot carry out those plans, but will carry out new ones. You could not get the sanction of the Local Government Board till the ratepayers had two months to inspect them. The ratepayers saw the plans representing certain sewers to be made, and the Local Government Inspector made his report thereon, and then the sanction is given on a guarantee that those very plans would be carried out. No objection was raised, because the ratepayers were satisfied, and for so far all is right, but the surveyor now says he cannot carry out the plans, but will carry out new ones, though as a matter of fact they were never before the ratepayers.

Mr. Doyle.—There are always certain limits of deviation; you can always raise or lower the levels.

955. Mr. EXHAM.—A complete system of drainage being required, the Commissioners required their surveyor to prepare plans dividing the town into sewerage districts, showing the work necessary to be done in each district. The plans were prepared, and the Act of Parliament goes on to say that "whereas the sum of £8,000 will suffice to carry out the said works shown on the plan for Kingstown, and £2,000 for the works for Glasthule," and the Commissioners are given the power to raise this sum of money to carry out those works which are to be performed according to "said plan"; how long did Mr. Robinson sit at the Inquiry?

Mr. Ennis.—He sat here in the board-room, and to the best of my recollection he finished in the one day.

956. To Mr. Doyle.—Were levels shown on the plans; sure you must have had some plans before Mr. Robinson, showing the levels at which you proposed to make the sewers?—I had not.

957. Do you mean to inform us that Mr. Robinson was not shown any plans with the levels of the proposed sewers on them?—He was not; he may have been shown sections, but I am not positive that he was.

958. Will you say that he was not?—I will not.

959. Don't you know that before he was sent down here at all you must have had plans lying here on the table—don't you know that?—I do not.

960. Didn't you hear Mr. Ennis say that the plans lay on the table for two months?—They were the plans I have shown you.

961. Do you tell me that you, the town surveyor, whose duty it was to make these plans—that you did not make them?—I did make them.

962. Where are they?—You have them there; I made them from time to time.

963. I am talking about the plans you showed to Mr. Robinson, and on the faith of which you got £10,000. (Plan showing sections of sewers produced.)

964. How can you estimate the cost of the sewers without having previously taken all the levels and made your calculations in accordance with them?—You may make a bulk estimate of it.

965. Does not the cost per yard depend greatly upon the depth?—It does.

966. Did you estimate the expense without calculating the depth?—I did not say that.

967. Is it not part of the duty of the Local Government Board's inspector to calculate the amount that should necessarily be borrowed for making sewers?—It is.

968. How could he do that unless you had given him the depth (and area) of the proposed sewers?—(No answer.)

969. Do you now say, that there was not any plan submitted to the Local Government Board's inspector, showing the levels at which the sewers were to be made for which you asked leave to borrow £10,000?—My impression is, that there was not.

970. To the Town Clerk.—I suppose you prepared the form of application to the Local Government Board?—No; it was our solicitor.

971. Were there any notes of the proceedings taken?—The Local Government Board must be satisfied that the requirements of the Act are complied with before they issue the warrant for the inquiry.

972. Was there a short-hand writer with the Commissioners?—Yes.

Mr. M'Evoy.—I wish to draw your attention to the very curious arrangement of these printed forms of tender, and to the large erasures in them.

973. Mr. EXHAM (to Mr. Doyle).—Were any of these alterations made by the contractors themselves?—They were.

974. By the persons tendering?—Yes; it was done when they were lying on the table, and they made their erasures.

975. Were any of these lying on the table altered in the way mentioned yesterday and were any unaltered?—Yes; I just loosened them and left them on the table with my original, and then it was done.

976. Were some of these printed forms which had been altered by you under the direction of the Commissioners left upon the table?—Some were left blank for the persons to fill in.

977. Were some left absolutely unaltered? Were some altered and some unaltered?—Some were left just as they came from the printer. They took those coming from the printer, and altered them to suit themselves.

978. Who struck out the word "Portland" in this form (referring to "Portland Cement" in the printed form of tender)?—I do not know. I saw no harm in those two men coming in and filling them up themselves.

979. Mr. LAWLESS.—Those two men might have tendered on a different basis. Were those documents given to those men to tender or were they allowed to take them from the table?—They were left lying on the table and the men took them; since then I have prepared them as they ought to be.

980. Mr. EXHAM.—Here is a contract for performing these works by Mr. Thomas Sexton, and he undertakes to construct the sewer in "accordance with the plans and specifications, and to the satisfaction of the town surveyor," and they are to be laid in a certain manner, the angle of inclination is to be shown, and so on?—Yes.

981. Then you had a plan giving this information?—Yes.

982. Does it show the levels?—Yes.

983. Then show it to me?—That is the contract plan.

984. Do you mean now to say that the plans were prepared when the Local Government Board passed the order?—Yes.

985. And you say they were prepared without showing any levels?—Yes, of course.

986. Am I to have it put down "of course"? Do you abide by that answer—that there were no levels shown on any plan before Mr. Robinson, the Local Government Board Inspector. You say "of course"?—Well, I cannot tax my memory.

987. But you said they were not shown "of course"?—I am not sure about it.

988. It appears to be a very curious thing why you should have them afterwards, and why you did not prepare them for the purpose of Mr. Robinson's inquiry?—If there were plans I can have them produced.

989. Will you show me the plans that lay on the table there for two months—that will settle the matter?—Here it is. (Plan produced.)

990. Mr. LAWLESS.—Is this the only one?—That was the only plan that lay on the table.

991. Mr. EXHAM.—Will you show me the plan and section that you gave to each contractor?—Yes. (Contract plans produced.)

992. I want to know what these contract plans were prepared from?—From the large plan of the town.

993. Mr. LAWLESS.—Are you prepared to say that that plan produced now was the only plan on the table here for the two months?—Yes.

994. Are you prepared to say that that is the only plan submitted to the Local Government Board's officer?—Yes.

995. Was there any evidence given by you and by other engineers before Mr. Robinson with regard to the expense of the works?—Yes.

996. Did you explain to Mr. Robinson the basis on which your estimates were made?—Yes.

997. Fully?—Yes.

998. Then must you not have told him what the proposed levels were?—No.

999. How, then, did you give him the basis of your estimate?—(No answer.)

1000. Mr. EXHAM.—Do you know that this map was left here on the table to be inspected by the public for two months, and that no one had any right to alter that plan?—(No answer.)

1001. Is it a fact that you afterwards altered the original map, and did not even put a mark on it to point out the plan as it originally stood?—I don't think there is anything wrong in that.

1002. Do you think it was an improper thing for you to do?—No, I do not; if I did I would not have done so.

1003. Mr. LAWLESS.—Who else was examined before Mr. Robinson?—Mr. Barnes, an engineer.

1004. Mr. EXHAM.—You heard Mr. Barnes' statement; did he call your attention to Tivoli-terrace, and actually propose to change the plan that lay on the table? Do you mean to say that did not occur?—It may have.

1005. Did you hear Mr. Barnes say that your level was wrong, and that he asked you to make it right?—(No answer.)

1006. Do you say now that the proposed levels were produced before Mr. Robinson?—I think they were; but they were not lying on the table for two months; that I know.

1007. Is it not a part of your duty to look after ruinous houses?—Not to look after them, but if I see them in a dangerous condition I generally serve notices.

1008. Do you ever inspect or get any of your men to inspect the condition of houses and make a report to you?—No.

1009. Do you know are there any houses here in a dangerous condition?—I do not think there are.

1010. Do you exercise any supervision over the building of houses? Are plans submitted to you before you allow them to be built?—Plans are submitted in all cases, showing the line of street and the general elevation.

1011. Do you interfere to see that the arrangements for sewerage are provided?—Yes.

1012. Do you exercise supervision over them in every case?—Yes.

1013. Have any houses been built, for instance, within the last year, or since the report of Mr. Robinson was made, adjoining the proposed new sewers?—Yes.

1014. Were any houses built since then adjoining these new sewers—that will be dependent on them for drainage?—Not exactly.

1015. Have any houses been built within 100 feet of the new sewers that were proposed to be made with the £2,000, or the £8,000?—Yes.

1016. Did you give them the levels, so that they might make their arrangements accordingly?—I did not give it to them.

1017. Do they ask for them?—In some cases there is no necessity for each independent house to make a sewer.

1018. That is not an answer to my question. Are there any houses now being built that will require to connect with these sewers?—Yes.

1019. Have the owners of those houses been called upon to connect with the new sewer?—Not yet.

1020. Have the persons building any of these houses that you say will require to connect with the proposed new sewers called upon you to give them the levels of those sewers?—Very often they have.

1021. And in such cases have you given them?—Yes.

1022. Have you given them the levels of the proposed sewers?—No.

1023. Don't they ask for them?—No.

1024. What do you do with the houses built in 1875, after the Local Government Board passed the plans?—There are very few of them built yet.

KINGSTOWN. April 7, 1877.

Mr. Francis A. Doyle.

1025. Supposing that one of the builders of these houses asks you for the levels of these proposed sewers what will you give him?—I will give him the level of the bottom, and of the surface of the sewer.

1026. Is that ten feet or eight and a half feet?—At whatever level I propose to do the work at.

1027. What is that level—supposing I was going to build this moment?—Let me know where you are going to build and I'll tell you.

1028. Is it to be ten feet or eight and a half feet?—If you are going to build in George's-street for instance I'll tell you the depth.

1029. Do the levels of the sewers vary in different places?—Yes, from five to sixteen feet deep.

1030. Supposing you give a level at ten feet as you originally planned, and the owner of the house carries his sewer to meet one at ten feet deep, and that you then raise the depth of your sewer, what would the owner of the house do then?—(No answer.)

1031. Mr. LAWLESS.—You have not given us any idea of the time at which you propose to make these alterations?—It will come before the Commissioners.

1032. Did the Commissioners put down a sewer at Breffni-terrace, and had they to take it up again, and put down another?—Yes; there was a small piece taken up.

1033. How many feet?—I think about thirty feet. We substituted a fifteen-inch pipe there.

Mr. Perrin—The sewer I speak of is upon premises belonging to Mr. O'Rorke. It collected the water to such an extent that I believe the water ran into the premises adjoining—then there was another pipe of larger capacity put down.

1034. Mr. EXHAM.—Was it necessary in making these changes to alter the levels?

Mr. Doyle.—Not the levels upon which we started.

Mr. Perrin.—If the man who was building his house had been called upon to ascertain the proper level there would have been no necessity to make any change, and the surveyor ought to have seen that he carried it out properly.

Mr. Ennis.

Mr. ENNIS re-examined.

1035. Town Clerk.—I wish to correct one statement. You stated that in borrowing the sum for the town hall and court house before it was required there was a loss to the ratepayers of £300 per annum. That is wrong. Taking £250, the interest on the consols, from the interest, £360, at four and a half per cent. on the loans, will give you a balance of only £110.

1036. You say that the loss to the town instead of being £300 is only £110 a year?—Yes.

1037. Mr. EXHAM.—You recollect the Act of 1861. There is a clause in that Act for the retirement of the secretary and Grand Jury cess-collector?—Yes.

1038. Am I right in saying that the secretary at that time was Mr. James Murray?—Yes.

1039. Is there a resolution in the books of July, 1861, accepting his resignation?—I know there is.

1040.—He was to get two-thirds of his salary under the Act?—Yes.

1041. Was there a resolution appointing him secretary pro tem.?—Yes. In other words, after the bill passed, he retired upon two-thirds of his salary, but continued secretary pro tempore.

1042. Is it a fact that after July, 1861, he continued to get his full salary as secretary pro tem., and his retiring allowance of two-thirds?—That is so. I may add it was the subject of a Chancery suit afterwards and judgment was given against the Commissioners. By an omission in the Act of 1869, however, the amount could not be recovered from the Commissioners.

1043. Mr. LAWLESS.—Who was the plaintiff in that suit?—There was a relator at the suit of the Attorney-General.

1044. Mr. EXHAM.—What became of the costs of that suit?—The costs, of course, followed the judgment, and they paid the costs.

1045. Do you recollect was there any order made about the money he received?—Judgment was given that they should refund the amount of the pension he had been paid—£166 13*s.* 4*d.*

Mr. Kelly.—I was one of the Commissioners on that occasion, and the judgment was to the effect that the Commissioners should make Murray pay, and in the event of his not paying then, that we were to pay.

1046. Mr. LAWLESS.—We must see that decree; there is no use in talking about the matter. The decree will speak for itself.

Mr. Kelly.—I know the Commissioners paid the costs.

Mr. Ennis.—In 1872 I called upon the relator to proceed, and he declined to proceed, which is the reason the money has not been recovered.

1047. Mr. EXHAM.—The relator could be changed with the consent of the Attorney-General.

1048. Mr. LAWLESS.—It is a mere matter of course; it was only necessary to apply to the Attorney-General of the day, because time does not stand in the way in these cases at all.

1049. Mr. EXHAM.—Is it the fact that before 1869 there was a bill got by the Commissioners for water?—No, they got only the Act of 1869. You are alluding to the Act of 1859. There was also a water Act of 1869, but the Act of 1859 was not obtained by the Commissioners; it was obtained by Messrs. Muggridge and Kane, and had nothing to do with the Commissioners.

1050. Mr. LAWLESS.—There was the Act of 1859, the 22nd Vic., 1858.

1051. Mr. EXHAM.—In the Blackrock township the Commissioners got the Vartry water in 1867.—Witness.—We got it about that time.

1052. When the bill of 1869 was opposed by the Commissioners had they taken any steps previously to get the Vartry water?—Yes, as soon as the Dublin Corporation were in a position to supply Kingstown negotiations were opened with them.

1053. Mr. LAWLESS.—When was that?—It was in the year 1868.

1054. Mr. EXHAM.—Had they not supplied Blackrock in 1867?—Yes.

1055. Were they not in a position to give you water in 1868?—The mains of the Corporation pass along the boundary of the Blackrock and Pembroke townships, and it was very easy to take a supply from them and distribute it in the two townships. We should be supplied from the Stillorgan reservoir, and the Corporation hesitated about supplying us. At all events, we had several deputations with the waterworks committee, and negotiations were opened. But we thought they were asking us higher than they ought, 4*d.*, and we said they were supplying Blackrock and Pembroke for 3½*d.* In the end we split on the matter of 4*d.*, and 3½*d.* I want to show that concurrently with the promotion of the measure negotiations were going on with the Corporation, and a contract was entered into for the supply of water virtually at 4½*d.* in the pound, including the cost of the pipe bringing it to the township boundary.

1056. Are you not now paying 5*d.* in the pound?—Yes; we were to give them the 3½*d.* for the water, and 1*d.* in the pound for the cost of bringing it from the Stillorgan reservoir to the boundary of our township. The Corporation petitioned against the Act of 1869, that had a clause giving 4*d.*, and they made such an effective opposition to the Bill of 1869 before the Lords' Committee, that although the Commons passed the 4*d.*, the Lords passed it for 5*d.*

1057 Mr. EXHAM.—Did not the Commissioners oppose the Bill altogether, including the supply of water to the town; in fact had not a resolution been passed by the Commissioners in October, 1868, to get water from a different place altogether?—This is what occurred:—To bring pressure to bear on the Corporation to force them to some extent to our terms, the township engineer was told to report on an alternative supply; and he reported on an independent water supply from the Three-rock Mountain, county Dublin, called the "Three-rock Mountain Scheme."

1058. (Suggested by Mr. M'Evoy).—Did not the Commissioners serve notice under the Township Act to promote a Bill for the purpose?—Yes; but still what I state agrees with that. I stated already the Commissioners entered into an agreement with the Corporation.

1059. What was the date?—March or April, 1869.

1060. Mr. EXHAM.—When they entered into that agreement were they opposing the Bill of 1869, actually?—Witness.—They were opposing the Bill of 1869. I certainly will say that the Commissioners, in the event of the Bill being carried, would have wished that the limit of 4*d.* should have been carried also.

1061. One of the principal objects of the Bill of 1869, I understand, as promoted by outsiders—it was promoted by Lord de Vesci and others—was to get water from the Dublin Corporation; was that portion of the Bill actually opposed by the Town Commissioners?—No.

1062. Have we not had it in evidence already that every bit of it was opposed by the Commissioners?

Mr. Reilly.—We had another arrangement.

1063. Did you not actually oppose getting the Vartry water before the House of Commons Committee?

Mr. Rielly.—We did, because we had it.

1064. Mr. LAWLESS.—When was the contract made for 4½*d.*?

Mr. Ennis.—The contract had been signed for 3½*d.* before the Bill reached Committee.

1065. Mr. EXHAM.—And 1*d.* for bringing it to the boundary of the township; that is 4½*d.*?—Yes.

1066. Mr. Kelly.—We entered into an arrangement for 3½*d.* in the pound on the valuation of Kingstown, including the right of supplying shipping in the harbour; and we undertook to pay them for the mains to Kingstown, to be paid off by loan in thirty-five years. That was only to cost 1*d.* in the pound for thirty-five years. The Corporation were willing to stand to that agreement; but they said, if you bring it before Parliament we shall show you we could get more. They were right, for the Lords Committee have saddled the township with a rate of 5*d.* in the pound in perpetuity. Outsiders promoting Bills are a great injury. We may thank them for this increase of rate on the township.

1067. Mr. LAWLESS.—We cannot go into that, Mr. Kelly.

1068. Mr. EXHAM.—Mr. Ennis, what I want to know is, if the Committee of the House of Commons were informed of this arrangement of the Corporation?—Yes; and it all came out on both Committees. The Commons passed the fourpenny clause in the bill, but the Lords' Committee changed it to five pence.

1069. What was the meaning of opposing the bringing in of the water?—They had their contract signed previously. During 1868 they made their contract with the waterworks committee. I cannot say they opposed the bill because there was a water clause in it; they opposed in globo, not because there was a water clause in it; but the reason they opposed the water clauses was this, because, they said, the 36th and 37th clauses of the bill were most objectionable, as tending to deprive the Commissioners of control over the water supply.

Mr. M'Evoy.—When they had filed the petition to oppose the Bill they had not entered into any arrangement at all.

Mr. Reilly.—They had.

Mr. M'Evoy.—Well, they did not allege it in their petition.

1074. Mr. EXHAM (to Mr. Ennis).—Do you recollect complaints being made, other than the one we had to-day, about 250 loads of stones being in a certain store called Orpen's-gate? Do you recollect any other complaints being made in 1872 of improper dealing with reference to stones being delivered, or of certificates being improperly given?—Well, in Mr. M'Evoy's time, about 1872 or 1873, I think, there were some inquiries as to laxity with regard to certifying and paying for stones.

1071. What was the nature of these inquiries?—Well, they were not very important; something about the amount of stones not being properly charged.

1072. Do you recollect a report being made, and unanimously adopted by the board, in March, 1872?—Yes.

1073. Here is a resolution as to a "stock-book" to be kept, "in which all the movable property of the township is to be entered, with the respective values of each article." Has that been done?—That was a book for the storekeeper.

1074. Have the Commissioners since 1872 seen that this resolution (adopting the report of the committee), has been carried out?—Yes.

1075. Does he keep a book?—Yes. We do not get the new man to exactly follow the ways of the old one; but the present storekeeper is keeping the stock in the way you speak of, and I very constantly look over it.

1076. How long has he been doing that?—Since his appointment, about two and a half years ago.

1077. Because the matter we were investigating yesterday, about the removal of this asphalte, cannot have been entered in the store book, for it only turned up afterwards?—Oh, no; it was because it was in the storekeeper's record it came before the board.

1078. Mr. EXHAM (reads a second resolution, directing the surveyor to keep two books, a "labour book" and a "road-material book," in which latter he was to enter the quantity of road material received from week to week, whether paid for or not, and also the stones used). Does the surveyor keep these two books?—He does. These books have been in operation since the year 1868.

1079. If he is to enter the road material received from week to week, whether paid for or not, how could there have been that difference of 250 tons of stones certified for by him? This resolution contemplates that in the depôt where these stones are delivered the surveyor is to keep a road-material book, showing what stones have been delivered to the Commissioners by the contractors every week, whether in the depôt or on a road. If the surveyor had entered these stones in his book, I should say he should do it from knowledge of his own that 250 tons had been actually delivered into the depôt. Is that not so?—If I were keeping these books I should say I would debit the Commissioners with the quantity delivered by the contractor. So far as I am aware the town surveyor has such a road-material book, and keeps it.

1080. Mr. M'Evoy (handing in book).—This is the book established under this rule. It shows the amount under special columns. It is intended to show on one side what came in, and on the other what went out of stock, and to balance at the end of the year.

1081. Mr. EXHAM.—This appears to be a very regularly kept book.

1082. Mr. M'Evoy.—I want to see is that book kept in the same way still since 1874.

1083. Mr. LAWLESS.—I find a very considerable change in the style of this book since 1874.

1084. Mr. Ennis.—You come to the change now in the officers.

1085. Mr. EXHAM.—But I understood you to say the new man was the best man?—Oh, no.

1086. Mr. LAWLESS.—But the account is continued on a totally different system?

1087. Mr. M'Evoy.—I believe this book was checked by the road committee every week in 1873.

1088. Witness.—I had to bring this storekeeper before the Commissioners, and state I did not think he was so satisfactory as the former.

1089. Was their attention called to the change in the book in reference to the particular regulation requiring the book to be kept?—The resolution does not tell how the book is to be kept. The new storekeeper said he could not keep the book in that way—it would be too troublesome—and the Commissioners did not insist on his keeping it in the old way.

KINGSTOWN. April 7, 1877.

Mr. Ennis.

1090. What check have they on him at all now? (Reads)?—

"March 1st, in stock, picks, 5. March 1st, in stock, 1; 14th March, left by a boy, stating it was sent by Rooney, 1; received into store by Duff from George's-street, 6—8."

What is the meaning of this kind of entries?—It seems to be a roundabout way of making the entries only.

1091. Mr. LAWLESS.—I think it is more than that. It leaves it very difficult to find out what the state of the Commissioners' property is.

1092. Mr. EXHAM.—By that former resolution this book was to be submitted every week to some committee. The committee in previous years had everything apparently in the most perfect order, going on from day to day and year to year in a regular system, which wholly disappears from the 2nd September, 1874, to the end of 1875. For the whole of the year, from September, 1874, to August, 1875, are these the entire of the entries?—That is so.

1093. Mr. LAWLESS.—Is there a journal kept, founded on these books?—No.

1094. Or a ledger even?—Not a ledger founded on these books.

1095. Mr. EXHAM.—Here is a curious memorandum:—

"There were two 'E pipes' deposited in the yard not left into stock, Duff stating they were not the Commissioners'—only left to oblige a friend"?

—He is very particular about these things.

1096. Mr. LAWLESS.—Did the Commissioners pass any formal resolution in relation to the change in the mode of keeping the books?—No; a great deal of this is done in committee—in conference.

Mr. M'Evoy.—The plan formerly adopted with the ledger was to correct each account with the new estimate in the beginning of the year.

Witness.—And that plan has been acted upon up to the present date. I keep that book.

1097. Mr. EXHAM.—But you are dependent on what you get from the other book to make up the ledger?—Between this officer and the Commissioners is the town surveyor, who has to check all accounts and certify them to the Commissioners, and the Commissioners to a great extent depend on the certificate of the township engineer.

1098. Mr. EXHAM.—(Reads):—

"February 7th, 1876.—Delivered four loads of crossing-blocks for Clarence-place, 120 feet."

To whom and on whose order were those delivered?—He dare not do that unless told by the town surveyor to issue these out of store.

1099. Mr. LAWLESS.—Under whose orders does he act?—These things are carried out under the Town Commissioners. On the roads certain improvements are to be carried out, and the expenditure is managed by various committees.

1100. Mr. EXHAM.—(Reads):—

"Delivered for Crosthwaite-park, 120 feet, dressed, for Crosthwaite-park mansion, measuring, per Duff's return, Upper George's-street, 120 feet."

Who is Duff?—Duff is the foreman of the works here, directly under the town surveyor.

1101. Had Mr. Doyle authority to send up 120 feet to Crosthwaite-park?—Duff could not do it unless he had the authority of the town surveyor. The town surveyor, acting on the Town Commissioners' order, must have directed these things to be done.

1102. Is there any mode of balancing the books, so that at the end of the year you can see how the curbing stones are accounted for?—I ask Mr. Doyle to hand me in an account of all the stock belonging to the Commissioners—chiefly for the value of them—and enter them in my account.

1103. Mr. LAWLESS.—Do you depend on the accuracy of Mr. Doyle?—Yes. Of course, so far as I can, I check them myself.

1104. Mr. EXHAM.—In other places what we have had is this: We have had a statement put in by the town surveyor, beginning, "I recommend the following works to be done." That is laid before the committee, and the committee then sanction the works or not, as the case may be?—In stating what is done in other places you have stated precisely what is done here.

1105. (Suggested by Mr. M'Evoy.)—Suppose, by accident some of these curbing-stones were removed from stock, how can you find it out by your present system?—I should say that if any storekeeper chose to act dishonestly, no matter how he keeps his books, he could do so.

1106. Mr. EXHAM.—(Reads):—

"Delivered one three-inch metal collar to Sutton, on account of the Dublin Corporation, to Duff and Dunne."

Why should a collar be delivered to the Dublin Corporation without their paying for it?—Reading that entry, I should say a leakage occurred in our own township, and the collar was put on at the junction of the two pipes to repair the leak.

1107. Are you bound to keep the mains in repair?—Certainly.

1108. But why should it be delivered to Sutton, an officer of the Dublin Corporation?—Sutton, who is in connexion with our water-mains here, was, I suppose, at the repairing; and Dunne is the water inspector.

1109. Mr. EXHAM.—If Sutton was acting for you it would be a perfectly right thing to take this out of your store, but if it was on account of the Dublin Corporation it should have come out of the stores of the Dublin Corporation. (To Mr. Doyle, surveyor.)—Do you not see the distinction "on account of the Dublin Corporation"?

Mr. Doyle.—That would look as if we lent one.

1110. If so, should it not have been paid for?—Certainly.

1111. (To the Town Clerk).—Who is Robson?—He is one of the staff.

1112. Because immediately after this there is "delivered one three-inch metal thimble," not saying to whom; and then "one three-inch thimble to Robson"?—I should say that Robson would cover the two.

1113. Mr. EXHAM.—(Reads):—

"Granite service-traps continued—Amount in hand brought forward, 34; received from Mr. Sexton, 2; received from town hall from Mr. Dixon, 4; total of stock in hand, 40; delivery as account per other side, 44. Delivered to Kingstown Gas Company, 1; delivered for Mariners' Church, 1; total, 46"

What was the meaning of giving one to the Kingstown Gas Company?—That could not have been delivered unless they lodged money, and asked for a water service.

1114. If so, where is the entry of the money lodged for it?—It is not there.

1115. How could you have forty in hand, and deliver forty-six? Can you explain that?—I cannot. I should say that was exceedingly bad book-keeping.

1116. Mr. LAWLESS.—Here is a book, which you say is kept by the town surveyor, not kept in accordance with the printed columns. I perceive the columns are not filled up?

Mr. Doyle.—The stones are weighed in the store on coming in, and on going out we do not weigh them; they are weighed coming in, and we pay on the weight.

1117. Mr. EXHAM (to Witness).—This purports to be an account of everything that comes into your yard from Mr. Sexton, the contractor—not what goes out, as Mr. Doyle appears to be under the impression. "Supplied Mr. Sexton" does not mean delivered to Mr. Doyle for the Town Commissioners.

Mr. Doyle.—The contractor does not deliver any stones on the road: the stones are supplied into the yard by Mr. Sexton, and we deliver them with our own horses.

1118. Mr. EXHAM.—The book only shows what goes out by your own horses; and the book does not show, that I can see, what Mr. Sexton supplies. (Reading.) "Black stones, 180 loads" have gone out —equal 116 tons; but how do you know what Mr. Sexton delivered in, unless you take it by what went out?

Mr. Doyle.—We take them out, and do not weigh. We have a book for each description of stone.

1119. Mr. EXHAM (to Mr. Ennis—examining road material book).—The "total weight" is a blank, the price is not given; and the places where the stones were delivered is not specified, only the distribution being recorded?—We distribute: the contractor does not distribute.

1120. Where is the book showing the amount of stores you receive, and the amount you pay him?—The storekeeper has that.

1121. Mr. LAWLESS.—Is there a written order given to the storekeeper for the delivery of anything in store that is to be given out?—Anything that is to be given out in connexion with the water service of the township, I give an order for. I can only speak for my own department. I have also this book of receipts.

1122. (Suggested by Mr. M'Evoy).—When you grant stores for the water service, do you make an entry in any book?—No; I do not grant a license for opening the roads for the water service; we have no licensed plumbers, as the licensed plumbers after the construction of the waterworks ceased their connexion with this board. I direct the water inspector to make the return to me. I state and give an order for the amount of materials required for the work, and I give a receipt for the money to the applicant.

1123. What check have you on the pipes going out of stock?—Turn to the storekeeper's account, and you will find each of my orders accounted for and the quantity of materials coming in on the other side.

1124. Mr. LAWLESS.—How often does the storekeeper make a report?—He makes a weekly report to the Road and Water Committee on Wednesday morning, and a further weekly report on the Friday morning to the other committee.

1125. Mr. EXHAM.—Here I see, in pencil:—"Neal, Kennedy, M'Cann, and Byrne will account." I suppose for the sixteen picks which appear to be out. That is the last entry I can see about picks in this book?—These men got the picks and were to account for them. The storekeeper gave them in charge to these men.

1126. But that is eleven months and a week ago?—Oh, they are worn out long ago. They account for them when broken.

1127. Mr. LAWLESS.—Are the men allowed to keep their tools used for public works, or are they obliged to bring them into store?—They bring them into store every evening.

Mr. EXHAM.—This memorandum dates from the 28th April last year, and there is not an entry of a pick given in or given out since that.

1128. Mr. LAWLESS.—I find here an entry in connexion with some of the stores which shows, I think, a rather curious mode of dealing. It is recorded that:

"The town clerk reported that on the night of the 4th of January he caught a man named Storks removing a bag of bitumen from the town yard; and that he stated he had been sent for it by J. Brady for asphalte. The surveyor said he gave no direction for the removal of the bitumen, as the mixing should take place only in the town yard. He gave no order to the storekeeper from January 4th to January 5th. The storekeeper produced a return of the asphalte and showed the quantities given out, and showed there was an overdraw of bitumen of eight cwt. in the surveyor's order from 16th December, 1876, to January, 1877. The surveyor stated the quantities of bitumen in stock, and how much had been used, and from the number of yards made, there would appear to be a deficiency of about two tons of bitumen in store. The carters, Duffy, Doyle, and Brady, were severally examined as to how the removal on the night of the 4th of January took place. Brady was examined as to his letter to the Town Commissioners, and stated his statements against the town surveyor did not apply to the bitumen, but had reference to a private transaction which took place between them. The report of the storekeeper for the past three weeks was read. A letter was read from Brady as to his laying of the asphalte; also about the removal of the bag of bitumen on the night of the 4th of January by a workman of Brady's. After a full investigation of the matter referred to, it was found that Brady's complaint against the town surveyor had no reference to the asphalte referred to; and that no fraud was intended by the removal of the bitumen, but that it was an irregularity arising from the loose way the bags were given out of store to Brady. On examination it would appear the stock is correct, except about two tons of bitumen, covering, according to Brady, about thirty-three square yards—so that at least the deficiency is one ton. The following resolution was then adopted on the motion of the chairman:—'That, in view of the irregularities which have taken place in giving out the asphalte by the storekeeper, and the difficulties which exist—the storekeeper stating that he is in the market when the contractor or his men are taking the materials from the town hall yard—we strongly recommend the Board to advertise for tenders for supplying the best asphalte at so much per square yard, according to specification, to be approved of by the town surveyor and adopted by the Board.'"

Has anything been done concerning that?—Witness.—It is proceeding.

1129. Mr. EXHAM.—How long every day is the store-keeper away from the yard?—Well, he is from time to time there, and from time to time here. From six in the morning to six in the evening he is on duty. The market is some distance from this.

1130. The man fairly enough says:—"I can't be accountable for anything, because when I am in the market people come and take bags out of store. How can I be accountable?"

1131. Mr. LAWLESS.—Are there any of those asphalte works actually going on at present?—Not at present.

1132. Mr. EXHAM—Have there ever been any complaints made to your knowledge as to the men of the Town Commissioners—I do not say taking away a single load, but making large sales of stones?—There have not.

1133. Do you recollect the Bill of 1873?—Yes.

1134. Did that fall to the ground in consequence of proper notices not having been given?—That is so.

1135. Who paid the costs in relation to what had been so far done—because I understand it was promoted by the Town Commissioners as a body? Did they pay the costs of that out of the rate?—Oh, certainly not.

1136. Was there an injunction obtained against them to restrain them from paying any even of the preliminary expenses out of the rate?—Oh, no; there was an injunction to restrain them proceeding with the bill.

1137. Mr. LAWLESS.—Were any of the costs of promoting or opposing this bill paid out of the rates?

Mr. Kelly.—There were costs paid to Mr. Hassard for plans. This Board had never anything to do with adopting these plans.

Witness.—Mr. Hassard furnished a bill to the Commissioners for payment of costs, £48. The Commissioners repudiated the account. He brought us into the Court of Common Pleas. The thing was reviewed there; and he got a verdict against the Commissioners, with costs. To be strictly accurate, I remember now about the costs of the bill; I thought of Parliamentary costs alone, but we did in fact pay something in relation to that bill in the shape of costs of advertisements.

1138. Mr. LAWLESS.—How were those costs for which Mr. Hassard got judgment against you paid?—Out of the rates.

Mr. Kelly.—Although we never employed him at all. The jury decided on the evidence of Mr. M'Evoy that he, as chairman, of the Board, gave him authority to make the plans.

1139. Mr. EXHAM.—Did the Board ever take any action to carry out Sir John Hawkshaw's plans?—They did.

1140. What became of them. Did you adopt them or seek to carry them out?—This occurred—The proceedings in connexion with the bill in 1873 were stopped by the injunction. The Commissioners, knowing by experience how to act legally, proceeded under the clauses of the Towns Improvement Clauses Act of 1847, giving the rate-payers leave to come in by remonstrance, but they were stopped in 1873 from proceeding with a bill in 1874 by the majority of the rate-payers having signed the remonstrance.

KINGSTOWN. April 7, 1877.

Mr. Ennis.

1141. Was that document ever lodged here?—It is one of the documents I keep carefully locked up in the strong room. I can let you see it at any time.

1142. The Commissioners having gone so far to show their wish and intention to carry out Sir John Hawkshaw's plans, how is it that they have now changed their mind and adopted Mr. Doyle's which Sir John Hawkshaw condemned?—He merely said the surveyor's estimate was not sufficient.

1143. Mr. EXHAM.—(Reads)—

"Now, in considering the plans I advise you to carry out, I may remark that the proposal of Mr. Doyle to utilize some drains, to construct others of smaller size, and to make two outfalls turning all the sewage into one place, is an imperfect system and would not satisfactorily dispose of the drainage of the town."

Witness.—Sir John Hawkshaw having made that report the Commissioners did not think well of acting upon it. They wished to have further inquiry on all these plans.

1144. Mr. EXHAM.—This report was made in 1873; and you had published notices in 1873 of your intention to apply for a bill in 1874 to carry out Sir John Hawkshaw's plan. Then that was stopped by remonstrance, and you proceeded to obtain the sanction of the Local Government Board to plans which Sir John Hawkshaw condemned as an imperfect scheme that would not carry out satisfactorily the drainage of the town. Is that not so?—We are trying to get the order.

1145. Mr. LAWLESS.—Sir John Hawkshaw also reports—"Mr. Doyle's laudable desire is to avoid unnecessary expense as much as possible." He, however, differs very much again with Mr. Doyle as to the advisability of the plans and the sum for which they could be carried out.

1146. Mr. EXHAM.—He says—

"I estimate the cost of an intercepting sewer from one end to the other at £50,000; and, if you take the fall at Bullock Harbour, £30,000."

Is it or not the fact that Sir John Hawkshaw, Mr. Hassard, and Mr. Palles agreed that a single intercepting sewer would be a desirable plan?—Yes; that is, a single intercepting sewer with one outfall.

1147. Is the only question at present that Mr. Doyle proposes to discharge the sewage equally at the east and west piers?—Mr. M'Evoy has asked me to state in explanation of that, that at the end of 1873 the constitution of the board was changed, and again at the beginning of 1874. Those who were the minority became the majority.

Mr. Doyle.—In addition to that, I may tell you the Glasthule Board of Poor Law Guardians would not allow us to discharge the sewage as proposed.

1148. Was there any and what complaint made against the surveyor in 1874, and if so, what was the resolution passed in relation to it?—There was a resolution passed at the monthly meeting, March 2nd, 1874, there was a very large attendance. The resolution was—

"Proposed by Mr. Kelly, seconded by Mr. Conroy, and resolved —'That the surveyor be called upon to resign, as he has constantly disobeyed the rules laid down by the Board for his guidance, particularly in obtaining goods without the consent of the board and in the unsatisfactory manner in which he carries out the business of the township generally."

1149. Was the matter brought before the Board by the committee in accordance with that resolution?—In March, 1874, this resolution was passed, and in that very month the inquiry was held here by Mr. Robinson. The surveyor showed great zeal in the discharge of his duty at that time, and this became a dropped resolution.

1150. There is another matter mentioned in Mr. Finlay's report. There were some rates, which Mr. Finlay, I think, says were returned as irrecoverable, payable by Mr. Sexton; and afterwards something was discovered about them?—In the summer of 1872, I think, the rate-collector in the course of his collection, came upon a house that was empty and unproductive. In his annual report he wrote it down as irrecoverable, and the house being empty during the greater part of the year, and the person being gone who would be liable to pay rates, we put it down "irrecoverable." Before the finance committee of the following year it transpired, from information a commissioner had obtained privately, that Mr. Sexton had purchased this property, and that after the rate had been wiped out he deducted from the purchase-money the amount due as if the rates had to be paid up. It having been stated before the auditor that the rates were actually stopped from the vendor by the purchaser, he said the rates should be paid. Mr. Sexton afterwards sent up the amount of the rates. When the matter was brought before the finance committee, I was directed to apply to Mr. Sexton for the rates, and he came down and said he was not liable, and did not see why he should be asked for rates for which he was not liable, but he afterwards did pay the amount. I heard an explanation of that since, which was, that the vendor owed Mr. Sexton a sum of money, and that it was really as a set-off against a private debt that he stopped it.

1151. Do you recollect when application was made by Mr. Doyle in January, 1876, for an increase of salary, was there any resolution moved by Mr. Kelly on the subject?—He gave notice he would move on March 6th—

"That, in consequence of the addition to the township by Act of Parliament, the salaries of the secretary and town surveyor be increased by £5 each."

April 11, 1877.

WEDNESDAY.—APRIL 11, 1877.

1152. A deputation of ratepayers attended at the inquiry, and made a statement complaining of the operation of the law with respect to weights and measures. They requested us to hear evidence with a view of showing that there was a defect in the law, which prevented them from having their weights and scales duly adjusted, whereby they were liable to have them seized and to be fined besides at the instance of the police. We informed them that we could not go into any inquiry on the subject, but at their urgent request we stated that we would report on our notes that they had made the application.

Mr. Doyle.

Mr. DOYLE recalled.

1153. Mr. EXHAM.—Are you aware that there should be a map of the township showing all the existing sewers?—Yes.

1154. Is there such a map?—Yes.

1155. Was it prepared by you?—Yes; from time to time.

1156. Was it made by you since you were appointed surveyor or was it continued by you so as to point out the sewers you made?—It was continued by me. I want to explain that we have not the large scale map directed by the Act of Parliament for that purpose. This (producing a map) is the only scale map we have. We have not the eighteen-inch scale that we should have.

1157. Have you or have you not a map in conformity with the provisions of the Act of Parliament?—No.

1158. Is there a map showing all the sewers existing in the town?—Yes; there is.

Mr. John Jones examined.

1159. Mr. LAWLESS.—Are you a ratepayer?—Yes, for sixteen years, in the Glasthule district.

1160. What is the nature of your complaint?—I have to complain that a sewer was run out through the wall to the sea at Burdett-avenue. The last high tide left the shore open, and it now discharges itself on the strand above high-water mark just at the wall. The late great high tide tore away the wall, and the Commissioners refuse either to build it up or to carry the sewage out beyond high-water mark. The nuisance is discharging itself under my window, and I do not know exactly what to do. The Commissioners say they are not liable. In making the opening through the wall to put the sewer through they shook it so much that the very next high tide took it away.

1161. When did that happen?—Last summer.

1162. Is the sewage now discharged above high water?—Yes; fifteen feet above high water.

1163. How far from your house?—About five or six yards.

1164. Have you represented this matter to the Commissioners?—I have written to the Board.

1165. When did you write?—About two months ago. I suppose they will produce my letter.

1166. Did you get any answer to your letter?—The Chairman, Mr. Barrett, called on me.

1167. Did you get any official answer?—No.

1168. Has anything been done to remove the cause of complaint?—No.

1169. Is the wall thrown down?—Yes, and a person went down there yesterday, and drew away a quantity of the stones in his horse and cart.

1170. Is Burdett-avenue within the township?—Yes, of course it is.

1171. Do you pay the taxes?—Yes. I am rated at £32 a year.

1172. Was this a new sewer?—Yes.

1173. When was it made?—They commenced it, I think, some time in June, 1876, and it was left unfinished, so that neither a car nor vehicle of any sort could pass down there.

1174. How long was the road left unrepaired while the sewer was being made?—It was a long time.

1175. After the sewer was completed was the road properly finished?—Well, it was.

1176. Does the sewer of your own house communicate with it?—No; I have one for my own house, three feet under it, but it does not communicate with the main sewer.

1177. Do you mean to say that they have made the sewer in Burdett-avenue three feet above your sewer?—Yes.

1178. And what do the other houses do?—It is low enough for them.

1179. What does Mr. Doyle mean by saying that every house is connected with the main sewer?—I do not know.

1180. Were you called upon to make a connecting sewer between your own house and that drain?—No, I was not.

1181. Is the sewer from your house into the sea?—Yes.

1182. And three feet lower than the main sewer?—I am told so by the landlord who built the house.

1183. How much above the level of high-water mark is the present sewer made down Burdett-avenue?—I never saw it within two feet of it.

1184. Was there anything to prevent the sewer in Burdett-avenue from being made low enough for your house?—Nothing but the expense.

1185. (To the Town Clerk).—Have you got Mr. Jones' letter?

1186. (To Mr. Doyle).—Is this place in the state that Mr. Jones' describes it to be?—The wall is broken down, and the sewage discharges itself above high-water mark.

1187. Did you make it discharge itself above high-water mark?—It always did so.

1188. Was this sewer made in 1876?—Yes, but there was an old one there before.

1189. I understood you to say that everyone was made connect their house-drains with the main sewers; Mr. Jones says that his sewer is three feet lower than the other one?—Yes, it is.

1190. In making this sewer, did you adopt the outfall of the old sewer?—Yes.

1191. Do you propose to make another sewer there?—We have applied for powers to make an intercepting sewer, which will catch it.

1192. How long was the old sewer made?—Long before my time.

1193. Do you discharge the sewage there a number of feet above high-water mark?—Yes.

1194. Do you know it is a nuisance?—We will provide for it properly hereafter.

1195. Do you know it is a nuisance?—The water washes it away at high-water. There were some of the houses there had cesspools, and we made them connect with the new sewer.

1196. How can the water wash it away at high-water if the discharge is several feet above high-water mark?—It does so sometimes.

1197. What has become of the sewage since last October? Have you turned all the cesspools into the sewer which has since been broken; and if so, where does the sewage go?—I think it goes out to sea.

1198. Town Clerk.—This is Mr. Jones' letter to the Town Commissioners:—

"17th February, 1877.

"To the Chairman of the Town Commissioners.

"SIR,—Allow me to call the attention of the board to the dangerous and disgraceful state of the sea-wall at the end of Burdett-avenue, which was thrown down by the late storm, in consequence of the wall being shook by opening a sewer. It appears as if no one took any notice of it. The steps going down to the sea-wall are thrown about, the coping stones are broken, and are carted away by the people; the iron railings are torn out of the stones, and thrown about the shore, and unless something is done to prevent the destruction of the wall it will be a matter of great expense before long. Hoping this will be the means of calling the attention of the Commissioners to it, and having it made right,

"I am, yours,

"JOHN JONES, Ratepayer."

1199. Mr. EXHAM (to Mr. Doyle).—Is that wall within the township?—Yes.

1200. Is it part of the shore wall at the sea?—Yes.

1201. Have you received any directions about it?—No; I mentioned it in the very last report. I did so in several reports, but I did not get directions to have it remedied.

The Town Clerk.—The Commissioners believe they are not bound to repair that wall.

Mr. Jones.—The Commissioners repaired that wall ten years ago.

1202. Mr. LAWLESS.—Did the Commissioners express any opinion upon the rebuilding or repairing of the sewer?

Town Clerk.—That was not brought before the Commissioners.

1203. Mr. EXHAM.—Mr. Doyle says it is the property of the Commissioners, and this gentleman says that the stones are being carted away, that the coping is broken, and that the iron rails are scattered about. If it is the property of the Commissioners, are they to allow it to remain in that condition?

Mr. Barrett (Chairman of the Commissioners).—My opinion is that we should not allow it to continue in that state.

KINGSTOWN.
April 11, 1877.

Mr. Doyle.

Mr. DOYLE recalled.

1204. Mr. EXHAM.—The Commissioners are bound to have, under the 13th section of the Towns Improvement Clauses Act, 1847, a map of the township on a scale of not less than sixty inches to the mile. Have you got such a map?—No. There is a map on the wall beside you of the town before we got the extended area.

1205. Is it on that scale?—No, it is not.

1206. Was that map made before you came into office?—It was.

1207. Did you ever make application to the Commissioners for powers to carry out the Act of Parliament with regard to the map?—I did not.

1208. Why did you not?—I told them I could not comply with the terms of the law as regarded the extended township.

1209. Why could you not?—Because it was not published; the Ordnance map was not published.

1210. The Act of Parliament does not say anything about that. What it does say is this (reads):—

"The Commissioners shall, as soon as conveniently may be after the passing of said Act (that is, the Act of 1847), procure or cause to be made a survey and map of the district on a scale of not less than sixty inches to the mile."

They are to have the map made by some competent person, and you, as surveyor, could have made it. Do you know that clause of the Act?—Yes.

1211. Why, then, did you not ask for authority to carry out the provisions of that Act, so that the ratepayers could see what sewers were made?—I did not do it.

1212. Did you ever ask for authority to have it done?—Shortly after the passing of the Extension Act the subject of having a map came up, and I was directed to make one, but I objected to doing it, because I did not think I was the person to do it.

1213. When did you get orders to do it?—I think about five years ago.

1214. The Act of Parliament was passed in the year 1847, and no complete map has been made yet?—That is so.

1215. Did you ever see a report made by Mr. Pallas in 1867, when he was town surveyor?—Yes.

1216. Do you know that he called attention of the Commissioners to the fact that there was no map of the Kingstown sewerage?—I think so.

1217. Therefore the Commissioners were apprised so far back as 1867 that the Act of Parliament was not complied with, and that there was no means of ascertaining the levels, and so on?—That is so.

1218. Mr. LAWLESS.—Was Mr. Pallas at that time surveyor to the township?—He was called upon to produce a map and scheme of sewerage at that time, and he was appointed surveyor shortly afterwards.

1219. Mr. EXHAM.—How often have you been at this Letterkenny railway? Have they not their office in Londonderry?—Yes.

1220. How often have you been away at Londonderry about this railway?—I think I was not away more than twice.

1221. And how long on these occasions?—Two days at the most.

1222. And the days going and coming?—No, two days, including the travelling.

1223. Am I right in saying that on the 10th or 12th March last tenders were opened or received for the construction of this railway on plans prepared by you?—Yes, you are.

1224. Have you an office in Londonderry?—No.

1225. Where were the parties to communicate with you?—They called here in Kingstown.

1226. This railway is being constructed under a renewed Act of last year?—Yes, there is no contract yet entered into.

1227. Are they not going to expend £70,000 within a year and a half?—They hope to do so.

1228. Is that work to be carried out under your supervision?—That is not settled yet.

1229. Have you applied to be appointed engineer to construct these works?—I am trying to better my position. If I do so I'll give up the township.

1230. I only want to know if it is your intention to try and carry on both?—I was always a railway engineer, and it is more suited to my tastes.

1231. Mr. LAWLESS.—Have you ever applied to the Commissioners for leave to attend to that Letterkenny business?—I did not mention it.

1232. Mr. EXHAM.—I understood you to say on last Saturday that during the pendency of the works in the township by Messrs. Edmundson's firm, Mr. Wigham, one of the members of that firm put his name to a bill of exchange for your benefit for £30, and which you afterwards took up?—I said certainly that he gave me an accommodation bill, but he merely gave me the money, and I gave him an I O U for it.

1233. Did Mr. Wigham give you money on your I O U?—Yes.

1234. During the pendency of the works?—Yes, and it was paid by me.

1235. Mr. LAWLESS.—How much was it? I think it was £30; whatever it was I paid it.

1236. Mr. EXHAM.—Did you apply to Mr. Wigham for that purpose?—Yes, Mr. Wigham and I were intimate, and I thought I might intrude myself on him for the time being.

1237. Was it to be a loan for any length of time?—It was an I O U.

1238. How far had the works then progressed?—They had progressed very far at the time.

1239. Were you giving certificates to his firm from time to time for the work?—Yes.

1240. Was it to be a loan for a month, or for a year or two years?—I returned the money the moment I could. I told him it would be a very short time. It was not an accommodation bill. I made a mistake in saying so.

1241. I observed a letter in the paper yesterday morning in which Mr. Wigham, of the firm of Edmundson and Company, said:—

"Our attention having been called to a statement by Mr. Doyle, town surveyor, in which he said that he had allowed Messrs. Edmundson in 1871 to substitute one description of hydrant stone for another, we think it right to say that we had no wish to make this substitution, but Mr. Doyle in the exercise of the discretion vested in him under our contract requested us to do so; and although we were not called upon to make any deduction in consequence of this exchange, we submitted to a deduction from our account rather than get into a law-suit with the Commissioners. We also observe that Mr. Doyle is reported to have said that he had received an accommodation bill for £30 from Mr. Wigham, a partner in our firm. It is scarcely necessary for us to say that this statement is utterly untrue, neither Mr. Wigham on his own behalf, nor we as a firm, having ever had any bill transactions of any kind whatever with Mr. Doyle."

Was it at your own request that they substituted one kind of stone for another?—I beg to say that statement is utterly untrue.

1242. Do you state that it was not at your request it was done?—I do. It was not.

1243. Did they put them in without your knowledge?—No. But it is perfectly well known that the quantity of Dalkey granite could not be got, and we substituted mountain granite instead.

1244. Was it then a mutual arrangement?—They asked me was it all right, and I said "Yes."

1245. Did they do it with your sanction?—Yes.

1246. But not at your suggestion?—No.

1247. What was the nature of the difficulty in getting Dalkey granite?—They were to be stones three feet six inches square, and there were such a vast number—240 odd—required in such a hurry, that they could not be got in time.

1248. Was it not a curious thing then to put it in the contract?—Well, it was a curious thing, but it did not seem so at the time.

Mr. JOHN R. WIGHAM examined.

1249. Mr. EXHAM.—You are a partner of the firm of Edmundson and Company?—Yes. I am the person who had charge of these works at Kingstown. I attend here to-day in consequence of what I saw in the papers—a report of Mr. Doyle's evidence, in which he stated that I had passed an accommodation bill, or given an accommodation bill to him. Now, it was particularly unpleasant to have a statement of this kind made; and it is a statement which is not only utterly untrue, but peculiarly inapplicable, because I never accepted a bill in my life, and all the transactions of Edmundson and Company for the past thirty years were cash transactions. They never, as a firm, accepted a bill during that period of thirty years, and I never had any such transaction with Mr. Doyle.

1250. That is admitted by him now to be a fact?—With regard to the stones. In the same newspaper report of the evidence given here, there is an account about these stones, from which it would seem as if an inference might be drawn that Messrs. Edmundson had derived some benefit from the liberty given by Mr. Doyle to supply smaller stones, and that we might do this in a corrupt and collusory kind of way, in connexion with this bill that he spoke of. I think it right to say in the outset, that I never gave or received any favour from Mr. Doyle except this. Mr. Doyle called on me one day, apparently in great distress and embarrassment, and asked me for some money, saying to me, "If you oblige me with £40 I will give you an I O U, and pay you before Monday." I did not like to be hard on a man in distress, and gave him a cheque for the money; but it was not paid as promised on Monday; it was not paid for a long time, although it was applied for again and again, till my patience was exhausted, and it had to be sought for through our solicitor, and even he was not able to get it for some time, but it was ultimately paid. It took three years to collect the debt, which was not paid until January, 1876.

1251. The debt was £40, and I see from the memorandum you produce that it ran up to £52 12*s.* 8*d.*, including the costs. Was interest not charged on it?—No. Mr. Doyle has said that the statement of Messrs. Edmundson in the letter in the paper as to the stone being substituted at his request is untrue, but he says it was done with his sanction. I am prepared to show that the statement of my firm that these stones were supplied at his request was perfectly correct, and is not untrue. I submitted a tender to the Kingstown Commissioners on the part of my firm for supplying these waterworks at Kingstown. It was not a bulk sum; the items were given in detail—so much for pipes and so much for various other items. I was furnished, as well as other contractors, with a copy of the specification; I filled in the price and sent in the tender which was accepted. I was sent for to attend the Board, and my tender being then and there accepted by the Commissioners, we had some pleasant interchange of courtesy about it. I had to initial the different items in the specification, and when I came to the clause about the stones I found the word "Dalkey," which was not in the original tender.

1252. Was it not in the original printed one?—No; it was not in the form supplied to us, but when I came to initial the copy of that printed form which the Commissioners had, the word Dalkey was in it. I asked what it was for, and Mr. Doyle said it was a matter of very little consequence, that Dalkey was the best granite, and that I would like to give the best material. "But," said he, "I know personally that there will be no difficulty in getting this stone." On this assurance I allowed the word "Dalkey" to remain, and I initialed it, and it is in the contract. The work commenced; and very shortly after, Mr. Doyle said to me (I used to go out to the place frequently about various matters)—"With regard to this Dalkey stone, I'll save you all trouble about it. I'll get the stone for you, and you will have no trouble. I happen to know a most respectable man in Dalkey, who will supply them about as cheaply as any other person." I said to him, "I have already taken tenders for supplying these stones, and I have the prices fixed at which I was intending to enter into a contract for them." And he replied to that by saying, "I'll undertake that the gentleman I refer to will sell you the stones at the same price as you will get them from any other person at." I then agreed to his arrangement. The work was allowed to progress for some time, when I got a letter from Mr. Doyle.

1253. Did he name the individual from whom he was to get the stones?—Yes; Mr. Cunningham. That letter from Mr. Doyle requested me to pay £15 to Mr. Cunningham, on account of some stones delivered and some not delivered. The letter is as follows:—

"January 15th, 1870, Kingstown Commissioners' Office,
"Harrymount.

"To Messrs. Edmundson & Company.

"GENTLEMEN,—The bearer, Mr. John Cunningham, the contractor for hydrant blocks, would feel much indebted if you would kindly advance him, on account of his contract, £15. He has some twelve blocks delivered, and he has in hands some twenty more ready for delivering, and which I'll engage in a week will be on the ground. Your compliance with this request will very much oblige me, and be of great service to him.

"I am yours,

"F. A. DOYLE."

And here is the receipt for the money—

"Received from Messrs. Edmundson and Company, £15, on account of hydrant stones. John Cunningham, Dublin, 16th July, 1870."

And then there is this postcript—

"These stones are 12*s.* each. John Cunningham."

1254. You say that the word "Dalkey" was not the form in which you tendered?

Town Clerk.—The Town Commissioners told Mr. Doyle to make that alteration.

Witness.—The entry about the stones being at 12*s.* was made by Mr. Cunningham, because I said, "My understanding with Mr. Doyle is, that you are to charge me the same rate as I could get the stones from other parties for; it was on that understanding I agreed to do this." He was quite satisfied when I told him the price. At the time this money was paid, I had no idea that the stones were not the full size—the price of course is the full one that we were to pay and did pay for the sized stones in the contract.

1255. Do you mean to say that you paid this man Cunningham for the stones at the full price on Mr. Doyle's certificate?—Certainly; for every one of them.

1256. As if they were three feet six square?—Yes.

1257. Did Mr. Doyle after that refuse to give you a certificate of their being the full size?—Yes; shortly after I paid this money to Mr. Cunningham, my foreman informed me they were not the size. I went at once to Mr. Doyle, and told him so, and he said they would do perfectly well; that there was no possibility of getting Dalkey granite stones of that size, that anyhow he was satisfied with them, and that ought to be enough for me; and then I said if he was satisfied of course I was satisfied. Shortly after that I received another letter from Mr. Doyle to pay for a further delivery of stones.

1258. After being aware of the fact that the other stones were not the full size?—Yes.

1259. Did you receive offers from other persons to supply full size stones at the same price?—Yes.

1260. Could you have got the full-sized stones without any difficulty?—There might be some difficulty. I believe there is something in that; but I could have got them.

KINGSTOWN. April 11, 1877.

Mr. John R. Wigham.

1261. What is the date of the second letter you received?—I'll read it. (Reads):—

"August 13th, 1870,
"Kingstown Commissioners' Office,
"Harrymount, Kingstown.

"DEAR SIR,—The bearer, Mr. Cunningham, has delivered sixty large blocks for hydrants; and as he wants money, will you kindly let him have the amount, deducting the former payment.

"Yours, &c.,
"F. A. DOYLE."

And here is the account:—

"Messrs. Edmundson and Co. to John Cunningham, sixty hydrant stones, £36; by cash, £15; balance, £21."

And it is receipted thus—"Paid, £21." Here again is the account in full:—

"14th November, 1870, Messrs. Edmundson and Co., Capel-street, to John Cunningham.—To delivering 131 hydrant stones at Kingstown, at 12*s*., £78 12*s*.

That was at the three feet six square, the original price.

"Deduct sixty paid before, £36; balance, £42 12*s*. Paid. Certified as correct. F. A. DOYLE, C.E."

I have only to say now that I trust you will see the stones were got at his request.

1262. After that were you made take off a certain portion of your account, on the ground that that was an incorrect certificate?—Yes.

1263. How much was taken off?—£50; they wanted to deduct £70 and I objected, but rather than have a regular fight we took off £50. £50 is but a small item in so large an account.

1264. You mean on the pipe-laying and everything?—Yes; our contract was for £9,000. We paid, however, for the stones as if they were the full size.

Mr. Doyle.

1265. Mr. Doyle.—At the time we entered into these contracts the word "Dalkey" was agreed on by a resolution of the Commissioners. The Messrs. Edmundson accepted the contract with the word "Dalkey" in it. After some time I brought over this man Cunningham and he agreed to deliver the blocks. Mr. Wigham and I were walking over the works one day and I drew his attention to the blocks, and said, "That is not the size; how does this come?" He said he really did not know; and I then said they were small and not large enough, and he must take something off, and he replied, "Yes."

1266. When was this?—At the commencement of the works in 1870. It happened early in the morning. He promised that if the same thing occurred again he would give the full reduction. I merely gave him a certificate that the stone was on the ground.

1267. Did you not give him a certificate that there was £78 worth on the ground? Did you not certify for them as contract stones?—I was not to know anything about the price.

1268. I am not asking you anything about the price; but if you refer to the letter of August, 1870, you will find that you certified for sixty "large" blocks?—They were "large" blocks. I wish to be put on my oath about this matter. A man may be poor and not have money, but he may be honourable.

1269. Was it before or after the date of your letter of 13th August, 1870, that you had this conversation with Mr. Wigham, and called his attention to the size of the blocks?—I'll refer to my notes and see.

1270. Had you any contract or agreement with Mr. Cunningham about those stones?—Certainly not; I merely introduced him to Mr. Wigham as a stone contractor.

1271. What did you mean by using the words "large stone" in the letter?—They are large blocks. Three feet square would be large.

1272. Did you not mean to certify that they were blocks equal to contract?—No.

1273. Your own specification specifies exactly what they are to be. Did you measure them before you gave the certificate?—There were very few of them down at the time, and I drew the attention of Mr. Wigham to them.

1274. Why did you recommend Mr. Cunningham to Mr. Wigham?—He is a well known quarryman in Dalkey, and he is very well able to do this work. He has done work for the Dublin Corporation.

Mr. Wigham.—I adhere to my statement that it was I called attention to the smallness of the stones.

1275. Did Cunningham allow your firm to deduct anything from his account?—No; we have his receipt for the full amount.

Mr. Doyle.

Mr. DOYLE recalled.

1276. Mr. EXHAM.—Do you know Willmount-avenue?—Yes.

1277. Do you know the cottage occupied by Mr. William Read?—Yes.

1278. Do you know how that avenue is sewered?—There is no sewer in it.

1279. At all?—No.

1280. How is it drained?—It is private ground, and we have no liberty to go into it. We have a water main, but there is no gas main in it. The houses are just beside the sea, so of course they have nothing to do but run the sewer out through the rampart wall.

1281. Do you know the sewer from Mr. Read's cottage in Willmount-avenue?—I do, well.

1282. Is it run through the rampart wall?—It is.

1283. Through the wall and not against it?—Not against it.

1284. Are you quite positive about that?—It is not open to the sea. There are crevices through the wall, which the sewage goes through underneath.

1285. Does the sewage ooze through underneath?—Yes; but the pipe does not show. You cannot see it.

1286. Is it a sewer or pipe under the care of the Commissioners?—No.

1287. Why do you say it is not?—They cannot go in there as it is private ground, unless the attention of the sanitary authority was drawn to it.

1288. Was the attention of the sanitary authority drawn to it?—There was some dispute about the place between Mr. Read and some other person; they had some law over it.

1289. Was it Miss Williams?—Yes.

1290. Has Mr. Read ever applied to you, as town surveyor, with reference to this place?—Yes, and I have gone there to look at the place.

1291. Have you communicated the state of affairs there to the Commissioners?—No.

1292. Have you asked for instructions concerning it?—No.

1293. Have you communicated with the sanitary authority concerning it?—The executive sanitary officer has looked after it.

1294. Mr. Ennis?—No, it was Mr. Craig, the sub-sanitary officer.

1295. Has the sub-sanitary officer made any report about it?—Yes; he has compelled the sewer to be opened, and laid down afresh.

1296. Does not the sewer remain in the very same state still? Does it not terminate on the inside of the rampart wall?—It does.

1297. Do you call that a sufficient system of drainage for the houses?—I do not. It is my impression that the work there should be properly done, and Miss Williams has promised to do it.

1298. Were there any directions given about the work being properly done?—No.

1299. Did you ever receive any instructions from the Commissioners about it?—No, never.

1300. Is it in the Glasthule drainage district?—Yes.

1301. Were there any proceedings taken against Mr. Read and Miss Williams?—I believe the sub-sanitary officer took proceedings against them both.

1302. What was the result, do you know—It was that there was a concession made on both sides, and the pipes were laid down afresh.

1303. The Town Clerk.—I have found the resolution with reference to the map of the sewers. (Reads):—

"4th September, 1876. Resolved—'That the town surveyor be and is hereby directed to complete the map of the township as intended by the Kingstown Extension Act, 1874, and in accordance with section 34 of the 10 & 11 Vic.; the Commissioners considering that this work is included in the duties of the office of town surveyor.'"

1304. Mr. EXHAM (to Mr. Doyle).—Has anything been done since that time?—No; it was a very bad season. I intend to apply to the Commissioners to furnish me with instructions to carry out the survey.

1305. Why have you not made the application before this?—The winter time is a bad time to do it. I have just now to say a few words with respect to the charges brought against me. One was about the hydrant stones, and another was that I certified for a quantity of stones, and trusted the man to deliver the rest. Now, I say that the man (Neale) did deliver the required number of tons of stones, and I produced my notes before the inquiry, but they would not be taken in evidence by the committee.

1306. Did the Commissioners refuse to take your notes as evidence?—Yes; I was told that they made the thing worse. Here are the notes which I offered to lay before them at the time. (Notes produced.)

1307. Did you explain the notes?—Yes.

1308. You heard the explanation about the quarry?—Yes; that is a very different thing.

1309. Do you say that Neale actually delivered the correct number of tons?—I will swear it.

1310. How was it that Neale never made them pay him?—I do not know; he got £20. There was another complaint made against me with reference to the stop-cock—that I certified for it. The fact is I looked over all these things, and certified for them as I found them. We had a water inspector, and if he saw it off at any time he would have reported it to me, but he did not, and of course I had no evidence about it. In 1873, Mr. M'Evoy was chairman. There was a very particular bit of sewer to be made in a place called Edgar's-avenue. Mr. M'Evoy came with me and saw the work necessary to be done. We were connecting private houses, and he ordered me to do it at once for fear the man would change his mind, and I did so. When the thing came to be paid for the Commissioners refused to pay it. I applied to Mr. M'Evoy, and he wrote to Mr. Ennis and said he had told me to do it, but said he thought I had got the order. I could not have got the order for three weeks, but I did the work by the order of Mr. M'Evoy.

1311. Was that the only reason they had for saying what they did?—I was really unaware what the other irregularities were. I have been here for eight years, and during that time party spirit ran very high amongst the Commissioners, and it was very hard to keep out of difficulty with them, but I do not know of anything else.

1312. Town Clerk.—I may say with reference to Tilley's matter that I find there was £9 lodged in 1871. Mr. Doyle was to hand in the value of certain articles to be disposed of, and he did hand in £9. The money referred to was paid by Mr. Doyle for Mr. Tilley in February, 1871.

1313. Do you consider Mr. Tilley's money was part of the £9?—I do.

1314. (Suggested by Mr. M'Evoy).—How do you know it was included in the £9? You said before it was not paid?—I think I can trust my memory about it.

1315. Mr. Doyle.—There was a time here when we had an inspector. He was a favourite of Mr. M'Evoy's. I was annoyed out of my life by that gentleman. He acted as a kind of detective.

1316. You say an inspector. What do you mean by that?—I say he was appointed inspector.

1317. Did he hold any office under the Commissioners?—He was store clerk, head ganger, and everything of that kind.

1318. What was his name?—Byrne.

1319. Has he any office at present?—No; he was dismissed.

Mr. M'Evoy.—He was dismissed by me in June, 1872.

1320. Did you complain of anything in the conduct of Byrne?—Yes. He was a spy set to watch my movements, and make reports to the chairman. We commenced to make a sewer in Upper George's-street——

1321. When?—In 1873, I think. Immediately when the aperture was made to commence this sewer, I found a man named Brady there, as he said, by Mr. M'Evoy's direction.

1322. What do you mean?—He was there to watch every movement of mine, and to give information to Mr. M'Evoy.

1323. Did he say so?—He did; and he remained there till I called the police, and had him removed.

1324. Was Mr. M'Evoy then the chairman of the board?—I think he was.

1325. Did he place this man Byrne there to report to him how the work was being done?—Yes.

1326. Was it for the purpose of seeing that the proper materials were used?—I really could not say. He reported that there was a bit of stone in the sewer, and that it would not work.

1327. Was he put there to see how the work was done?—To interfere with my movements.

1328. Did he interfere with your movements?—No.

1329. Was Mr. M'Evoy's object to see that the work was properly done?—We had not actually commenced the work at the time.

1330. Was it after that you opened the sewer?—We opened it for the purpose of beginning before that.

1331. Suppose any ratepayer in the township chose to employ a competent man—say a clerk of works, or a man that he believes to be competent—to stand there from day to day, to see what materials are used, and that the sewer is properly built, would he not be justified in doing so?—He must not go amongst my men.

1332. If any large ratepayer, who had an interest in seeing the money of the town properly expended, said to a man, "I'll give you a couple of guineas a week to go there and take a note of everything you consider wrong," do you, as town surveyor, think you would be justified in giving the man so employed in charge of the police?—I consider that once I take charge of the ground no one has a right to enter it.

1333. Do you mean to say that no ratepayer has a right to go there and inspect the work?—He may, if he comes in a civil way.

1334. Do you not think the position of the town surveyor is that of a servant to the Town Commissioners, and not their master, and that he is also through them, in a sense, the servant of the ratepayers?—Yes.

1335. Would not the proper course for you, as town surveyor, if you considered you had a cause of complaint against a Commissioner or a ratepayer for interfering with you in the proper discharge of your duty, be to bring it before the Commissioners, and ask their instructions as to how you should act?—So I say also; and I was told to turn him off the ground.

1336. Who directed you to turn him off the ground?—No contractor will allow any one on his ground. He has full possession of it during the time the work is in progress, and I was in the position of a contractor.

1337. You were? Why do you say that?—Certainly, because we were doing the work ourselves.

1338. Do you not think every ratepayer in the town, as an employer in one sense, as it was the ratepayers' money was paying for this work, had a right to go there?—I was the contractor, as it were, doing the work for a certain sum of money.

1339. Do you not think the ratepayers have a right to see that the work is properly done?—But this was a very peculiar thing, for it was done by the chairman of the Town Commissioners.

1340. Was no one to overlook your work? Were

KINGSTOWN. April 11, 1877.

Mr. Doyle.

you to be contractor and inspector both?—Yes, because I was carrying out the work.

1341. Is it, then, your notion that no one was to supervise your work or look after it?—No one.

1342. Is there a sewer being constructed at the Sandycove-road?—Yes; it has been constructed.

1343. When did you survey the works there?—I often did.

1344. When did you survey them last?—I think on Monday last.

1345. Has there been any plan upon which is set out the dimensions of the pipes along that road, and to what point they are to be conducted?—Yes.

1346. Will you be good enough to refer to it?—They are in the contract plan.

1347. Will you let me see those plans?

Mr. Perrin.—We complain with respect to the dimension of the pipe sewers. It is the pipe now being laid along the main road, and at one point it goes to join and connect with a larger one—a brick one, two feet larger, I think, than the new pipe sewer.

1348. Mr. EXHAM (to Mr. Doyle).—Have you any plan or specification showing the distance that the fifteen-inch pipe was to go along the road?—Yes.

1349. Before you laid down your plan for the fifteen-inch pipe did you make yourself acquainted with the quantity of sewers that you intended to discharge into it?—I estimated that there were a certain number along the road.

1350. Did you, as a matter of business, learn what sewers were to be made provision for?—To be sure I did.

1351. Are there not two sewers on that road coming into that pipe afterwards, and are not the dimensions of one of them eighteen inches?—I am not aware of that.

1352. Are there not sewers from several houses along that road of greater capacity than the sewer being now made?—I am not aware of that fact.

1353. Was it not necessary to know that before you laid down the size and levels of that pipe?—I think not. If a house has too large a sewer you are not to continue that.

1354. Do you know Lawson-terrace?—Yes.

1355. Do you know the houses opposite to it?—Yes.

1356. Are the works now at the gate opposite that?—Yes.

1357. Are you laying a nine-inch pipe there, and giving it a perpendicular drop of five feet into your new sewer as a continuation of an eighteen-inch pipe that was insufficient for the requirements of Lawson-terrace alone. Is that the fact?—I have not seen it. We have an inspector there on the ground. He could tell you.

1358. Has that man, up to the present moment, stated that to you?—No.

1359. Were plans made by you for the new sewerage where that is the character of the works to be executed—namely, that connexions were to be made from a larger into a smaller pipe of nine or twelve inches?—They won't be made any larger at any rate; that is what has been planned.

1360. Is that so?—The others may be too large.

1361. As a matter of fact has the mouth of that pipe sewer at Lawson-terrace been open to view for more than a week—I mean the one down Lawson-terrace?—They are only up to it, and I say that a nine-inch pipe is quite sufficient.

1362. Are you aware of another sewer within a very few yards of that one, and of the same dimensions, that is to be connected with the sewer you are making?—No; I am not.

1363. When did you survey it?—I surveyed and laid down the levels; we have an inspector there.

1364. Has he any tracings with reference to this work?—He has.

1365. Do you know whether any old eighteen-inch sewers are there or not?—There are old rubble sewers.

1366. Then they are there?—Yes.

1367. Did you make yourself acquainted with the state of the existing sewers in the district before you laid your plan for this sewer?—I did not examine them.

1368. Did you think it necessary to ascertain the real amount of work to be done to carry off the sewage?—I certainly did that.

1369. Are you aware that that comes from a very large district, and that they are pumping out quarries into it?—Yes.

1370. Are you making provision for taking it away?—Yes.

1371. Mr. LAWLESS.—Mr. Pallas, in his report, a copy of which was published in the newspapers of the day, says, that in many of the streets and nearly all the courts and lanes, there is no provision made for drainage, and that where there are sewers there was a deposit of sewage mud in them, and that some were nearly choked up. Have you opened and examined them?—No.

1372. Do you know if they have ever been complained of?—Yes; many of them.

1373. Have the complaints been attended to and remedied?—I have seen a great many of them, and there is no deposit in them. At the time that report was made we had not the Vartry water, and of course more or less deposit lodged in them. Since we got the Vartry water we have them well flushed, and now even the old sewers are doing pretty well.

1374. Were those choked up sewers ever cleaned?—I do not know. The points are not marked. As a rule, we do not clean any sewers.

1375. How then are you able to speak as to the condition of the sewers?—I am.

1376. And that they are in a fair condition?—Yes.

1377. Mr. Pallas at that time stated that the sewers were opened and examined, and many of them were found to be completely choked up, and you say you did not examine them to see if they are cleaned out since?—No. At that time there was not a sufficient supply of water to flush them.

1378. When they were putting down the pipe in Lawson-terrace did you get the mouth of the other sewer cleaned out?—It is not my business to see about that. It is the duty of the inspector.

1379. Who is the inspector?—Mr. Milligan.

1380. The man who is clerk of the works?—Yes.

1381. Mr. Perrin.—When I went there my tenant pointed out to me the manner in which this connexion was being made. I asked did they clean out the mouth of the sewer coming into it. "No," they said, "the poor men would be poisoned with the stench coming down." I got one man to try, and he said the sewer was full, and we had to give him a glass of whisky to revive him after his experiment. So, you see, the whole sewage will be choked up just opposite to our door.

1382. Mr. LAWLESS (to Mr. Doyle).—Did you lay down any plan of the levels on which that pipe sewer was to be laid down?—Yes.

1383. Did you give instructions about the levels of the sewer at Lawson-terrace?—Yes.

1384. Has the clerk of works the section?—Yes.

1385. Can you tell what the fall is there?—I have a book on it to which I can refer.

1386. Did you take the levels yourself and put down sight-pegs to indicate the levels to the men?—The inspector did so.

1387. Should not that be done by the engineer?—I do it whenever there is any necessity for it.

1388. Is there not always a necessity for doing it?—Not at all.

1389. Will you produce the section showing the levels?—Of course. I'll bring you in the book.

1390. Mr. EXHAM.—Will you undertake to say that in all the sewers now being constructed—which are open and plain to be seen—that the water, or sewage stuff, is flowing freely through, and that there is no deposit in them?—There cannot be any deposit; there may be some water lying at some places.

Mr. Doyle.

1391. Is it stagnant or offensive?—The works are not finished yet, and, of course, there may be a little bit of mortar causing a partial stoppage of the water.

1392. Do you pretend that the water and sewage stuff is running through that pipe at Lawson-terrace?—I dare say not.

Mr. Perrin.—I'll undertake to say that the sewer is half full now.

1393. Mr. EXHAM (to Mr. Doyle.)—How do you manage to join pipes that have to be submerged in water in order to put them in their position?—You do them as well as you can. You must only have recourse to the very best means to do them.

1394. What was the very best means you had recourse to if you were laying them in water, as Mr. Perrin says?—Well, the inspector will tell you that.

1395. Are you not the proper person to explain it?—I might be in another part of the town when it was required to be done.

1396. Did you see half a dozen of these pipes put down?—(No answer.)

1397. What is the fall there?—The inclination of the sewer there would be one foot in 375.

1398. Mr. LAWLESS.—What will the total length of that sewer be when completed?—The whole line of sewer will be, I think, about 2,200 feet.

1399. What number of sewers and of what size is to be discharged into this pipe?—(No answer.)

1400. Do you go on with the new work and connect the old sewers and pipes with the new one as you meet them by accident? If there are two 18-inch sewers, as we are told there are, which you have now made to discharge into a 9-inch sewer, is it your opinion that that sewer will be able to carry away the sewage from those others?—The 18-inch sewers are quite too large.

1401. Assuming that these 18-inch sewers were considered necessary at the time they were made, and that they are there, do you consider that a 12-inch pipe is sufficient to carry off the sewage from the 18-inch sewers?—The 12-inch pipe we have laid is quite sufficient for that purpose.

1402. Will it be sufficient to carry away surface water in case of floods?—Such waters must get off the best way they can.

1403. Mr. Pallas at the time reported that the sewers he suggested would not be sufficient except another sewer was provided for carrying away the surface water and that provision was also made for taking away heavy rain-falls, and his sewers were a great deal larger than yours?—I say they were smaller, and I do not consider Mr. Pallas an authority on the subject.

1404. Let us see the specification for making this sewer?—Yes. (Specification produced).

1405. What kind of bricks are to be used?—The best county Dublin grey stock brick.

1406. When did you inspect the works going on at that place?—Well, I am daily inspecting; unless something interferes I am daily at the works.

1407. I can understand that as the ordinary duty of any man in your position?—I was there, I think, on Monday.

1408. Were you not there since?—No.

1409. Were they then building a man-hole?—Yes; I think they are up to a man-hole now.

1410. Is the lower portion of the man-hole actually constructed?—I am not aware.

1411. Do you get reports from your inspector?—No.

1412. Does he not give you a daily report?—No; I am at the works nearly every day.

1413. Are you then able to say if the lower portion of the man-hole is completed?—I'll see that when I go round.

1414. Do you know what kind of bricks are now used in the man-hole?—I have not seen them.

1415. Mr. EXHAM (bricks produced).—Do you see those bricks? Are they best county Dublin grey stock bricks?—Yes.

1416. Do you mean to say those are the kind of bricks they are building with?—Yes; one of them is a Boghall brick.

1417. Is that half brick a best county Dublin grey stock brick?—Yes.

1418. Where did you get them?—At M'Cormick's, Kill-o'-the-Grange.

1419. Is that a best county Dublin grey stock brick such as is referred to in the specification?—There is a difference of opinion about which sort of brick is the best.

1420. Suppose I had you employed as my architect, and that you put in the contract that you were to be supplied with the best county Dublin grey stock brick, would you order those off the ground?—No, I would pass them.

1421. Where do these bricks come from (pointing to some of the specimens)?—From Boghall.

1422. Where is Boghall?—In the county Wicklow.

1423. Is that according to the specification?—It is quite as good—better in fact.

1424. Every moment that you certify to the contractor, as you are bound to do, are you not certifying to an untruth?—No; they are quite as good.

1425. You admit they are not best county Dublin grey stock brick, no matter whether they are as good or not. You have a contract which provides that the contractor is to use a certain kind of brick, and you give him a certificate, on which money has been paid, that the works certified for have been executed according to the contract, while the bricks are not of the kind provided for in the specification. Was your certificate true?—Yes.

1426. If the brick used is got from Wicklow, and you certify that it is best county Dublin grey stock brick, I cannot see how it is true in that particular. You certify that it is done in accordance with your specification?—And to my satisfaction.

1427. Have you any power to vary the contract and specification?—Yes.

1428. Where is there any such power in the contract?—(No answer.)

1429. Suppose it was to be made of fire-brick and cement, would you have the power, according to your opinion, to allow the work to be done with Boghall brick?—That is a different matter.

1430. Are best county Dublin grey stock brick and Boghall brick not very different?—They are.

1431. Recollect what the contractor tenders to do—

"I hereby offer, tender, and agree to construct sewer and other works in accordance with the plans and specification, and to the entire satisfaction of the surveyor."

So that he must execute the works according to the plan and specification, and to your entire satisfaction. "Entire satisfaction" is additional. Do you consider you have power to vary the plan and specification, and allow a different class of bricks to be used?—(No answer.)

Mr. PETER MILLIGAN examined.

Mr. Peter Milligan.

1432. Mr. EXHAM.—Are you the clerk of works?—Yes.

1433. Did you ever see the specification?—Yes.

1434. Do you know that you should not allow any brick except the best county Dublin grey stock brick to be used?—I do. I notified the matter to the surveyor, and he said the bricks were good bricks; but, "At the same time," said he, "we will go according to the specification in the main sewers." I'll prove that the Boghall bricks are as good as the others; and this is the only man-hole built with them.

1435. You did your duty in informing the surveyor of the matter. What is the difference in price to the contractor between the two kinds of brick?—I dare say those are £2 2*s.* or £2 4*s.* at Boghall, but I do not know the price of the others.

KINGSTOWN. April 11, 1877.

Mr. Peter Milligan.

1436. Are the best county Dublin grey stock brick or the Boghall bricks the cheapest?—The Boghall are the dearest; the cost of carriage makes them dearer.

1437. Do you say that these (the bricks produced) are fair specimens of the bricks used?—I'll bring you worse ones.

1438. How are the pipes jointed?—The collared pipes with staunching clay, and some with cement; the patent pipes are not jointed with anything; they do not admit of it.

1439. Have they been matched and fitted in the channel?—They could not go into one another if they were not.

1440. By whose direction do you use these materials for the pipes?—I first had an understanding with Mr. Doyle.

1441. From whom did you receive your directions?—From the specification in the first instance.

1442. Did you receive directions from Mr. Doyle?—Of course; he is the engineer over me.

1443. You say that cement was used for some of these pipes?—The tops of the pipes are generally joined with staunching clay, and the rest with cement.

Mr. EXHAM.—I was under the impression that Mr. Doyle said he did not allow any cement to be used. I think he said that no engineer would use it.

Mr. Doyle.—I did say that.

1444. Mr. EXHAM.—And yet he says he is using cement.

Peter Milligan.—A very small bit.

1445. Mr. EXHAM.—Did you not get the specification?—Yes.

1446. Did you read it?—Yes.

1447. Are you carrying it out?—No; I could not get the materials, because they are not in the country.

1448. Did you report that fact to Mr. Doyle?—Mr. Doyle saw it.

1449. What sort of pipes are you using in the sewer?—Collar pipes.

1450. Do you know the difference between socket pipes and collar pipes? Do you know what a socket pipe is?—I called them that.

1451. Are these pipes known as socket pipes? Did you ever hear of a socket pipe?—Yes; there are ten ways of calling them.

1452. Do you know what a socket pipe is in the trade?—Of course I do know.

1453. This is the document prepared by the engineer under whom you are working; I ask you do you know as clerk of works what a socket pipe is?—Yes.

1454. Are the pipes used there socket pipes?—They are sockets and saddles both.

1455. Have they an internal diameter of the size required?—Yes.

1456. Do you know Jennings' patent pipe with a junction on the saddle?—I believe there is such a thing.

1457. Have you got any of them?—Not one.

1458. Have you reported that that part of the specification is not carried out by the contractor?—I do not think I did.

1459. Why? Were you told to let it go on?—No.

1460. Did you let it go on, though he was not complying with contract?—I did.

1461. Then Jennings' patent pipe is not laid opposite each place where it ought to be?—No. The junction is on the side; a different pipe is used.

1462. Did you get at the time you began a plan and section of each new sewer to work by?—I had them always to call upon if I wanted them, but I never got them.

1463. Did Mr. Doyle ever furnish you as clerk of works with a plan and section in order that you might go by them?—He gave me the specification.

1464. Was that the only guide you had?—Yes.

1465. Did he ever give you any level pegs?—Yes; he laid down pegs, and gave me the inclination.

1466. Do you mean to say that he laid down any level pegs?—He showed me the levels.

1467. How far apart were they?—Some 100 or 150 feet apart.

1468. You say he showed them to you?—I would not know anything about them if he did not show them to me.

1469. (To Mr. Doyle).—I understood you to say that you did not lay down any level pegs?—I have done so frequently.

1470. Has the present contractor for the work any specification or written instructions as to the depth to which he is to go?—He has the specification and plans.

1471. Are the levels marked on the plan?—They are.

1472. Mr. LAWLESS.—Has the contractor a plan showing the levels to which he is to work?—He has a tracing from the plan and also the specification.

1473. Has he a plan showing the levels on which he is to work?—Certainly.

1474. Will you show me one of those for Lawson-terrace?—Yes. (Produced).

1475. Has the contractor an exact tracing of this?—Yes.

1476. How much is the depth at Lawson-terrace?—Seven feet six inches.

1477. How many ventilators are there on Glenageary-road, and how many on Sandycove-road?—Three on Sandycove-road and two on Glenageary-road; we are not up to that yet.

1478. Are the pipes that are used along that road all run into one another?—Yes.

1479. Are they of the form indicated?—Yes; they are all of that form.

1480. Is the Glenageary-road sewer finished yet?—It is finished with the exception of some small things.

1481. On the 2nd of April last, your report says:—"the sewer in Glenageary-road is now finished;" now you state it is not finished?—I think about £120 would pay for the small things that require to be done yet. The work is finished but there are some odds and ends to be put in.

1482. Is it part of the contractor's work to put those in?—Yes.

1483. Why then do you certify for him before he has finished; you say "I have certified for payment"?—That is not for the full payment.

Mr. Simon Creagh.

Mr. SIMON CREAGH examined.

1484. Mr. LAWLESS.—Are you a ratepayer?—Yes. I can say that those (pointing to the bricks last produced and stated by Messrs. Doyle and Milligan to be good) do not represent the description or quality of brick used. They are superior to the general run of the bricks used in the sewers. Before this inquiry was held I remarked from my own observation that the bricks used were of a very inferior description—quite black and some of them broken, and it appears to me that sewers constructed of such bricks could not be of a lasting character.

Mr. Ennis.

Mr. ENNIS re-called.

1485. Mr. EXHAM.—Was the want of a proper map showing the existing sewers ever brought before the board?—I brought the matter up when we got the Kingstown Extension Act, but I always thought that map complied with the terms of the section, and I only heard to-day that it does not.

1486. It does not show the levels or anything, and is not on a proper scale. Did you not know that?—In the year 1867 Mr. Pallas got a sum of money voted to take up the entire town and show the sewers. The surveyor has a small map but not one of the proper size.

1487. He says he has not corrected it since?—Yes, that is so.

1488. Was there a map of the sewers made by Mr. Pallas?—There was a complete plan made by Mr. Pallas.

1489. Of what?—Of the internal sewerage of the town.

1490. Why was it not continued since?—I cannot tell.

1491. Were there complaints made against any other officer of the township in 1871 or 1872, except Mr. Doyle?—No; I do not think so.

1492. Was any minute or report of the board made against any of the officers in the year 1871 or 1872?—Only in connexion with those made with reference to Mr. Doyle, which you heard of before, so far as I recollect.

Mr. M'Evoy.—The storekeeper was appointed at £1 a week and dismissed in June, 1872, and I had to bring a subsequent storekeeper before the board and he was dismissed also.

1493. Other than the complaint about Neale were any complaints lodged about stones?

Town Clerk.—Yes. I remember a case in 1868 where a contractor was delivering Shankill stone. I was walking with two Commissioners and in one lot we did not think there was a ton. We sent it up to the market and it only weighed 15 cwt. A system of tallying the stone has been adopted since.

1494. Was there a report made by a special committee of the Town Commissioners on the 24th January, 1872, and adopted on 5th February?—Yes—the one I mentioned the other day about the alteration in the mode of keeping the books.

1495. Suggested by Mr. M'Evoy.—Was it not adopted in consequence of the trouble they had previously about stores?

Town Clerk.—Yes; it was done for the purpose of correcting those things.

1496. Mr. LAWLESS.—So far as you are aware, have the recommendations of the committee which were adopted by the board been carried out since then?—Decidedly; we have since kept in the groove we got into then.

1497. Was there in 1872 any effort made by the Town Commissioners to carry out the Public Health Act of 1866?—Yes; we commenced to do that in 1871.

1498. Did you appoint a staff then for the purpose of looking after the sanitary condition of the town?—Yes.

1499. Did you increase the staff?—Yes; we then appointed an additional police sergeant to act as sub-sanitary officer.

1500. When was that?—It was at the very first meeting of the Public Health Committee on the 2nd May, 1871.

1501. Did you form a Public Health Committee in that year for the first time?—Yes; under the Sanitary Act of 1866.

1502. Did they endeavour to carry out as well as they could the provision of that Act?—Yes; and devoted a great deal of time to it. I was directed to apply to the Commissioners of Police on behalf of the committee for the assistance of some police to assist in carrying out the Act and we got a sergeant.

1503. You paid his salary?—We paid his full salary.

1504. Have you since continued the same course, or did you continue it up to 1874?—Until 1874. We kept the police sergeant till 1874, and then dispensed with him.

1505. Did you ever, or the board so far as you know, find that any of the officers threw difficulties in the way of carrying out the instructions of the Commissioners from time to time?—I should say not.

1506. Did any of the officers of the Commissioners give evidence against the sanitary officers of the Commissioners in the police court?—I cannot charge my memory with that now. Having dispensed with the police sergeant in 1874, we found it necessary to appoint another police officer so that we have now one. We thought in 1874 that one man would be able to do the work.

1507. When was the police sergeant dismissed?—Early in 1874, before the Act of that year was passed.

1508. On what grounds was the man dismissed?—He was appointed full sergeant, and that, of course, increased his pay.

1509. Did they then appoint another man in his place?—No. The reason we dismissed him was because we thought at the time that one man would be sufficient.

1510. When again did you appoint a police sergeant as one of your sub-sanitary officers?—In September, 1876.

1511. Do you believe, from your knowledge of the feelings of the ratepayers generally, that they think this building unsuitable for the purposes of a town hall?—I believe the vast majority of the ratepayers are in favour of having a more respectable building.

1512. With regard to the court-house—how far have prisoners to be brought to the present court-house?—It would be only for a civil bill court-house we would want it.

1513. What was the date of the borrowing of the £1,700 that was raised—the balance of the £3,000?—November 14, 1876.

1514. The Act of Parliament says that in raising money you are to state for what purpose you require it. For what purpose was it stated that the £1,700 was required?—It was stated to be required under the Kingstown Extension Act.

1515. Mr. LAWLESS.—This Act increases the borrowing powers of the Commissioners under the Act of 1869, and the Act incorporated therewith, by £3,000 in addition to £16,000?—Yes; that is £16,000 under the Act of 1869, and £3,000 additional under the Extension Act, 1874.

1516. And says that the moneys borrowed shall be applied for the purpose for which they are so borrowed?—Yes.

1517. I think you mentioned that it was under the 56th section of the Act of 1869, and the 28th section of the Act of 1871?—Yes; it was under the provisions of the 28th section that we applied for the £8,000; but we borrowed the £1,300 for pipe-laying in the transferred area, and the £1,700 for general purposes, chiefly to pay Sharkey's costs under our Act of 1874.

1518. "Such money" (reading 28th section, Act 1871) "shall not be borrowed until the estimate of the amount required is laid before the Commissioners nor until the expiration of six weeks after public notice has been given in the public newspapers of the purpose for which same is to be applied." Was that done? Yes; the solicitor did that.

1519. For what purpose did he state the money was to be borrowed?—I daresay he kept a copy of the papers; that was carried out.

1520. Do you remember what he stated in the newspaper notice was the purpose for which it was to be applied?—Everything required by the 28th section was done by Mr. Lalor, our solicitor. He conducted the proceedings under that section.

1521. Was there an estimate in the first place of the moneys required by the Commissioners as a body?—Yes.

1522. Was public notice given of the amount proposed to be borrowed?—Not for the £1,700, but there was for the other sums.

1523. How did they give that notice?—By advertisement.

1524. And the purpose for which that is to be applied?—Yes.

1525. Have you got the papers containing the advertisement?—I have not.

1526. "Secondly," (reading) "such moneys shall not be borrowed except for permanent works, nor without the sanction of the Chief Secretary"?—I'll take a note and get you all the documents with reference to this matter.

1527. Are the people here allowed to keep manure collected in their yards?—We constantly make them clean out their yards.

1528. Mr. Craig is one of your sub-sanitary officers?—Yes, one of the two.

KINGSTOWN. April 11, 1877. Mr. Ennis.

1529. Who is the other?—The acting-sergeant I spoke to you of.

1530. Does Mr. Craig give his entire time to the business?—So far as I am aware he does, but I heard he collects rents for some parties. I asked him did that interfere with his duties as sub-sanitary officer, and he said he collected the rents in the evenings.

1531. Has he any other business? We were informed that he is deputy county cess collector?—He may collect some of the county cess. I am aware that he did so two years ago. I am not sure of that now.

1532. How much is his salary?—£1 a week, and £6 10*s.* a year besides; we pay Duffy's salary to the police authorities.

1533. Did not Mr. Craig for a long time only get 10*s.* a week?—Yes.

1534. The question is whether in a place like Kingstown you would not want his services altogether? What is Mr. Craig's position exactly?—As nuisance inspector he has £1 a week, and then we gave him as sub-sanitary officer an increase of £6 10*s.* per annum, making in all £58 10*s.* a year.

1535. Does he act as agent for any owners of property in Kingstown?—I should say to a very trifling extent—for one or two.

1536. We are anxious to know whether to your knowledge he acts as agent for any of the poorer class of houses in the town which it would be his duty as sanitary officer to inspect?—I am only aware of one case—a case where a clergyman is trustee for some property—Mr. Craig collects the rents of it.

1537. Besides that he is deputy county cess collector?—I could not say that he is so for the last two years.

1538. Do these extra occupations—receiving rents, and so on, interfere with his efficiency as sub-sanitary officer?—I should say not.

1539. Do you think that his position as agent for owners of small houses affects his willingness as sub-sanitary officer to interfere with those houses?—I do not think it would interfere with it.

1540. Do you think his being barony cess collector would interfere with the proper discharge of his sanitary duties?—Yes; it would take him outside the town, but he is only a sort of assistant I think.

1541. With regard to the people being allowed to keep manure in their yards, have you had reports made by your sub-sanitary officers with regard to it?—Every week. I have a good many reports about having manure removed.

1542. Do the sub-sanitary officers to your knowledge go about from house to house and make inspections?—To my knowledge they do that thoroughly.

1543. Because on Saturday when Mr. Exham and I were leaving here we saw round the first turn to your left a large quantity of as bad manure as possibly could be, being taken through a dwelling-house from a very small yard, and placed on a cart opposite the door; from the quantity we saw that collection must have been going on for a long time?—They have to take the entire town and inspect every house, whether it belongs to rich or poor.

1544. How often do they do that?—They are constantly doing it.

1545. I presume there is a sanitary committee?—Yes; and to show what they do, you will find that on 13th September, 1876, it was directed that the following summary of sanitary business for the past month be placed before the next monthly meeting of the Board:—

"One hundred and twenty houses and yards inspected; 36 notices to abate nuisances were served; 29 nuisances were abated; 12 nuisances pending abatement; 11 summonses served, and 11 dwellings lime-washed."

1546. How often does this committee meet?—At least once a month; frequently four times a month.

1547. Have you any means of knowing how long before that had those houses been inspected?—We have a weekly inspection of every place suspected.

1548. Does the sub-sanitary officer report to the sanitary officer?—They are in constant communication with the committee, and according to their instructions they have to report to the medical officer of their district. I take directions from the committee and carry them out.

1549. Is any report made to you as to whether the recommendations are carried out?—At the monthly meeting we go into what has been done, and a report is made monthly.

1550. Do you keep that recorded in any book?—We do not keep a record of it, but I intend to get a copy of the form approved of by the Local Government Board and keep it. The book we used to have before the Public Health Act, was the same as that referred to by you the other day.

1551. What about the wells that used to be in the town?—They are all shut up.

1552. Is there a fever hospital here?—I do not think there is a fever hospital. There is the Rathdown Hospital which is a county hospital, and it is a fever hospital.

1553. Have you sufficient hospital accommodation according to your experience, for the poor of the town?—Yes; St. Michael's Hospital.

1554. Is there any mortuary in the town?—Not a public mortuary, but there is one in connexion with the hospital.

1555. Have the Town Commissioners a mortuary establishment, or morgue, in any part of the town?—No.

1556. Have you any disinfecting apparatus in the town provided by the Town Commissioners?—No; we have not, but we compel parties to use disinfectants when necessary.

1557. Are you aware that the Public Health Act says you are to provide disinfecting apparatus?—They very frequently do disinfect at the cost of the rates.

1558. Under the 24th section you are to provide a suitable conveyance for the removal of sick people to the hospital?—That we have.

1559. Did you ever obtain an order under the 26th section for the removal of sick people to the hospital?—We never had any difficulty in getting the people removed, so that we never had occasion to proceed under that section.

1560. Have you known any case of infectious disease where the dead body was kept in a room where other persons were?—Yes; in one case, but I took proceedings, and the body was buried the very day I heard of it.

1561. Where are the bodies of drowned persons put?—A house belonging to the coastguards is used as a morgue.

1563. So far as your experience goes do you think the sanitary condition of the the town is good?—I do indeed.

1564. Is there a place called Cross-avenue?—Yes.

1565. Do you think the sanitary condition is good about there?—So long as the houses remain the sanitary condition of that district is as well maintained as it possibly could be—having regard to the bad class of houses they are; some having no yards, too narrow entrances, and so on. We cannot send men and carts up those lanes, and have to get them scavenged by men with brooms.

1566. Are there any sewers in those places?—Yes. Owing to the formation of Kingstown we do not require much flushing; there is a rapid fall in every direction.

1567. Do you water or wash out the lanes with a hose or anything of that kind?—We scavenge them; we send the scavengers through them.

1568. Are they ever washed out by a hose? I suppose the watering carts could go up them?—No; we leave a little open channel down the lane for the surface water, and that drains them very well.

1569. Taking a dry summer for instance, have you a hose for washing them from the hydrants?—We have a capital hose for that purpose, but whether it is used for that I do not know.

1570. Is there overcrowding in the houses in those lanes, or in any portion of the town? Has there been any report from the sanitary officer to you on the matter?—We have seven or eight registered lodging-houses.

1571. Have you ever had any complaints made as to the number of people living or sleeping in the same room, so as to cause overcrowding and want of sufficient air and ventilation?—I cannot say that any formal complaints have ever been made here with respect to that.

1572. Have the sub-sanitary officers made any report on that subject?—I cannot say that they have.

1573. Is the Common Lodging-house Act in force here?—Yes.

1574. Are the rules and regulations sent in to the people?—Yes; a copy has been sent to each of them, and they give us very little trouble.

1575. Do you look after the bake-houses?—We have only two now, and they are of so respectable a character that we have found nothing to complain of.

1576. Have you calculated the rate of mortality of the township to see how you stand comparatively?—I have.

Mr. M'Evoy handed in a return by which he made out the number in Kingstown to be as follows, for the last six years:—In 1871, 341; 1872, 255; 1873, 266; 1874, 307; 1875, 312; and 1876, 312. There is a great increase.

Witness.—I find there has been a general increase in London and other places that I compared with ours. In January, 1876, the death-rate in Dublin was twenty-nine, and in Kingstown eighteen per thousand of the population.

1577. Are there any public slaughter-houses here?—We have no public slaughter-houses; but we have registered slaughter-houses, that give us some trouble, because we have to inspect them weekly.

1578. How many are there?—About eight or nine.

1579. Are they well looked after?—We take care to look after them thoroughly, because we are aware of the danger that is likely to result, if it is not done.

1580. Do the Commissioners look after the throwing out of nuisances in the street?—Yes; and they try to prevent it.

1581. Mr. Perrin.—I have been in the habit of going up the Fortyfoot-road, and it is really disgusting to see the quantity of filthy stuff there. I directed the attention of the police to it—brought a policeman back to where I saw the nuisance, and he told me he understood the Town Commissioners gave permission to have it thrown into the streets—that it would be taken away at night.

Witness.—We never gave permission to do that.

1582. Mr. LAWLESS.—Is there a want of accommodation at the rere of the houses there?—Yes; in places where we found an accumulation of refuse of any kind we took care to have it removed; but finding we had some difficulty in carrying out our intentions, we compel them to remove it, or we do it ourselves and charge them 5*s.*

1583. How long, or how many removals does that 5*s.* pay for?—Only for one removal.

1584. Have the houses from which that removal is made privies or ashpits?—They are very dirty people, and throw it out of their front doors.

1585. Do you know whether those houses have privies or not?—They have been marked by the police, and I have set them to watch them.

1586. Have the Commissioners here, as the sanitary authority, done anything to provide sanitary accommodation for houses where such does not already exist?—We have.

1587. Has it been done?—Yes; in many cases new privies have been constructed, and old ones put in proper order.

1588. I understand Mr. Perrin to say that this throwing out of filth comes from the better class of houses?—No; he mentioned a respectable locality, of course, but there may be a poor class of houses near it. It is one of the best parts of Kingstown.

Mr. Perrin.—It seems to be the universal practice down Wellington-street; in Patrick-street there are houses that have no rere accommodation.

1589. Mr. LAWLESS (to Town Clerk).—Are there houses in Patrick-street without any rere accommodation?—There was a case there where we had to get a privy and water-closet constructed.

1590. I am informed that there is no accommodation in the world there; that the nuisance night after night is thrown on the main road; and that you would be afraid to walk there. Is there any means there, any space, for having proper accommodation constructed?—No.

1591. Mr. EXHAM.—Why then do you not take proceedings to have them closed up as unfit for human habitation?—In some cases we have done so.

1592. If they have no accommodation, and have no means of making accommodation, the Act of Parliament says you can take proceedings to have them closed up as being unfit for habitation?—We made one of these houses into a water-closet for the use of the rest of them.

Mr. Perrin.—A great deal of all this arises from the privilege given to the shops to turn out their nuisances into the streets.

1593. Mr. EXHAM (to Town Clerk).—Has Mr. Craig or Mr. Duffy made reports about the great number of houses which are without accommodation, and means of providing accommodation? Have you ever received a report from either of the sub-sanitary officers as to their condition?—Yes, in the case of Baymount-court and also of Mulgrave-street, and we dealt with them.

1594. Were they closed up?—In two cases they were closed up.

Mr. NUGENT examined.

Mr. Nugent.

1595. Mr. LAWLESS.—You have to complain of the sanitary condition of some houses?—Yes.

1596. How many houses do you refer to?—From what I know of the locality there are five or six, but there may be more.

1597. (To the Town Clerk).—Are there more districts in the same condition?—There are places in the town where the houses are so constructed that privies or ashpits cannot be made.

1598. Should you not then proceed to cause them to be closed up? What are the sub-sanitary officers doing up to this time not to report these places, if it be the fact they have not reported them?

Mr. Barrett (chairman).—I never knew of any report being made by them.

1599. (To the Town Clerk).—Can you point out any report relating to this place called Patrick-street?—No, I cannot.

1600. I find here a report having regard to the other matter we were dealing with, the drainage. (Reads):—

"3rd March, 1876. As to the defective drainage of Glenageary-road, and the necessity for having a main drain constructed in one place?"

Yes, and we did so. I know the house there from which we got the complaint.

1601. Mr. EXHAM.—These poor class of people won't make complaints, and neither, of course, will the landlords. The landlord will squeeze what rent he can out of the tenants, and they simply wish not to be disturbed, but allowed to remain in the condition they are in. The police don't interfere, because they cannot catch them, and the only remedy is by your enforcing the Act of Parliament, and saying, "if the proper accommodation is not provided, they are not fit to be inhabited, and you must close them."

Town Clerk.—Since my attention has been called to the matter, I'll have it attended to.

KINGSTOWN.
April 11, 1877.

Mr. John Henry.

Mr. JOHN HENRY examined.

1602. Mr. LAWLESS.—What is it you wish to say, Mr. Henry?—A number of years ago I applied to Mr. Wise about sixteen houses in my neighbourhood; there was no ventilation.

1603. Were those your own houses?—No; every house of mine has a privy and ashpit. Mr. Wise inspected them, and said he would see that they were provided with privies and ashpits, but he did not do so.

1604. Where are those houses?—On Perrin's road. I also want to call your attention to a slaughter-house at the end of the road; it is not licensed, and it is a great nuisance. I got twenty-one names signed to a petition about it and Colonel Lake sent a remonstrance.

1605. When was that?—It is some years ago.

1606. Is the slaughter-house there now?—Yes.

1607. And unlicensed?—Yes.

1608. Where is it?—At the corner of Adelaide-road.

1609. Who is owner of it?—A butcher named Farrell. The blood from the slaughter-house runs out on the footpath.

1610. (To the Town Clerk).—Is there a butcher's shop or slaughter-house at that place?—Yes.

1611. And is Farrell the owner of it?—Yes.

1612. Is it registered?—I believe it is not. We sought to prevent him from having the slaughter-house but we could not, because he was in the position occupied by those who had slaughter-houses before the adoption of the Act. We did not like to register him, it not being a fit place to have a slaughter-house.

1613. Do your people inspect it?—The sub-sanitary officer inspects it now, and makes him keep it clean and remove the offal and refuse every week.

Mr. Henry.—The cause of complaint is there still.

1614. (To Mr. Henry).—Have you seen the blood there lately?—Yes; and I have called attention to it lately.

Town Clerk.—It is one of those we watch very closely.

1615. Mr. EXHAM (to Mr. Henry).—Did you say that he boils down offal for pigs there?—Yes; I positively declare that sometimes I have to hold my nose on account of the smell.

Mr. Kelly (a Town Commissioner).—I remember that we took the opinion of the doctor, and he said it was not a fit place for a slaughter-house.

1616. Mr. EXHAM.—You know as well as anyone else, that if what Mr. Henry says is correct, he could be indicted for causing a nuisance?

Mr. Kelly.—We have been very active about it.

Town Clerk.—So far as Mr. Henry's cause of complaint would arise from the defective sanitary arrangements we remedied it as far as we could, but if the nuisance exists there he could take an action against the man.

Mr. Craig.

1617. Mr. EXHAM (to Mr. Craig, sub-sanitary officer).—Do you know this place?—I do.

1618. Where is it?—At Adelaide-road

1619. Mr. Henry says the blood from the slaughter-house can be seen coming out into the road, and that Farrell boils the offal for pigs on those premises?—I visited that place and got it cleansed every week, the offal removed, and the slaughter-house washed out. I was there on Friday morning last.

1620. Has he pigs there?—Yes.

1621. In the yard?—Yes.

1622. How near the public pathway?—It is alongside of it.

1623. Mr. LAWLESS.—I find here Mr. Henry, of Adelaide-road, mentioned as having nuisance at No. 10, Eden-row; the yard in a filthy state, and the want of proper privy and ashpit accommodation for the tenants?

Mr. Henry.—They had a good privy, but it was pulled down and I caused a new one to be made. The tenant tore off the roof of the privy, and it was used for firewood.

1624. Mr. LAWLESS.—I remark here a great many reports by Mr. Craig?

Town Clerk.—Yes; we have divided the town into two districts. We give the larger one to the sanitary sergeant, and the other to Mr. Craig.

1625. Have you ever had any report about the sewer leading down Crofton-avenue?—We have dealt with that place.

1626. Mr. EXHAM.—There are a number of houses in Upper George's-street reported on 13th January last. What did you do before that? Were you ever in any of those places before?

Mr. Craig.—Perhaps the week before.

1627. That could hardly be, because you say the yards are in a filthy state.

1628. Mr. LAWLESS.—In 1874 the yard at the rere of Mrs. Hanlon's property was in want of a connecting drain. Was that made?—It was.

1629. I see here a butcher named Sheridan reported. Has he a licence?—We treat him in the way we treat Farrell. Farrell and he have a privilege—that is, they were not interfered with.

1630. You reported him as having a large heap of manure at Sandycove-road?—I served a notice on him to have the slaughter-house cleaned out; he did so, but he brought the manure from the slaughter-house to a field at Sandycove-road, and we had to notice him to get him to take it out of that.

1631. Was the case of Mr. Toole, in Toole's-lane, which I see reported here, attended to?—Yes; you will see it indorsed on the back of the notice.

1632. You had to issue a summons in that case?—Yes.

1633. There seems to be a nuisance down in Wellington-street, which we saw; it is as if something was oozing from a privy or ashpit through the wall into the street?—It is from the water-pipe.

1634. Was it examined?—Yes; there was a complaint made about it, and Sergeant Duffy went and examined it.

1635. Mr. EXHAM.—Has anyone been looking after the Sallynoggin district?—Yes.

1636. What has been done with regard to it?—A number of parties were brought up, and the magistrate gave them a month to do what was required.

1637. What has been done there since 1874?—It only came into our township since 1st January, 1875.

1638. James Ritchie is reported here, on the 27th January last, for having his yard in a filthy state, &c.?—When it came to the proper time he was summoned, and an order was made to abate the nuisance.

1639. Nothing appears to have been done with regard to Sallynoggin until very shortly before we came here?—Yes; but, as you see, it is only one year a part of our township.

1640. Was it not part of the township brought in under the Act of 1874?—Yes; but the Act did not come into operation till the 1st January, 1875.

1641. But why did you delay attending to it during the whole of 1875 and 1876?—(No answer.)

April 12, 1877.

Mr. Doyle recalled.

1642. Mr. Lawless.—Do you propose to alter the levels of the sewer to be made in Lower George's-street?—Yes.

1643. Is that to lighten the expense of making the sewer?—It will lighten it in this way——

1644. Is it with that object?—Certainly it is.

1645. What is the length of that sewer?—I think it is about 300 feet.

1646. Do you propose to alter the level of any other sewer?—I do not.

1647. Will you be able to lighten the expense of any other sewer?—The tenders will tell that, I presume.

1648. What was the tender for George's-street?—£1,400.

1649. And you estimated it at £900 odd?—Yes.

1650. That being so, do you now wish to qualify your answer the other day as to the efficiency of the work?—No. I do not want to qualify it.

1651. My recollection is that you admitted that by making that alteration the work would not be so efficient?—If reduced to any extent it would not be so efficient.

1652. But even in altering it to the extent of 300 feet?—That would not alter its efficiency in the slightest.

1653. Of your knowledge did any of the contractors ask for larger prices in consequence of their belief that the work was to be made through rock?—They thought it was to be rock all through.

1654. How did you find that out?—They told me afterwards.

1655. What contracts were those?—For Upper and Lower George's-street.

1656. Who was the contractor?—There are several contractors—Mr. Long, Mr. Dickson, and Mr. John Pluck.

1657. They told you, and you believed their statement to be true?—Yes.

1658. Upon that belief did they fix their prices?—Yes. The contracts have not been accepted as yet. In consequence of the tenders being so high they were not accepted, and the contract is open yet.

Mr. William Craig examined.

1659. Mr. Exham.—Do you collect rents for some people in the town?—I do.

1660. For how many persons?—I think for four persons.

1661. Are they owners of any of the small houses in the town?—They are.

1662. Are there any of those for which you collect the rent without accommodation?—No.

1663. Are any of the persons for whom you collect the rents the owners of any houses in the town which have no accommodation?—They are not.

1664. Are they the owners of any houses in the town which have insufficient accommodation?—We might improve them from time to time.

1665. Have they been improved so that they are all right now?—Some of them are being improved. There was one of the houses fell; it is built now, and the Commissioners were paid 5*s*. for taking away the contents of the dust-pit which is now in progress of being improved; that is the only one.

1666. Have you anything to do with Maher's-court?—No; I do not collect any rents out of it.

1667. Mr. Lawless.—What are the districts in Kingstown for which you collect rents?—Between York-street and Mulgrave-street.

1668. How came you to make a declaration for remission of rates of houses in Maher's-court?—I made no declaration.

1669. Do you collect rents for any gentleman who is a member of the Town Commissioners?—No; I do not. Certainly not.

1670. Do you know whether any of the Town Commissioners own house property throughout the town?—A good many of them do.

1671. Do they own any of this small description of property?—No, I think not; I do not think they own any weekly tenements, except one or two.

1672. Do any of them, to your knowledge, own any property in which there is not sufficient accommodation in the way of privies or water-closets?—One of them does. We made some improvement lately in Patrick-street; we did not consider the sanitary state of the place good, and we made some alterations.

1673. Did it remain in that state from 1874 until then?—Yes; except when the dust-pit would be filled up, and was cleaned out. We made a water-closet in it now.

1674. When was that done?—It is not completely finished yet.

1675. Is it being done?—Yes.

1676. Is one of the Commissioners the proprietor of that place?—Yes.

1677. Do you know of any property of any other Commissioners, the houses on which are not sufficiently provided with privy or ash-pit accommodation?—There is a range of houses on the other side of Patrick-street which have no reres.

1678. Are they the property of a Commissioner?—No, they are not.

1679. You say those houses have no reres at all?—No, they have not.

1680. Have you reported the condition of this place?—I have always; I served a notice a few days ago on the gentlemen who are the joint owners of the premises.

1681. Do you collect rents outside the township for anyone?—No, I have mentioned the only places.

1682. Do you collect county cess?—Yes; when I got this situation I had that collection.

1683. How far does the barony extend?—I only collect as far as Stradbrook, and up to Killiney and Pembroke.

1684. That must take up a good deal of your time?—Three hours any day would be enough.

1685. Do you collect as deputy?—Yes.

1686. Those collections are made twice in the year?—Yes; the salary I have from the Commissioners would be of very little use to me. I collect the county cess with the full knowledge of the Commissioners.

1687. Were you deputy cess collector when you were appointed sub-sanitary officer?—Yes, but at that time I also had Dalkey to collect.

1688. Do you make your reports to the doctor?—Yes, always.

1689. In certain cases do you serve notices yourself, without reporting to the doctor?—Yes; verbal, not written notices.

1690. Do you find the present system with regard to procuring the abatement of nuisances, efficient?—The system is very bad.

1691. Are you not bound to serve written notices under the Act, and not to give verbal notices?—If a yard is dirty it would not be right to bring the doctor without asking if they would abate it.

1692. Do you know that to make the thing effectual you must serve a written notice, and specify the time within which they must remove the nuisance?—I do.

1693. Do you know a place in the rere of 9, Wellington-street?—I went down there last night, and saw it was perfectly clean. I also called Mr. Reilly to inspect it, when he was going home. It is perfectly clean.

1694. It is said there is a privy inside, and it seems as if there was something oozing from that through the wall?—You will find it is not sewage stuff.

1695. On the 2nd April, you got 5*s*. for cleaning it?—Yes; and it was cleaned on the day following.

KINGSTOWN. April 12, 1877.

Mr. William Craig.

1696. Does the privy come up against the wall?—No; the dust-pit comes up to the wall. The privy does not come near it at all. The dust-pit is between the privy and the wall.

1697. On the left-hand side of Susan-place are there not a number of small cottages requiring accommodation?—There is a privy and ash-pit there. There are no reres to those cottages, but there is one privy common to all of them.

1698. Do you yourself own any property in the town?—I own the house I live in.

1699. Do you own any houses in Paradise-row?—No.

1700. How do you come to make a declaration for exempting the houses from the payment of the rates? Is this declaration of the 12th December in your handwriting (handing document to witness)?—I did that for the Rev. Canon M'Cabe.

1701. Were you his agent?—I was.

1702. At that time?—Yes; and still. It is a property left in trust to him for the poor of the parish by a gentleman who died.

1703. And was this house unoccupied?—It was, and is unoccupied still.

1704. Do you know anything about Maher's-court?—I know that the court, with the exception of two houses, has been unoccupied for nearly three years.

1705. Are you the agent for the houses in Maher's-court?—No; not now.

1706. Were you?—I was, sometime previous.

1707. How many years ago?—Three or four years.

1708. Is that your signature to that declaration (handing document to witness)?—It is.

1709. It is a declaration made by you for the purpose of exempting Maher's-court from the payment of the rates?—I think I did that for Mr. Redmond.

1710. You are not the agent for the property?—No; but I am acquainted with the place, and many a time I made the declaration for Mr. Redmond.

1711. How did you know but Mr. Redmond had that place let?—The houses are unoccupied still. Mr. Redmond is the rate collector.

1712. Was it to oblige Mr. Redmond you made the declaration this year for No. 117 in that street?—It was.

1713. Do the Commissioners, in order to exempt persons from paying the rates, require evidence by some other person that the place is unoccupied?—The house was unoccupied then and is so still. My making that declaration might be an irregularity, but there is no fraud.

1714. It is strange to find a person in no way connected with the premises, either as owner or agent, make the declaration. The landlord may have been letting it and getting rent for it from persons who do not want to pay the rates?—I would know if it was let.

1715. We have had an instance here of making declarations. Would you have made a declaration if Mr. Crosthwaite had asked you to do it?—No; because I knew he was living here.

1716. Were those premises in Maher's-court shut up altogether?—Yes; they were.

1717. Why do you say in the declaration, "unoccupied, save by a caretaker"?—There is no caretaker in it at all.

1718. Are the premises of the Rev. Canon M'Cabe in a proper sanitary condition?—Yes; there are two excellent privies in them.

1719. Have you ever had occasion to serve notices under the Sanitary Acts on premises for which you were agent?—Yes. If Canon M'Cabe's required to be cleansed I would serve a notice on him. When he gave me instructions I would pay the Commissioners and have the stuff carted away.

1720. Is Maher's-court unoccupied altogether?—There are only two persons living in it.

1721. In what sort of condition is the court?—I may have served notices on the persons to have it cleansed.

1722. Is there proper sewerage there?—There is.

1723. Do you ever flush these lanes?—That court has been flushed.

1724. Are the lanes through the town as a rule flushed? We were told there were some into which the carts could not enter?—I have them brushed quite clean, and if I see they require it I serve notice, and the men are sent in again and sweep them.

1725. I heard Mr. Doyle say that he had nothing to do with these lanes?—I get that done.

1726. Do you know the new sewer in Upper George's-street?—I do.

1727. Have you served the owners of the houses adjacent to that sewer with notices to make connecting drains?—What part of it?

1728. All along the new sewer?—There was an old sewer there previous to the construction of the new one, and they had all connexions with it. They also made connexions on the construction of the new sewer.

1729. Do you say all the houses are connected with the new sewer?—I do not know, but they are supposed to be connected.

1730. Is it not in your department to see if every house is properly connected with it?—When a new sewer is constructed, and the surveyor informs me that any houses require to be connected, I serve notice on them and see that they do it.

1731. Do you serve notice on persons to construct connecting drains only when you are called upon to do it by the surveyor?—When a new sewer is made I consult with the surveyor, and get the names of the persons, and make a report to the doctor. He then reports to the committee, and when that has been done I serve notices on the people in the usual way.

1732. Can you say if the houses on the north side of Upper George's-street now have connecting drains with the main sewer?—I cannot say; I do not hear any complaints in that neighbourhood.

1733. Don't mind about complaints. Is it not your business, under the Public Health Act, to see that they are connected?—It is; but, you see, supposing I inspect the reres of those houses, and that I do not find any nuisance existing, I cannot say whether they require it or not.

1734. Have you got in the Commissioners' office any map or plan to enable you to ascertain whether or not any particular house in Kingstown is connected with the main drains?—I don't know; I do not look at any plans.

1735. Have you ever seen such a thing for your guidance?—No.

1736. The Act of Parliament does not say there must be a nuisance existing before you compel the people to connect?—Sure there must be a nuisance before I can act. I am sanitary inspector for some time, and I never saw a sewer wanted for that part of George's-street.

1737. Do you consider it your duty, suppose you know there is a house not connected with the main sewer, to cause a connexion to be made?—Certainly I do. To the best of my belief these are all connected with the Fortyfoot-road sewer from the lane at the rere.

1738. Are there any written instructions or directions given to you by the Commissioners?—There is nothing written out.

1739. Is there a by-law?—Yes. I have to attend daily and examine whatever nuisances are complained of.

1740. These (referring to by-laws) are before the Sanitary Act. Are they the only instructions you ever got?—Yes, except such as I receive from time to time. I got instructions enough.

1741. Were there any by-laws made since those of 1870?—No.

1742. Can you say is there overcrowding in the poorer class of houses in the town?—You mean the lodging-houses?

1743. No; but where a number of families perhaps live in the same house, how many persons may there be in a small room? Have you ever measured any rooms in that class of houses to see the space given to each person?—Not except in the nightly lodging-houses. Where the place is not a common lodging-house I think we have no right to interfere with it in that respect.

1744. Do you know whether or not the houses of the poorer class are occupied by a large number of people?—I think not. The poorer class of people have nearly all left Kingstown. There is no employment here now for people of the labouring class except a little on the jetty from the Harbour Commissioners. Some time ago, when I was in the police, we had a good deal of trouble with them, but at the present time there is no overcrowding.

1745. Do you inspect the common lodging houses regularly?—Yes, and we disqualified a good many of them. We have a new class of lodging houses now.

1746. Have you by-laws for their regulation under the Act of Parliament?—Yes.

1747. Are copies of those sent to the lodging houses?—Yes.

1748. Do you see that they are carried out?—Yes.

1749. Have you looked at that slaughter house of Farrell's since it was referred to here?—I was there the other day. It is very few cattle he can slaughter in it; he has only a few sheep. Sometimes I inspect it twice a week.

1750. Was Farrell prosecuted?—I brought him sometime ago before the magistrates, but he got a privilege, and the Commissioners did not persevere in the prosecution.

1751. How did the magistrates deal with it?—The Commissioners withdrew the summons.

1752. It has been stated to us that Farrell's slaughter house, situated as it is, is a nuisance from its position?—It would be a nuisance the same as others, if neglected.

1753. But the others are registered, and you say you exercise supervision over them, and this one is not registered?—I know that summonses were taken out, and that the matter dropped, and I know nothing more about it. There were three persons summoned—Murphy, Sheridan, and Farrell.

1754. Do you know about Sandycove harbour as to whether the pipes are emptied there at high-water mark, instead of being carried down to low water, and whether there have been any complaints made as to the stench; also, if the coping is broken, and the iron pipes are scattered about the harbour; and how long it has been in that condition? First of all, is that place in your district?—Yes. The wall has fallen recently, and of course it is in an unfinished state.

Mr. William Craig.

1755. Were the pipes, to your knowledge, last summer, continued from above high-water mark to low-water mark?—They were.

1756. They were not scattered about?—No.

1757. How many of these drainage pipes are there leading into Sandycove harbour?—There are a great many.

1758. Are the pipes large enough to do the work efficiently?—No; I consider they are very insufficient.

1759. In the heat of the summer last year was the sewage lying on the strand in a state as if it was boiling?—I inspected the place nearly every week, and on some occasions there was a good deal of what you describe, and on others there was none at all. It will be always so unless the pipes are run down the whole way.

1760. Was it caused by the pipe not running out far enough?—Yes.

1761. When were those pipes laid?—They are a long time laid in Sandycove harbour. They were repaired there several times.

1762. Did they hold together for a week after they were repaired?—They did.

1763. Did they for a fortnight?—They did.

1764. Is the point at which they discharge near a bathing place?—It is quite close to two bathing places.

1765. Have you ever reported a nuisance caused by a slaughter house in Mulgrave-street?—Yes.

1766. When did you report it?—It has not been used as a slaughter house for more than two years. There was no slaughtering carried on in it since Mr. Fleming went to America.

1767. In what condition is the place now?—There is a dust pit in it now, which has been cleaned out recently.

1768. Have you had occasion to report it recently?—I had.

1769. When?—Not long ago; but not as a slaughter house.

1770. What was the nature of your report?—That the privy and ashpit required to be cleaned.

Mr. JOHN BUCKLEY examined.

Mr. John Buckley.

1771. Mr. LAWLESS.—You are a ratepayer, Mr. Buckley, and wish to give some evidence, I believe?—I wish to say that I expended £17 6*s.* 8*d.* on a sewer in Upper George's-street. There was nothing but a loose rubble sewer there, and when there came a heavy rain-fall it flooded the basement of my house. The sewer was so defective that it drained into my house, instead of going into the main sewer.

1772. When was that old sewer made?—It has never been interfered with at all; that is what I complain of.

1773. Is there a sewer in George's-street, opposite your house?—Yes.

1774. Have you more than one house there?—I have four.

1775. Are those houses connected with the main sewer?—I am not aware.

1776. Do you mean to say that you had to divert the sewer that runs from Northumberland-avenue to George's-street in order to prevent it from going into your houses?—Yes.

1777. When was that done?—Some eighteen months ago.

1778. Were you ever called upon to make connecting drains from your houses in George's-street to the main sewer?—Never.

1779. And you cannot say whether there are connecting drains or not?—There are not.

Mr. Doyle.—Mr. Buckley's premises consist of three houses, and the one outlet to the main sewer does for all.

1780. (To Mr. Doyle).—Are those houses connected with the main sewer in Northumberland-avenue or George's-street?—In George's-street.

1781. Mr. Buckley.—At my expense.

1782. Mr. EXHAM.—Oh, of course.

1783. Mr. Buckley.—I have frequently urged at the Board that something should be done as regards Northumberland-avenue, but I never heard of anything being done.

The Town Clerk.—There are tenders for it before the Board, which have not yet passed into contract.

1784. Mr. EXHAM (to Mr. Buckley).—How long have you been complaining about Northumberland-avenue?—For nearly nine years I have complained of it. I was so disgusted with the conduct of the parties on the Board that I resigned. I could not get anything done.

Mr. WILLIAM REID examined.

Mr. William Reid.

1785. Mr. LAWLESS.—In relation to what part of the township do you wish to give evidence?—To Willmount-avenue. I am owner of the south side of it.

1786. Do you reside there?—Yes, in the summer months. I constructed a sewer there from my house to the sea. In September last year I found there was a stoppage in it, and I caused it to be opened on my own premises. I may say that a lady, my neighbour, continued the sewer down to the very sea wall.

1787. Is your cottage to the seaward of her place?—

KINGSTOWN. April 12, 1877.

Mr. William Reid.

Her land is to the seaward of my cottage. There are a couple of old stables between my place and the sea. I had this sewer opened on my own premises, and I found a lot of stuff in it and a bad smell, and I then reported it to the Commissioners. Dr. Newland, the medical gentleman here, saw it, and after a good deal of trouble indeed, we got the sewer, as I thought settled, but it became stopped again, and the stoppage was caused by Miss Williams, who was the landlady. When her sewer was opened—in fact the pipe had to be broken—(the surveyor saw it himself) we found that there was an obstruction placed in the nine-inch pipe, and that caused the stoppage.

1788. Is this sewer, of which you complain, entirely on private property?—It is entirely on private property. This sewer ultimately comes through a sort of barrier of stones in the sea wall, and after a great deal of trouble (in which I had to get this lady summoned) it was closed, but I was told by the surveyor, Mr. Doyle, and I think also by Mr. Craig, that it would not be all right unless the mouth of the sewer was brought through the sea wall, that the stuff could not have egress. In my absence it was closed (I believe by the lady), and I believe also that the mouth of that sewer has not since been opened through the sea wall. I heard that Mr. Doyle stated yesterday that it was.

1789. He stated that the stuff percolated through the wall?—I cannot understand how, if the mouth of a nine-inch pipe is against the wall it can do that. The only proper course is to open it through the wall.

1790. How far is this from the main sewer?—The main sewer is in the centre of the street at Sandycove.

1791. Therefore it is a considerable distance from this place?—Yes.

1792. Is there a cesspool on Miss Williams' property, into which the drainage of her houses should go?—There is not.

1793. Is there no cesspool at all?—I think not.

1794. You do not know?—I am satisfied there is not.

1795. Would it not be the duty of the sanitary authority if she were within a certain distance of the main drain to compel her to connect her premises with it, or to make a proper cesspool?—The pipe should be run through the wall.

1796. The Commissioners have power to direct this lady to run it out through the wall, and if she does not comply with the notice at the end of the time specified therein, the Commissioners, through Mr. Doyle, can do it themselves, and charge her with the cost?—I actually offered to put the pipe through the wall at my own expense.

1797. To whom did you make that offer?—To the landlady, and I think Mr. Doyle is aware of that fact.

1798. Mr. LAWLESS (to Mr. Craig).—Is this in your district?—It is.

1799. When was the summons served on Miss Williams?—The pipes have been laid down the second time by Mr. Dickson the contractor.

1800. Have you got copies of the notices served upon Miss Williams?—No.

1801. Mr. EXHAM.—Do you as sub-sanitary officer consider that the work there was properly carried out?—I considered it was properly carried out then.

1802. Although it was not carried out through the wall?—It was put out through the wall.

1803. Did you hear both Mr. Reid and Mr. Perrin say that it was not; and Mr. Doyle admitted yesterday that it was not?—It was made that way for the purpose of protecting it against the sand which used to get into the pipe and choke it up.

1804. Do you say that the pipe is carried out through the wall?—Yes. There is a battery of stone against the wall on the outside.

Mr. Perrin.—The place happens to be beside my own house. It was given in charge to the surveyor, and the question is, has it been carried through the wall. It is easy to settle the matter, by just looking at it.

1805. Mr. EXHAM (to Mr. Craig).—When did you see it last?—I do not think I have seen it for the last month or more. When I saw it the repairs had not been long finished, and Mr. Reid said it was done to his satisfaction.

Mr. Reid.—I told you distinctly that there was a stoppage at the mouth—at what you called the battery wall. I showed you the stoppage.

1806. Mr. LAWLESS (to Mr. Craig).—Did you see this pipe put down?—I did.

1807. Did you see that it actually goes through the rampart wall?—Yes.

1808. Through it?—Yes.

1809. Could you see the opening of the pipe on the other side of the wall—supposing you were standing on the shore at low water could you see the pipe?—No.

1810. Then what is there built against it which prevents you from seeing it?—A loose battery of stone.

1811. How thick is that?—I could not say.

1812. Is it a mortar wall?—It is a masonry built wall.

Mr. Reid.—My belief is that the pipe is below the foundation of the wall.

1813. Mr. LAWLESS (to Mr. Craig).—Do you consider this an efficient piece of drainage?—It worked right well then. It was finished completely, and it carried away the nuisance from his place.

1814. Do you know the condition of it now?—At present I do not; this gentleman never made a complaint to me about it since, so that I felt satisfied it was all right.

Mr. Reid.—I did make a complaint, and called your attention to the way in which it was done.

1815. Mr. LAWLESS (to Mr. Reid).—Were you there at the time this work was being done; at the time this pipe was put in?—I was there up to the time the sewer was covered, but I did not see it covered.

1816. Were you aware that the pipe was not put through the wall?—I was satisfied of it.

1817. Did you know it at that time?—I did.

1818. Did you require the surveyor to do it?—I did, and I offered to pay the cost of doing it. I made the offer in the presence of Mr. Doyle and Mr. Craig.

1819. Did you require Mr. Doyle, or any of the officers of the Commissioners, to carry out that sewer through the battery wall?—Yes; Mr. Doyle said it was to be done.

1820. Did Mr. Doyle state to you that it would be done?—He did, and afterwards said it was properly done; but I found it was not, as it was not carried through the wall; the result is, that after a year or so the sewage will be coming back to my cottage again.

1821. In what state is it now?—I have not been there since October last.

Mr. Edward Roche.

Mr. EDWARD ROCHE examined.

1822. Mr. LAWLESS.—Are you a Town Commissioner?—Yes.

1823. How long have you been a Town Commissioner?—Three years.

1824. What is your trade or profession?—I am a builder.

1825. Do you carry on that business in Kingstown?—Yes.

1826. Are you an owner of property in Kingstown?—Yes, a large owner.

1827. Do you know this place in Willmount-avenue, the property of Mr. Reid?—I do.

1828. Do you know where the pipe sewer runs down through Miss Williams' property to the sea wall?—Yes.

1829. Are you aware of Miss Williams having been summoned?—Yes. Miss Williams' place is on the left-hand side of Mr. Reid's house, and there was a dispute between them about the sewer, and I looked after the matter as a friend on behalf of Miss Williams.

1830. Were you there when Mr. Doyle, or the people under him, were working at this sewer?—Miss Williams employed the men herself; the Commissioners had nothing to do with it. The pipes were laid to the main wall at the sea, and there is a hole in the wall there through which the pipe passes. Outside that wall there is a battery for breaking the force of the sea; it is totally a dry wall, and the sewage passes from the mason wall into it, and then goes away. We will take up that pipe sewer next the wall, and show that there is no sewage in it. Miss Williams does not wish to make a hole through the battery wall, lest it might affect its efficiency as a protection against the storms. She got it erected for the purpose of protecting her property against the force of the sea.

1831. Is it your opinion that the pipe sewer in its present state—passing through these walls, is an efficient one?—It is.

1832. Mr. EXHAM.—Is there a space between the mason wall and the battery?—The battery is up against the wall, and is composed entirely of dry stone. Whatever passes through the mason wall trinkles down this place.

1833. Is there any space between the two structures?—There is not.

1834. Must it not stop the flow of the sewage?—No.

1835. Of what sort of stone is the battery composed?—Of rubble stone.

1836. Are they large stones?—Not very large.

1837. What use can they be as a protection wall if they are not large?—I myself saw it, and I am quite satisfied that there is aperture enough to take the sewage away. There are only two cottages connected with this sewer.

1838. You say Mr. Read wanted her to carry the pipe through the battery, and you did not do it?—My superintendent said it did not require to be done.

1839. And it was not done?—No; we will open that portion of the sewer and show that there is no nuisance.

1840. Why did Miss Williams refuse Mr. Read's offer to do it at his own expense?—She was afraid that if there was a hole made through the battery it would spoil it as a rampart against the sea.

1841. Did you advise her to that effect?—I did not advise her.

1842. If the battery is sufficient to protect her masonry wall against the sea, is it not also sufficient to prevent the sewage from passing out of the pipe?—No, it is not.

1843. Were you present when the sewer was opened?—I was.

1844. Did you see any obstruction in it?—Miss Williams put down something for the purpose of stopping his sewer, because he did the same to hers.

Mr. Read.—I offered to remove that, if she opened the sewer, so as to have a perfect run into the sea.

Mr. CRAIG recalled.

Mr Craig

1845. Mr. LAWLESS.—Was Fleming's nuisance abated after the service of a summons upon him?—Yes.

1846. On the 4th March, 1876, you had to report Mr. Fleming, Upper George's-street, for having a privy and ashpit in a filthy state, and you say there was a summons served on him, and the nuisance was then abated?—Yes.

1847. I find that on the 1st September, 1876, you had to report the same place?—Yes, and also the slaughter-house.

1848. So I see, the slaughter-house and yard and dust-pit were in a filthy state?—Yes.

1849. Was this place used as a slaughter-house at that time?—No; the door was shut up, and a dust-pit made of it.

Mr. GEORGE PERRIN examined.

Mr. George Perrin.

1850. Mr. LAWLESS.—Do you wish to make any statement with regard to Willmount-avenue?—Yes, I saw the place that is spoken of.

1851. Will you describe the state of it at that time?—A nine-inch pipe had been laid some few years ago, commencing at the sea wall and passing inland through Miss Williams' stable, and through Mr. Read's premises. It was placed exactly as the present pipe is laid. After the lapse of some time, of course, the nuisance flooded back upon Mr. Read's premises, and the state of things there at the present moment is such as I have already described. We could not induce Miss Williams at the time to continue the pipe through the sea wall; some dispute arose about other parts, and when Mr. Read opened the sewer on his premises, he found it full of nuisance.

1852. Did you see the nine-inch pipe put down in October last?—I saw it about that time.

1853. Before it was covered?—Yes; it goes into an opening made through a light eighteen-inch wall, and on the outside of this wall is a rampart wall, the face of which is pointed with mortar.

1854. When was that done?—Since the storm that has been referred to. Instead of the sewage going away rapidly, it finds its way into this stone wall.

1855. Does that state of things, to your own knowledge, constitute a nuisance there now?—I do not know that there is a nuisance there now. Mr. Read, by my advice, brought the matter under the notice of the Commissioners. The summons was brought after a long time, at the suit of the Commissioners, through their officers, against Miss Williams; and as I understand the order was that the nuisance should be abated within a given time. I told Mr. Read that if he left the matter in the hands of the authorities, they would insist that it should be done properly. It has been done in the way described to you, and the question is whether or not there is any obligation on the Commissioners to have the matter set right.

Mr. Doyle.—It was brought under my notice, and it appeared to be a regular quarrel between these parties. However, the nuisance was stopped, and I never heard anything more of the matter till Mr. Read said something about it.

1856. Did you know at the time that the pipe did not go through the sea wall altogether?—Of course I did, for there was a rampart wall. I did not think it my duty to see that that was done.

1857. Mr. Perrin said that the outside wall was pointed with mortar?—He is quite right. It has been mortared here and there. There are a number of apertures along the shore.

Mr. PATRICK DUFFY examined.

Mr. Patrick Duffy.

1858. Mr. EXHAM.—Are you an acting sergeant in the Dublin Metropolitan Police?—Yes.

1859. Are you also sub-sanitary officer here?—Yes, and inspector under the Food and Drug Adulteration Act, 1875.

1860. What district of Kingstown have you charge of?—The West ward and Monkstown ward.

1861. Did you receive any paper of instructions from the Commissioners as to your duties?—No; except the by-laws.

1862. What are your duties as sub-sanitary officer?—To see that all yards, privies, and ashpits in the two wards are regularly cleansed.

1863. How often do you inspect the places in your district?—About once a fortnight—in some cases more frequently.

1864. Do you say that you inspect all the houses in your district once a fortnight?—Yes, in any locality where I believe a nuisance exists.

1865. To whom do you make your reports?—To Dr. O'Flaherty, the sanitary officer of my district of the town.

1866. Do you ever act without waiting to report to the doctor?—If I can frighten the people into abating a nuisance by speaking to them I do so always.

KINGSTOWN. April 12, 1877.

Mr. Patrick Duffy.

1867. Do you ever serve notices on them yourself without the authority of the doctor?—No.

1868. Don't you ever serve notices to abate nuisances until you receive an order to do so from the Commissioners?—Not until I get an order from the doctor approved of by the Commissioners.

1869. Is this part of the town (George's-street) in the West ward?—Yes.

1870. It is in your district?—Yes.

1871. What is the condition, generally speaking, of the houses of the poorer class of people in the West ward? Are they sufficiently provided with privy and ashpit accommodation, or are there many of them without privies?—There are a few without privies.

1872. Are there some?—There are.

1873. Are those houses built in such a way that they could be supplied with privies?—No.

1874. Do you refer to the construction of the houses altogether?—Some houses in the neighbourhood would require to be pulled down and rebuilt in order to construct privies for them.

1875. Are there no means at present of making such accommodation?—No.

1876. Are there any houses in your district for which privy accommodation could be provided, and which have not yet got it?—There are.

1877. Are they reported by you?—Yes, and in some cases an order of the magistrates was issued.

1878. Have you got your report-book?—Yes. In No. 8, Lower George's-street a new privy and ashpit are to be built by the order of the magistrates.

1879. When was that order made?—I think on the 2nd April, 1877.

1880. Was it one of the houses which had not accommodation, but in which it could be made?—Yes.

1881. How long before the date of that order were you acquainted with the condition of that place?—That was the first time I saw it, so far as the privy accommodation was concerned.

1882. Did you never inspect it before?—I did. I was only appointed in September last, I was chiefly directing my attention to getting places cleaned before I went into the question of privy accommodation.

1883. Whom did you succeed as sub-sanitary officer in this West ward?—Mr. Craig had the whole township before I was appointed.

1884. Do you know whether or not that particular place had ever been reported to the Town Commissioners before?—I am not aware.

1885. Were there any other houses in which you required the parties to build privies?—Yes.

1886. You need not mention the houses. In how many cases did you get that done?—About eleven cases.

1887. When were they done?—Mostly this year.

1888. Are you able to say whether in your district the houses within the necessary distance of the main sewers, all have connecting drains with the main sewers?—I am not acquainted with the sewerage of the township; provided a place is clean and that the water passes away from it, I do not think it necessary to report. If the sewer was choked up we would make inquiries from Mr. Doyle.

1889. Have you always got satisfactory information from Mr. Doyle in reference to such matters?—Yes; some houses in Monkstown-avenue, I believe, are not connected.

1890. Are they a good class of houses?—They are new houses.

1891. Are they inhabited?—Yes.

1892. Have you reported them?—Yes.

1893. When?—A few days ago when I saw the water flowing into the street.

1894. Did you report that those houses were not connected with the main sewer?—Yes.

1895. Is there a main sewer in Monkstown-avenue?—It does not come to these houses.

1896. Is there a main sewer within 100 feet of them?—There is not; the stables are not within 200 feet of it.

1897. Have you gone into the interior of the houses and examined the water-closets, and so on?—I have.

1898. Have you made a house-to-house examination?—Not exactly; in the poorer class of houses I have.

1899. Was there anything done about those houses since you reported them?—The notices are not served.

1900. Was there any order made by the Commissioners upon it?—The doctor's report is not in yet.

1901. Mr. LAWLESS.—Is Monkstown-avenue a part brought into the township by the Extension Act?—Yes; I think so.

1902. Mr. EXHAM.—Is De Vesci-terrace in your district?—Yes.

1903. Do you know the houses in the hollow there?—I do.

1904. Do you know where their water-closets drain into?—No.

1905. Do you know anything about the existing drainage there?—No; I have no knowledge of the drainage or how it runs.

1906. Do you find that your reports to the Commissioners, or rather to the doctors, are promptly acted on by the Commissioners?—Yes.

1907. Are the doctor's recommendations to the Commissioners carried out to your satisfaction?—Yes, except that owing to the present system under the Act there is a very long delay between the time when the nuisance is first reported by us, and when steps are taken to force the parties to abate it.

1908. Do you find there is any delay on the part of the Commissioners in taking proceedings?—No.

1909. Do you look after the removal of manure heaps from back yards?—Yes.

1910. How long do you allow a manure heap to accumulate?—If a man does not pay attention to the Commissioners' summons or the magistrate's order, then I summon him for disobedience; still, of course, the nuisance remains, and I have to again report to the doctor.

1911. Does the nuisance continue there every day?—Yes; although he may have been fined 10*s.* by the magistrate. For instance, in a number of cases persons, in the present year, have been fined for disobeying the magistrate's order, and in two of those cases the nuisance remains to the present day.

1912. Are there any slaughter-houses in your district?—Four.

1913. What condition are they in?—Very good.

1914. Are they registered?—Yes.

1915. Have you any lodging-houses?—Seven.

1916. Are they all registered?—They are reported on by the doctor as being fit to be registered.

1917. But are they actually registered?—I think not; there are no regulations posted in them.

1918. Ought you not to look after that. Are they kept in proper order?—I brought the matter under the doctor's notice, and he certified they are in a condition to be registered as "common lodging-houses"; and I see that they are kept in that state, or very near it—as near as I can.

Mr. Barrett.—We abolished all the old lodging-houses entirely.

1919. Mr. EXHAM (to Witness).—As far as your experience goes, is there any overcrowding in the poorer class of houses? Are there too many inhabitants in one room, for instance?—No.

1920. Do you allow pigs to be kept in the rooms?—No.

1921. Are nuisances thrown out in the streets?—Yes.

1922. Is that done to any extent (I mean by nuisance human filth)?—Yes, at the lower end of Patrick-street—night soil.

1923. Cannot you put an end to that?—There is no privy on one side; and the inhabitants are too lazy to go to the other one, although they have all the ways for it.

1924. Is there no space in that street to make proper accommodation in the houses?—There is no rere to these houses whatever.

Mr. Barrett.—There could be water-closets constructed.

1925. Who is the owner of these houses in Patrick-street?—They are partners. There is one of the Commissioners a partner in some of them.

1926. Why do you not summon the owners for not having proper accommodation?—So I did; and the order is served, and they are in course of erection.

1927. Is that for all the houses, or only for one?—It is for seven houses.

Mr. Patrick Duffy.

Mr. WILLIAM CRAIG recalled.

Mr. William Craig.

1928. Mr. LAWLESS.—I see here a notice:—

"The sewer choked on said premises at said place, causing a nuisance to the adjoining premises, and causing nuisance to flow in said place."

Was there any adjudication made by the magistrate on this?—A preliminary order was made. You see by the book of notices the time he gave.

1929. It appears to me that, if this summons was served again for the premises being choked, the case could be sustained of causing a nuisance to the inhabitants.

Mr. GEORGE S. B. TINCLER examined.

Mr. George S. B. Tincler.

1930. Mr. EXHAM.—Do you reside at Sandycove?—I do, and have property there; and my father has very considerable property there; and, in stating what I am going to state, I appear on behalf of several other ratepayers as well as myself.

1931. What do you complain of?—Some two or three years ago, to the best of my recollection, there was an alteration made in the sewer that runs down into Sandycove Harbour. There is a slip at the end of Sandycove-avenue which runs into the harbour. The sewer is of masonry down to the end of the slip, and from that it was intended originally to have carried it by iron pipes down to low water mark. For the last two years these pipes, instead of doing their duty are spread about the harbour.

1932. Was it intended to lay these iron pipes? Was that intention carried out?—They were originally laid down, but it was impossible to carry out this intention for the pipes were not large enough. There was a great fall there, and the pipes would never have been large enough to carry off the sewerage. Although not an architect I can tell that; for the masonry work all burst alongside the slip.

1933. Were the pipes actually laid?—They were, but in no way fastened to the bed of the harbour, as it were.

1934. Were they even jointed together?—No, and I do not think there were even flanges to them. I do know, however, that (whether from being repeatedly moved about by the tide or not), they were either broken, or at all events there are no flanges on them now.

1935. Are they now displaced?—The pipes are now lying all about the harbour. They are not in a straight line. The consequence is that at low water, especially in the summer time, the whole escapement of this sewer covers the bed of the harbour. A few years ago the harbour had a nice sandy bottom, and now it is a nuisance to the whole neighbourhood. When the tide is out the people cannot walk there on account of the smell. You go up to your ankles in filth now there.

1936. Does that filth come out of the sewer?—Certainly.

1937. Is the present outlet from the sewer alongside the slip?—Just alongside the slip, because it comes out from the very end of the sewer.

1938. Does it run all over the place from the end of the sewer at the slip?—Yes, and it has made the place actually rotten.

1939. Have you ever drawn the attention of the Commissioners to this?—My father has, and there have been several complaints made about it to them.

1940. Have you got any redress?—Not at all. It is in the summer it ought to be remedied; the winter does not much matter. Then, I might mention, people keep boats there. I once kept a small yacht there; and if you go to "ground" boats there the pipes smash them.

1941. Were these pipes within a well-defined mark, so that a man could avoid them in mooring his boat?—No. Then, I daresay you are aware there is one of the largest bathing places in Ireland at one side of the small harbour, and a ladies' bathing place at the other.

1942. Are these injured by the sewer, to your own knowledge?—They are. Around Sandycove Point there is a very strong tide, and if you bathe at the first of the ebb, you will have the whole of this stuff from the harbour. The harbour is a peculiar one, and comes right around from the rocks. There are complaints from the woman in the ladies' bathing place that it first comes round to her.

1943. Are you able to say, from your own knowledge, whether it affects the gentlemen's bathing place?—I came here to-day at the request of several to bring it before you.

1944. Is there any other matter you wish to mention?—Nothing, except that there are other gentlemen who can give you evidence as to the state of the harbour.

1945. Is Sandycove within the Township?—Yes, within the Glasthule ward. I would now ask Mr. Coppinger to be examined.

1646. Mr. LAWLESS.—I do not think your statement requires confirmation.

Mr. ALFRED COPPINGER examined.

Mr Alfred Coppinger.

1947. Mr. LAWLESS.—Do you live near Sandycove Harbour?—I live just outside the ladies' baths.

1948. Have you heard Mr. Tincler describing the state of this place?—I have; and it is perfectly true. The sewage at present is coming out at the side of the slip, and in summer it makes a most frightful smell.

1949. Does it cause a nuisance to the ladies' and gentlemen's bathing places?—I have been in the forty-foot hole, and I have seen sewage filth floating there; and I have also heard from my wife that she has gone to her bathing place, but could not bathe there, on account of the smell. The smell is simply frightful. I have heard a number of gentlemen say that in going down to the forty-foot hole, they have to run by the harbour to escape the smell.

1950. Mr. EXHAM.—Can you say of your own knowledge how long that has been the case?—I am only living there four years.

1951. Was the water pure when you went there?—It was always very much in the same state it is now. The pipes are laid on the bed of the harbour; and when a strong breeze blows north, into the harbour, the pipes are broken up again, and make more dirt.

1952. What kind of pipes are they?—Iron pipes.

1953. Are there flanges to them?—I think there are. But the piping runs out beyond the pier, and it is always broken there, when the wind comes in heavy from the north-west.

1954. Mr. LAWLESS.—Are those pipes serviceable now?—Not in the slightest.

1955. How long have they been in that state?—Since the big storm which carried away the ladies' baths.

KINGSTOWN.
April 12, 1877.

Mr. Perrin.

Mr. PERRIN examined.

1956. Mr. LAWLESS.—How long do you know this place at Sandycove?—All my life.

1957. Is it in the condition described by Mr. Tincler and Mr. Coppinger?—I saw it yesterday, and those gentlemen have described it most accurately.

1958. Do you remember it when it was pure?—I do; but that was before such a population as there is now existed; and I saw the pipes put down. There is a sewer originally made by the county, which runs down Sandycove-avenue. It terminates at the slip. The slip goes down to the harbour, and at the end of the slip there has been a masonry sewer covered over with flags. It is almost a foot square, and the fall is very rapid at that point. Of course as the population increased, the nuisance was the greater, more particularly as a place called Breffni-terrace was built on the edge of the main road that ran down to the spot.

1959. Was the sewer of that terrace added?—It was, and was lying there until a few days ago, when it was interrupted by the sewerage about which you have heard so much along the road. Some years ago the Commissioners went about making this sewer deposit its matter at low-water mark—the original sewer deposited its matter at high-water mark. They put down pipes of about six-inch bore, and these are attached to a sewer of twelve-inch capacity at a very rapid fall; and in my humble judgment, the outlet ought to have been larger as it went out instead of being diminished. They had the ordinary flanges at the joints. They appeared to be about ten feet in length—metal pipes. In the natural course of things, these pipes, not being of sufficient capacity, got choked up—not merely from the nuisance coming in, but from the imperfect manner in which they were jointed.

1960. How long ago is it since these pipes were laid down?—I think about six years.

Mr. Tincler.—I think not so long ago.

Witness.—It does not matter. The pipes were laid out towards the centre of the harbour, which was near low-water mark. From time to time, on account of their insufficient capacity, as also from their not being properly jointed, all the oozings of the sewage matter through the joints made the place as bad as if there had been no sewer.

1961. Was there only one line of six-inch pipes laid to dispose of the entire sewage?—Only one.

1962. Do you know the state of the stone sewer down to the slip?—It has a very good and very rapid fall, having the inclination of the slip itself, and was covered with large stones; but they seem to have been removed of late, and the whole thing is now exposed up to the level of the main road.

1963. Have the covering stones been replaced?—No; and as to the pipes, I saw the men at the time, who were what we call labouring men; they disjointed them with crowbars, and cleaned out what was in them. They merely pushed them into their position again, so they are not water-tight now.

1964. Was it necessary after these pipes were laid down to disjoint them in order to relieve them?—Yes; they became choked up.

1965. Mr. EXHAM.—Were there not stakes put down to keep them in their position when first fixed?—Nothing whatever to keep them in their position; they were neither bedded in stone nor leaded together—nothing of the kind. They were moved, as I described, with bars, and pushed back again in the rudest manner.

1966. Have you seen the harbour in the summer in the condition described by these gentlemen?—Yes; and it is a very great resort.

Mr. Tincler.—I suppose four hundred people bathe there every morning.

1967. Is that nuisance caused by the sewage?—Yes; it is most offensive in summer weather.

1968. Can you from your own knowledge say it is a nuisance to the ladies' and gentlemen's bathing places?—There is no doubt about it, to my own knowledge.

1969. Can you see the sewerage escaping from the sewer?—You see it on the bottom of the harbour, when the tide is out.

1970. I mean at the bathing-place, can you see filthy stuff floating on the water?

Mr. Tincler.—On a summer's morning you can see a sort of scum floating on the water.

Witness.—I have not personally seen it, for I am not much of a bather.

Mr. Doyle.

Mr. DOYLE recalled.

1971. Mr. LAWLESS.—Do you wish to explain about the sewer at Sandycove?—Yes. Very shortly after I came here, in 1868 or 1869, our attention was drawn to the miserable state of that harbour, and the intolerable smell from the sewer discharging into it at high-water mark.

1972. Was that the old county sewer?—Yes. I prepared plans, and they consisted of a sewer of masonry running to the end of the slip, and a six-inch pipe from that out to low-water mark. It is made with cement and covered with heavy flags, and the pipes which connect with it are the same as the water-pipes here. They are what is commonly called "turned and bored" and do not require cement; they require only to be driven, and the more the rust gets into them the faster they become. They cannot be disturbed by any sea, and no man asks to disturb them. I have been living on the ground.

1973. Mr. EXHAM.—Are they in working order?—Not at present, the silting up of the sand is so much.

1974. Are they now in the line in which they were originally fixed?—No.

1975. What disturbed them?—I sent men down to clear them out. In the winter these tremendous floods clear them out; but before this the intolerable stench that arose there was such that everyone was crying out against it.

1976. That appears to have been caused from the sewege flowing out at the slip in the harbour, and it seems to be exactly the same now from these iron pipes not being in position?—Nothing of the kind. If these pipes get disconnected, the whole sewage of course spreads over the harbour.

1977. Are they not disconnected now?—They are, by the late gale silting up the sand.

1978. Did you not hear what Mr. Tincler and Mr. Coppinger said, that last summer they saw the pipes scattered about?—That was the time we were cleaning them.

1979. Mr. Tincler.—Would you ask Mr. Doyle, does not the sewage sometimes empty out at the slip, and not at the pipes at all?

1980. Mr. LAWLESS.—What is the diameter of these pipes?—Six inches.

1981. Mr. EXHAM.—Mr. Perrin says they are all broken?—There may be some holes in them. Some of the flanges are broken; some of them have holes in them.

Mr. Coppinger.—I have seen the matter spouting out of the joints at low water.

1982. Mr. EXHAM (to Mr. Doyle).—Do you not think it a proper thing to secure them by stakes, or something of the kind?—Not at all.

1983. Do you not think that the sea has some action on them?—Not at all.

1984. Did you ever see blocks of stone two or three tons weight tossed up by the sea?—Yes.

1985. Do you mean to say the sea cannot have the same effect on the pipes?—No.

Mr. Tincler.—I venture to say, if you go down there now, you will see them lying all about the bottom of the harbour.

1986. Mr. LAWLESS.—At all events, you admit, Mr. Doyle, these pipes in the harbour are not in a position to do their work?—They are not.

1987. How long are they in that state?—About a fortnight, I think.

1988. Mr. EXHAM.—Do you mean to say that what has been asserted by two gentlemen, who said they saw the pipes displaced in the summer and the stuff spreading over the place, is not the fact?—It is the perfect fact, but the pipes were only displaced for the purpose of being cleared.

1989. How long were they displaced?—This must be done between tides.

1990. Did you not hear those gentlemen say these pipes were scattered all over the harbour, so that if they anchored a boat she would be injured?—They were not scattered over the harbour.

1991. Are you prepared to contradict from your own eye-sight, what they say they saw?—I do not know what they saw.

1992. Have those pipes ever been displaced by the action of the sea?—Never, to my knowledge.

1993. Have you ever had occasion to have them replaced?—No. I broke them open, and replaced them with our own workmen.

1994. If they are so firmly fixed by the rust, how do you open them?—Oh, they are not joined. Any practical man knows that.

1995. Do you think it was right to put a six-inch pipe to carry off the sewage of a twelve-inch sewer like the county sewer?—If I had the slightest idea it would have been silted up, I would not have done so; but these things arise in other places besides Kingstown or Sandycove.

1996. Did you think it for the last six years defective in that respect?—No; but I found to my cost I was mistaken in my views.

1997. When did you find out that first?—Within the last few years, I found the sewer silts up.

1998. Did you take any steps to alter the condition of things?—I did not, except to keep the pipes free.

1999. Although you did not see the pipes scattered about the harbour last year, did you see the sewage coming from these pipes and spreading over the harbour in the way described, when the tide was out?—I did.

2000. Did you perceive the abominable smell from it?—Yes.

2001. And have you any doubt that came from the sewage?—No; but I think that with precaution we will now be able to keep the sewer clear.

2002. Mr. Perrin.—With your permission, gentlemen, I would refer to another sewer. There is a sewer the Commissioners constructed as a continuation of Samuels' river—the Glasthule river. There is a stream that goes down and discharges itself at that point, which is the outfall for a very large water-shed—all the districts about here supply it. It was open where the stream ran through it, until it came to the rampart wall of Mr. Samuels at this outfall. Through this wall there was made a wide arch about six feet by seven feet. Through this arched passage the water used to rush, and it is subject to great floodings from time to time. Within the last eight or ten years the Commissioners thought proper to construct a sewer for the purpose of conveying that stream to low-water mark. I am not aware exactly at what cost, or whether they had a contractor or not. Its dimensions are about three feet wide by two deep; and so different is it in proportion to the arched passage which was originally used at the outlet, that a man could nearly walk between the top of the sewer and the crown of the arch.

2003. Mr. LAWLESS.—Was not the arch built up?—No. That sewer was made of rough masonry. The rocks seem to have been cut away to form a passage down to low-water mark. It was built in the most imperfect manner, in many places the covering stones not having more than from four to six inches bearing on the other side of the wall. The consequence was floodings occurred. I heard from reliable information that the water actually went over Mr. Samuels' parapet wall, but I did not see this happen.

2004. Do you mean the fresh water?—Yes; the river and the sewage stuff both ran over the rampart wall at the time of floods, being unable to get vent through the sewer for want of a sufficient outfall. Last year when it was proposed to ask a Provisional Order for an intercepting sewer, I went down to the place and noticed its condition. The covering stones of the sewer, for about fifteen to twenty feet from the mouth of the arch, were stripped off—some of them lying down in the sewer itself, and impeding the free departure of the nuisance.

2005. Do you mean inside or outside the arch?—I am speaking entirely of the outside—seaward. They built a little of the arch, and it has since been covered in a good way back towards Mr. Henry's. The seaweed was collected in this sewer, and, of course the smell from it and the nuisance were fully equal to what they must have been originally before that outfall sewer was made.

2006. Was that between high and low-water mark?—Yes.

2007. Is the sewer sufficient now?—I went there three or four days ago, and saw that a few of the covering stones had been roughly put into their position, but a great deal more of it was broken.

2008. Do you mean more than you had seen broken before?—Not at the part where it was first stripped; they seem to have covered this in a rough way. The sewer is not staunch—it is not water-tight.

2009. Is that the condition of the sewer now?—It is; and all down to low-water mark, walking along it, you can notice the nuisance going out through it.

2010. Does it even carry the sewage stuff off?—Oh, the water rushes along it.

2011. Is it a rapid stream?—Very rapid stream; I remember a man being drowned there.

2012. Were the defects you have mentioned caused from the sewer not being properly made or from its not being of sufficient capacity?—From both. There are people and children in the habit of bathing convenient to this place, and in summer time the smell is highly offensive, because the sewage pouring out of that sewer lodges in the crevices of the rock, and is caught up by the sea-weed, and when the action of the sun comes on it they might as well have nothing there in the shape of an outfall sewer.

2013. Does the sewage escape from it before it reaches its proper destination?—Oh, yes; it begins immediately after leaving the main sewer. The Commissioners more recently covered the river landwards. The stuff of this sewer covers the public road.

2014. Is it inside of the high road?—Oh, yes; the river goes under the road to the one formerly arched over by the county.

2015. Is it all covered between the high road and the sea?—It is, and inland also. I understand proceedings were instituted at the suit of the occupier of Seafield, Mr. Samuels, against the Commissioners for nuisance, and they were obliged in consequence to cover over the portion of sewer that runs through his place. I have not been to the mouth of the river inland since they covered it in; but I have been on the road, and saw all the places about there flooded—from what cause I cannot tell, but I have seen the flood in a place it could not possibly have been in had the sewer been as it originally was.

2016. Can you state whether this place was liable to be flooded before this outfall sewer was made?—It could not be, because it was a very large open space before. The stream as it passed through Mr. Samuels' place was a very large affair.

2017. Does that stream receive the sewerage of a considerable district?—Yes, of a very large district. I think it has been added to by sewers made by the Town Commissioners.

Mr. Doyle.—The reverse of that.

2018 (To Mr. Perrin).—You say that this sewer was insufficient for the purpose of carrying off the sewerage?—Manifestly so.

2019. Do you consider the present state of that sewer constitutes a nuisance in that place?—Most assuredly. I have had friends down there from time to time, and on a summer evening they, as well as I have found the smell is most offensive; and, although it has been stated here that the sewerage has been diminished, I may tell you as a matter of fact that so far as a nuisance goes it has been added to.

KINGSTOWN. April 12, 1877.

Mr. Perrin.

2020. In what way?—Because the sewerage that used to run out from Windsor-terrace has been carried along this range of houses, and all the contents are going into that stream; and, therefore, there has been an increase of nuisance although there has been a decrease of water, for the other was inland—county district.

2021. Is that all you wish to state about that sewer?—Yes.

2022. Mr. Kelly.—Mr. Perrin stated that the Glasthule river over the bridge was flooded, and that he never saw it flooded before. I ask him now, as an old inhabitant and resident of that place, if he saw it fifty times flooded?

Mr. Perrin.—I only saw it once.

2023. Mr. Kelly.—Well, I saw it fifty times flooded.

Mr. John Reilly.

Mr. JOHN REILLY examined.

2024. Mr. LAWLESS.—Do you wish to give any evidence?—I am a Town Commissioner. I live upon the spot, and know all about this sewer.

2025. What do you wish to state about the sewer?—Mr. Perrin contradicted me in saying there was a bridge built over that river. I say there is a bridge, and that it is a county bridge, built over the river he is alluding to; and I say it was for the river, and not for the sewer at all it was built. I am aware it burst several times in that direction. I am aware it has had a great deal more coming into it for a long day than Mr. Perrin knows anything about. It has portion of the sewer from Crosthwaite-park, and the river from the railway, and the sewer from Adelaide-road on the bridge on the high road—but this was a bridge built at the south of the river, which was in the habit of bursting sometimes in an hour's time. There are two bridges. This one is in the rampart, and was taken by Mr. Samuels into his ground without the consent of the people. What I want to convey is that this sewer was built to take the river water that came down there, and was for many a long day as pure as it could be anywhere.

2026. Do you mean to say that the sewer that was built some years ago is the sewer Mr. Perrin alludes to?—Yes.

2027. Was that built for the purpose of taking away pure water?—The sea-weed on the strand used to make a stench, and it was built for the purpose at the time; and it answered its purpose for a good while, but at the late storm it was blown to pieces.

2028. In what year?—This year. That storm blew away part of the railway.

Mr. Perrin.—That is not what I am referring to at all: I said a year ago.

Witness.—There was no such thing as a great flood a year ago.

2029. Mr. LAWLESS.—Mr. Perrin was describing the state of the sewer a year ago.

Witness.—The state of the sewer a year ago, or a little less, was this:—It leaked at the top, and the sewerage was never able to go back because it was so open—but it was done on purpose.

2030. Was it originally built without a covering on the top, or had the covering become displaced?—At Mr. Samuels' place it was built with a covering; but it never was finished down towards the sea, and it was not necessary I think. We are mending the portion at Mr. Samuels' at the present moment. The storm blew it up in January. But the water came down through it very freely, unless there was a very extraordinary tide. There might have been a stench when the tide was out, but if there was it was very little. It was Mr. Samuels and myself concocted the idea of having the place built; because there used to be bathing there, and we built the wall at last.

2031. You say there was a bridge built there by the county. Was there ever a public road there?—There was—I have seen it there; and Mr. Samuels enclosed it in his grounds.

2032. Enclosed the public road?—Enclosed the public road. It was built by the county. I have seen gentlemen force their way through Mr. Samuels' grounds in spite of him. In my opinion the sewer wants to be "topped." There is a contract already made for it.

2033. Is there any proposition to enlarge the outfall of this sewer?—There is. We are making it two or three feet wider. We are arching the top of it.

2034. Is there a tender actually accepted for it and are the drawings all prepared for it?—Yes. The real damage done was in last January.

2035. Does that come under the head of any of what you call the Glasthule drainage?—No; under none of the contracts under this loan.

2036. Mr. EXHAM.—If you pay for this damage out of the rate, you are in this dilemma—that all you show is surplus of £36. Even putting every single thing to the road rate you can possibly do—the entire of Mr. Doyle's salary, and everything that way—you have only £36 of margin to carry you on to next year.

Witness.—We can charge ad libitum for sewerage.

2037. Mr. EXHAM.—You have not calculated for it at all events.

Witness.—We will do it next year.

2038. Mr. LAWLESS.—Do you propose to do it without borrowing?—Yes.

2039. Mr. Perrin.—Mr. Reilly has said it is intended to cover over that sewer. I would ask, is it intended to make good the side walls?

Witness.—They are good.

Mr. Perrin.—I say they are not.

Mr. Doyle.—Where it is necessary to repair the side walls it is provided for in the specification.

2040. Mr. Perrin.—Are the side walls built what we call "dry"?—They are not; the front of them for six inches in is of cement, the back of the wall is what you call "loose rubble."

2041. Do you mean to say it is staunch?

2042. Mr. LAWLESS (to Mr. Doyle).—Is it part of your specification that the sewer is to be made staunch?—Yes.

The inquiry was then adjourned to the following morning.

April 13, 1877.

Mr. Doyle.

APRIL 13, 1877.

Mr. DOYLE re-examined.

2043. Mr. EXHAM.—I think you told us the other day that this is the map tracing, a copy of which you gave to Mr. Robinson, the Local Government Board Inspector?—Yes, to the best of my opinion it is.

2044. Does that map show the exact plan of the contemplated sewerage?—Yes, by this map it is shown.

2045. Does it show the proposed new sewer?—It does.

2046. Where and how?—In red and blue lines, the blue lines for the pipes.

2047. Is this sewer (pointing to a sewer on map), indicated on the map intended to be a brick sewer?—Yes.

2048. All brick, the whole extent of the sewer brick, is that what you intend to convey, Mr. Doyle?—There is only 300 yards of the sewer intended to be laid between the points which I have shown you.

2049. Mr. LAWLESS.—The maps furnished now to us and heretofore to the Local Government Board, show that the sewer was to be laid as far as, and up to Bullock.

2050. Mr. EXHAM.—Show us on the plan one inch of pipe sewer that extends as far as that—Bullock?—(No answer).

2051. Do you mean to say, Mr. Doyle—now this is very important, and please don't misunderstand me—as far as the sewers are made up to the present, are they constructed in strict conformity with the plan you laid before the Local Government Board Inspector?—Yes, but I found it necessary to make some variations.

2052. Why you said before that the work was not done according to the original plans, because you could not make them within the estimates?—With some slight variations the work was done in strict conformity with the plans shown to the Local Government Board Inspector, Mr. Robinson.

2053. We have the plans and estimates here. Did you not say that the efficiency of the work would not be impaired by your variations?—I did say so, and I say now that the work can be done the way I intend in an equally efficient manner.

2054. Then you did depart from the plans?—Yes.

2055. From the map before us?—Yes, but slightly.

2056. There is no size of pipe put down on this map. What was the size you used?—Pipes 18-inch and 15-inch. I used them by increasing the fall.

2057. You increased the fall. Show us on the plan where you provided for an increased fall?

(The plans were produced and the witness pointed out the falls, and the respects in which the plans had been altered).

2058. Why did you alter the plans?—I would not have altered them if I thought I was not right.

2059. Why did you represent another kind of plan to the Local Government Board? (No answer.)

2060. Did you do so?—I have done so.

2061. You did?—Of course I did.

2062. Did you not show the other plans as the plans which you intended to carry out—the original plans?—Yes, with whatever variations I thought proper.

2063. Did you show them to any resident or ratepayer of Kingstown, as the plans which were going to be worked out?—I did.

2064. Did the Local Government Inspector or the Board know that the plans were altered?—That I don't know.

2065. Were the sections in connexion with those plans laid on the table here for over two months?—My impression this moment is they were.

2066. Were they as a matter of fact?—Speaking at this time I think they were—the plan was laid on the table, but I don't think the sections were.

2067. Will the fifteen or the eighteen-inch pipe be sufficient to provide for the discharge of the sewerage even with the fall so increased?—Yes, I think so.

2068. Do you mean to say you had to increase the fall?—As I understand you, Mr. Exham, I can't say I had, because I gave no section at the time to the Local Government Board Inspector. The plans and the sections are very different things. When sections are not taken accurately, we have what we call "fly" levels.

2069. Will you show me on the plan what outfall you put for this sixty-three feet of sewer? This plan so far as I can see, does not provide for any outlet at all?—It does, I think, sir.

2070. I beg your pardon, Mr. Doyle, it does not. Show it to me in the plans—there is I see, an old sewer marked.

2071. Witness.—That is not in our township.

2072. Well then, there is no outfall shown on the plan. I don't see it, in any case.

2073. Mr. LAWLESS.—Nor I, nor I believe anyone.

2074. Witness.—We only went in for doing what we had power to do.

2075. Was it more or less expensive to put in a pipe through the length shown there (on the plan), or to make a sewer three feet by two?—On that point I say the latter would be far more expensive.

2076. For the 300 yards?—I only calculated on the brick sewer for 300 yards.

2078. I don't see that is a reason, Mr. Doyle?—I calculated on 300 yards, and as a matter of fact I find now that was the distance done.

2080. Show me your estimate from Sandycove-avenue to Breffni-road? (Estimate produced.)

2081. How much did you expend on that—on the works between Sandycove-avenue and Breffni-road?—£450.

2082. Mr. LAWLESS.—On looking at the estimate you have just handed in, I don't find any estimate for this particular piece of work?—The estimate represents the whole thing.

2083. Yes, but you know you cannot tell us that 300 yards, the part done, comprises or makes up the 600 yards, the entire space to be done?—Mr. Robinson, the Local Government Inspector, was quite satisfied with it. And there is this remarkable fact which I will mention, the sum expended on the Glasthule system only exceeded the estimated cost by a few pounds.

2084. Did you furnish to Mr. Robinson the plans on which in fact you carried out the work?—No, not these plans.

2085. Mr. EXHAM.—If I was asked the question, I am satisfied what was expended on the part of the system you have named is what is shown on the estimate, but that is not the point?—In the preparation of these plans providing for the work by an eighteen-inch or fifteen-inch pipe, I had the advice and assistance of Mr. Banks, of the Local Government Board, and he said there was no necessity whatever to make sections.

2086. Did Mr. Banks, or any other human being tell you that after you got from the Local Government Board a Provisional Order, and founded on it an Act of Parliament, on the faith of, and to carry out a particular plan, you were to be at liberty to substitute a fifteen-inch or an eighteen-inch pipe, instead of making a sewer three feet by two, as shown on the plan?—No; but if we got £10,000 to lay out in drainage, the Town Commissioners could change the plans so as best to meet the requirements of the case.

2087. Is that your view? Show me any power under the Act of Parliament to do such a thing?—(No answer.)

2088. Did you get any orders from the Town Commissioners to make these changes?—I did not. I considered the matter from a professional point of view, and I only thought of having the work done in a proper way.

2089. Did you tell the Town Commissioners you were going to make these changes?—No; I did not.

2090. Did you put any pipes in at a lower level than they are at Breffni-road?—No; I did not.

2091. You say an eighteen or a fifteen-inch pipe is just as good as a three feet by two sewer provided you alter the fall?—Yes; generally.

2092. Did you, Mr. Doyle, alter the fall—increase it I mean?—Yes.

2093. How much?—I did not measure the falls accurately, but of course they would be regulated according to the work to be done. As a professional man I cannot answer off-hand. I cannot speak accurately without going over the ground.

2094. Was it in order to compensate for the smallness of the pipe-sewer, that you gave a greater fall?—Yes.

2095. What fall did you give?—I gave a great fall.

2096. Did you prepare any sections?—I made no sections in this case.

2097. Show me the working plans and sections you gave the men for the purpose of making the sewers of which we speak, or show us any working plans or sections you showed to Mr. Robinson?—I showed him the eighteen-inch pipe and the twelve-inch pipe.

2098. Before you showed him those sizes, did you make any calculation to enable you to see at what cost the drainage could be effected by the three feet by two brick sewer level?—I have been doing a great deal of work for the Commissioners, and my plan for this work I laid before Mr. Forsyth, the Board of Public Works engineer in 1868. He examined it, and was satisfied with it in every respect.

2099. Mr. Perrin.—May I suggest one question for you to ask Mr. Doyle. I will take one point, at Bullock Harbour where the water begins to discharge itself from the sewer there, and the question is, was the fall or the height you intended from the surface for the sewer there as high as the present high outfall sewer?—The fall at the outfall there is about four feet. It is not more than four feet under the surface.

2100. Mr. EXHAM.—Have you not something there to indicate what it is?—No.

2101. Do you intend the level of your new sewer to meet the level of the old outlet?—I do.

2102. Then how can you lower your sewer?—Excuse me, you don't perfectly understand me. Cannot I make ventilators—cannot I increase the excavation?

2103. We have asked you to tell us to what extent you have done that?—I don't know that. I cannot answer that question, because I don't know the extent exactly. If you allow me to look over the plans I will be able to tell you all about it.

2104. Cannot you tell us the fall approximately?—In every 375 feet there is a foot in the rise, or half a foot.

2105. A foot or half a foot. Can you not go nearer than that—you know there is a great difference in six inches of a fall in 375 feet?—You ask me these professional questions, and I want to answer you professionally.

2106. What I asked you was not a professional question—it was a matter of fact, namely, the difference of level between the sewers as originally planned and intended by you, and the substituted one. Is the present pipe on the old level, that is, on the level of the old sewer?—Yes.

2107. Have you not lowered it then?—No, I have not.

2108. Then you put yourself in this dilemma—you say an eighteen or a fifteen-inch pipe is as good as the three feet by two brick sewer, provided you altered the level in order to give it a better fall; you say you have not altered the level; therefore your conclusion as to the efficiency of the substituted sewer will not hold good on your own statement. Explain this if you can?—(No answer.)

2109. Please point us out on the plan where the outfall is marked at Bullock Harbour? (The witness pointed out the outfall.)

2110. Do you mean to say that in constructing that sewer as you have done, by means of an eighteen or a fifteen-inch pipe, there is anything like as good a means of sewerage provided for the people of Kingstown, who expect their town to be properly drained, as there would be by the three feet by two feet sewer?—The circumstances of the case have been altered.

2111. Mr. Perrin.—I deny that.

2112. Mr. EXHAM.—On that plan of yours (now produced), you have not put the size of any of the sewers or pipes. Is there any mention in any of your plans or estimates of this 300 yards?—I think so.

2113. You think so, but was there in fact?—I think so.

2114. Then show it?—We got £2,000 to lay out on sewerage, and we did so.

2115. Yes, precisely so. You got a certain sum of money to do a certain kind of work, but so far as we see, you did not do most material parts of it, but did other work.

2117. But the 300 yards does not describe 600 yards; 300 yards is not mentioned in the estimate at all. Is that what you mean to say?—Yes.

2118. How then, Mr. Doyle, would the proposed system of drainage be perfect?—If it was not altogether perfect, my aim was to render it healthy.

2119. And was it healthy?—Yes, so far as it went.

2120. Would you have us believe that there was intentionally omitted from that plan a portion of the proposed work of drainage?—We only went in to borrow £10,000, and that was what we contemplated at the time.

2121. Mr. EXHAM.—Was not the brick sewer shown in the estimates furnished?—Yes.

2122. Did you give the full particulars, and show the points at which the pipes were all to be laid down?—Yes.

2123. Why did you put in a pipe instead of a sewer afterwards?—Because I thought it was best.

2124. Did you do it?—Yes, it is perfectly true.

2125. Suppose an Act of Parliament passed, giving power to make a railway, do you think, as an engineer, you would have a right to go one inch outside the limit of deviation given by the Act of Parliament?—Well no, except in case of an authorized agreement.

2126. We asked you if you got any authority from the Town Commissioners, and you say you got no authority?—I gave that evidence.

2127. Mr. LAWLESS.—Was the plan sent to the Local Government Board, as prepared by you?—Yes.

2128. From what?—Prepared from the plans that were lying on the table.

2129. Plans with levels?—We had no plans with the levels marked on them.

2130. Mr. EXHAM.—I understood you to say that the books, with the contract plans, were lying on the table?—Yes.

2131. Did you submit the plans to the Commissioners before you commenced to work them out?—I did.

2132. Did you tell them that you were going to change them when you came practically to apply them?—No.

2134. Mr. EXHAM.—So far as we see at present there appears to be no evidence to contradict your statement.

2135. Mr. William Samuels, a ratepayer, residing in Glasthule-road, informed the Commission that he had paid 3*s.* 6*d.* a foot for a pipe leading to his house from the main sewer, and as he considered that price too high, he wished to know the contract price.

2136. Mr. LAWLESS.—Who was the contractor?—A Mr. Dickson.

2137. Mr. M'Evoy.—There were tenders here from Mr. Doherty and others to do such work at 1*s.* 6*d.*, and one at 1*s.* 2*d.* a foot.

2138. Mr. EXHAM.—So I see. The Act of Parliament in such a case calls upon you, Mr. Samuels, to do the work, and failing to do it the Town Commissioners can do it at your expense, charging what is fair and proper.

2139. Mr. Samuels.—I paid it, of course, only I considered the price too great.

2140. Mr. Perrin.—Was it done per schedule?

2141. Mr. EXHAM.—I see it was, and it was an unfortunate thing for Mr. Samuels to have to pay so much, when he could have got it done for 1*s.* 6*d.* or 1*s.* 2*d.*

2142. Mr. Sexton, contractor.—The work could not be done for any such money. Mr. Doherty's contract is misunderstood.

Mr. Reilly.—It is a trick of the trade.

2143. Mr. EXHAM.—We will see that just now. Mr. Doyle, do you know Mulgrave-avenue?—Yes.

2144. Is there sewerage work doing now there?—

Yes, there was some done there in 1868, and there is some doing there now.

2145. Sewers?—Yes.

2146. Pipes?—No, there are no pipes there, it is a brick sewer. We do not lay pipes on concrete, unless the bottom is not exactly safe.

2147. I thought the specification requires the contrary?—No, it does not.

2148. Mr. Samuels asked to be allowed to state as a matter of justice to himself, that a statement made by Mr. John Reilly, Town Commissioner, on the previous day, to the effect that his (Mr. Samuels') late father had appropriated a certain road, which was public property, was wholly untrue.

2149. Mr. Reilly said he persisted in his statement.

2150. Mr. LAWLESS.—The matter arose incidentally, but we have not anything to say to it.

Dr. JEREMIAH O'FLAHERTY examined.

2151. Mr. LAWLESS.—Are you one of the sanitary officers of this town, doctor?—Yes, since the Act came into operation.

2152. You know Kingstown well?—Yes, I knew the town for many years prior to the passing of the Sanitary Act.

2153. Have you lived here for a considerable time?—Yes, since the year 1855.

2154. What is the sanitary condition of the houses of the poorer classes in Kingstown?—The sanitary accommodation is defective by reason of the structures.

2155. Do you mean to say that the structures or houses are not sufficiently large to afford the accommodation required?—Yes, because the accommodation for the poor consists generally of cabins and ground floors, and when the weather is bad the ground floors are mud floors.

2156. Are these old or recently constructed houses that you speak of?—I think they are old—yes, old. I believe I know all the old houses in the town.

2157. Do you receive reports from the sub-sanitary officer?—Yes; he reports to me on the improper condition of dwellings.

2158. Is it Mr. Duffy or Mr. Craig who reports to you?—Mr. Duffy, as the sub-sanitary officer, reports to me, and then I in turn report the matter to the Commissioners.

2159. Are you satisfied of the vigilance and activity of Duffy?—Yes. I believe he is a very efficient and attentive man.

2160. He reports to you, I think, you said?—Yes.

2161. Has he had occasion to report the same places more than once? I want to see the effect of his reports?—Well, yes; I have got reports nearly every three months of the same premises. When there is a filthy ashpit or a filthy privy in a place, on the report of the sub-sanitary officer it is cleaned out. In a little while the same condition of things exists again, and then he reports to me again, and so on.

2162. Have you got reports from Mr. Duffy on the want of suitable accommodation, and has that been supplied?—Not in every case.

2163. In any case?—Oh, yes.

2164. After the first report?—Often not until after frequent reports.

2165. You see the distinction, because the place, after being supplied with accommodation, or cleaned out, as the case might be, might get into the same state again from the dirty habits of the people?—Yes, that often happens.

2166. Do you attend the sanitary committee when your reports are brought before them?—No; attendance in the way you describe does not come within my duties. The consulting sanitary officer attends.

2167. Who is he?—Dr. Colgan.

2168. Do you find your reports acted upon promptly and satisfactorily by the Commissioners?—Well, to know that does not come exactly in my way, because I don't see whether they are or not.

2169. Are the houses of the poor people here sufficiently looked after with regard to cleanliness?—No, I don't think they are. I think the dwellings of the poor very defective. Many of them are without yards, and have merely mud floors, so that in wet weather the floors are turned into a state of mud, and perhaps two or three pigs, a goat, and a donkey are kept.

2170. In the houses?—No, not in the houses, but in the yards.

2171. In those cases in which pigs or other animals are kept are they kept close to the dwellings?—Yes; they are immediately outside the back-door.

2172. Is that so close as to be injurious to health?—Yes, I think so.

2174. Mr. EXHAM.—Why don't they get rid of the animals altogether, at least why don't they remove them from dangerous proximity to the dwellings of the people?—That is not for me to say.

2175. Is the proximity dangerous?—That is my opinion.

> "In the majority of the houses, courts, and lanes inhabitated by the poor of Kingstown, sewerage is utterly neglected, public decency is outraged, and the public health injured by the deficiency of latrines and sewers, by the accumulation of filth in the houses and their vicinity, and by the pestilential effluvia thus generated."

Is that true, Dr. O'Flaherty?—Yes; I believe it was quite true at the time that report was made, but it is not so now.

2177. Is it not true in any respect now? If not, tell us what has been done since?—All the places to which that report refers are now provided with proper drainage.

2178. Efficient drainage?—They are provided with surface drainage.

2179. All the places referred to?—The majority of them.

2180. Are the majority of these places provided with proper latrines or privies?—They are; and the better parts of the town have been sewered since the publication of Mr. Haliday's report.

2181. Will the poor people get the benefit of the sewerage?—Well, not as much as persons residing in the better parts of the town and in the outlying districts.

2182. Do you know Mulgrave-street?—Yes.

2183. How are the people in Mulgrave-street off for sewerage?—Not well, I think; because not much has been done in the way of sewerage there, but, I believe, there is a main sewer there.

2184. Have connecting drains been made there?—My belief is they have not.

2185. No connecting sewer from the houses to the main sewer?—I think not.

2186. Then what use is the main sewer to the poor people in Mulgrave-street?—Not much.

2187. Do you ever remember having said, Dr. O'Flaherty, that nothing in the way of keeping the houses of the poor in anything like a good sanitary condition could be done until the houses were connected with the main sewers by intercepting sewers?—I have said so.

2188. Has it been done?—It has not been done.

2189. Would it be a proper thing to do?—Most certainly.

2190. I see Mr. Haliday calls attention to the high death-rate which you had here during the last cholera epidemic. It was, he says, more than double that of

KINGSTOWN.
April 13, 1877.
Dr. Jeremiah O'Flaherty.

Dublin, in proportion to the population. Is that a fact?—I don't know exactly.

2191. Do you recollect it?—Oh, yes; and the cholera was certainly very virulent at the time.

2192. What was the death-rate?—I don't know.

2193. Mr. LAWLESS.—Were the deaths from cholera more numerous at the time in Kingstown than in Dublin, considering the populations?—I don't know, but it was high with us.

2194. Mr. EXHAM.—Do you attribute the high death-rate at the time to the defective sewerage and the dirty state of the houses of the poorer classes?—No, I do not, sir; because the cholera was quite as bad in the better parts of Kingstown, where there was every sanitary appliance.

2195. Were the better parts sewered then?—Whether they were perfectly sewered or not I don't know, but I know that they were partially sewered.

2197. Is the general condition of the poorer parts of the town better now than when it was described by Mr. Halliday in this report?—I think it is; and the introduction of the Vartry water has made a great improvement in the condition of the poorer residents of Kingstown. Before its introduction the poor people were obliged to use great economy in their use of water. They had to make a bucket of water do a great deal, and they had to have it delivered to them at their doors by means of a donkey. Now, they have good water in abundance—I may say in their very doors.

2199. Is that your opinion?—It is, sir.

2200. Is it a want so urgent that it should be at once supplied?—It is, sir.

2201. Would the existence of that want account for the high death-rate?—I would not say that.

2202. Do you say the system of sewerage carried out in the better parts of the town is no benefit to the poorer residents?—Yes, I say so.

2203. Here is another passage. Tell me what you think about it. (Reading from same book):—

"Here they have a comparatively small town, a town which may be walked over from one end to another within an hour, a fashionable watering place, the summer resort of invalids seeking health, and the permanent residence of some of the wealthy citizens of Dublin, and yet in connexion with the principal streets, and almost in the very centre of the town, we find upwards of 100 courts and lanes in a most abominable state of filth and neglect, mostly unpaved, without sewers or drains, without privies or ashpits, without any water supply, without even a pump, and without gas lamps or other lights; they are at night involved in darkness, and become the receptacle of filth of all kinds; and yet as they contain nearly 800 houses or cottages, inhabited by 4,000 or 5,000 human beings, they are the dwellings of about one-third of the entire population of Kingstown."

Is that true, Dr. O'Flaherty?—It was, I believe, at the time.

2204. Is it still true?—I don't think it is. At that time the majority of the houses inhabited by the lower orders were lodging-houses or poor cabins, with a few feet of frontage, and there were no sewage drains provided for these dwellings. The consequence was that the people had to dispose of their accumulations in the most convenient, if not in the best manner.

2205. Do you know a place called M'Cormick's-court?—Yes.

2206. Hear what Mr. Haliday says about it. (Reading from same book):—

"M'Cormick's-court, with what is appropriately termed 'Pig-bank,' containing twenty-four houses and cottages, with earthen floors, generally below the level of the court, which is unpaved and undrained, and in a most filthy state; there is no light at night, no water supply, no pump, no sewer in this court. The twenty-four cottages have not any yards attached to them, they have one ash-pit common to all, and one place called a privy for the hundred men, women and children living within this enclosure."

Does that state of things still exist?—I think not.

2207. Mr. LAWLESS.—Is the place still inhabited?

2208. Mr. Miles Kelly (Commissioner).—The place has been thrown down.

2209. Witness.—There is still a place called "Pig Bank," but it is made up of cottage dwellings, and houses with up-stairs.

2210. Mr. EXHAM.—Do you know a place called Gough's-court?—Yes, the site of it. The houses which were there have been pulled down.

2211. What about Baymount-court which is described here (in same book) as a wretched, filthy place?—Pulled down also, at least the greater part of it.

2212. Is it as bad as it was ten years ago. Mr. Haliday says as to the cottages in it:—

"There is no rere whatsoever, nor have they the slighest provision for preserving decency and cleanliness."

I believe the sewerage there to be very defective.

2213. Mr. Doyle.—We are making sewers there, and there are traps outside to carry matter away.

2214. Hear this again from Mr. Haliday's book:—

"Baymount-court, having one large house, No. 19, in front to the street, and behind it twenty smaller houses or cottages, with earthen floors, necessarily damp, as being mostly below the level of the court which is unpaved and undrained, and flooded during heavy rain. To these cottages there is no rere whatever, nor have they the slightest provision for preserving decency and cleanliness. They have no privies, no ashpits, no receptacle whatever for filth, which is accumulated within doors until nightfall, and as I am told, creates an intolerable stench. There are no gas lamps or other lights in this court. It has no water supply, no pump, no sewer, and yet it is the dwelling-place of upwards of 100 human beings, paying from 1*s.* 6*d.* to 2*s.* 6*d.* per week for single rooms, twelve to fourteen feet square, in which whole families—men, women and children—eat, drink, and sleep. Adjoining Baymount-avenue is Gough's-court, having in front to Cumberland-street, the houses Nos. 22 and 23, and behind them twenty-one smaller cottages or houses of the same kind, and in the same state as those in Baymount-court. They have no privies, but they have two ashpits common to all, into which much of the filth is cast, rendering them a sickening nuisance. There is no sewer, no drain, pavement or flagging, no water supply, no pump, no gas or other light at night in this court, which likewise contains upwards of 100 inhabitants."

Are matters as bad there now?—No, certainly not.

2215. Mr. Doyle.—There is a sewer there and privy accommodation.

2216. Mr. EXHAM.—How many privies are there for the twenty-one houses?—I think there is one.

2217. One, Mr. Doyle?—Yes.

2218. Can you say, Mr. Doyle, what is the length of Baymount-court?—Yes, about 122 feet. We have put there a twelve-inch pipe, and we can clean out the privy accommodation by turning the water into it.

2219. Dr. O'Flaherty.—There are two rows of cottages there, single dwellings with no back door, and with scarcely a window in them.

2220. How many human beings live there?—Perhaps five or six in every house.

2221. Do you know Cod's-court?—Yes; it opens into George's-street.

2222. Listen to what Mr. Haliday writes about it:—

"To these specimens of the disgusting, filthy, and neglected state in which you will find a large portion of your township and its inhabitants, I will here only add one more from the long list which shall be appended to this letter, and I select this case because it is one of a dwelling-place in the middle of the principal street in the town, in the same street with your town hall, and being close to the residences of some members of your Board, and it is one which can be inspected at any moment without trouble. The case is that of Cod's-court, opening into George's-street, and open to the view of every person passing through that street. This court, which is not quite eight feet wide, contains five houses and three cottages, without any rere whatever. It is without pavement or flagging, without sewer or drain, without water or gas, without privy or ashpit, and like some of the other dwelling-places of the labouring classes in Kingstown, it is without a receptacle for filth or offal, except the centre of the court, into which all is cast after nightfall, having been retained within doors during the day, tainting the atmosphere of those wretched apartments in which, as in almost all other cases, whole families eat, drink, and sleep. Nor is it easy to prevent this filth from accumulating, the court being so narrow that scavengers can only use a handcart in their efforts to cleanse it. It is but just, however, to the owner of the cottages to add that after a delay of many years, he says he is now about to build a privy and ashpit for the three cottages; but the five houses and their unfortunate inmates are to remain in their present condition."

What has been done in Cod's-court since?—I think that court is now sewered, lighted, and watered.

2223. What about the houses?—The houses are not in a good state.

2224. Are there as many people living there now as then?—I don't know.

2225. Mr. Doyle.—All the houses there are in tip-top order. Within the past few years they have been both sewered, watered, and lighted, and have now perfect accommodation.

2226. Mr. EXHAM.—Have they privies?—They have one privy.

2227. I find in Mr. Haliday's pamphlet:—

"Albert-court, having twenty-four cottages, with one ashpit and one privy in common and adjoining it."

Do you know that place?—Yes; Albert-court is a large area in which the dwellings are built around against the walls. They have no back-doors, nothing but a front before them into which they throw everything. These houses are better than the average houses of the poor, because they have wooden floors, and three or four of them have two stories, and the rest of them only one.

2228. What is their present condition?

Mr. Miles Kelly.—They are good residences. Another residence place of the poor, which is in good condition is Pim's-court.

2229. Dr. O'Flaherty.—Yes. I believe there is sufficient cubic measurement in all the houses there (Pim's-court), I know. The roofs are water-tight, but not air-tight.

2230. Mr. M'Evoy.—So much the better.

2231. Were these improvements made by the Town Commissioners?—No; by the landlords.

2232. Is it your opinion, Doctor, that there is still a great deal that has not been done?—There is still a great deal that has not been done, but a great deal has been done.

2233. Mr. Reilly.—A great deal has been set in motion by the Town Commissioners.

2234. Witness.—I could show the Commission, if you walk outside, courts that ought to be swept off the face of the earth.

2235. If an epidemic broke out here now, would it be likely to be attended with serious consequences?—Most probably.

2236. Are any of those places you speak of the property of Town Commissioners?—I don't know. I hope not.

2237. (Suggested by Mr. Miles Kelly).—Have you ever reported to the Commissioners that any places should be pulled down?—No, I did not.

2238. Mr. EXHAM.—What Dr. O'Flaherty says is, that the sub-sanitary officer must report to him in the first instance.

2239. Mr. Miles Kelly.—Before the Act came into force at all we had a far better arrangement.

2240. Mr. M'Evoy.—I think you are right in that. I think we had less circumlocution.

2241. Mr. LAWLESS.—I infer from Dr. O'Flaherty, that very little work has been done here within the last few years.

2242. Mr. Kelly.—I don't think he gave such evidence.

2243. Mr. EXHAM.—He says there are places in the town actually unfit for human habitation, for he says there are courts which ought to be swept off the face of the earth. He cannot recommend that places should be pulled down except the sub-sanitary officer reports to him.

2244. Mr. LAWLESS.—The Town Commissioners have the necessary powers vested in them by the Act to prevent such places being inhabited.

2245. Mr. Barrett (Chairman).—Under the Act the Town Commissioners have taken down a large number of houses. I think Dr. O'Flaherty will agree with me in that.

2246. Mr. Kelly.—Before you pull down houses you ought to have others in place of them.

2247. Mr. LAWLESS.—I want to know if there was any notice taken of this letter of Mr. Haliday's by the Town Commissioners?

Mr. Kelly.—I never heard of it before.

2248. Mr. M'Evoy.—Mr. Haliday's evidence had a great influence on the Parliamentary Committee of 1869, and General Hannyington appears to have also taken a great interest in the matter.

2249. The Town Clerk.—In 1869 I heard of this letter.

2250. Mr. Pallas, C.E.—We had it in 1867, when I was engineer to the Board.

2251. Mr. EXHAM.—Yes, I think Mr. Pallas referred to it in his report furnished to the Commissioners in 1867.

Mr. JOHN RUSSELL, C.E., examined.

2252. Mr. EXHAM.—On what subject do you wish to give evidence?—I wish to call your attention to the defective sewerage on Glenageary-road. The sewer was an old stone one, and was utterly inadequate.

2253. Is it not provided for in the new system?—No, the place I refer to is in the Glasthule ward.

2254. Does the place you speak of require a proper sewerage as much as Crosthwaite-park?—Yes.

Mr. DOMINICK FRANCIS BURKE examined.

2255. Mr. EXHAM.—What evidence do you wish to give?—With the permission of the Commissioners, as a ratepayer, I wish to speak with reference to one or two points. There are rows of cottages in Patrick-street, Kingstown, and Tivoli-terrace, East, where a number of pig-stys, and several privies are in a disgraceful condition, and ashpits worse. In consequence of this state of things I came down and made a complaint.

2256. To whom did you complain?—I wrote my complaint in a book in the outside office here.

2258. Does it continue still?—The pigs are there still; they are there now. Considering the rain floods that we have had, we cannot smell them as bad now as we used.

2259. Mr. Barrett (Chairman).—The property of which Mr. Burke speaks belonged to my family. It was mine originally. We receive but a very small head-rent for it.

2260. Witness.—I did not know it was your property at all, Mr. Barrett.

2261. Mr. EXHAM.—It would be the best means of securing the rent to keep the premises in proper order. Is that in Mr. Craig's or Mr. Duffy's district?

2262. Sub-sanitary officer Duffy.—In mine. I say there is no filthy privy there. There are pigs there to be sure, but there is a sewer in it.

2263. Mr. EXHAM.—Mr. Burke, are the pig-stys near any main sewer?—There is a sewer from the pig-sty, but it is no good. I told the people that six pennyworth of chloride of lime would abate the smell, but they would not get it.

2264. Mr. LAWLESS.—When did you make the complaint you told us about?—Last summer.

2265. I see from a book put in my hand that there was a complaint of the 9th of August in reference to a house in Tivoli-terrace—

"Smells arising from privies and pig-stys in the rere, and also in the upper end of Patrick-street."

KINGSTOWN. April 13, 1877.

Mr. Dominick Francis Burke.

I find also this entry—

"I beg to state that on Mr. Burke complaining at this office, I had notice served on the parties complained of, and the nuisance has been since abated.

"WM. CRAIG, Sub-sanitary Officer.'

2266. At the time you repeated the complaint was the nuisance as bad as when you first made it?—Yes; and it continued to the end of the summer.

2267. I find that another complaint was made on the 11th July, prior to the August complaint?—Yes.

2268. I do not find that any notice whatever was taken of this complaint, because I find other and similar complaints after that?—No. They made a new sewer down Tivoli-terrace, East, at a place called Cross-avenue, where there are a lot of cabins all requiring connecting sewers. I remarked during the work that the men were blasting enormous stones out of a quarry close by, and putting those stones just as they were into the sewer over the glazed tile pipes. I said at the time to one of the men, "This is very bad work," and the reply I got was, "I wish by G—— there were more of them to put down; it would give us more work;" and what is more, this kind of thing continued for some time.

2269. Mr. EXHAM.—Were those stones thrown down on the pipe sewers?—Yes; they put down tons weight of granite on the glazed pipe.

2270. Was there any clay intervening?—I cannot say that. I am ready to swear to what I stated, and I spoke of those enormous stones being nothing but obstructions.

2271. (To Mr. Doyle).—You should attend to this. Mr. Burke says that he saw the contractor's men, when making the sewer at Cross-avenue, put enormous blocks of granite down over the pipe sewer, and that when he complained to them, they said they were sorry they had not more granite blocks to put down as it would give them more work. What do you say to that, Mr. Doyle?—I never saw that kind of work going on. The inspector, Mr. Milliken, will be able to tell you all about it.

2272. I thought the excavated material should be carefully filled in around the pipe. Surely you cannot say that putting down blocks of granite as described was a compliance with the specification? (No answer.)

2273. Mr. Barrett (Chairman).—I did not see blocks as large as you describe, Mr. Burke.

2274. Witness.—I saw them. They were originally of enormous size.

2275. Mr. Barrett.—They should not have been put down.

2276. Mr. EXHAM.—If not, how and why did they come there, that is the point? Why were they brought from the quarry?

Mr. Doyle.—I cannot say that.

2277. Mr. LAWLESS.—What excuse can you give for this, Mr. Doyle?—I am able to say it was not done.

2278. Why?—Because I did not see it.

2279. Mr. EXHAM.—Mr. Burke says he saw it, and that it was going on for a long time.

2280. Mr. Doyle.—He may have been inside the ground and seen the stores, and not outside of it.

2281. Witness.—Mr. Burke, why the blocks were regular rocks, and they were put down into the sewer over the glazed pipe. I saw it done. I think Mr. Barrett may remember that I remarked it to him at the time.

Mr. John M'Evoy.

Mr. JOHN M'EVOY examined.

2282. Mr. LAWLESS.—You want to examine Mr. Pallas with reference to the plans upon which the loan of £10,000 was obtained?—Yes.

2283. What do you want to prove?—I wish to show that these plans were badly prepared, in fact that the drainage of the township was not carried out as everyone understood it was to be, and that the plans were altered after the loan was sanctioned without notice to anybody, and that the work was not done according to contract or in a proper manner. I will either give evidence myself, or I offer Mr. Pallas.

2284. Were you a member of the Board at the time these plans were brought in?—No, the plans were brought in 1874. I was not on the Board that year.

2285. When did you come back to the Board?—On the 1st January, 1875.

2286. How long were you off it?—One year—1874.

2287. Was not the Provisional Order obtained in April, 1875?—The inquiry was held in October, 1874, but the Act was not passed until 1875. I intend to give evidence myself on a few matters. Mr. Pallas will give engineering evidence of importance. I intend to show that the district I represent has been entirely neglected.

2288. Where do you represent?—Monkstown ward, where as yet, although in the possession of the £8,000, they have not as much as asked for or invited tenders.

Mr. Doyle.

2289. Mr. Doyle.—Cumberland-street, and other places in the ward, including Baymount, have received the benefit of the scheme. We intend to go before the Local Government Board to ask for leave to go on with the works.

2290. Mr. LAWLESS.—He says that he will, or the Commissioners will have to go before the Local Government Board before they can go on with the work. Do you not, Mr. Doyle, mean or propose to go on with the work until you go before the Local Government Board?

Mr. Doyle.—I do not know what my Board will do.

2291. Mr. EXHAM.—Is there a minute of the Board stating that the works will be suspended in the event you speak of?—The work referred to is part and parcel of the contemplated scheme.

2292. Have you submitted any report to the Board on the subject of this suspension of the works?—No.

2293. Is it only your own idea then?—Yes.

2294. Have you received any directions on the subject?—None.

2295. Or given any?—No.

2296. Have you had any directions whatever given you in reference to the Monkstown-crescent work?—No directions, sir.

2297. Did you at the time think it was necessary for the health and comfort of that locality that a sewer should be made?—Well, yes.

2298. Did you think so in April, 1874?—We only commenced our sewer works last June, and in consequence of difficulties arising between myself and the committee, they have stopped the works.

2299. Is there a resolution of the committee stopping the works?—Not stopping.

2300. I cannot understand you. Did you stop the work on your own responsibility?—No.

2301. Who then gave you the orders to suspend the sewerage work in Monkstown?

The Town Clerk.—When more pressing works are completed, this will be one of the first sewers taken in hands.

2302. But what authority was there for stopping it at all—was there a resolution?—There was not, sir.

Mr. M'Evoy.—The Board obtained a considerable loan to do the work, and the ratepayers are paying for it.

The Town Clerk.—Monkstown ward is getting quite its proportion of the works carried out.

2303. Mr. M'Evoy.—Glasthule is getting the whole of it.

2304. The Town Clerk.—I am sure; and I may so inform the Commission that the sum of £8,000, which has been borrowed, will be equally divided over the wants of the entire township. One locality will not be favoured over another.

2305. Mr. Reilly.—There is an objection to doing too much work at a time, for the sake of the rates.

2306. Mr. EXHAM.—Yes; but the peculiar thing about this Monkstown Ward work is, that Mr. M'Evoy, as I understand him, says Mr. Doyle told him it was not intended to do it at all.

2307. Mr. LAWLESS.—We will now hear Mr. Pallas.

Mr. ANDREW PALLAS, C.E. examined.

2308. Mr. EXHAM.—What is your profession, Mr. Pallas?—I am a Bachelor of Arts of Trinity College, an engineer of several years' standing, a member of the institute of Civil Engineers of Ireland, and entitled to be a member of the institute of England. I have been engaged in hydraulic works nearly all my life.

2309. Were you ever in the employment of the Kingstown Town Commissioners?—Yes, in April, 1867, first.

2310. Did you furnish the Commissioners with any plan or report with reference to the drainage of the township?—I furnished a preliminary report, and I then turned my attention to a plan for the drainage of the township.

2311. When you came here, were you directed to examine the sewerage of the township?—Yes; and I prepared a plan with levels suitable to all-sized houses in the township, and specifications with proper sections. My plan suited the level of the lowest basement story in the streets.

2312. Did you make that plan to enable you to prepare a scheme?—Yes; a system adapted to drain the lowest basement story.

2313. So that no single house would remain undrained?—Yes; no single house.

2314. Did you prepare proper sewerage plans?—Yes; in accordance with the suggestions of the Local Government Board of England.

2315. How long did you continue in office as town surveyor?—I think until December of the same year.

2316. When did you furnish the plans?—On the 22nd of November I furnished my report and the plans, and the estimate with them.

2317. Did your system combine the sewerage of the whole township with intercepting sewers?—Yes; I included the whole of the recognised township. I intercepted all the sewerage which is causing so much nuisance, and I carried it through my system to the extreme end of the township, so far in fact, as I could go under my instructions.

2318. Did you furnish the plans to the Commissioners, which you prepared as the foundation of your scheme?—I did, and a report on the 22nd of November, 1867. The plans and my scheme met with a great deal of local opposition, and I was very much worried in consequence, so much so, that when I received an offer of an appointment from the Secretary of State for India, for irrigation works there, I went to that country in 1868. I was only with the Commissioners from the time they appointed me in April until November, and I got no remuneration from them.

2319. Had they your plans then for nothing?—No, I did not give them up until I was paid for them.

2320. How much?—£70.

2321. Did you leave them then a complete set of plans, levels, and sections?—Yes.

2322. Did your plan include the drainage of those disgusting lanes we have heard so much about?—Every one of them.

2323. Was it a complete system to serve rich and poor?—I had a level for every lane and court in the township, and I provided for the drainage of every one of them.

2324. In order to enable you to do that, did you go personally into all these places?—I visited every one of them.

2325. From the condition of them at that time, what do you say to Dr. More Madden's report?—In 1867 these places were quite filthy, and just as described in that book. When the cholera was here, it was especially bad in Crosthwaite-park. A friend residing there told me that he had to get a drain or sewer opened in order to have it cleaned out, but there was not a sufficient fall to the sewer to allow it to be properly cleaned.

2326. Would your plan have got rid of all that?—Certainly.

2327. Does that state of things exist there now?—No, I believe it has been remedied since. It was in a very bad state then.

2328. When again did you turn your attention to the sewerage of this district?—In the year 1873. I attended an inquiry here on the subject, which was held by the direction of the Local Government Board.

2329. Have you seen the works themselves as they are being executed?—I have seen a certain portion of them. I have seen portions of the work at Glenageary-road, Breffni-terrace, and Mulgrave-terrace.

2330. In your opinion is the eighteen or the fifteen inch pipe sufficient to provide for the additional drainage which will flow into the pipe?—I cannot tell unless I knew the area drained into it.

2331. Can you not tell from the plans?—Not without sections giving the discharges of the sewer; but I certainly would not put in a sewer less by twelve inches than that contracted for.

2332. Mr. LAWLESS.—Supposing a sewer three feet by two was intended to be put in, and an eighteen or a fifteen inch pipe substituted, would either of these latter sizes be sufficient for the purposes of efficient drainage?—A fifteen or an eighteen inch pipe would be insufficient under the circumstances.

2333. Mr. EXHAM.—Have you looked yourself at some of the sewers constructed?—I have.

2334. Was there fall enough—was the water stagnant?—I saw water lodged in the Mulgrave-street sewer, and my opinion is that if there was a proper fall that would not be the case.

2335. Did you see the water lodged there?—Yes.

2336. In your opinion, as an engineer, should there be pegs or some such mark put down from place to place for the purpose of showing the clerk of works or contractor at what levels they should carry their sewers?—The practice is to give them levels every twenty or twenty-five feet, and to put a board across each centre line.

2337. Do you do that yourself?—I or my assistant. It is absolutely necessary to do it to insure the carrying out of the work at proper levels.

2338. From what you observed of the sewers being constructed here, can you say whether or not any such course has been adopted?—In none of the sewers that I saw were there any level pegs, nor did I see any centre lines. I looked specially for them.

2339. With regard to the materials used in the construction of the sewers, did you examine them?—I did, and I looked to the workmanship of those in progress.

2340. Did you examine the basement of the arches where they are cemented together?—Yes.

2341. Have you heard the specification read here—"Best county Dublin grey stock brick"? Are the bricks used of that description?—They are not.

2342. What sort of bricks are being used?—I should say Boghall bricks. The bricks being used are not of the kind or quality known as "best county Dublin grey stock brick."

2343. Are they suitable for the work of these sewers?—I should not allow them to be put in.

2344. Are they according or equal to those contracted for?—They are not.

2345. Have you seen that difference in the brick in more places than one?—I was asked to go to Glenageary-road, and they are not the best county Dublin grey stock brick which are used there.

2346. Are they suitable for the work?—No.

2347. Did you see any bad bricks amongst them independent of the description of brick?—I did, plenty.

2348. Did you see in the specification the description given of the bricks to be used?—I did.

2349. Are those used equal to that?—They are not.

2350. Are there bits of bad brick amongst them?—Yes, and bad whole bricks.

2351. Independent of their being of a different make and quality?—Yes.

KINGSTOWN.
April 13, 1877.

Mr. Andrew Pallas, C.E.

2352. In what cement are those bricks laid?—They are not in the cement contracted for.

2353. Is there a distinction between best London cement and Portland cement?—There is. The best London cement is the best.

2354. Is there any difference in the price?—There is a difference in the quality.

2355. Is there not a cement manufactured somewhere in the south of England?—Yes.

2356. Is what is called in the trade "Best London Portland cement," the best quality known?—Yes.

2357. Better than any you could get out of London?—Yes.

2358. The cement used in the sewers is to be of that quality. Is the cement you saw used even "Portland cement"?—I do not believe it is Portland cement at all.

2359. What cement do you believe it to be?—I believe it is Scotch cement—Glasgow cement.

2360. Mr. LAWLESS.—Is that sold at a lower price in the market than the other descriptions?—Yes.

2361. Mr. EXHAM.—Do you happen to know the difference in the price?—I know there is cement made in Glasgow which is of greatly inferior quality. It was used at the construction of the Vartry waterworks, but had to be all taken up again; it didn't harden at all.

2362. Is it with reference to that difficulty that these terms are in the contract, "It is expected to harden within half an hour"?—Yes. It is necessary to have the cement set quickly in order to prevent the water from getting in. They use lime-mortar in the sides.

2363. Is it only in the bottom the cement is used?—Yes.

2364. In the Mulgrave-street sewer?—Yes. The side walls are only half a brick thick and backed with clay.

2365. Is that all?—Yes; that is quite thick enough for the sewer if it is built with cement. (Hands in specification of the London main drains, which says that all the work is to be in cement.)

2366. Is there anything in the Kingstown contract binding the contractor to have the whole done in cement?—No.

2367. This (the London specification), is for low-level sewers. At all events in the sewers here the bottom is to be in best London Portland cement?—The cement I saw used is not like it in colour.

2368. In your opinion when constructing sewers should the ventilators be put in as the sewers progress?—Certainly; I have searched the whole Glenageary-road and I could not find one. There should be a man-hole at every ventilator.

2369. How are those ventilators to be put in now?—They must again break up the road. I should put in a ventilator every 100 yards, and that as I go along with the sewer.

2370. Has that been done here?—No.

2371. Is there not a single ventilator to be seen on that road?—I have not seen one.

2372. You say you saw water running on the Sandycove-road?—Yes; and the trench was full of water.

2373. Are the pipes there jointed?—I saw no cement for jointing, and those I saw were not jointed.

2374. Were the men then laying them?—Not on the day I saw them—it was on Sunday.

2375. Did you see any of them lying in their beds?—They could not be jointed and the trench full of water; the water must be taken out of it.

2376. Mr. LAWLESS.—You say you saw them on Sunday?—Yes; there was no cement on the ground.

2377. Did you happen to see them on any week-day?—I did not. I saw Burdett-avenue sewer and it was not jointed.

2378. Suppose they are allowed to remain in that condition will they be affected in any way?—Of course the surface-water will percolate into the sub-soil, and will get into the pipes, which, of course, will throw extra work on them. They won't carry off the sub-soil water.

2379. Mr. EXHAM.—Did you see a wall broken near the sea?—I did.

2380. What has become of the sewage now?—It is trickling through the material of the wall, and out on the fore-shore. The shore in the summer time must be in a horrible state—that is at Scotch Bay.

2381. Did you see anything at Sandycove-road?—That is the one I mentioned. I saw the new pipe sewer discharging into Bullock Harbour.

2382. Is that at the outfall of the sewer?—I saw it after the storm.

2383. How high does it fall?—It has several feet of a fall on the shore. It is an old outlet.

2384. Does the new outlet join the old one on the same level?—It apparently went into the old level.

2385. You mentioned about the side of the sewer being only half a brick thick: is there no backing put to it?—No.

2386. Ought there to be?—There ought.

2387. Should not the rock be smoothed away so as to leave an even bed for the sewer?—Undoubtedly.

2388. Can you say if that is done?—What I saw was not done. It was a brick sewer and the bottom was made on the bank, and put in without any concrete bedding at all. If a point of rock comes on the pipe it must break it. I have had iron pipes broken in the same way.

2389. Mr. LAWLESS.—I think in this particular case the contract does not require that to be done?—It ought to be in it; if not, it shows a defect in the plan.

2390. However that does not show that there was any departure from the contract?—No.

2391. Mr. EXHAM.—Is there any reason why what is called an intercepting sewer should be constructed in a different way from others; because I see Sir John Hawkshaw provided that his proposed sewer should be surrounded with concrete?—Mr. Doyle's sewer is a totally different one; it is partly rubble.

2392. Are you able to form any idea with reference to the drainage proposed to go down Albert-road, whether a twelve-inch pipe is anything like sufficient to carry off the drainage from it?—I should think most certainly not, because that road is very level and the fall is very little.

2393. From the fall of the road, is it possible for that size of a pipe to do the work required?—I do not think it possible.

2394. What do you say, as an engineer, to making an eighteen-inch pipe discharge into a nine-inch pipe. Is that a proper system of sewage?—If there is an eighteen-inch pipe of course a nine-inch pipe would not be sufficient to take the discharge from it; that stands to reason.

2395. (To Mr. Doyle).—Did you ever make any examination of the amount of rock in Glasthule as distinguished from Monkstown. Is there more rock in Glasthule ward?—There is.

2396. We have the fact that the Glasthule works were done within the estimate. The sewage could be made cheaper in Monkstown ward than in Glasthule. Will Monkstown be more expensive than Glasthule?—No; Gasthule was done for £2,010, and it was more expensive than the sewers of Kingstown.

2397. (To Mr. Pallas).—Have you seen the way in which the house drains are being connected with the main sewers?—I saw in Mulgrave-terrace some nine-inch pipes built in the wall in the brick sewer.

2398. Are they connected in a proper manner?—I think if the side wall was in cement they would be properly done, but the sewer being laid in mortar I do not think they are right.

2399. Have you seen any of those houses at Lawson-terrace?—No.

2400. Can you give any opinion about them?—Not except from what I heard.

2401. What is the defect in laying the junction pipes into the sewers as at present constructed?—I think the way of laying the house pipes into the drains, which has been described, is objectionable.

2402. In what way?—I think that the pipe for the house drains should have a junction made for it on the bottom of the sewer, and be connected with the house afterwards.

2403. Have you anything to say about the sewers at the crossing of streets?—I think there should be a man-hole at every intersecting street, and every man-hole should have a ventilator.

2404. Has that been done as far as you saw?—No.

(The questions which follow were put to Mr. Pallas at the request and on the suggestion of Mr. Doyle, the town surveyor.)

2405. Mr. EXHAM.—Have you ever executed any sewage works yourself?—I have.

2406. Where?—I was employed on the plans of the Dublin Waterworks.

2407. Did you ever execute any sewage works?—I have executed some in India.

2408. Sewage works?—Yes.

2409. Did you ever execute any in Kingstown?—I was only ten months in Kingstown.

2410. Did you construct any sewage in De Vesci-place?—I did, for Mr. Stewart.

2411. Was that drainage?—It was.

2412. Did you put man-holes and ventilators on it?—No; it was a private place. I did not put any ventilators. I prepared it for Mr. Stewart; it was paid for by him.

2413. What was the length of it?—I could not say. There was no ventilator put on, and I may add that I recollect the reason why. The question of ventilation was very much discussed at the time, and it was considered very doubtful whether it was best to put them on or not.

2414. Did you provide ventilators on the intercepting sewer in your plans?—I did; I calculated for ventilators at the time.

2415. Did you prepare any estimates for the main drainage of Kingstown?—I did, and I took into account the cost of putting ventilators at the man-holes.

2416. Did you estimate work in Kingstown twenty-seven feet deep, at a cost of 1*s.* the running yard?—I cannot recollect it.

2417. Did you estimate the cost of work cutting twenty-seven feet deep, at 1*s.* a yard?—I am perfectly certain I never did anything of the kind. There may have been a portion of the work that depth—at one point it might be twenty-seven feet deep, and at another far less, and so on, and I may have averaged the cost of the whole at 1*s.*

2418. It is impossible to find out from these papers whether there is such an estimate (referring to papers handed to Mr. Exham by Mr. Doyle). Was this prepared by you (handing papers to witness)?—Yes.

2419. Can you find it there?—This is only a rough draft that I gave them. Whether it is the final estimate or not I do not know now. Here is one place mentioned as being twenty-seven feet deep; here's another place twenty-two, and another thirteen, and so on, and the cost of the various depths is averaged at 1*s.* Here is another place only six feet. I considered that 1*s.* at that time would have been a fair price for the whole work.

2420. Did you leave out Dunleary in your plan, leaving the old outlet there still?—My intention was to intercept the sewerage there going into the harbour. I could not interfere with the old outlet.

2421. What was the amount of your estimate for the sewer to Sandycove, not including damage to property and right of way?—I cannot recollect.

2422. Can you say from recollection whether it was £4,000 or not?—My estimate for the entire intercepting sewer was £11,262, and for internal sewers £17,000 at that time. I have no copy of the estimate which I handed to the Town Commissioners. I am able to give you the totals; No. 1 scheme was £28,262.

2423. What scheme was that?—For one outfall; that included the local drainage. Of course prices are very much increased now.

2424. What was the other scheme?—It was for two outfalls; the estimated cost was for Kingstown £21,000, including local drainage, and Glasthule, including local drainage.

2425. In your plan for the sewerage of Kingstown, was there any provision made for ventilators?—They were estimated for.

2426. Have you ever made mistakes in your estimates—estimated the cost of any work at too little. What percentage of mistakes is usually calculated?—Every engineer makes mistakes sometimes. I made an estimate the other day, and the contract was taken at four and a half per cent. over it. Parliament always allows us ten per cent. to come and go on.

2427. Did you ever compete for any work at Howth?—Yes; I made a design.

2428. For the drainage of the town?—Yes.

2429. By whom is the drainage plan being carried out?—I do not know.

2430. You are not doing it?—No.

2431. That is to say your plan was not accepted?—It was not.

2432. Have you had a large experience in doing work as an engineer? Will you tell me what works you have been engaged on?—I was engaged first on the Board of Works in 1854 on Lough Outer; I was then engaged in a survey for the Grand Trunk Railway of Canada until the Crimean war broke out, and I came home then. I subsequently was engaged at making railways, and various other works of importance.

2433. Are you acquainted with the mode in which the internal drainage of Dublin is being carried out—I mean the material used, and the way in which it is laid down?—I know the system on which it is being carried out.

2434. Will you look at one of these contracts. (One of the contracts for the sewerage work of Kingstown was handed to witness). Can you point out any difference between that and the mode in which the work is required to be done in Dublin?—I have seen the old contracts for Dublin, but I do not know if they are done in that way or not. I believe this specification to be principally made from the Dublin one.

2435. Is it substantially the same?—I believe it is copied from it.

2436. From what you saw in Dublin, would the bricks you say you saw used here be accepted as the best county Dublin gray stock brick?—I am certain they would not be taken as any such thing.

2437. Is there any difference between Mr. Doyle's system of carrying out the work and that followed in Dublin?—I am perfectly certain that Mr. Doyle's system of carrying out the work would not be followed in Dublin, because I know that the levelling pegs are used there, and here they are not.

Mr. THOMAS SEXTON examined.

2438. Mr. LAWLESS.—Are you the contractor?—Yes.

2439. We saw here two or three specimens of bricks which were of very different qualities?—The bricks all come from Clondalkin.

2440. What contract are you working on now?—Mulgrave-terrace and Glenageary-road.

Mr. FREDERICK BARNES examined.

2441. Mr. LAWLESS.—You wish to give evidence with regard to Mr. Sexton's contract?—Yes, I saw the contract this morning.

2442. How much of it is open?—About twenty yards.

2443. Is it capable of being seen and examined?—Yes. I measured the depths and they agree with the sections.

2444. Who furnished you with the sections?—The man in charge who has the section for carrying out the work.

KINGSTOWN. April 13, 1877.

Mr. Frederick Barnes

2445. Is that Mr. Sexton's foreman?—Yes.

2446. Did he tell you where he got the sections?—I know from the sections that they are got out of the office.

2447. Is that a brick sewer?—Yes, three feet by two feet.

2448. Did you examine the materials there?—I did.

2449. In your opinion is the work there properly done?—So far as I saw it is fairly well done. The blocks are all in Orchard cement instead of best London Portland.

2450. Mr. EXHAM.—Is that Scotch cement?—No; it sets quicker than the Portland cement. It sets very rapidly, and on the whole it makes a very good job.

2451. How soon will the Orchard cement set?—It ought to set very well in two days if there is dry weather.

2452. The specification says the cement used should be the best London Portland cement, and should set in half an hour?—That is a different thing from having it fit to go into the work.

2453. Will it set in half an hour according to the meaning of the words used in the contract?—No, it would take about an hour. No Portland cement that ever I used would set in half an hour; it would bond itself, but it would not be fit for use.

2454. What is the difference in price between Orchard cement and best London Portland cement?—There is about 12*s.* a ton. The Orchard cement is that much cheaper than the other.

2455. Where is it manufactured?—In London most of it. There is Portland cement made in several places besides London, but the London cement is the best.

2456. Is the Orchard cement as strong as the best London Portland cement?—No, it is not so lasting.

2457. Is there an article known in the market as best London Portland cement?—There is.

2458. So far as you saw were the bricks used in the work the best county Dublin grey stock bricks?—The bricks in the portion of the work that I saw were good bricks. They were the best county Dublin grey stock bricks.

2459. Were they of the kind described in that contract, full size, &c.?—All that I saw were.

2460. Did you see any small bricks?—There were half a cart load set on one side as unfit to be used in the work.

2461. Mr. LAWLESS.—Were those bricks that you saw county Dublin grey stock bricks?—Yes.

2462. Are you speaking of those you actually saw in the works?—Yes.

2463. Did you see any of those prepared to be put in?—I did, and most of them were very fair bricks. There were a few that I would say ought to be put aside.

2464. Mr. EXHAM.—Were all the bricks you saw there county Dublin grey stock bricks?—Yes; there is no choosing between them and the Boghall bricks. The Boghall won't do where there is running water.

2465. Is not the Mulgrave-terrace sewer made through very rocky ground?—It is.

2466. Can you form any opinion as to whether the rocks were cut away so as to leave a proper and level bed for the pipes?—So far as I could see the bottom of the sewer was very fairly laid. The water was running very fairly, and I think the levels must have been very well carried out.

2467. Do you know the Glenageary road sewer?—No, I do not. It was only this morning that Mr. Sexton sent for me.

2468. Which is the Orchard or the Portland the quickest setting cement?—The Orchard.

2469. Mr. Sexton.—During the wet season the Portland cement would not set.

2470. (To Mr. Barnes).—You say it is not so dear as the other?—It is not.

2471. If you were working on a contract which bound you to use best London Portland cement would you consider you might use Orchard cement?—Not unless I got liberty to do so.

2472. Do you approve, Mr. Pallas does not, of making only the bottom of the sewer with cement, and the other part in mortar?—I think it should be in cement to the water line, and the walls in mortar.

2473. Do you think it would be necessary to put concrete behind the mortar portion?—In some cases it would be desirable to do it, but where the rocks are close, a good back of clay is as good as anything. There is another observation I think it fair for me to make. I have not spoken to Mr. Doyle for nearly twelve months.

2474. Do you consider it a good plan in making the house junctions to have the drains drop down perpendicularly?—No; I do not.

2475. In setting pipes do you think they should be jointed?—Yes, with staunching clay, except under houses.

2476. What would you say if you saw water coming from the joints?—Mr. Sexton has as good staunching clay as there is in Ireland, and has joined the pipes. Mr. Sexton has done work for me for fourteen years, and I always found him to do it very carefully.

2477. How long did it take to do the piece of sewer that you saw open?—I should say considering that the weather has been very wet that it must have been done about a week. I do not think it could be done either yesterday or to-day.

2478. Were you employed here to examine and test Mr. Doyle's estimate?—Yes.

2479. Did you estimate that the entire work could be done for £10,000?—I cannot say how much my estimate was, but it was something under Mr. Doyle's.

2480. It turns out now that it cannot be done for that?—It ought to be. The prices were ample and full. I have been preparing estimates for nearly forty years, and I am never much astray.

2481. In Lower George's-street, Mr. Doyle's estimate was £764, and the lowest tender was £1,400. Were you examined as a witness before Mr. Robinson?—Yes; and I was sworn.

Mr. Myles Kelly.

Mr. MYLES KELLY examined.

2482. Mr. LAWLESS.—You are a Town Commissioner?—Yes, for a long time.

2483. What do you wish to say, Mr. Kelly?—I want the town clerk to hand in the water contract with the Corporation of Dublin, and I wish to say that at present outsiders can bring bills into Parliament which are injurious to the interests of the township. I think that corporate bodies should be the only parties who should have power to promote bills affecting the township.

2484. We have not any power to inquire into such a matter. When was that contract made?—On the 5th April, 1869.

2485. What was the contract?

2486. Town Clerk.—To supply the water; the terms are these. (Reads):—

"The annual sum or rent to be paid half-yearly, on the 1st May and 1st November, to take and convey the water from the said reservoir or a point near thereto, shall be a sum equivalent to the sum obtained by 3½*d.* in the pound on the Government or other valuation, from time to time, on the rateable valuation of the township, and in addition the Commissioners will pay the Corporation by ½*d.* in the pound on the rateable value of the township, for such water as they may require for manufacturing or any such purposes. Said two sums of 3½*d.* and ½*d.* making a total of 4*d.* in the pound, to be paid by the Commissioners to the Corporation."

2487. Mr. Kelly.—We are now paying 5*d.* in the pound. We had a contract from a person for laying the pipes from the Stillorgan reservoir to Kingstown for £3,446. For that outlay we would have had water in Kingstown for ever at 3½*d.* and ½*d.* in the pound. Dalkey got it at 4*d.*, and I see no reason why we should pay 5*d.* when we were nearer the water than Dalkey.

2488. Why, then, did you not contract?—We were not in a position to contract that year.

2489. Suggested by Mr. Kelly (to Town Clerk).—Was Mr. M'Evoy qualified by his rating to be a Town Commissioner in the year 1870?—If I search the book I could tell you. My recollection is that his valuation was £22 in 1869 and 1870, but that it afterwards stood at £28.

2490. Did he continue to be a Commissioner up to 1873 or 1874? Was he nominally on the Board?—Yes.

2491. Did he go through the form of election?—He was on the list of defeated candidates, but he claimed the seat of another gentleman, and that gentleman resigned. He took proceedings.

2492. Mr. LAWLESS (to Mr. Kelly).—Did Mr. M'Evoy get an adjudication of the Court of Queen's Bench in his favour?—He did. KINGSTOWN. April 13, 1877. Mr. Myles Kelly.

2493. Were you on the Board at the time?—I was.

2494. Why did you not question his qualification then?—Did you continue to sit at the Board with a gentleman who was not qualified?—I did. I was not going to incur legal expenses in the matter.

2495. Mr. M'Evoy handed to the town clerk, a poor-rate receipt for the year 1870.

2496. Town Clerk.—This would show a valuation of £27 in that year.

APRIL 14, 1877.

April 14, 1877.

Dr. HENRY COLGAN, consulting sanitary officer, examined. Dr. Henry Colgan.

2497. Mr. LAWLESS.—How long is it since you were appointed?—Three years.

2498. Do you make any reports on sanitary matters except called upon to do so by the Commissioners?—Not except called upon by the Sanitary Board of the Commissioners.

2499. How often does that Board meet?—Every Friday.

2500. Do you attend the meetings?—Yes; I come down to the Board every Friday.

2501. Is that your regular duty, and do you come down whether requested or not?—It is; and I come down as a matter of course.

2502. Do you take part in the discussion, or give to the Board the benefit of your opinion on sanitary matters?—Yes, whenever the Board require it.

2503. I presume you are acquainted with the town?—I am for a long time.

2504. Do you know the sanitary condition of the poorer parts of the town?—Yes, they are steadily improving. I think there might be some more drainage in the court and lane ways.

2505. Mr. EXHAM.—Did you read Mr. Haliday's report on the sanitary state of Kingstown?—I am aware of it, but I don't think I have read it. It appeared before my time as a sanitary officer in the town. Great improvements have been made in Patrick-street, for instance.

2506. What were the great improvements?—Dr. O'Flaherty has had a great deal done.

2507. Are you, as a medical man and a sanitary officer, satisfied with the present state of things?—They have for some time been steadily improving, and in a short time again—say in another six months—matters will have greatly improved.

2508. Did you hear me read out of Mr. Haliday's book, a description of the condition of several places within the township in his time? We have asked Dr. O'Flaherty, whose evidence was of a great importance, whether nuisances of that kind still exist, and he said he was sorry to say they do, and that there were several privies yet required?—I agree with him.

2509. Is it your duty to examine these places?—No; it is not. I agree with Dr. O'Flaherty's evidence from my general knowledge of the places referred to.

2510. Do you know their condition from personal inspection?—Well, not directly. I give my opinion and assistance to the Board on such matters appertaining to public health as I may be consulted about.

2511. We have it on the notes that there are several houses in Kingstown unfit for human habitation?—Well, you know that is another question.

2512. Are there, doctor?—I believe there are.

2513. How many?—That I cannot say.

2514. Mr. LAWLESS.—Are there many houses occupied by poor people which you consider unfit for human habitation?—Well, I don't know that. It is not my duty to visit these places. I believe Dr. O'Flaherty spoke about that.

2515. Mr. EXHAM.—Do you know any such places near a place called "Pig-lane" or "Pig-bank," which, as described by Dr. O'Flaherty, are entirely without any rere accommodation?—Yes; I believe there are a good many houses without rere accommodation.

2516. Are these places which are absolutely without rere accommodation, and occupied by the poorer and working classes, looked after by the Commissioners?—They are.

2517. Are they sufficiently attended to, in your opinion?—In that I am not directly concerned.

2518. Have they provided these places with ashpits or privies?—I am not sure.

2519. (Suggested by Mr. M'Evoy).—Have the Commissioners ever asked you to report on the sanitary condition of the town?—No; that is not my duty.

2520. Mr. EXHAM.—The result of the evidence before us is that there are several places in the very same condition as they were in 1866 when Mr. Haliday reported, and I take the effect of Dr. Colgan's opinion to be that there has been great improvements effected, but there are still several places in the condition then described.

2521. Mr. LAWLESS.—The result also, to my mind, is that the improvements have been effected by the introduction of the Vartry water supply. It appears that at that time the poor people had to buy a bucket of water, but now they can get it in abundance from the fountains. However, the Vartry water has not been brought up into the lanes and courts through any pipes, and still in many places there are no sewers, no rere accommodation, no privies, no ashpits. There is no receptacle provided for filth, and it is thrown into the street after nightfall. From all the evidence up to this, we distinctly understand that several of the places remain in precisely the same condition they were in when Mr. Haliday made the report in 1866, which was followed by that of Dr. More Madden in 1867. If the Commissioners think that is not the fair result of all the evidence up to this we will gladly hear any evidence to remove that opinion.

2522. Mr. M'Evoy.—I gave evidence, as will be seen from the "Minutes of Evidence" given before the Select Committee of the House of Commons that passed the Kingstown Act of 1869, with reference to the sanitary condition of the town. The Committee was on private Bills (Group M), and commenced its sittings on April the 20th, 1869.

Dr. COLGAN'S examination resumed. Dr. Colgan.

2523. Mr. LAWLESS.—Do you find your suggestions are attended to by the sanitary committee?—Yes.

2524. Mr. EXHAM.—Is this the general condition of any portion of the town in your opinion? What I am about to read is an extract from the evidence given by Mr. James M'Henry, an inspector under the Sanitary Board, Dublin, before the Select Committee of the House of Commons, on the 22nd April,

KINGSTOWN. April 14, 1877.

Dr. Colgan.

1869. In paragraph 2 of a report which he made on the sanitary condition of Kingstown, and which he handed into the Committee, he states as his opinion :—

"That in many places within the town, in which there are as many as ten to twenty dwelling-houses, there is only one privy common to all, or one ashpit."

In the alleys, he says :—

"There is required more nuisance accommodation, and the filth of several courts runs into a common drain, thereby causing a sickening nuisance."

I ask you now, Dr. Colgan, if, according to your opinion, that state of things still exists? Is it a fact that there are ten to twenty dwelling-houses in some of these places, with but one privy or ashpit?—Well, I think there have been some privies built since that in those places.

2525. But, as a matter of fact, have there been? Have you gone round to see?—I have not. It is not my duty to go round.

2526. In paragraph 3 in this evidence it is stated to the Committee—

"That pigs and horses are kept in such close proximity to the dwellings of the people as to be injurious to health."

Is that allowed still?—Animals have been removed in a great measure.

2527. Mr. LAWLESS.—You are aware that there is a large system of drainage work going on in Kingstown?—I am.

2528. Will the execution of these works effectually remedy the wants in these poor places, which you say require sewerage?—If it goes through these places it will improve them, of course.

2529. Perhaps you do not know what is contemplated?—No, I do not.

Mr. John Tomlinson.

Mr. JOHN TOMLINSON examined.

2530. Mr. LAWLESS.—Are you storekeeper to the Town Commissioners?—I am.

2531. Where are the stores kept?—Part of them are kept in the store in the market yard, and part quite near here. (Referring to a space at the rere of the Town Hall.)

2532. Which is the principal store depot?—A certain portion is kept in the two places. One kind of material is kept in the market yard, and stores and such like in the other place.

2533. Are all these things under your care as storekeeper?—Sometimes I am engaged in the "upper yard," as distinguished from what we call the market yard.

2534. What do you mean by the "upper yard"?—A larger yard than the market yard.

2535. What are your occupations in the market yard besides that of storekeeper?—I receive all material coming in, and see that there is the right quantity.

2536. Have you anyone to assist you in that?—No one.

2537. Are you occupied every day in the market yard?—Yes.

2538. How many hours in the day is your time occupied there?—From six in the morning to six or seven in the evening weighing and superintending the weighing of the market produce sent there.

2539. Do you receive the market charges or payments?—Yes, the charges. The seller receives the payments, I receive the tolls, and superintend the weighing of everything that comes in.

2540. Besides that, do you superintend and weigh all materials purchased by the Commissioners for the carrying out of their works?—Yes. I weighed 100 tons during the last three months. The Commissioners have nothing to do with what is sent in except to receive the tolls.

2541. Does the business that you have told us of occupy your time?—Yes; from six or seven in the morning to the same time at night.

2542. What time then have you to devote to your duties as storekeeper?—Very little.

2543. Supposing, while you were engaged in one or other of your necessary duties, stores arrived, who would receive them?—Well, if they came to where I was I would give a return for them after having received them. A certain kind of stones is confined to a particular yard.

2544. In that case you would receive it from the accident of your being present there at the time; but suppose material came to the lower store while you were in the upper, whose duty is it to receive it in your absence?—Whoever happens to be there; I suppose Mr. Duff.

2545. Who is Mr. Duff?—The head "ganger" and yardman.

2546. Do you keep an account of all the material delivered to the Commissioners?—I do, of all that comes under my notice.

2547. Supposing material is received by Mr. Duff, who keeps an account of that?—Well, in that case he makes an account to me.

2548. Who keeps the books?—I do.

2549. When do you make the entries?—The moment the delivery occurs.

2550. Where are the books kept?—In the market store.

2551. Not in the office here in the town hall?—No, in the market store.

2552. Did you receive directions as to any particular form of book to be kept by you?—No.

2553. Do your books show the receipt of all stores that are delivered from time to time to the Commissioners?—Yes.

2554. Do they show the prices in all instances paid for them?—No.

2555. Do you give out of store the materials required for the Commissioners' works?—Well, no, that is rather Mr. Duff's duty. The water inspector gets an order on me for what he requires, and then I give the material to him.

2556. By whom is the order signed on which the materials are given out?—Sometimes by Mr. Doyle, the township engineer. The order for material is usually presented by a carter.

2557. Do you preserve the orders?—Yes; I file and enter them.

2558. Can materials be delivered out of the store without a written order?—Yes.

2559. By whose authority are they delivered without an order, or who takes the responsibility of delivering them?—I take the responsibility of delivering when the water inspector presents the order. I do this when I know it has the sanction of Mr. Doyle.

2560. Is there any record kept of the articles delivered in your book?—Yes; certainly there is an account kept of all road materials delivered.

2561. Where is the asphalte kept?—In one of the yards.

2562. To whom is it delivered, and on what authority?—It is delivered to the carters.

2563. Is it true that the carters can go into the yard and take road material away without any order from the Commissioners, or anybody?—I take down the description of material and the name of the locality they are going to.

2564. To whom is the delivery of the asphalte intrusted?—To the carters. I take down where they are going to in a blotter.

2565. Do you remember the asphalte delivered to Mr. Crosthwaite, the late chairman?—Yes.

2566. By whom was that asphalte delivered?—By a carter named Toole.

2567. Did you make a report of that?—I did, on the morning after it was delivered.

2568. Why did you make a report on the circumstance so early?—Because I was surprised when I heard it had gone to Mr. Crosthwaite; so, having made myself sure about it, I reported the matter to the Board on the following morning.

2569. What did you report to the board?—I reported that he had got it. I was not sure at the same time but that he got it by an order from the board, and that it was all right.

2570. Did you get an order for it?—No order came to me for it.

2571. Do you consider it right that stores should be delivered out on the order of Commissioners, or of anyone else, for private purposes?—I do not.

2572. Was this asphalte for Mr. Crosthwaite's own private purpose?—I understood that decidedly.

2573. Was any written order delivered to the man who allowed it out?—No. The carter came in the usual way, as if it was intended to be used for township works. I have a memorandum of the date Mr. Crosthwaite got it.

2574. Have you a memorandum of the quantity he got?—Yes; and the date he returned the asphalte. Mr. Crosthwaite wanted to return it again, but I refused to take it back, saying, as some noise had been made about it I would not take it back again without directions, and I afterwards got the authority of the secretary to take it back.

2575. Mr. LAWLESS.—Did you receive the same back again?—I did not. It was not the same.

2576. What was returned to you?—I received another quality, consisting of ground limestone and bitumen.

2577. Was that the kind you gave out?—No, it was not. I gave out one kind and a different article was brought again.

2578. Was it equal in value?—I think what came back was better value.

2579. Mr. M'Evoy.—I have here a copy of the report which the witness made in reference to the matter.

2580. Witness.—I have the original memorandum with me.

2581. Mr. EXHAM.—Let us have the storekeeper's report, the report of the 29th of November.

2582. Mr. M'Evoy.—It would be a good thing to allow the witness to go for his blotter.

2583. Witness.—I am not aware that the quantity is on the report, but it is on the blotter.

2584. Mr. LAWLESS.—Have you copies of your reports?—No, I didn't keep copies of them.

2585. Mr. EXHAM.—Did you know anything as to this asphalte having been taken for private purposes until after Mr. Crosthwaite had got it?—Not until some time after it had been weighed and taken away.

2586. Is anything taken out of the store without being weighed?—Nothing that I am aware of.

2587. Was this asphalte charged to Mr. Crosthwaite?—It was.

2588. Was it brought from the store to the yard to be weighed?—Yes.

2589. I understood you to say that nothing goes out of the store without being weighed?—Nothing that I am aware of, but the store is an open one.

2590. Could anything be brought out without your knowledge?—It could.

2591. Why?—Because the store was open.

2592. Was or is?—Was and is every day.

2593. Is the store left open from morning to night?—Yes; it is an open yard.

2594. May any carter go into it?—Yes.

2595. For material?—Yes.

2596. What was done on your report?—The committee of the board made an order that no material should leave the yard after a certain hour in the morning.

2597. Was it suggested that no carter should be at liberty to get material after certain specified hours?—Precisely.

2598. Was any particular carter in the habit of getting these articles?—Yes, a man named Toole took this, but another carter named Doyle almost invariably took away the asphalte. I thought that if different carters came in that would be better, but, as I said, Doyle was the carter who almost invariably came for the asphalte.

2599. Mr. LAWLESS.—Would it not be better to let one man have the trust?—Well, I thought not.

2600. What was your reason for thinking that it should not be confined to Doyle?—Because I saw him coming to take it himself without bringing it up to me to be weighed.

2601. Did you think that the carrying out of your idea would result in an advantage to the stores in stock generally?—I did, certainly.

2602. Mr. EXHAM.—I see by your return there went out to Mr. Crosthwaite on the 7th of November 8 cwt. of ground limestone, and the further compound for the mixture consisted of bitumen. Is that so?—Yes.

2603. Did you get back as much as was received by Mr. Crosthwaite?—No; he got about 13 cwt., and he returned about 10.

2604. Mr. M'Evoy.—He returned asphalte which he did not get at all.

2605. Mr. EXHAM.—In point of fact——

2606. Mr. M'Evoy.—He appears to have returned four bags of rock asphalte that was not charged to him at all.

2607. (To Mr. Tomlinson). — Who keeps these books?—They are all in my own handwriting.

2608. Do you weigh articles yourself—stores or the like?—No; the carters weigh them in my presence. I hold a blotter in my hand, and take down all particulars—prices and so on.

2609. What is the meaning of an entry here, "No delivery"?—I will tell you. Generally before they come I know the carters' names and the number of loads that are coming. You will find in the book you hold in your hand an account made up for January, February, and March, so that when each carter comes in I enter the weights, and then the material is deposited in the Commissioners' yards, and afterwards delivered out by the Commissioners' carts for public purposes. Of the loads going out I keep no account. The quantity which came into the yard in January was 211 loads, and I have three columns in my book for the entries.

2610. Mr. LAWLESS.—What system of keeping your accounts have you?—Well, no particular system.

2611. Supposing stores were unlawfully abstracted—stolen in fact—have you any means of detecting the loss from your system?—No, because the material is taken away by the men's carts to put on the roads.

2612. Then, according to that, may not the Commissioners' carts take stores away to any private person?—Yes.

2613. (Suggested by the Town Clerk).—Did you not get books to be carried on on the same plan as that of your predecessor?—No. Where is it or where was it?

2614. Town Clerk.—You had it.

2615. Witness.—I got three books from you, and not more.

2616. Do you carry on the books as your predecessor did?—I have no particular system but what I consider best. I only saw the three books which the town clerk gave me—three memorandum books. Each contains a number of columns—three, I think.

2617. Mr. LAWLESS (to Mr. Ennis).—Do you mean to say that the storekeeper did not follow the directions of the Commissioners?

2618. Town Clerk—That is so.

2619. Mr. EXHAM (to Mr. Tomlinson).—How long have you been storekeeper?—About two years.

2620. Have you ever been brought before the Board for any fault or complaint against you?—No; except in the case of Mr. Henry, who complained of me to the Board.

2621. Mr. LAWLESS.—Did you receive in April, 1875, a copy of instructions, as to your duty as storekeeper?—I don't recollect.

2622. Town Clerk.—There was such a document and there must remain some record of it. He would have got a copy, not the original document. (Handed in document.)

KINGSTOWN.
April 14, 1877.

Mr. John Tomlinson.

2623. Mr. EXHAM (reads it)—

"The storekeeper was this day called before the Board, and it was resolved that the storekeeper for the time being should consider himself in charge of all goods, both in town hall yard and market, and no goods are to be removed from the town hall yard or market without notice to the storekeeper, and on an order from the town surveyor and signed by him."

2624. Witness.—That is in reference to asphalte.

2625. Mr. EXHAM.—And after the foregoing instructions, a resolution is passed :—

"That the storekeeper is to be in the market from seven in the morning to six in the evening."

That is in one place during all that time.

2626. Town Clerk.—He is in constant communication between the two yards morning, noon and night in fact.

2627. Mr. LAWLESS.—He tells us that his time is occupied from morning till night in duties other than those of storekeeper.

2628. Mr. EXHAM.—How is he to prevent a carter coming in and filling a load of stones when he is not in the place where the stones are.

2629. (To Mr. Tomlinson).—Have you on any occasion given out anything without a written order?—I never have.

2630. A written order I say?—Never without a written order from Mr. Doyle the township surveyor. More material might be in the carts or less than was actually ordered when it would come to be weighed.

2631. Do the men come down to the stores, fill the carts and then come up to you to have the loads weighed?—Well if the man with a certain load is honest it is all right, but if he likes to take it away he can. It is removed after being weighed, to where it is ordered.

2632. Mr. LAWLESS.—It appears to me that the minute called the "storekeeper's directions" is completely disregarded in practice to the knowledge of the Commissioners themselves.

2633. Mr. EXHAM.—At the same time it is fair to Mr. Tomlinson to say it is not his fault. He cannot be in half a dozen places at one time.

2634. Mr. Perrin.—And the market yard must be open at all times. Traders from the county Wicklow are constantly coming there.

2635. Town Clerk.—The original document prepared by Mr. M'Evoy, and a copy of which was given to Mr. Tomlinson, required the storekeeper to take charge of all the property of the Town Commissioners in the yard, store and stables, horses, carts, to send a cheque of the goods delivered to the board-room, and to answer any inquiries thereon, to get the workmen's time in reference to going to or returning from work, and to daily walk over the township to see the men at work.

2636. Mr. EXHAM.—How is he to do that? How is he to walk over the township?

2637. Town Clerk.—That has been modified since by a transfer of the duties to the head ganger. That was subsequently omitted when he was made market clerk.

2638. When he was made market clerk how on earth was he to see after everything—the weighing in the market, the delivery of stores and other materials, the seeing after the men, and so forth?

3639. Witness.—The first part of these instructions I adhere to at the present moment.

2640. Mr. EXHAM.—No doubt you take care of the stock when you can; but is there anyone to answer for you in your absence, when anyone or any cart may go into the yard and take stock or materials away?—There is not anyone.

2641. Mr. M'Evoy.—Looking after the men only refers to entering in a book where the men were working.

2642. Mr. EXHAM.—Have you to give any security to the Town Commissioners?—No.

2643. What is your salary?—When I came here first my salary was £1 a week—now it is £1 5*s.*

2644. Mr. LAWLESS.—It is very poor indeed.

2645. Witness.—I think it right to say no complaint has been made outside the yard against me.

2646. Mr. M'Evoy.—It was purely voluntarily made, that report of his about the asphalte.

2647. Mr. EXHAM.—Yes, and he made it on the day after.

2648. Mr. LAWLESS.—He acted very properly in doing so.

2649. Witness.—I entered it the moment I heard it after it left the yard.

2650. Mr. EXHAM.—Yes; you gave in a report that Mr. Crosthwaite got 13 cwt., and I see no order of the Commissioners ordering the refund of the balance he got.

2651. Witness.—I believe Mr. Crosthwaite paid back money.

2652. Mr. EXHAM.—Did he pay for the full balance?

2653. Town Clerk.—I gave in evidence that the amount of the difference, as made up by the storekeeper, was paid by Mr. Crosthwaite.

2654. Mr. M'Evoy.—What he paid was not the full value of what he got.

2655. Mr. LAWLESS.—We will not go into that question at present.

2656. Mr. Henry, Glasthule.—I have a complaint to make as a ratepayer. I put property into the market-yard, and I believe the same was not returned to me.

2657. Mr. LAWLESS.—Do you say you lost your property?—Yes, I do.

2658. Mr. EXHAM.—Have you complained of it.

1659. Storekeeper.—When I asked him for the tolls, he said, "You must follow me for that."

2660. Mr. Henry.—That is an untrue statement.

2661. Mr. LAWLESS.—Mr. Tomlinson may go.

Dr. John Roche.

Dr. JOHN ROCHE examined.

2662. Mr. LAWLESS.—I think you are one of the Town Commissioners?—Yes. The first thing I want to say is to contradict a statement made here to the effect that I asked Mr. Pallas, the engineer, to inspect certain bricks in order to show that they were not the quality specified in the contract. I did not ask Mr. Pallas to inspect any bricks at any place. The next thing I have to say is in reference to the case stated relative to the bill of costs amounting to £1,289, for opposing bills in Parliament. I objected to an ex parte case altogether. We had two opinions of eminent counsel, but there was no reference to these opinions in the case stated. We had the opinion of Mr. Pallas, the present Chief Baron, that the Commissioners had no power to oppose the scheme at all. The Commissioners then withdrew, and had to pay £90 costs. At that stage a judgment was obtained against the rates; and I say that the ratepayers were not properly represented in the preparation or arguing of that case.

2663. Was the case stated in consequence of a resolution of the Board of Commissioners?—I will tell you the actual facts. I was not here when the resolution about the case was adopted.

2664. Was the case stated in pursuance of a resolution of a majority of the Board?—I think so. It was before my time at the Board, but I was here on the day it was adopted. It was not read to us at all.

2665. Mr. M'Evoy.—You became a Commissioner in 1875.

2666. Witness.—Mr. M'Evoy was in favour of it, and he asked me to support it. I said I knew nothing about it.

2667. Was it adopted by a majority of the Board, you dissenting?—Yes. It was on the 2nd March, 1875. We had also Mr. May's opinion in reference to the opposition of the Gas Bill of the Corporation of Dublin, and he held we were in the right.

2668. The Town Clerk handed in a minute of the Board bearing date March 2nd, 1875, which was as follows :—

"At an adjourned monthly meeting of the Commissioners, a draft case to be stated for the judgment of the Court, was submitted. It was moved by Mr. M'Evoy, and duly seconded—'That the amended draft case now submitted to the Board, be, and is hereby approved of, and that Mr. Lalor, our solicitor, be requested to communicate with Mr. Monroe, barrister, on the subject of proceeding.' Question put and carried, Dr. Roche dissenting; and that Mr. Lalor be informed that the Commissioners prefer to await Mr. Monroe's return from circuit."

2669. Mr. LAWLESS.—Is there any further meeting about it on the minutes? I mean is there any further minute of instruction with reference to the case?

2670. Mr. M'Evoy.—If all is to be seen, we should begin at the beginning.

2671. Mr. EXHAM.—We would like to see the minute, if there is such, authorising the solicitor to sign the case on behalf of the Commissioners.

2672. Mr. M'Evoy.—Here, I have the part in my hand about these bridges. It runs thus:—

"On the 10th July, 1874, a letter was read from Mr. Sharkey, Parliamentary agent, relative to the cost of opposing the Dublin Bridges and Dublin Gas Bills of 1873, and it was moved and seconded, 'That Mr. Lalor be consulted on the subject of Mr. Sharkey's letter.' Question put and carried."

2673. Mr. EXHAM.—Show me the resolution of the Board authorising Mr. Lalor to sign the case. If there is no resolution of the Town Commissioners, I do not see what authority he had to sign such a case and to bind the ratepayers.

2674. Mr. M'Evoy.—Mr. Ennis might be able to tell us, if he read out that draft case to the Commissioners, the day on which it was submitted.

2675. Mr. Ennis.—I am not clear.

2676. Mr. LAWLESS.—You would probably remember it. Surely there was some authority recorded in the books to sanction proceedings in such an important case.

2677. Mr. EXHAM.—If not, it would be allowing the paying away of public money very loosely. Such things, if sanctioned at all, should be carried out in a regular and proper manner.

2678. Mr. M'Evoy.—I did not know the "Bridges" were included in it. I thought it was only about the Gas Bill costs.

2679. Town Clerk.—I have examined the minutes, and I don't see any further resolution with respect to the stating of that case.

2680. Mr. EXHAM.—Show us any authority given by the Town Commissioners for such a proceeding.

2681. Mr. LAWLESS.—Or show us the order on the special case.

2682. Mr. EXHAM.—Opinions were given on the subject by the present Chief Baron, and also by the present Lord Chief Justice. Were those opinions ever brought before the Commissioners?

2683. Town Clerk.—Oh, yes.

2684. Mr. EXHAM.—The Chief Baron's is as far back as 1872.

2685. Mr. LAWLESS.—Yes; and he thought the Gas Bill did not interfere with the rights of the Commissioners in any way; so they were not justified in opposing it, and the costs should not have been paid out of the rates. Show me Mr. Lalor's bill of costs that we may see what are the directions as stated in it for signing this case. (Bill of costs produced.) (Reading from Mr. Lalor's bill of costs.) I see that Mr. Lalor says that on the 4th November, 1874, he received the draft special case to be submitted to the court, and that after consulting Messrs. Molloy and Watson, solicitors, he would report the result of the interview. It appears also that on the 22nd of November he had an interview with Mr. Sharkey's attorneys, Messrs. Molloy and Watson, and Mr. Watson said he was ready with the plaint in the case. Then there appears to have been a further interview between Messrs. Molloy and Watson and Mr. Lalor on the 21st of February, 1875. There is the usual charge made for reading the letter from the secretary, stating that the Commissioners had passed a resolution of the 2nd March, 1875, acting on the suggestion of Mr. Monroe, as contained in Mr. Lalor's letter. This appears to dispose of the matter before the Commissioners as far as they were concerned. The next thing that appears is that on the 3rd May, 1875, judgment was given on the special case in favour of the plaintiff.

2686. Mr. EXHAM.—I see from this bill of costs that Mr. Monroe struck out some passages on the draft case, and added others. It does not appear that the Board were ever called upon to approve of these alterations or that the draft case was ever submitted to them for further consideration or to obtain their authority to have it brought before the court.

2687. Mr. LAWLESS.—Can the letter mentioned in Mr. Lalor's bill of costs as received by him, on the 21st of February, 1875, in reference to this case be found? I see he charged in his bill the usual fee for reading that letter.

2688. Mr. Barrett.—Mr. Lalor would be able to give the required information.

2689. Mr. EXHAM.—Then it would be well to have Mr. Lalor here. We want, in the first place, the resolution on the books of the Commissioners authorizing Mr. Lalor to sign this case as finally settled by counsel.

2690. Witness.—Mr. Monroe's opinion was decisive; and, if we were right in opposing it, why did we go further?

2691. Mr. LAWLESS.—Mr. Lalor's charge is the usual charge for reading the letter from the Commissioners, in relation to this case. His charge is dated 21st of February, 1875. Probably that letter was written on the 20th. We have the secretary's letter in reply, stating that:—

"The Commissioners, have passed a resolution acting on the suggestion of Mr. Monroe, as contained in my letter" of such a date, and so on. Can you find any resolution from January, 1875, to the 2nd of March? There must have been such a letter.

2692. Town Clerk.—I have found this minute—

"2nd of December, 1874.

"A special meeting was called for the purpose of considering a letter from Mr. Lalor, enclosing copy of his letter to Messrs. Molloy and Watson. It was moved and seconded—'That Mr. Lalor's communication be and is hereby approved of, as regards our opposition to the Dublin Bridges Bill.'"

Then, on 18th December, 1874, at another meeting, there is this further minute:—

"A letter was read from Mr. Lalor, enclosing copy of letter from Messrs. Molloy and Watson. Mr. Lalor stated he did not think it necessary to require security for costs from the plaintiff. It was moved by Mr. Galligan, and seconded by Mr. M'Cready—'That security for costs on the part of the plaintiff be not required.'"

2693. Mr. LAWLESS.—Yes; and now I still think that the letter which was received by Mr. Lalor on the 21st of February was written on the 20th of February.

2694. Mr. EXHAM.—Was it Mr. Monroe's suggestion that security for costs should not be required from the plaintiff?

2695. Town Clerk.—Certainly.

2696. Mr. LAWLESS.—Is there any other resolution?

2697. Town Clerk.—Yes; on the 3rd of May, 1875, there is this:—

"In the case of Sharkey v. the Commissioners, Mr. Barrett submitted a draft case for counsel, on the mode of paying Mr. Sharkey's costs and other debts, on the part of Board. Resolved—'That the draft case prepared by Mr. Barrett be referred to the solicitor of the Board, to make what use of it he thinks proper in the preparation of the case in this matter.' Question put and carried, Dr. Roche dissenting."

2698. Mr. LAWLESS.—Was not that the day on which the judgment of the court was given?—Yes.

2699. Mr. EXHAM.—So far as it appears up to the present, there was never any authority given by the Town Commissioners to sign that special case on their behalf.

2700. Mr. LAWLESS.—Unless there is a resolution which we have not seen as yet.

2701. Witness.—An order was made by the Board, as well as I recollect, on 19th November, 1875, requesting the solicitor to prepare a case for opinion of counsel as to whether the chairman of the Board, Mr. M'Evoy, was liable for Mr. Hassard's costs. Mr. Hassard was an engineer employed by the direction of the chairman, and he sought to make the Commissioners liable for his fees. The case proceeded, and judgment was given to the effect that the Commissioners were liable. We objected to pay because we considered the chairman was not the Board, but a single individual. He directed the secretary, and therefore the chairman should be primarily liable.

2702. Mr. LAWLESS.—Was Mr. Hassard's claim paid out of the rates?—Yes; there is also a resolution that Sir John Hawkshaw should be employed as consulting engineer.

2703. Mr. EXHAM.—Was that done by a vote?—The chairman directed the secretary to request Sir John Hawkshaw to send in certain plans. There was a similar resolution passed by the Corporation of Dublin preparatory to certain work to be executed by them, for which over thirty plans were sent in, and not one penny was paid for them.

2704. Mr. LAWLESS.—Was a case submitted to counsel as to the liability of the chairman?—No, not of the chairman.

2705. Was there any case submitted to counsel in consequence of this resolution?—Any case about Mr. Hassard—there was no opinion of counsel taken previously to the case of Hassard against the Board.

2706. Mr. EXHAM.—What Dr. Roche says is this—the engineer was employed by the chairman. Show us now any resolution of the Commissioners that Mr. Hassard was to be employed?

2707. Town Clerk.—Under date of July, 1873, the requisition of meeting states—

"That the sewerage plans prepared for the township be referred to a consulting engineer to report upon, with such recommendations as may appear to him expedient and necessary."

It was then agreed to on the motion of the chairman—

"That the plans in question be submitted to a consulting engineer for the purpose mentioned in the requisition, and that such engineer be informed that the Board was anxious for him to confine his report and suggestions within the limit of the township."

Before the chairman left the chair he told me that Mr. Doyle, our own engineer, had forwarded his own plans to Sir John Hawkshaw. That transpired on the 4th August, 1873.

2708. (Suggested by Mr. M'Evoy).—Were not Mr. Hassard's plan before the Board that day as one of the plans for the drainage of Kingstown?

2709. Town Clerk.—Yes, I think they were spoken of amongst the others.

3710. Mr. LAWLESS.—Did he furnish plans?—He did; his plans were not on the wall, but the plan prepared by our own town surveyor showed, in different coloured lines, the various schemes that had been proposed by Mr. Pallas, Mr. Hassard, Sir John Hawkshaw, and his own.

2711. Did you forward the plans to Mr. Hassard?—I did.

2712. Was it for the inspection of these different plans that he sent in his claim afterwards?—Yes; his claim rested chiefly on my directions in the letter, and some alteration made in the plans.

2713. Was what you did done by the direction of the chairman?—Yes; Mr. M'Evoy was chairman at that time, and not Mr. Crosthwaite, as has been stated.

2714. Had Mr. Hassard any other claim against the Commissioners at that time?—No, he had not.

2715. Mr. EXHAM.—On Mr. Hassard being employed he sent in plans, and then the question was whether he was to be paid out of the rates or out of the Chairman's own pocket. Is this so?—Yes. At a meeting held on the 4th of August, 1873, I find that—

"The Chairman reported he had ordered Mr. Ennis to write to Mr. Hassard to forward his plans to the Board. An amendment to recall the letter was moved, and lost, the resolution to have the plans sent being carried on a division."

A further resolution runs thus:—

"That our secretary be directed to write to Mr. Hawkshaw for his report on the sewerage plans, as the Board does not recognise the plans submitted to Mr Hassard."

All these resolutions were produced in the Court of Exchequer on the trial, and the Chief Baron directed the jury that the Chairman and secretary should be looked upon as the executive of the Board, because they did a great part of its business.

2716. Mr. LAWLESS.—Was there a verdict for Mr. Hassard?—Yes.

2717. After the verdict we cannot go behind it.

2718. I also wish to give evidence with a view of expressing an opinion that the Local Government Board and the Board of Works should be one and the same body. And on the working of the Food and Drugs Act, which is a good Act, when the inspector requires an article for examination he may be told that it is not exposed for sale. The law is thereby baffled.

2719. Mr. EXHAM.—This is a matter, however useful, which does not come within the scope of our inquiry. We will allow Dr. Roche's opinion to go on the notes, but we cannot do more.

2720. Witness.—I consider the Sanitary Act also is not sufficiently applied to poor lodging-houses. The poor people should be made to wash their bed-clothes. I think there is a provision in the Act to meet such a case, but it is in fact inoperative here.

2721. Town Clerk.—The Commissioners have greatly to complain of the round-about working of the Sanitary Act, which imposes great difficulties in their way in carrying out the Act efficiently.

2722. Mr. EXHAM.—We have had the same complaint made over and over again in almost all the towns we have visited.

2723. Dr. Roche.—With reference to the estimates for the town hall I have the opinion of a professional man that the alterations suggested by the Public Works Commissioners in the frontage of the original plan would involve an increased expenditure of several thousand pounds, perhaps £8,000, thereby doubling the original estimate by one-half.

2724. Mr. LAWLESS.—Was £8,000 the original estimate?—Yes, the estimate cost.

2725. Mr. Barrett.—But that plan which would involve the greatly increased sum has not been adopted.

2726. Mr. EXHAM.—These plans can be altered as other plans here have been altered. That appears to be a local practice here.

2729. Mr. EXHAM.—Is it your opinion that Mr. Doyle or any other engineer or architect before he altered his mind with reference to a plan, ought to show good reason and authority for it?—It is.

2730. Mr. Barrett.—Advertisements were inserted in the newspapers requesting plans, and several having been sent in Mr. Robinson's was accepted. The estimate to work out that plan is £8,000, and we all believe that it can be built for £8,000. On our submitting these plans to the Board of Works they wanted to alter them, and we found that these alterations would involve a much higher estimate. I say we cannot afford that. Advertisements have been put in the papers for contracts to carry out the plans, and we will then see if they can be done for our original estimate of £8,000.

2731. Town Clerk.—It is well known in these building plans that the general design of the work may be unaltered, while small changes may be made both inside and outside to suit the plans which the contractor will be called upon to work out. When the working plans are made they may be varied in a degree, but in no sense so considerable as to interfere with the original design of the Commissioners. In fact they will be altered, if necessary, to bring them down to suit the original amount borrowed to erect the building.

2732. Dr. Roche.—With reference to the asphalte, I was somewhat more practically interested in that, and so made some inquiries. We were surcharged £180 for ground limestone, at least those Commissioners were who had to do with the transaction. We advertised for tenders for asphalte, and we got one from the Val de Travers Company, offering it for £3 12*s.*, and another offering it at £4 10*s.* £3 12*s.* was a low figure, and we did not accept it. A party said to me, "I have the Val de Travers doing some work for me, and they are doing it to my satisfaction. I want to get the supplying of it to the Commissioners, and if you can aid me, and the Commissioners accept my price, I will give you a commission." The price named was £3 12*s.* a ton. I said that the Commissioners were about to produce asphalte on their own account at a lower figure than £3 12*s.* Mr. Fottrell then said, "I will then take away my patent, and you will mark the consequences." We inquired from a competent party what would vitiate the patent prior to publication. I had heard about it from Mr. Brady, who had the contract for the laying of the particular piece of work out of which the surcharge arose.

2733. Mr. EXHAM.—Did you enter into the laying contract without advertising?—No.

2734. Did you advertise for the materials?

2735. Mr. Barrett.—There was no use in advertising, because the article could not be got from any other person but Mr. Fottrell.

2736. Mr. LAWLESS.—Yes, but at the same time the Act of Parliament plainly requires that you should have done what was not done. The auditor would not listen to your argument that the state of things dispensed with the expediency of advertising.

2737. Mr. Barrett.—The surcharged parties got an opinion on the subject, and they still think they are right.

2738. Dr. Roche.—Another matter I want to inform you about is the insufficient ventilation of the sewers. The ventilators nearly all over the town are not of the correct kind, and they are, in my opinion, almost worthless. In the man-holes this very frequently occurs. The ventilators are insufficient in number and insufficient in design.

2739. Mr. EXHAM.—Do you think that is prejudicial to the houses by not giving a proper escape of sewage gas?—Yes, that is my opinion; and when a large sewer is constructed, if the ventilation is not attended to, the work is necessarily not complete.

2740. Mr. LAWLESS.—Have you ever brought this subject of imperfect ventilation and sewerage before the Board of Commissioners?—In 1875 I brought the matter before the sewerage committee, of which I was chairman at that time, and we had a resolution passed that Mr. Doyle, our engineer, before he would give a certificate to the contractor, should satisfy himself that the work was in that respect properly executed.

2741. That appears to me to be rather an important resolution. Can it be got for us?

2742. Town Clerk.—My impression is it is in the auditor's report, and the report you have fully on your notes.

2743. Dr. Roche.—I spoke to Mr. Palles several times on the subject and also to others. In fact I took so great an interest in the matter that every lad in town called me the "Ventilator."

2744. Town Clerk.—I don't recollect the resolution referred to by Dr. Roche.

2745. Dr. Roche.—I saw the resolution, and it will be found on the minute book of the sewer committee. I have also to say, with regard to the Lords of the Treasury, that although they are empowered to grant loans extending over thirty years for sanitary purposes they won't do it for us.

2746. Mr. LAWLESS.—Is there any other matter to which you wish to draw our attention, Dr. Roche?—No, sir; but I would like you to see that resolution of the sewer committee.

2747. Mr. EXHAM.—Have you any memorandum saying what that resolution was?—I read it myself in the books two or three days ago. It says the surveyor is not to give a certificate to the contractor until he is able to satisfy the sewer committee that the work has been properly done.

2748. Mr. LAWLESS.—We will require that resolution to be found. It is an important resolution, and there ought to be no difficulty about getting it for us.

2749. Mr. EXHAM.—Have you, as a medical man, formed any opinion about the sanitary condition of the town?—I do not think the sanitary condition is in such a bad state at all as represented. I think, taking any town in England or Ireland, and comparing it with this, Kingstown would be found third in the rate of mortality, and I think it is a very clean town.

2750. What about the lanes and alleys of which we heard so much?—They are in course of being improved. We have been lately discussing that.

2751. Eleven years has passed since the passing of the Public Health Act, and what has been done? Dr. O'Flaherty said, that what Mr. Haliday said in his book in 1866, was still in a great part true. He said there were numbers of places in the same condition still. No sewers, no ashpits, no privies, houses overcrowded, in fact, places not fit for human habitation?—Well, I think the worst of it is the overcrowding of the houses. There has hardly been time yet for a complete working of the Public Health Act.

2752. Mr. EXHAM.—Under the Act, which does not require time for carrying out the provisions relating to houses unfit for human habitation, what have you to do except to summon the owners and get an order to have them closed?

2753. Witness.—I do not think the Commissioners can have their officers under such discipline, as to be able to remedy through them every want.

2754. Is it your opinion then, that the Commissioners cannot by their officers prevent overcrowding?—The people take in friends.

2755. Take in friends in a place unfit for human habitation, which has not any sewer but the street, or privy, or ashpit, and no means of putting them in, and where the human filth is put in a bucket and thrown out at night in the public street. In your opinion, should that state of things be allowed?—I would not say a house was unfit for human habitation because the filth is put into a bucket, it is quite as good as a sewer or water-closet.

2756. Dr. O'Flaherty says there is no accommodation of the kind, and therefore perforce the filth must go into the public street, and where there is no sewer this is to a large extent done; although that state of things has been partially remedied. Does it continue still in many cases?—I am not aware that it does.

2757. Mr. LAWLESS.—Do you know the poorer parts of the town, I mean do you know the condition of these parts?—Well, Dr. O'Flaherty has opportunities of seeing things which I have not, going about as medical officer. But as chairman of the sewerage committee, I heard many things about the sewerage of the town.

2758. Mr. Perrin.—The sanitary medical officer describes the nuisance himself from personal observation on which he makes his report. The sanitary officer in this case, Dr. O'Flaherty, gets only £10 a year for all he does.

2759. Mr. LAWLESS.—Yes, and very miserable remuneration it is.

2760. Town Clerk.—Will you ask Dr. Roche for me, while you were chairman of the sanitary or sewer committee, had you any reason to complain of the sanitary officers, and was there not an anxiety on the part of the Commissioners to see everything carried out?—There was no complaint; and to the latter part of your question, I answer, yes.

2761. Mr. Barrett.—No doubt, an immensity of work has been done.

KINGSTOWN. April 14, 1877.

Dr. John Roche.

2762. Town Clerk.—Dr. Roche resigned, and the Commissioners induced him to come back again.

2763. Mr. LAWLESS.—Have you a general acquaintance with the proposed system of sewerage works that are being carried out in the town?—I have.

2764. Will that system, if it be completed, confer advantages on the poor people of the town?—I think it could be made to do so.

2765. Mr. EXHAM.—You say that Mr. Pallas mentioned to you that the bricks you spoke about were not of the specified quality. Were there complaints made about the qualities of these bricks?—I think Mr. Henry told me about them. I saw they were white-looking bricks. I know nothing myself about them, but if I wanted to know I would ask some one. Chemically I know as much about them as any engineer. If any brick can be burned well chemically it is a good brick. There is a practice by the engineer of the Commissioners of cutting off the water at night, and several parties are complaining about that. If a fire should occur there would not be a sufficient pressure to extinguish it, and the practice is also objectionable on sanitary grounds.

2766. Mr. LAWLESS.—Who has the care of that?

Mr. Doyle (town surveyor).—We do not cut off the water unless we have found a leak.

2767. Mr. Kelly (Town Commissioner).—The water is never shut off but when it is necessary, and when it can be done with safety. We used to shut it off at a certain hour because there was a large waste of water, and on examining into the matter we found this was caused more from large cracks in the pipes than anything else. In these cases where it has been shut off I have known Mr. Doyle to stay up all night himself in case anything might occur.

2768. Dr. Roche.—That answer affects the sanitary matter. The water mains laid in this town have nothing to separate them from the sewers but a brick, so that where the mains run alongside the sewers there should be brickwork to keep them well apart. If not, the whole town may be poisoned, as the sewage matter, if it escapes, may get into the cracks of the water pipes.

2769. Are the mains made too near the sewers?

Mr. Doyle.—Where you cross the sewer you can't help it. I have been engaged in waterworks where we ran the pipes on the top of the sewers.

2770. Dr. Roche.—Disease has been traced to that very thing in Oxford University.

2771. Mr. Doyle.—The main is three feet under the surface in this country.

2772. Mr. LAWLESS.—Do you think it is good engineering to have the mains in such close proximity to the sewers?—We have them separate as much as possible, and where they run parallel what can you do.

Mr. Michael Patrick Duff.

Mr. MICHAEL PATRICK DUFF examined.

2773. Mr. LAWLESS.—What office do you hold, Duff, under the Commissioners?—Head ganger.

2774. What are your duties?—I superintend everything connected with the scavenging.

2775. Mr. Perrin.—He lays down the pipes.

2776. Mr. M'Evoy.—Yes, connecting the houses with the main sewers.

2777. Mr. LAWLESS.—Do you lay down or inspect the making of the connexion between the houses and the main sewer?—Where there is a small sewer I have to connect it with the big one.

2778. Are you an engineer?—I am not. I am a practical working man.

2779. How many men have you in the scavenging department?—Sixteen.

2780. It is your duty to see that these men do their duty every day?—It is.

2781. Do you inspect the streets of this town every day?—Yes.

2782. Do you know the small houses in the small courts where the poor people live?—Yes.

2783. Do your men see to the cleaning of these small places or courts?—Yes.

2784. When was that street called Wellington-street cleaned?—Yesterday morning.

2785. It is just as bad as ever this morning. Filth and refuse scattered about there everywhere. I saw it myself, and so did Mr. Exham.

2786. Mr. Perrin.—It was cleaned yesterday because you were here.

2787. Witness.—To-morrow morning the men will go to work there again.

2788. Mr. EXHAM.—Leaving this one day's interval.

2789. Witness.—Every day we go round, Sunday as well.

2790. Mr. LAWLESS.—You appear to me to have a good many different departments to attend to. You have to attend to the scavenging, the drainage, the sanitary part of the drainage, as well as the disposition of the filth and ashes?—Yes.

2791. With your men?—Yes.

2792. What are the regular duties of the men under your direction with regard to that?—They go round to these poor places and see them cleaned.

2793. Do they go to these places where there is a privy common to more houses than one?—They do.

2794. Mr. EXHAM.—Do they empty them of their own accord, or do they wait for directions?—They wait for directions from the sanitary committee; then I bring a staff of men and have them cleaned out.

2795. Except you get directions for sweeping these lanes, alleys, and courts, do your men touch them as a matter of course?—No.

2796. What are your duties as to making connecting drains from houses to the public sewers, because that would appear to me to be the duty of the town surveyor?—If there is a connecting drain wanted, the town surveyor tells me to bring my men and materials and connect it.

2797. Do you superintend the doing of that kind of work?—I superintend doing it myself.

2798. What becomes of the scavenging all this time?—I have the men told off in the course of the evening or the day for making the connecting sewers, and I leave these men at their work, and then go round to see if the other men are in their proper departments.

2799. Are you not sometimes engaged making connecting sewers all day, and then what time have you to look after the scavenging?—I always go round to see if everything is correct.

2800. Who checks the levels for these connecting drains?—Myself.

2801. Were you brought up to that?—No; I am a practical man.

2802. Mr. Perrin.—I saw him the other day making a sewer in Corrig-avenue. I asked him had he anyone superintending the works with him. He said not.

2803. Who superintends the joining of these pipes?—Myself.

2804. How do you join them?—Where we have not cement, we have a fine clay. With this clay we make puddle, and with this we staunch the pipes. It is a very good way; and what is more, it never leaks.

2805. Does the town surveyor take any part in this kind of work?—He comes round occasionally to see if we are there.

2806. Does he examine these drains before they are closed up?—Some he does, and some he does not.

2807. Supposing you were going to make a drain close to one of these sewers, who would make the connexion?—I would make whatever connexion was wanted.

2808. How would you make it?—Get a pipe according as the case might be, to suit, make a hole ready in the pipe or sewer, fit in the connecting pipe, and then put the staunching clay round it.

2809. Do you put them in at right angles to the sewer?—I don't know what that means. I gave them a certain regular fall. I put them within two or three inches of the bottom. If the drain is very deep we put them down at the side of it.

2810. Do you put any of them right at the top of it?—Very seldom, just according to the level. Mostly always at the side.

2811. Do you do this with the street scavengers?—Yes.

2812. Did you ever see the town surveyor take a level in putting in one of these connecting drains?—No.

2813. Did you ever see him take a level when he was marking out or putting in any sewer or drain?—No.

2814. If he came on the ground where you were working did he give you orders as to the doing of the work?—Sometimes he would.

2815. Mr. LAWLESS.—Who are the men who work?—Well, every kind. I generally bring the best and the hardiest with me to do good work. Some I keep at the scavenging. We accommodate ourselves as best we can to get the work done.

2816. Mr. EXHAM.—Did you make some drains at Royal-terrace?—Yes. I made the pipe joinings there with cement.

2817. Did you do the work there with the scavenging men?—Yes.

2818. Suggested by Mr. Perrin.—Were you the man who got the pipes ready, and laid them at Castle-park, and were they removed afterwards?—Yes; some came up. Some old pipes were taken up that were put down years ago.

2819. How many times did you put pipes down there?—Twice.

2820. Why was it necessary to put them down a second time?—The former ones were not sufficient to take the pressure of the water coming out there. The others were too old.

2821. How long is it since the twelve-inch pipes were put down?—I don't know. I have no record of it.

2822. Mr. Perrin.—I saw them put down. The contractor was four or five years putting down sewers there, and were there not several put down?—Mr. Doyle.—No.

2823. Witness.—There were only two.

2824. Mr. LAWLESS.—At all events were you obliged to take up the twelve-inch, and put in a fifteen?—By the connexion a twelve and a nine came into a fifteen.

2825. Mr. EXHAM.—Have you left part of the nine and part of the twelve? If it was too small before is it not too small now?—Some time ago there was an overflow, and a twelve-inch pipe was put down along the road by Michael O'Brien's property. This pipe comes up from the old main and meets the fifteen-inch pipe.

2826. How many feet long was that?—I did not measure that.

2827. Did you put down that nine-inch pipe under the direction of Mr. Doyle?—The nine-inch pipe comes as far as Breffni-terrace, and that was done some years ago. The twelve-inch pipe lies in another place, and runs into a field.

2828. Do you know Sandycove and Sandycove harbour?—Yes.

2829. Did you ever lay down any sewer from Sandycove, West, to Bullock harbour?—No.

2830. Mr. Perrin.—About ten months ago the Commissioners put down by arrangement a fifteen-inch pipe, and——

2831. Witness.—What I speak of is at Castle Park-avenue and Sandycove-road.

2832. Mr. LAWLESS.—Did you make these connecting sewers from Michael O'Brien's house and the main sewer at Castle Park-avenue?—Yes. That work was done some years ago.

2833. When was the last work done there?—A few weeks ago.

2834. What was the dimension of the last pipe you laid down?—A fifteen-inch pipe.

2835. In order to lay that down did you remove any pipes that had been there before?—Yes; the twelve-inch.

2836. Did you put down these pipes?—Yes; some weeks ago.

2837. Mr. EXHAM.—This work is not laid down in the map of 1874.

2838. Mr. Doyle.—It was done some years ago.

2839. Mr. LAWLESS.—Did you for the purpose of laying down the fifteen-inch pipe, take up any pipe besides what you had previously laid down yourself?—Only half a pipe.

2840. Was that half a pipe any portion of what you laid down?—No.

2841. What dimension was the pipe you took up?—Twelve-inch pipe.

2842. Why did you remove it?—To make room for ourselves for the corresponding of the two pipes, the nine-inch and the twelve-inch to drop into the little man-hole together.

2843. Mr. EXHAM.—Are we to understand that a fifteen-inch is put in the place of the twelve-inch, and that the eighteen-inch pipe is put in place of a three feet by two sewer?—Yes.

2844. Was this work shown in any plan submitted by Mr. Doyle to the Local Government Board Inspector?—(No answer.)

Mr. M'Evoy.—Would you see if it was in the estimates.

2845. Mr. EXHAM.—It is not in the estimates shown to us.

2846. Mr. LAWLESS.—While the men were doing this work were they paid in the ordinary way as scavengers?—They were.

2847. Mr. EXHAM.—Did Mr. Doyle, before you took up that nine-inch pipe, give you any levels for the men to work by?—No.

2848. Did he go to inspect the work?—He was there several times.

2849. Do you know the sewer at New Cross-avenue?—Yes.

2850. Was that lately taken up?—Yes.

2851. Is that one of the new sewers or an old one? It is a new one.

2852. Mr. Doyle.—New or old, it was made four years ago.

2853. Mr. EXHAM (to Mr. Doyle).—Is this one of the new sewers you made.

Mr. Doyle.—Yes, it was a new sewer made by Mr. Sexton.

2854. Was it opened lately?

Witness (Duff).—I opened it the other day and turned the Vartry water into it. I washed it out with the Vartry water, but I could not get much out of it.

2855. Was it stopped?—It was.

2856. Did you wash away the stuff that was in the sewer, having first made it fluid by the aid of the Vartry water?—I did.

2857. In your opinion was that a proper sewer?—No, sir; not for that neighbourhood.

2858. Why?—It should have been a great deal larger.

2859. What was the size of that sewer?—Nine, twelve, and fifteen inches at different parts of the sewer.

2860. Did you make connecting drains with that sewer?—Yes.

2861. Was it when you were making the regular connecting drains that you found it to be choked?—Yes, when I broke the pipe for making the connecting drains the stuff out of it flew up in my face.

2862. Mr. Doyle.—That sewer was made in 1872.

2863. Witness (Duff).—The sewerage spurted up in my face.

2864. Mr. EXHAM.—Do you know the house of any gentleman in that avenue, where the sewerage came up in consequence of the bursting of the drain?—I saw that in the yard. When I washed out the pipe the drainage went away.

2865. Did you report that to Mr. Doyle?—After he saw it. I forgot it at the time.

KINGSTOWN. April 14, 1877.

Mr. Michael Patrick Duff.

2866. How long is that ago?—A few months.

2867. Did Mr. Doyle see it?—Yes, he saw it, and saw the men working at it.

2868. Do you know a street called Mulgrave-street?—I do.

2869. Have you observed the sewerage there?—Yes.

2870. Are the sewerage works there in a proper state?—No.

2871. Does the sewer there provide for the north and south side of the street?—I don't think it is deep enough for the street.

2872. Is it large enough to provide for the sewerage of Mulgrave-street?—Oh, it is plenty large, but it has not fall enough.

2873. Mr. Brady.—The contractor worked out the plans.

2874. Mr. EXHAM.—Mr. Brady says the contractor worked out the plans that were given to him, and if that is so, the contractor was not to blame.

2875. Mr. Duff.—Did you inform Mr. Doyle of the state of the sewer that you cleaned?—Yes; it was all cleaned up and made perfect.

2876. Mr. EXHAM (to Mr. Doyle.)—The witness says that this sewer was laid at an improper level. What do you say to that?

Mr. Doyle.—What does he know about it?

2877. Mr. EXHAM.—If that is so, why did you put him to make sewers and connecting drains?

Mr. Doyle.—I did not set him to make connecting drains—I may have set him working.

2878. Mr. EXHAM.—He says he has made both sewers and connecting drains under your direction? Is that so?

Mr. Doyle.—Yes, I directed him. Except at one place, it was not found necessary to break the pipe. He is not competent to give an opinion on sewerage works or drains either.

2879. Mr. Kelly (Town Commissioner.)—If this kind of thing was going on, I must certainly say we got no report about it from our head ganger or surveyor.

2880. Mr. LAWLESS.—Duff says he reported it to the engineer. His duty was to report to him and not to the Board.

2881. Mr. EXHAM.—He says he brought the engineer there, showed it to him, and then it was cleaned out with the Vartry water. It is not for us to say why you did not get a report.

2882. Do you know a sewer that runs from a lane at the rere of Upper George's-street?—Yes; that is at the north side, at the back of the premises of Mr. Downs.

2883. What sort of a sewer is that?—We had to clean it out a couple of times.

2884. Is the new one deep enough to drain that sewer?—Well, I think it is, but I am not sure.

2885. Mr. Kelly (Town Commissioner.)—I think Mr. Doyle should hear these answers. He is in the next room, but I think it is his place to be here.

2886. Mr. EXHAM.—I certainly think so too. But I have not any power to keep him here. He said just now that this man knows nothing about it, and yet he was put to do the work by him. He ought, in fairness, listen to the man's answers as to the works he executed.

2887. Witness (Duff.)—The sewer you speak of is one of the last put there. It was stopped two or three times. We did not clean it this good bit. It is a rubble built sewer covered in.

2888. Is that sewer at a sufficient level to prevent its being choked?—It is not a bad sewer.

2889. How does it get choked?—There are a lot of people there who sweep their sweepings into the grating, and when they keep on at this the drain is soon stopped.

2890. Mr. EXHAM.—Is the drain of sufficient capacity to carry these sweepings off, or to take off what is cast into it?—Yes, sir, if it is kept well flushed.

2891. Mr. LAWLESS.—Is it an old sewer that is there?—Yes, sir.

2892. Mr. Doyle.—That is an old pipe that falls into Royal Marine-road.

2893. (Suggested by Mr. Perrin).—To Mr. Doyle.—Do you know the condition of the pipe-sewer leading into Sandycove Harbour? Is there anything worse in the town? Mr. Doyle.—Put your question again, if you please.

2894. Are the pipes of the sewer at the point Mr. Perrin has mentioned, working so as to carry away the sewerage that is carried to the harbour?—They are not. They were never fit for it at all.

2895. How long is it since they began to do no service?—They were never fit.

2896. Who put them down?—Mr. Perrin.—Mr. Doyle, I think.

2897. Mr. LAWLESS.—Is it at the site of the harbour?—Mr. Perrin.—In consequence of the discharge there it is a perfect nuisance. Had the pipes been away altogether it would have been better.

2898. Do you know anything of a new sewer at Haddington-terrace which is stated to us to be a very bad one?—Mr. Doyle.—I did not do it. I did it once.

2899. What size pipe did you put down there?—A 15-inch pipe. The sewer there was first made ten years ago.

2900. Mr. Perrin.—Would Mr. Ennis be good enough to show the Commissioners the order of the Board about a sewer repaired at Castlepark-avenue?—Mr. Ennis.—Yes; it is this year, 1877. The order is "That the town surveyor be instructed to perfect the sewer at Castlepark-avenue, and remedy the complaint of Mr. O'Brien, at a cost not exceeding £20."

2901. Was that put in the estimates? Mr. Doyle did you put that in?—Mr. Doyle.—No, I did not.

2902. Was that work done within the £20 or not?—The tenders are not in yet.

2903. Mr. LAWLESS (addressing the witness Duff).—I must say we both consider you gave your evidence in a manner creditable to your truthfulness and intelligence. We think the Commissioners have a very valuable servant in you.

2904. Mr. Perrin.—He only gets 30*s*. a week.

Mr. J. Brady.

Mr. J. BRADY examined.

2905. Mr. LAWLESS.—On what matter do you wish to give evidence?—I want to contradict a statement made by Mr. Doyle that I was employed by Mr. M'Evoy to spy after him.

2906. Mr. EXHAM.—Were you?—No; decidedly not.

2907. Mr. M'Evoy.—He was not.

2908. Witness.—I saw that the sewerage works were not being properly carried out in Mulgrave-street, and I, therefore, mentioned the matter to Mr. M'Evoy, he reported the thing to Mr. Kelly, the Town Commissioner, and it then became a public question. I made a complaint that the fall of the sewer was incorrect. I have been put down here as a nondescript.

2909. Mr. EXHAM.—Did you point out what you complained of about this sewer to the Commissioners?—I did.

2910. Mr. LAWLESS.—That the sewer was, in fact, up a hill?—Yes. When the report was made there was a special meeting called, when the committee of inspection that was appointed to examine the matter, reported. They, I believe, thought that an engineer should be appointed, and Duff said in this case too he did not think the sewer was made the right way. I will point it to you on this plan. (Produces a small plan of the sewer.

2911. Mr. EXHAM.—From this it appears to us, and so it must to everyone else, that the sewer was made wrong.

2912. Mr. M'Evoy.—The first minute of the Board I find in reference to these sewers is :—

"The recommendation of No. 2 Committee to increase the weekly wages of the head ganger. That the increase be agreed to and fixed at 5*s.* per week in consideration of his increased diligence in the discharge of his duties in connexion with the George's-street sewer."

So the sewer in George's-street was one of the sewers put down by Duff.

Mr. J. BRADY's examination resumed.

2913. Mr. EXHAM.—Did you see that the levels were wrong?—Yes.

2914. Do you still say that they were wrong? Do you mean to tell us that?—Decidedly.

2915. Why did you not tell the Board about it?—I would not be attended to. Mr. Doyle threatened to throw me off the works. The moment I came into Mr. Doyle's office he went out.

2916. What did he say to you?—He told me to mind mine own business, and said that it was his business.

2917. Mr. M'Evoy.—In consequence of all this I thought it advisable to call in another engineer to examine the sewers, but the Board of Commissioners would not adopt my view.

2918. Mr. EXHAM (to Mr. Brady).—Was that the time Mr. Doyle said he would throw you off the ground?—Yes, decidedly. He brought the police. I said I was a ratepayer, and that he could not interfere with me. The work was carried through about half way at the time, and Mr. Kelly saw the water had to be dammed up into a river.

2919. Mr. Kelly.—As far as I remember the circumstances, I say that Mr. Doyle was not working to my satisfaction at the time.

2920. Mr. EXHAM.—Mr. Kelly can be called to give evidence on the point if he wishes.

2921. Witness (Mr. Brady).—In reference to the asphalte contract, I want to say a word, with your permission, and also with reference to the removal of asphalte. It has been alleged by word of mouth and through the public press, that I removed asphalte from the Commissioners' premises to Mr. Crosthwaite. That went the rounds of the public press, and it was reported to the town clerk.

2922. Did you do so?—Never, sir, to Mr. Crosthwaite or to any other person. I was merely the man who laid it, and I would just ask the Commissioners to ask Mr. Duff about my part in it.

2923. Mr. EXHAM.—We will. (To Mr. Duff).—Do you know anything, Duff, about this asphalte which was delivered to Mr. Crosthwaite, so far as Mr. Brady was concerned with it?—Mr. Brady laid it. Mr. Doyle desired me to give to Mr. Brady whatever he wanted for Mr. Crosthwaite. Previous to that he wanted some without Mr. Doyle's order. I said I would not give it on the order of the chairman himself. So then he got the verbal order from Mr. Doyle. So I accordingly waited to get the order that way, and when I got it the asphalte was removed, but Brady only got it by Mr. Doyle's order.

2924. Mr. LAWLESS.—In common justice to Brady, this should be taken down.

2925. Mr. Brady.—I just wanted you to hear this.

2926. Mr. EXHAM.—If we had known that you wanted to make this explanation you should not have been kept waiting for an opportunity to make it so long.

2927. Mr. Kelly.—I would ask the Commissioners if they have got the reports of the investigation that took place?—Town Clerk.—They are to be had.

2928. Mr. EXHAM (to Mr. Doyle.—Mr. Brady says that when Mr. Crosthwaite wanted this asphalte laid down he applied to Duff accordingly, saying that he wanted it for Mr. Crosthwaite, who was then chairman of the Board. Duff states he refused to give him the stuff without an order from you, Mr. Doyle, and that you afterwards told him that Brady was to get whatever he wanted for the chairman. The asphalte was, under these circumstances, given out and delivered as we have heard. Mr. Doyle.—I gave no such order.

2929. Mr. Duff.—I beg your pardon, sir, you did, and more than that, you said that anything Mr. Crosthwaite wanted was to be given to him.

Mr. Doyle.—Nothing of the kind.

2930. Mr. Duff.—I beg your pardon, you did. I can certify, if it goes to that, the answers and questions that passed between us.

2931. Mr. LAWLESS.—It is not our duty to express any conclusion on the matter, although we have formed a very strong opinion about it.

2932. Mr. EXHAM.—What Duff says is, that you told him Brady was to get everything he wanted for the chairman.

Town Clerk.—I suggested to Mr. Crosthwaite to come down to the committee and point out what had occurred. Brady had previously applied to me for an order empowering him to get the asphalte, but I refused to give it, and referred him to Mr. Doyle.

2933. Mr. Kelly.—As chairman of the committee appointed on that occasion, I beg to say we knew nothing of the whole transaction until our storekeeper reported it, and then we immediately investigated it.

2934. Mr. EXHAM.—Yes, you lost no time in investigating the matter. You received the storekeeper's report on the very day after it was taken.

2935. Mr. Brady.—We had the work nearly completed before the 7th of November—a very short time after we got the stuff to go on with. I wish to say something now as to my contract with the Commissioners in reference to the laying of asphalte.

2936. Can you say how much asphalte was taken out of the yard before the 7th of November?—I cannot tell you that, but I can tell how much went up to Mr. Crosthwaite.

2937. How much can you say—we have it from the storekeeper as 13 cwt. and some pounds?—I don't know that I saw all that went out. Of course if I get a little time I can give it to you.

2938. Was it more or less than 13 cwt.?—I can only calculate by the number of yards laid.

2939. How many yards were there laid?—About fifty.

2940. What quantity would be required for fifty yards?—I think it is those who have weighed it should account for that.

2941. Mr. LAWLESS.—What quantity would you require of the same character of asphalte to lay fifty yards?—That is a question I don't like to answer. I think the town surveyor should——

2942. Mr. EXHAM.—I think, for your own sake, you ought to answer the question. Make the calculation now?—I would want to go to where the asphalte is laid.

2943. Mr. LAWLESS.—Is it that you require a little time to make your calculation?—Well, not so much that. There has been a value put on the material and the amount paid, so I don't think I should be called upon for that account.

2944. Mr. EXHAM.—Don't mind the value. What quantity did you get out of the yard?—I know exactly the number of boilers laid. I laid four boilers and a half, and I calculate them at 15*s.* 9*d.* each. I will give the items to Mr. Ennis, and let him calculate it.

2945. Mr. Ennis.—Sit down and calculate it yourself.

2946. Mr. EXHAM.—How much in quantity?—I can give you the money value.

2947. Give us the weight. How many cwt. weight? There was so much ground limestone—how many cwt. weight of that?—About 25 or 26 cwt. in all. The reason I had to use the good Val de Travers rock was because the limestone was not in it.

KINGSTOWN. April 14, 1877. Mr. J. Brady.

2948. Was that more valuable than the limestone?—Oh, yes.

2949. Can you give us the weight?—I said there was about 25 or 26 cwt. in all the material. The rock asphalte was on the ground when I went there, and I directed the men how to use it. Duff was there too.

2950. Mr. Duff.—No, I was not on the ground.

2951. Witness.—Not when it was laid, because you went out of the way.

2952. Mr. EXHAM.—You got ground limestone and bitumen. Did you get anything else?—I refined the bitumen. I got shale oil, but that is not mentioned at all.

2953. You spoke about rock asphalte. Did you get that?—It was on the ground. That is the genuine asphalte in bags. When I went to the ground first there was no ground limestone, afterwards there was bitumen, and then we had ground limestone. The rock asphalte which was used was the real asphalte, from the Val de Travers Rock.

2954. Mr. Crosthwaite returned 10 cwt., and by the books he apparently got 13 cwt. This witness says he got 25 or 26 cwt. of material altogether. Do you recollect how much he got?

Mr. Duff.—I do not; but nothing went to Mr. Crosthwaite unless what went by our horses.

2955. Witness (Mr. Brady).—I want to say a word in relation to a contract which I had with the Commissioners for the laying of asphalte. In October, 1875, in answer to an advertisement in the newspapers, inviting tenders for the laying of asphalte, I sent in a tender. I was laying the floor of the Kingstown rink at the time. My tender was accepted, as was also a tender from the Val de Travers Company, and I believe it was on the strength of this that the money for the asphalting of the town was borrowed. This is the fact, and Mr. Ennis understood so, although it was said here the other day that I had no contract at all. After a little bit there was a change in the contract, and twopence additional was allowed to me for manufacturing, and I was proceeding to lay 1,500 yards in that way. There was then an order that I should not be allowed to manufacture any more on the road, but that the manufacturing should be conducted in the yard belonging to the Commissioners. The consequence of that was, they reduced my returns from £23 and £25 a week to £8 a week. I continued that way for some weeks, when I believe there was an attempt made to deprive me altogether of the contract.

2956. Mr. LAWLESS.—That in fact after your contract to do the works in a certain way had been accepted and acted on, you were required to do them in a different way: that there was a deviation from the contract?—Yes, sir; and more than that, I would not have known what took place, except that I heard something of these minutes.

2957. Why did you not seek redress against the Commissioners in the way any other person would if placed in the position by them you describe?—I will do that. I will show who has a hand in this, and who is interfering to a large extent here, and I will show very good grounds for my belief. The minutes will show what I say is true.

2958. I don't know to what minutes you refer?

2959. Town Clerk.—I will read the minute referred to, if you wish. We accepted his tender to lay the asphalte at 1*s*. 3*d*. per yard, and that was carried out. The reason that arrangement was varied was, it was brought before the road committee, the subject of having a proper check of the materials that went out of the yard. Mr. Brady himself was present when the committee considered the matter. In consequence of this variation there was 2*d*. added to the 1*s*. 3*d*., for manufacturing, and he was stopped from manufacturing on the roads, because we had to pay for boilers there as well. We said, "Use your boilers outside for the reheating and laying, and manufacture the asphalte on our premises with our own boilers." Is not that the case?—I beg your pardon, I had gone on for weeks before, and had accepted your arrangement before that change was made. There is something on the books of the Commissioners which, according to my showing at least, alleges that there was a deficiency of some bitumen.

2960. Mr. LAWLESS.—Where was the deficiency?

Town Clerk.—That was investigated, and as a matter of calculation the committee found that on every thirty-seven yards a deficiency of two tons of bitumen would result. According to Brady's own return there would be only one ton. That is the simple matter of fact.

2961. Witness.—There was an open accusation that I stole the bitumen, and laid it out on another place.

2962. Town Clerk.—It was not said here.

2963. Witness.—I think you will find on the books here quite a different story, to the effect that on checking the bitumen returns they found out a different result to what I furnished altogether.

2964. Town Clerk.—There was nothing on the minutes affecting your character whatever.

2965. Mr. EXHAM.—What I understand from all this is, that according to their calculation there was a difference of some two tons of bitumen in a given space, while according to you there was only one ton used in the work, the Commissioners saying that there was two tons furnished for a particular space, while but one ton was used. But has it been shown by anyone that you got two tons where only one ton was required?—Town Clerk.—Such a thing was not maintained. There is no such thing as that on the minutes.

2966. Witness.—I am quite satisfied.

2967. Mr. EXHAM.—If the two tons left the yard, and it was not used by Mr. Brady, what has become of it?—(No answer.)

2968. Mr. LAWLESS.—I find a resolution of the 18th June, 1875, as follows, in the minute-book:—

"Moved by Dr. Roche, seconded by Mr. Lagan, and resolved—'That Mr. Doyle, the township engineer, open all the roads, streets, and by-ways necessary, which are in the possession of the Commissioners, and according to the Kingstown Act of 1874, be requested to furnish all plans, specifications, sections, and quantities respecting the sewerage of the township, the depths of the cuttings, the marks of same on the sections at equal distances of 100 feet. This to apply to the new district of the township as well as the old.'"

2969. (To Mr. Doyle).—Was there anything done by you in pursuance of this resolution?—I got up contract plans.

2970. Before that did you furnish any plans, specifications, or quantities?—I did, from time to time.

2971. Did you make any plans showing the depths of the cuttings?—Yes, in every plan I made I showed the cuttings.

2972. Have you made these plans, as required by this resolution, for the entire of the township, including the new district as well as the old?—Yes, so far as the new district was included at the time.

2973. Were the Commissioners in the possession of any sections or plans of the kind before this?—They were. We had a great deal of debate about the matter. I got up what plans they required me, which were principally contract plans.

2974. Do you mean that plans were made before this which showed the depths of the cuttings for the new district as well as the old?—No, not at that time.

2975. Were what you did make the plans on which the Provisional Order of 1874 was obtained?—Certainly.

2976. Mr. EXHAM (to Mr. Duff).—Did you see the bricks that were used in making these sewers?—Well, I did, sir.

2977. Do you know the difference between one description of brick and another?—I would know a good one.

2978. What you call a best county Dublin grey stock brick, is that a good brick?—It is; it is better than the Bog-hall brick.

2979. Were there many of the Bog-hall bricks used?—No, not many; only a few in the man-holes.

2980. Many in the sewers?—No, sir. To my knowledge there was not one of them in the sewers.

2981. Did you see the cement that was used?—I saw cement on Mr. Sexton's ground, and I saw it used.

2982. Do you know what cement it was?—No, I do not.

2983. Mr. M'Evoy.—I feel called upon to answer some of the evidence of Dr. Roche in reference to myself and the Commissioners.

2984. Mr. LAWLESS.—What is it you wish to say?—Mr. M'Evoy.—It is with regard to these bills of costs and special cases which were sanctioned. This special case was commenced when I was not a Commissioner. Had it been brought before the Board when I was sitting I would not have approved of the "bridges" costs being included in the special case at all. That is all I wish to say now.

2985. (Suggested by Mr. Perrin—to Mr. Doyle).—Do you admit on behalf of the Board of Town Commissioners the nuisance of the sewers at Sandycove harbour?—Where there is a nuisance it is admitted.

2986. Is there a very large sewer discharging itself near that again at Haddington-terrace which conveys all the nuisance coming down Glenageary-road? Is that sewer insufficient for its purpose?—Whatever is there was put down some years ago.

2987. Mr. Perrin.—I saw him put a fourteen-inch pipe in there, and even at low-water mark nuisances come there from several sewers, the extent of which in all cannot be less than four feet. The consequence is that in Haddington-terrace last summer the people had to keep their windows shut, but still foul air and gas cannot be prevented from coming up into the houses, and thus a great nuisance is created. If the sewers there were of sufficient capacity such a state of things could not of course occur. I wish to call your attention now to another matter which occurred in the year 1874. In April, 1874, the Commissioners of Kingstown promoted a Provisional Order to obtain powers to contract loans of a peculiar kind, the money to be paid as per agreement. The loans as proposed to be raised had a certain bearing on the sewerage works. As to sewers No. 1 and No. 2 outfalls I have no observation to make. What I want to say is with reference to No. 3 outfall—to a promoted scheme which it was never intended to carry out.

2988. Mr. EXHAM.—That was in 1876?

Mr. Perrin.—It is a matter before them now. I wish to speak as to the validity of the thing, and as to its bona fides.

2989. Mr. LAWLESS.—Was it any part of the work to be done under the £10,000 scheme?—Yes, and that plan describes the outfall to be at Bullock.

2990. Mr. EXHAM.—Yes; the plans shown to the Local Government Board inspector provided for that, but the map which Mr. Doyle says lay on the table does not provide for it. So that the plan lodged does not correspond with the map on the table.

2991. Mr. Perrin.—Yes. The Provisional Order sought for in 1876, provided for the compulsory purchase of some land by the Commissioners, and after everything had been done it was dropped. Bills, too, were promoted by the Commissioners, and rejected by petitions presented on the part of the people of Dalkey and Kingstown. I am a ratepayer to the extent of £150 a year. When proceedings had been taken and plans furnished to the Commissioners in reference to the sewerage, I heard of the intended outfall at Sandycove. Immediately I came and spoke to Mr. Doyle, the town surveyor, on the subject. I had opposed the outfall in that place, and when I saw the plans I asked him was it possible they intended to bring this outfall sewer up to Sandycove. The surveyor told me most plainly not, that it was intended to go to Bullock Harbour. I asked him what authority he had for saying that, when he said the Town Commissioners were going to promote a Provisional Order for the purpose.

2992. Mr. LAWLESS.—Who told you that?—Mr. Doyle, the town surveyor. He told me it was all arranged that the outfall should be at Bullock. I asked him for his authority, and he told me it was settled by Alderman O'Rorke for the outfall to be at Bullock. "Well," said I, "if the Provisional Order passes, you will have no power to divert that scheme in the way you describe." The ratepayers of the district presented a petition against that, and previous to their doing so, I had two notes, one from Mr. Reilly, Town Commissioner, and another from Mr. Lalor, solicitor to the Board, about promoting the scheme for the outfall at St. Kilda. They wrote to me expressing a wish to retain my professional services, and in as polite a way as I could, I declined to act. Having taken so active a part in opposing their scheme, it would be most inconsistent for me then to act in support of it. I wrote a note to Mr. Lalor, at his own request, which he submitted to his Board. I acted bonâ fide; I refused to act professionally for them, and told them my sympathies were against the scheme, and now I have a proper locus standi in my attendance here. One of the interested parties, a friend of my own, spent £68 4*s.* in opposing it. Mr. Farrell, Mr. North, and others, were very active in endeavouring to oppose this scheme, and I have it from two or three persons most materially interested that it was represented to them, as it was represented to me, that the scheme was not to be carried out for the Bullock outfall, and had they known the true facts of the case they would have joined us in opposing it. The matter came on here for discussion before Mr. O'Brien, the Local Government Board Inspector, when it was most vigorously supported by the evidence of Mr. Doyle. We had to employ engineers, contractors, county surveyors, and many others to oppose the absurd proposition to bring it to Sandycove, and all this was paid for out of the rates which were thus dealt with.

2993. Mr. EXHAM.—Did the Provisional Order show that the outfall was to be at Sandycove?—No, at St. Kilda; and after all the inconvenience that had been incurred in reference to the Provisional Order, it was not followed up, but was virtually abandoned.

2994. What was the cost of the order?—I don't know.

2995. Mr. LAWLESS.—When had you the interview with reference to this Provisional Order, according to the provisions of which the outfall was to be at Bullock harbour?—Some short time previously.

2996. What was the date of the inquiry?—The 8th of January, 1876.

Town Clerk.—Here is the resolution of the Commissioners in reference to retaining Mr. Perrin—

"That Mr. Lalor, our solicitor be hereby instructed to retain Mr. George Perrin, as counsel for the Commissioners for the inquiry to be held on the 7th prox."

2997. Mr. Perrin.—They had already had junior counsel, and I think that was quite enough for the township.

2998. Mr. M'Evoy.—How many guineas a day did they offer Mr. Perrin?

Town Clerk.—Ten guineas.

2999. Mr. EXHAM.—Was the opposition confined to scheme No. 3?—Yes; we never applied ourselves to No. 1 or No. 2 at all, it was No. 3 that we wanted to stop.

3000. Mr. M'Evoy.—I went to London at my own expense to throw it out. I also got up a remonstrance against the original scheme.

3001. You say, Mr. Perrin, it was never intended to carry out what was originally proposed?—Precisely. If you look at the plan, I will explain my meaning, pipe by pipe.

3002. Mr. EXHAM.—Mr. Doyle, will you show us the plan which you laid before Mr. O'Brien, the Local Government Board Inspector, with reference to this piece of work. It is very important. (Plan produced.)

3003. Mr. LAWLESS.—Was this plan laid before Mr. O'Brien?—Yes.

3004. Mr. Perrin.—To show where it was contemplated to have the outfall sewer, I refer to the correspondence which took place between the Kingstown and Dalkey Commissioners on the subject. I am reported in the public press to have made "misrepresentations" about this matter, and I would therefore like the correspondence to be produced. I would be incapable of making an unfounded assertion. People have been writing to me saying., "What about your intrigues?"

KINGSTOWN. April 14, 1877.

Mr. Perrin.

3005. Mr. EXHAM.—We don't know what you are referring to. What is it?—I was reported in the newspapers to have said that the Dalkey and Kingstown Commissioners were "intriguing" about the outfall sewage of Kingstown. And this because I complained deliberately of the outlay of the public money. I ask for the correspondence between the two parties. They had correspondence after they held their meetings. We had a meeting on the eve of our opposition to the scheme, and Alderman O'Rorke said the inhabitants of Bullock were only cabinholders.

3006. Mr. LAWLESS.—These rival schemes of drainage between Dalkey and Kingstown, as to the outfall, appear to me to be a very serious matter. It might be most objectionable—the outfall in either case, but we cannot go into it. We have allowed you to state what you have done about it, in consequence of your complaining that the ratepayers' moneys have been improperly expended.

3007. Town Clerk.—As to the expenditure incurred in promoting No. 3 scheme, it was not intended to carry it as Mr. Perrin has stated. We had three separate schemes. The original scheme had the outfall at Bullock, and that was more especially for the Glasthule district, within 600 feet of the mouth of Bullock Harbour. The Commissioners decided to apply for that outfall before Mr. O'Brien when he came here to hold his inquiry. He reported to his Board against No. 3 scheme; and the Commissioners were then stopped, so far as that part of the scheme was concerned, by the action of the Local Government Board. I suggested to them that we should open negotiations with the Dalkey people; but the Dalkey people did not want to have anything to say to us. In fact they have refused to negotiate.

3008. Mr. Perrin.—There should not have been an expenditure of the ratepayers' money, unless it was intended to go on with the scheme. It was antecedent to all this that Mr. Doyle informed me that the outfall was never intended to be brought to the point originally indicated.

3009. Mr. EXHAM.—Mr. Perrin asserts Mr. Doyle told him a particular thing, and Mr. Doyle contradicts this. If Mr. Perrin is right and Mr. Doyle is wrong, it is a very serious matter.

3010. Mr. Perrin.—In my opinion, what has been done has inflicted a very great hardship on the ratepayers if they have to pay all the heavy costs incurred.

3011. In the year 1874, your point is, it was intended to take this sewage round by Bullock?—Precisely.

3012. Mr. LAWLESS.—What evidence do you wish to give now?—At the last annual election for Kingstown there were two new members to be elected for East ward and two for West ward.

3013. Do you mean the election of 1877?—Yes, of the present Board. The two candidates who were going out were Mr. Crosthwaite and Mr. Donnevan, and I agreed, at the request of some ratepayers, to become a candidate. I never saw the papers myself, but as a fact, my nomination paper was duly forwarded and all the legal forms required by the Act of 1872 complied with. By that Act, it is provided that the candidate must be nominated by two ratepayers (eight others assenting), and each candidate is to be nominated by a separate nomination paper. My papers were sent in, and I got a note from the secretary informing me of the fact that I had been nominated, and also that I was a candidate. This is the note (reads):—

"21st December, 1876.

"I have received a nomination paper this evening by which you are a candidate for the East ward. I may add, that you have power to withdraw up to 2 o'clock, P.M., to-morrow."

Up to a certain hour the nomination papers were to be received, and at a certain time the presiding officer was to hear objections, which should be in writing, and to declare the new Commissioners in the event of there being no contest. Mr. Crosthwaite and another were also nominated. I am informed that on this occasion Mr. Crosthwaite presided, and that he produced some paper and said that my nomination paper was wrong. The persons present on that occasion were, Mr. Reilly, the secretary, Mr. Crosthwaite, and Mr. Herron. The statement was read out by Mr. Crosthwaite, and then he declared himself and the other person duly elected, and that my nomination was void. The Act of Parliament requires that the objection shall be in writing. Upon being informed of this result, I thought it would be only fair to the ratepayers to whom I had issued an address that they should be informed why they had not an opportunity of voting for me. On the day after I was declared by Mr. Crosthwaite to be disqualified, I went to the secretary to get from him the reasons or objection. Mr. Ennis then informed me that he could not show it (that was between 11 and 4 o'clock, P.M., office hours), and I asked him why, saying that perhaps I might have to take some steps in the matter. He replied that the reason was, because Mr. Crosthwaite had it under lock and key; "but," said Mr. Ennis, "I'll send to Mr. Crosthwaite and let him know of your application and inform you of the result." I said I would wait and hear it, and while we were speaking Mr. Crosthwaite came in, and on being informed of my application he in a most indignant manner refused to show or let me hear the objection to my nomination. I thought then to put the matter beyond dispute, and in the first place made the application to the secretary in writing and got the following reply:—

"DEAR SIR,—With reference to your application of this date to be allowed to inspect the objection made to your nomination paper as a candidate for East ward, you were present when the chairman of the Board, who has one of the keys of the box, refused to allow the use of his key for that purpose. I shall, however, convey to Mr. Crosthwaite your further application in writing, and acquaint you with his answer in writing.

"22nd December, 1876."

From that day up to the present I have never had an answer in any shape or form. It is a new state of things, when my application to see the document—a document held by the very gentleman who declared himself duly elected, and which I thought I had a reasonable right to inspect—was refused. However, I got a verbal explanation.

3014. Mr. LAWLESS (to the Town Clerk).—Do you produce the objection to Mr. Perrin's nomination paper?—I'll take care to produce it. I am sure the present chairman, Mr. Barrett, will have no objection to my doing so.

3015. Mr. Perrin.—The explanation, in point of fact, is this: that one of the eight assentors to my nomination also assented to Mr. Crosthwaite's, and to the other candidate's nomination, and therefore, there being one assentor (who was the same person) to the three candidates, of whom I unfortunately was one, Mr. Crosthwaite and the other person were by him declared to be duly elected, and I was disqualified.

3016. Do you mean to say that it was because there was an assentor to your nomination who was also an assentor to his and the other person's nomination?—Yes.

3017. Mr. LAWLESS (to the Town Clerk).—Was that the nature of the grounds upon which Mr. Crosthwaite made his decision?—There was one assentor to the three candidates, there being only two vacancies.

Mr. Perrin.

According to the requirements of the Act of Parliament, the chairman had to make his objection as a candidate in writing, and also his decision as judge. He declared that one of the nomination papers (Mr. Perrin's), was bad, and there being no objection to the other two, he declared they were duly elected.

3018. Did Mr. Crosthwaite make the objection, and then decide in favour of it?—Yes.

3019. The sum and substance of the matter is, that there being no objection before Mr. Crosthwaite by anyone else, and there being three candidates whose nomination papers could have been equally objected to on the same grounds, Mr. Crosthwaite objects to one of the papers, and decides in favour of his objection. Did he make an objection to the others?—No.

3020. (To Mr. Perrin).—Were you aware of who the person was that objected to your nomination paper?—I was not; and let me tell you further, that I asked Mr. Herron, who had been present, was there any written objection handed in, and was there any evidence as to the priority of the signing of the three by the same assentor, and he said there was not.

3021. Mr. Reilly.—Mr. Perrin was the last candidate.

3022. Mr. EXHAM.—How do you know but the man signed Mr. Perrin's paper before the other two; in which case Mr. Perrin would be the first?

3023. Mr. Perrin.—The Act of Parliament provides a certain hour within which the nomination papers must be sent in, and I am not aware that a nomination paper served one minute before four o'clock, P.M., is worse than one lodged at four o'clock. I was also thrown off my guard by the letter from Mr. Ennis, which I read to you, saying that I was a candidate. There was at this time also a vacancy for the West ward, and the same Mr. Donnevan was also a candidate for it. Mr. Crosthwaite presided at the Board, and they filled up the vacancy in the other ward.

3024. Was that a vacancy occurring by a death?—Yes.

3025. Was Mr. Brazil elected?—Town Clerk.—He died before he was elected, and the other two candidates for the West ward became elected.

3026. The question is whether a vacancy occurring in this way is to be filled up by the members of the Board without the ratepayers having anything to say in the matter.

3027. (To Mr. Perrin).—Do you mean to say that the office vacant by the death of Mr. Brazil was filled up by the members of the Board without going to the ratepayers?—Yes.

3028. Town Clerk.—A candidate having died before he was declared elected the presiding officer declared the other two candidates to be elected. When a candidate is elected for more than one ward it rests with them to select another person, accordingly at their next meeting the Commissioners elected Mr. Donnevan for the West ward, thus creating the vacancy in the East ward. That, according to the opinion of Mr. Monroe, Q.C., created the vacancy. The objection and the decision are set forth in a case to Mr. Walker, Q.C.

3029. Mr. Perrin.—I do not take that opinion. The Act that would enable me to appeal with facility against the decision is not in force in this town, which I think is a very bad thing for the town. I refer to the Local Government Board Act which is not adopted as to the section relating to matters of this sort.

3030. Mr. EXHAM.—If there was no objection by Mr. Crosthwaite or the other gentlemen you must have gone to the poll?—Yes. I also complain that the 43rd sec., 17 and 18 Vic., chap. 103, with respect to the building of houses is not put in force here.

3031. Are plans submitted to the surveyor, as far as you know?—No.

3032. Town Clerk.—Plans of all new buildings are lodged with us.

3033. Mr. EXHAM.—I think it was mentioned that Mr. O'Brien's houses were built without the consent of the Commissioners?—That was only one case.

3034. Mr. Perrin.—In one part of the town there is a wooden affair constructed—a window and shutters and everything of that sort—which is a most dangerous obstruction to the public.

3035. Town Clerk.—We went into the police court with reference to that, and the magistrates refused to decide in our favour.

3036. Mr. LAWLESS.—On what grounds?—That it was high overhead, and we could not prove it to be an obstruction; we did our best.

Mr. JOHN REILLY, Town Commissioner, examined.

Mr. John Reilly.

3037. Mr. LAWLESS.—What is it you wish to say, Mr. Reilly?—Mr. Pallas said yesterday that he never was paid by the ratepayers for the work he did in relation to his plan. It is true he was not paid, but it is also true that he was to be paid a per-centage when the work was done, and he afterwards accepted £160 salary from the Commissioners. They first agreed to pay him a certain sum, and when that was not to his satisfaction they paid him a salary. I also wish to say that Mr. Pallas did not go away because of any quarrel with us, but because he got a better appointment in India than the one he had here.

3038. Was the £166 13*s*. 4*d*., as mentioned in the decree of 16th April, 1869, ever paid?—No; we were never asked for it.

3039. Were not the Town Commissioners named in the decree (you were one of them) liable?—Yes.

Mr. MYLES KELLY, Town Commissioner, examined.

Mr. Myles Kelly.

3040. Mr. LAWLESS.—Do you wish to make any statement?—I wish to say that I attend the meetings of the Board very regularly. I hold that every officer of the Commissioners is bound to carry out his instructions to the letter, and I can say that I was not, previously to this inquiry, aware that these alterations in the sewerage plans had been made by Mr. Doyle, on Sandycove-road and Cross-avenue. I was astonished at several things I have heard for the first time here, and of which I would never have known had this present inquiry not been held. With regard to the sewer in Upper George's-street, I was aware that the proposed work could not be done for the sum mentioned, and I asked Mr. Doyle could he make an alteration in the plan of the sewer of 300 feet long, and he said he could. The work, however is not contracted for yet; there is nothing done, and I believe now we cannot depart, as he proposes, from the plans laid by him before the Local Government Board inspector. With regard to Glenageary-road, I may say that we applied to the Local Government Board, and we thought we had power to make the alterations, but I believe now we cannot make the change which Mr. Doyle proposes. I have made up my mind as a Commissioner that, independent of either Mr. Doyle or Mr. Pallas, there should be an engineer got to see that the work is properly done, and that if this is not done I'll cease to be a Commissioner.

3041. It is very satisfactory to us to hear you, as one of the principal Commissioners, say that.

3042. Mr. Reilly, T.C.—Mr. Kelly has only spoken the feelings of all the members of the Board.

3043. Mr. Barrett (Chairman Town Commissioners) said he fully agreed with what had been said by Mr. Kelly. He further asked leave to call the attention of the Commissioners to the great number of Acts of Parliament in operation in the township. He considered they were so numerous and so complicated that it was difficult to steer through them, for every Town Commissioner could not be expected to be a lawyer. With reference to the auditor's power of surcharging, he said there were general complaints of the injustice of the section of the Act which provides that if the surcharge be confirmed on an appeal to the Court of Queen's Bench by a person who felt himself aggrieved, the auditor gets his costs from the party surcharged; but if the surcharge be illegal, the auditor gets his costs out of the public rate, and the appellant is not allowed any costs. He believed a greater grievance than that could not exist. There was lately a case in the county Wicklow where it occurred.

KINGSTOWN. April 14, 1877.

Mr. Myles Kelly.

3044. Mr. LAWLESS remarked that it would be very hard to make the auditor, who acted in a public capacity, personally liable for costs.

3045. Suggested by Mr. Daniel (to Mr. Barrett).—Was there an application made to the Court of Chancery in the matter of which you were speaking; I mean the repayment of the £166 13*s.* 4*d.* by Mr. Murray?—There was.

3046. By whom was it made?—By the Commissioners—by Mr. Ennis.

3047. Were the costs of it paid out of the rates?

Town Clerk.—I should say our solicitor's costs were paid out of the rates.

3048. Mr. EXHAM.—Why should they be? Why should the ratepayers' fund pay for an application to the Court, which was virtually for the benefit of the then Commissioners named in the decree?—Whatever was done was in connexion with the recovery of that £166 13*s.* 4*d.*

3049. Do you mean from Mr. Murray?—From whoever was liable. We proceeded before the Lord Chancellor to recover it; and on one of the days I was under examination I gave this evidence.

3050. Mr. LAWLESS.—Do you mean to say that the Commissioners as a body, and you as their clerk ——?—My recollection is that the proceedings were taken to recover that sum of money.

3051. From whom?—From the parties liable; from Mr. Murray in the first place.

3052. Was the application made to proceed against Mr. Murray, or against the Commissioners?—The parties named in the decree were made liable. There are very few of them at the Board now.

3053. Mr. Daniel.—It was an application against Mr. Murray by the Commissioners to make him pay, and these costs have been charged out of the rates; but the Commissioners never made the former Commissioners who were named in the decree pay, although they were liable to repay the money if Mr. Murray did not.

3054. Town Clerk.—With reference to the payment of the £1,700 balance of the £3,000 loan, I wish to state that under the terms of the Kingstown Extension Act of 1874, the Commissioners passed a resolution setting forth the various purposes for which they would borrow £1,700, being the balance of the £3,000 for which they had authority to borrow under the above mentioned Act. Amongst other purposes it was to be applied in paying Sharkey's costs, Molloy's costs, and our own solicitor's costs; and in that way we hold that we have complied with the terms of the Act.

May 5, 1877.

MAY 5, 1877.

(Before Commissioners LAWLESS, Q.C., and EXHAM, Q.C.)

Mr. John Lalor.

Mr. JOHN LALOR examined.

3055. Mr. LAWLESS.—Are you solicitor to the Kingstown Town Commissioners?—I am.

3056. What were the costs of obtaining the Provisional Order of the 27th June, 1874, and the Confirmation Act of 22nd April, 1875?—I could not tell you just now, but I shall furnish you with the amount.

3057. Have they been furnished to the Commissioners, and paid out of the rates?—They have.

3058. Does that include what was paid to the Local Government Board?—They have not been paid.

3059. What we want to get is the entire cost to which the township was put in obtaining the Act of the 22nd April, 1875, confirming the Provisional Order of 27th June, 1874, and the expenses connected with the Provisional Order?—There were costs besides my costs; there were the Parliamentary agent's costs.

3060. Have you got the petition sent to the Local Government Board relative to the second Provisional Order?—I have.

3061. I want the original one—the one that was first presented?—We never presented a second petition. We only presented one petition.

3062. We want the petition lodged with the Local Government Board on the 26th of May, 1875?—(Petition produced.)

3063. I see that the Provisional Order sought by this petition is divided into nineteen different heads?—Yes.

3064. Did you propose by this to take compulsory powers for the purchase of lands?—We did.

3065. Had you, in compliance with the Act of 1871, lodged maps and plans in this office or any other place, of the lands you proposed to take?—In 1874, before we presented that petition, we published a resolution and notice, as required by the 132nd section of the 10 & 11 Vic., chap. 34. (Produced resolution as published 11th September, 1874, and the notice confirming said resolution, as required by the 133rd section of the same Act. Notice produced, as published in the Irish Times of the 13th October, 1874, dated the 12th October, 1874, of a meeting of the Commissioners held that day, at which a resolution was passed confirming the resolution of September, 1874, authorizing the application to the Local Government Board for a Provisional Order, to be subsequently confirmed by Parliament, and that latter notice referred to plans laid on the table.)

3066. Were the notices required by the Local Government Act of 1871, the 34 & 35 Vic., c. 109, duly published within the time prescribed by that Act?—Yes.

3067. Mr. Perrin.—I was present at the inquiry, and it was proved that several owners of property proposed to be affected were not served with the notices required by the Act.

3068. Mr. LAWLESS.—Do you say that notices were served upon all the parties mentioned in the schedule?—Yes, and the declaration of the service upon them was lodged with the Local Government Board.

3069. Were notices served upon the persons named in the schedule?—There were.

3070. What answer or intimation did the Town Commissioners receive from the Local Government Board to this petition?—They first acknowledged the receipt of it.

3071. What was the next communication the Commissioners received from the Local Government Board?—The next was forwarding the opinion of Mr. Monahan, Q.C., their advising counsel. First, they acknowledged the receipt of the petition in the ordinary way, next they sent me a letter of the 5th July, 1875, stating it would be necessary to take counsel's opinion before ordering an inquiry.

3072. When was that opinion furnished to you?—It was sent in a letter, bearing date the 16th July, 1875.

3073. Can you give us a copy of Mr. Monahan's opinion?—Yes. (For opinion, see Appendix No. 1, page 117.)

3074. Having received this opinion of counsel, what action did the Kingstown Commissioners take?—They decided on seeking a limited Inquiry.

3075. Do you mean to say that they decided upon accepting the Provisional Order which counsel advised it was within the power of the Local Government Board to make?—Yes.

3076. Under what part of the prayer of the petition did the Commissioners propose to proceed?—They proposed to proceed in reference to sewers Nos. 1, 2, and 3, and certain alterations in their local Acts.

3077. Under what head?—Part 2; we proposed to adopt that part.

3078. Did the Commissioners propose still to apply for compulsory powers for the purchase of the lands?—They then had agreements, and they did not ask for compulsory powers.

3079. Had you got any agreement from any of those persons for the sale of their lands to the Commissioners?—No; we subsequently obtained the consent of the Harbour Commissioners.

3080. Can you refer me to the minute on the Commissioners' book, in which it was proposed to refer that part of the petition to the Local Government Board?—9th November, 1875.

"Resolved,—That application be made through the solicitors to the Local Government Board for an inquiry—as limited by the opinion of Mr. Monahan, Q.C.—for a Provisional Order under the Local Government Acts, 1871 and 1872. Question put and carried unanimously."

3081. Did that inquiry take place?—It did.

3082. By whom was it held?—Mr. O'Brien. It commenced on the 7th February, 1876, and continued for five or six days.

3083. Have you got a copy of the notice published by Mr. O'Brien?—I have. The notice went on to say:—

"And whereas I have been directed to inquire in respect of some of the matters mentioned in the petition. Now therefore I hereby give notice that I will attend at the Kingstown Township Commissioners' Office, No. 114, Lower George's-street, Kingstown, on Monday the 7th of February, 1876, at 11 o'clock, to make inquiry as to the genuineness of the above mentioned petition, and in respect of so many proposals contained therein as relate to the purchase and taking of land for sewerage purposes, and of certain alterations in the Kingstown Improvement Act, 1861, and the Township of Kingstown Act of 1869, when all persons objecting to such proposals or any of them may present to me a statement of their objections in writing. A copy of petition and the plan of the proposed works are deposited at the Kingstown Township Commissioners' Office, No. 114, Lower George's-street, Kingstown, and may be there seen at all reasonable hours.

"WM. P. O'BRIEN, Local Government Inspector.

"Malahide, 18th January, 1876."

3084. At that time had the Kingstown Commissioners the assent of any of those persons named in the schedule?—We had the assent of the Harbour Commissioners, and the Dublin, Wicklow, and Wexford Railway Company.

3085. Had you made arrangements with any other parties?—No. In fact having got the assent of the Harbour Commissioners and the Dublin and Wicklow Railway, we did not want the assent of any one else for sewer No. 1 on the Western Pier; we had the assent of both the Harbour Commissioners and the Railway Company, as to the sewer at the Western Pier; and we had also the assent of the Railway Company as to the sewer No. 2 in the line of railway; so that we did not want any compulsory powers to take any land for sewers Nos. 1 and 2.

3086. Was the principal portion of the inquiry taken up with No. 3 sewer?—The greater portion of it, but Nos. 1 and 2 were also discussed.

3087. How long did it last?—Five or six days.

3088. After the inquiry what was the next step taken? Did the Commissioners receive any further communication from the Local Government Board?—We got a very long letter, dated the 23rd March, 1876. (For letter see Appendix No. 1, page 118).

Mr. EXHAM.—I observe in this opinion Mr. Monahan says:—

"All these objects except the first are outside the scope of a Provisional Order, they either repeat powers which the Petitioners have already under the Sanitary Acts or vary the provisions of Public General Statutes."

Was not the whole of that petition fully answered by that opinion of Mr. Monahan's the moment you admit you did not want compulsory powers to take any land? Why did you go on with the inquiry after that?—With your permission I would refer you to the opinion of Mr. Gerald Fitzgibbon which governed very much the gentlemen who proposed and prepared that petition.

3089. What is the date of that opinion?—September 11, 1873.

3090. Could you let us see a copy of it?—Certainly. At that time we were thinking of going to Parliament, and we obtained the opinion of counsel as to our going to ask for powers under the Local Government Board, and he advised us that we would not be justified in going to Parliament.

3091. At whose expense was this petition printed?—At the expense of the Commissioners. I applied to the Local Government Board and obtained their sanction to the printing of the petition. I think we did wisely as the printing was much cheaper than having to get copies written out.

3092. Was there any further opinion of counsel sent with this letter of March 23, 1876?—No. I would like to call attention to the letter of Mr. Robinson of the 15th December, 1875 (who was to have held the inquiry but he was subsequently appointed Assistant Under Secretary). (For letter from Mr. Lalor to Mr. Robinson, of 14th December, 1875, see Appendix No. 1, page 118.) I asked him whether he would go into evidence, and have his letter to show that we were justified in going into evidence as to the sewers.

"Kingstown, 15th December, 1875.

"DEAR SIR,—In reply to your letter of the 14th instant I beg to inform you that it will be my duty to inquire into the necessity for and the suitability of the sewers to be constructed, and the lands which the Kingstown Commissioners desire to obtain authority to take; and that I will receive any evidence which may be tendered to me upon those points as well as upon the sufficiency of the estimate of the expense.

"Yours faithfully,

"HENRY ROBINSON."

3093. When that letter was received by you from Mr. Robinson, had you obtained the assent of those bodies that you mentioned, that is, the railway company and the Harbour Commissioners?—Yes.

3094. After the inquiry was held, and after you received the long communication of the 23rd March, 1876, what steps were taken by the Kingstown Commissioners in relation to the pending petition before the Local Government Board?—Well, I met Mr. Wodsworth, the assistant secretary, and he told me it would be necessary to have agreements from the Harbour Commissioners and the Kingstown Railway Company. I succeeded in getting an agreement from the Harbour Commissioners instead of having to ask for compulsory powers, and this is the agreement entered into between Colonel John M'Kerlie and the Kingstown Commissioners, giving us the right to construct the sewer at the west pier. The railway company were willing to give us letters assenting, but they would not give us the agreement.

3095. Have you the letters from the railway company?—Yes.

Mr. Lawless reads letter dated Dublin, 2nd December, 1875, to Mr. Ennis:—

"DEAR SIR,—With reference to your letter of the 17th ultimo, I am desired to say that the directors of this company will permit the earthenware sewer pipe to be laid alongside the railway from opposite Haddington-terrace to the Gresham-gardens, on the following conditions, viz.:—That the present outfall sewer should remain as a storm channel; second, that the drains now existing on the line should be permitted to empty into the new sewer; thirdly, that the Kingstown Commissioners should assist the company in procuring a site for a double line whenever the company wish to procure it. Please say if the Commissioners agree to these terms.

"I am, sir, yours truly,

"E. W. MAUNSELL, secretary."

"Dublin, Wicklow, and Wexford Railway Company,
"Secretary's Office, Westland-row, Dublin.

"John Lalor, esq.

"DEAR SIR,—Referring to your letter of 15th instant, I am desired to inform you that the directors of this company will not object to the intended sewer being run through or under the portion of the sea slope occupied by the gentlemen's bathing-place, on the west pier of the Kingstown harbour, provided the work be carried out to the satisfaction of their engineer, and that the Commissioners of the Kingstown township will indemnify the company and their tenant for the bathing-place against any loss or injury during the construction of the work, or consequent thereon.

"I am, sir, your obedient servant,

"E. W. MAUNSELL, secretary."

KINGSTOWN. May 5, 1877.

Mr. John Lalor.

I find, Mr. Lalor, that by these letters assent was given by the company to the Kingstown Commissioners, making the sewers under the line as required?—Yes.

3096. Supposing the conditions expressed in these letters were complied with, was not the necessity for obtaining compulsory powers dispensed with?—Yes; but we could not force them, because it was conditional that we would not seek compulsory powers.

3097. After the time you got this agreement from the Harbour Commissioners and the letters from the railway company you did not, as regards the lands over which they had control, require any compulsory powers?—That was one of my reasons for writing to Mr. Robinson.

3098. His answer is entirely confined to the practicability of the sewers in the places where you required the compulsory powers?—Upon the inquiry there was a discussion as to whether the railway would be the proper place for the sewer, and as to whether the western pier was the proper place.

3099. What was the next step after making the agreement with the Harbour Commissioners, you having at the time the letters from the secretary of the railway company?—I furnished them with the agreement.

3100. The company?—Yes—in the first instance, to allow us to construct the works ourselves.

3101. When you furnished the Kingstown Commissioners with this agreement, was it signed?—No; it was never signed.

3102. What was the next step taken by you before the Local Government Board?—I cannot say—I was furnished with a draft of the Provisional Order.

3103. Was this the first draft furnished by the Local Government Board (referring to a draft produced)?—Yes; the facts are stated, that the Harbour Commissioners and the railway company refused to give us compulsory powers.

3104. Mr. EXHAM.—I do not know what you mean by saying they declined to give you compulsory powers. On the contrary you agreed with them, and then did not want any compulsory powers, so that the reply to your application was simply this:—"With No. 1 and 2 sewers we have nothing to say, because you have already made arrangements with the owners of lands, and therefore do not require any compulsory powers with respect to them, and as to No. 3 we refuse"?—That was the answer after the inquiry was held.

3105. Of course it was, but it was the result of the inquiry. They said, "As to Nos. 1 and 2, inasmuch as you require no authority from us, you having arranged with everyone concerned you don't want a Provisional Order. As regards No. 3, we won't give it to you." That long and very expensive inquiry before Mr. O'Brien, lasting a week, would never have been held with regard to sewer No. 3 alone, which you were refused at once, and the result is a large amount of costs and expenses incurred for nothing.

3106. Mr. LAWLESS.—What was the next communication after the letter of the 23rd March, 1876, that the Commissioners had with the Local Government Board? I find here, that at a meeting on the 13th April, 1877, which appears to have been specially convened for the purposes mentioned in the notice, there was the following resolution passed:—

"Draft of Provisional Order from the Local Government Board was submitted by Mr. Lalor, and read."

I want to see that draft of Provisional Order?—That is another one. (Hands in draft.)

3107. Then after that resolution it is moved, seconded, and resolved—

"That we hereby approve of draft of Provisional Order now read, and that the same be returned to the board's solicitor to be forwarded to the Local Government Board.'

I find by the draft adopted at the meeting on the 13th April, 1877, it was ordered—

"That from and after the time that this order shall take effect, it shall be lawful for the Commissioners to put in force the provisions of the Lands Clauses Acts, with respect to purchase and taking of lands, otherwise than by agreement, with respect to the lands and premises following."

Now I find written under that—

"There are not any other lands in respect of which compulsory powers are sought"?

—That has reference to sewers 1 and 2.

3108. Is it not a fact that at the time that draft and Provisional Order was adopted by the Commissioners, they did not require any compulsory powers?—I got a letter from Messrs. Geale and Dwyer, saying that all reference to sewerage is omitted from the Provisional Order. I had a correspondence on the subject which I intended bringing before the Commissioners, but I did not get a final letter. I wrote the following letter (reads):—

"24, Eustace-street, Dublin,
"21st April, 1877.

"Kingstown Provisional Order.

"DEAR SIRS—I am in receipt of your letter of the 19th instant herein. It is therein stated that all reference to sewerage is omitted. I assume that counsel for the Local Government Board has considered the effect this omission may have upon the agreement entered into between the Commissioners of Public Works and the Commissioners of Kingstown (the original and a copy of which you have). In that agreement, sewer No. 1, and the Provisional Order and intended Act confirming same, are specially referred to. However counsel is the better judge; but as you have apprised me the matter is under consideration of the Local Government Board, I consider it but right to call your attention to the agreement with the Commissioners of Public Works—Sewer No. 1.

"I am, dear sirs, yours truly,
"JOHN LALOR.

"To Messrs. Geale and Dwyer, 18 Talbot-street."

To that I received the following answer:—

"18 Talbot-street, 28th April, 1877.

"Kingstown Provisional Order.

"DEAR SIR—Counsel had before him copy agreement with the Harbour Commissioners, and did not consider it necessary to make it part of the Provisional Order by reciting it in the schedule, as it provides for the execution of a grant by the Harbour Commissioners under seal at some future time.

"Yours truly,
"GEALE & DWYER.

"To John Lalor, esq., 24, Eustace-street."

I again wrote as follows:—

"Dublin, 25th April, 1877.

"Re Kingstown Provisional Order.

"DEAR SIRS—I am in receipt of your letter of the 24th instant. You are quite correct in stating that agreement with the Kingstown Harbour Commissioners provides for the execution of a grant by them; but if you refer to the last condition in the sealed agreement you will find that the execution of that grant is conditional upon the confirmation of the Provisional Order. I therefore consider it is most important that the agreement with the Harbour Commissioners should be made part of the Provisional Order, either by reference therein, or by schedule, or by such other mode as counsel shall consider best. My parliamentary agent tells me there are two or three more orders not yet forthcoming, and that the order herein will have to run with them, and become the subject of another bill, to be introduced in the Commons.

"I am, dear sirs, yours truly,
"JOHN LALOR.

"To Messrs. Geale and Dwyer, 18 Talbot-street."

3109. Did the Commissioners, in accordance with the resolution which was read, send you the draft of the Provisional Order, and did you forward it to the Local Government Board?—Yes.

3110. Mr. EXHAM.—You had an agreement with the Board of Works, and in case you had no agreement with the other parties you would have taken compulsory powers, but you had an agreement?—The agreements were to form part and parcel of the order, but they were omitted. They were to be confirmed by Act of Parliament.

3111. Notwithstanding that in your agreement with the Harbour Commissioners you contemplated confirmation by Act of Parliament, the Local Government Board state that inasmuch as you do not want compulsory powers, having an agreement, they would not make a Provisional Order?—We wanted the powers to be included in case the Town Commissioners should succeed in obtaining an Act of Parliament. The Harbour Commissioners may permit the agreement to remain in full force till the next session.

3112. Mr. LAWLESS.—You knew that the Local Government Board did not intend to give you any order for sewers Nos. 1 and 2, and the Commissioners did not go into any evidence on the point?—They did, indeed. Mr. Doyle was examined with reference to sewer No. 2. Every professional gentleman was examined with reference to 1 and 2.

3113. At all events the fact is that sewers 1 and 2 were rejected?—They were omitted.

3114. Surely they were rejected and not confirmed by an order?—No order was obtained.

3115. Did you get any reply yet to your letter of the 25th April to Messrs. Geale and Dwyer?—No.

3116. Have you had any communication from the Local Government Board since that letter was written?

Town Clerk.—The Town Commissioners did. (Hands in letter.)

3117. Mr. LAWLESS (reads letter).—Local Government Board; 2nd May, 1877:—

"To the Chairman of the Kingstown Commissioners.

"SIR,—Referring to previous correspondence on the subject, the Local Government Board for Ireland desire to state for the information of the Town Commissioners of Kingstown, that the Board have received a communication from their solicitors, Messrs. Geale and Dwyer, from which it appears that it has been finally decided after repeated communications with Mr. Lalor that there are not any lands required to be taken by the Commissioners for the purpose of making the proposed intercepting outfall sewers, called No. 1 and No. 2, in the petition of the Town Commissioners of the 25th May, 1875, and that that portion of the petition has therefore entirely failed. The object of the Town Commissioners as they are aware, was to obtain powers over certain lands said to be necessary for their purposes; to make agreements with the Kingstown Harbour Commissioners, and the Dublin, Wicklow, and Wexford Railway Company respectively; to obtain the Local Government Board's recommendation of a loan which they sought to procure from the Public Works Commissioners under the 43rd section of the Public Health Act of 1874, after the issue of a Provisional Order; and some minor matters were embraced in the petition. Inasmuch as no lands are required to be taken for sewerage works there is no case made for the issuing of a Provisional Order in that behalf, and Counsel advises that no Provisional Order whatever can be made with respect to the sewerage, and observes that the consequence is that the greater portion of the inquiry which has been held, turns out to be useless. What remains of the proposed Provisional Order, relates only to some not very important matters with one exception. This exception is the powers sought for by the Town Commissioners to divert the road rate which they are empowered to make under the Acts of 1861 and 1874, from the purposes intended and authorized by those Acts, and to apply the road rate to the general purposes of the township, to the asphalting of pathways or footways, &c. It appears that Mr. Ennis, town clerk, was the witness who was tendered at the inquiry which was held by the Local Government Board's Inspector, Mr. O'Brien, in support of this proposition to divert the road rate from its authorized purpose. In answer to a question—'whether it was necessary to amend the Road Act of 1861, for the advantage of the township and for the due application of the rates for the purposes of asphalting, such as he described,' Mr. Ennis stated that—'he thought it would be a desirable amendment, and that his Board were desirous of having the amendment made.' This seems to be the only evidence put forward in support of this proposition, and no grounds other than this expression of opinion were adduced by Mr. Ennis, but it will be seen by reference to section 3 of the Act of 1861, and again by the more recent legislation in the Act of 1874, that the word 'road' includes 'street, footpath, square, &c., or public passage within the limits of the Act.' It thus appears that the Town Commissioners have at present the powers in regard to footpaths which they sought to obtain in their petition, and that no new power in that respect is required. The remaining purposes of the Provisional Order sought for, are hardly such as to call separately for legislative enactments, and the Local Government Board do not propose therefore at present to issue a Provisional Order in the case.

"By order of the Board,

"B. BANKS, Secretary."

That is a refusal by the Local Government Board to issue any order?—At present we did not seek to alter the road rate, because that was one of the uses to which it was to be applied, but we wanted to apply it generally.

3118. Mr. EXHAM.—Mr. O'Brien says you have no power to apply it to sewers. The road rate at the present moment, if properly applied, would exhaust itself, and if you apply it to making sewers, what is to become of the roads? Do you think the Local Government Board would alter the Act of Parliament in that respect?—They have proposed in the draft provisional order to give us the power we asked for.

3119. Did they give it to you in the order as originally proposed?—No; in the very last one furnished.

3120. When was that order furnished by the Local Government Board?—Some time in April.

3121. When that draft order went back, the Local Government Board, in effect, say this:—"No lands which you want in relation to Nos. 1 and 2 sewers require compulsory powers. Sewer No. 3 we have decided against. The rest of the matters in your petition should not have been asked for in such a petition, if at all; therefore, we will give you no order."

3122. Mr. LAWLESS.—Was the letter of 2nd May, 1877, laid before the Kingstown Commissioners?—Town Clerk.—It could not be laid before the Board yet; it will be read at the next meeting.

3123. Mr. LAWLESS (to Witness).—Have you any idea what the costs of all this matter will amount to?—I have not, but we contend that we are entitled to get the costs.

3124. Have any portion of the costs been paid?—I have been paid my costs.

3125. I mean of the petition presented in May, 1875?—I could not do without my costs.

3126. Mr. EXHAM.—You did quite right; we speak with reference to paying the costs out of the rates—that's all we are here for, to see how the rates are expended. Have any portion of the costs been paid out of the rates?—Yes.

3127. Can you tell us the amount of costs paid to you, with reference to this matter. If I don't mistake there was a bill of £68 costs, which some of the ratepayers had to pay for opposing?—Mr. Perrin.—There was.

3128. Mr. EXHAM (to Town Clerk).—Can you state the amount of costs which have been paid out of the rates, with respect to this provisional order, up to the present time?—I will take a note of your question and send you the particulars.

3129. The improvement rate shows an apparent surplus of £36; but £36 would not pay even the costs of the Local Government Board in holding the inquiry. Has any portion of the Local Government Board expenses been paid?—Not yet.

3130. Do you know what they will amount to?—No.

3131. Mr. M'Evoy.—I objected to the payment of some of these costs. Mr. Finlay ruled with me, but the Local Government Board set aside his decision, and allowed the costs.

3132. Town Clerk.—The question has been decided by the Local Government Board that the costs must be paid out of the rates.

3133. Mr. EXHAM (to Town Clerk).—When was the matter discussed before Mr. Finlay?—On the accounts of 1875.

3134. At that time was it not still considered that the Commissioners required to go on, and get compulsory powers?—Yes.

3135. The Local Government Board may have advised Mr. Finlay quite correctly at the time. The case as it stood then, or was supposed to stand, was that it was necessary to present the petition, because compulsory powers were required to be obtained. The advice may have been quite right on that supposition. After that, however, the Commissioners make the necessary agreements with the parties concerned, and compulsory powers were no longer required. The Commissioners, however, persist in having the inquiry held, and heavy costs are incurred thereby. The matter ends by the Local Government Board saying in effect: "You have failed in sustaining your petition; there is no necessity shown for our granting any part of your application; it is not required, and therefore we decline to grant it." After this, do you say that all the costs and expenses of this inquiry should be paid for by the ratepayers?—We do.

Kingstown
May 5, 1877.

Mr. John Lalor.

3136. Mr. Lawless.—It was only in the month of April, 1877, that the Local Government Board were informed of the fact that there were really no lands with reference to which compulsory powers were required to be obtained. At this time, however, all the expenses had been incurred, and you left them under the impression that compulsory powers were required.

(The inquiry then terminated.)

After the inquiry had terminated it appeared that the shorthand writer had not taken down some evidence given by Mr. Brady, Mr. Duff, and others, with reference to the construction by Mr. Doyle of a sewer in George's-street, in the year 1873, in consequence of which Mr. Exham was obliged to attend in Kingstown on the 29th June, ultimo, when the following evidence was given:—

June 29, 1877.

June 29, 1877.

(Before Mr. Exham.)

Mr. Brady recalled.

Mr. Brady.

3137. Do you recollect the making of the new sewer in Upper George's-street, in 1873?—Yes.

3138. Is that the sewer in relation to which Mr. Doyle stated that Mr. M'Evoy had employed you as a spy upon him?—Yes.

3139. Is that the sewer in reference to which he said he would bring the police to put you out of it?—The same.

3140. Were you employed by Mr. M'Evoy to look after that sewer?—No.

3141. Was it as a ratepayer you looked after it?—Yes, sir, that is all.

3142. What is your valuation?—£12 10*s.*

3143. Did you go to look at the sewer while it was being constructed?—I saw portion that had been built with the fall in the wrong direction.

3144. You say you perceived when the sewer was being made, that it was getting a wrong fall?—Some thirty yards of the inside walls were built, and I saw a dam a few feet from the junction, and the water stood there against the dam about eight inches deep, and I then knew it was being made with the fall in a wrong direction.

3145. Was the effect of this dam to prevent the water following the workmen?—Yes, to prevent its going in the wrong direction after the workmen. In fact the water was going from the outfall against the hill.

3146. Had you any conversation in reference to that with Mr. Doyle?—No; first I mentioned it to Mr. M'Evoy.

3147. Had Mr. Doyle spoken to you about it before?—No.

3148. When did the matter about the police occur?—After he heard I had mentioned it to Mr. M'Evoy.

3149. In consequence of your mentioning it to Mr. M'Evoy was there an appointment made by him to go there and examine it?—Mr. M'Evoy said he and Mr. Kelly would meet me there at a certain hour.

3150. Did you go there?—I did.

3151. Was it then that the conversation took place about Mr. Doyle?—Mr. M'Evoy arrived at the time appointed. Mr. Kelly did not arrive at that time. I pointed out what I thought wrong to Mr. M'Evoy, who said he would take immediate steps and would have the levels tested before the work should proceed further. He then left and told me to wait for Mr. Kelly. Mr. Kelly arrived and looked for Mr. M'Evoy. I told him he was gone, and he asked me to point out what I considered wrong. I showed him the dam to retain the water.

3152. Was there a pipe there?—No, not at that time. I told him my belief was if the dam was removed that the water would follow the workmen. I suggested to him to have the dam removed. Mr. Kelly went down a ladder into the sewer. He directed a man to break the dam, and the water from the Mulgrave sewer rushed in on Mr. Kelly, who came up the ladder and made use of a very forcible exclamation.

3153. Did you yourself actually see the stuff coming down the drain?—I did; and Mr. Kelly saw it run the workmen out and suspend the building operations for that day.

3154. Was the whole of the stuff running in that direction, or only partially so?—It all went in that direction until it reached a certain level.

3155. Can you say now what height of water or stuff there was?—I could judge about ten inches.

3156. Did Mr. Kelly go away then?—He did. There was a special meeting called of the Commissioners.

3157. Were you present?—I was not present; but it was convened by requisition to consider that matter.

3158. Did you make any report yourself to the Commissioners on the subject?—No, I considered what I did was sufficient.

3159. What was done with the sewer afterwards?—It is still in the condition it was in then. I was told a special meeting was called, and that Mr. M'Evoy called for an engineer to test the level.

3160. Is there any resolution on the books in 1873 with regard to this sewer in George's-street?—Mr. Ennis.—No, it was dealt with at the time; there was nothing done subsequently.

3161. Was there a notice of motion on the subject?—I will see (referring to minutes). There is a report of the surveyor when he handed in a detailed estimate of the cost of the Upper George's-street sewer, and I transferred that to the ledger, which can be seen.

3162. What was the next thing?—Witness.—The next thing was that I understood a committee had been appointed by that Board to inspect the work. I heard that. I looked round there on the day of the inspection, and I saw the head ganger place a metal pipe in the sewer to conduct the water of Mulgrave-street sewer into the old sewer in George's-street, which led to the Fortyfoot-road sewer. It was on that occasion Mr. Doyle called the police to have me removed. I saw that pipe put in, and I saw the sewer cleaned up as clean as that desk. Mr. Buckley's sewer was made quite dry. It was an open arch.

3163. What became then of the sewage of George's-street?—One end of that pipe was inserted in George's-street and the other in Mulgrave-street. The pipe was staunched at both ends with clay. In 1867 I made a record of the drainage under Mr. Pallas.

3164. What was that new sewer made for?—I presume to drain the houses on the north side of the street.

3165. Have they been drained into it, do you know?—Certainly not. The sewer acts for the houses on the upper side now, but it did not at the time you speak of.

3166. If it acts for the houses now, where does it go now?—Some portion of the sewer was cleaned up for the inspection. The sewage was forced in the natural direction, but it otherwise would not have gone that way.

3167. Having heard there was a committee of inspection, you say the pipe was put in for the purpose of carrying away this drainage which would have gone in the wrong direction if allowed?—Yes, and when Mr. Kelly saw it the sewer was cleared up.

3168. Did any committee come to inspect it?—Yes; Mr. Kelly came. Mr. Daniel Sexton was the other Commissioner, and Mr. Brazil the third. I heard Mr. Kelly say to the other two, "There is no water there; it is all right." I explained that the metal pipe was put there to carry the water in another direction. I requested to have it removed.

3169. Was that done?—No; Mr. Kelly told me they did not consult me, that I had not been asked for any advice on the point.

3170. Do you know how long that pipe remained there?—Until after the inspection of the committee and then the dam was allowed to remain and do its work from that to the end of the sewer at Buckley's.

3171. (Pointing to map). Is that what you represent as the dam there?—Yes, of course the pipe was removed.

3172. Mr. Kelly.—It is not there now.

Witness.—No, I should say not.

3173. Mr. EXHAM.—Is there any dam in it now?—No, decidedly not.

3174. Can you say at what height should it rise at Mr. Buckley's end before it goes in the direction which is intended?—I should say the difference of true level would be eight inches, and I will give you my reason for that: the water indicates the level, and it was then only four inches at the outfall, and twelve at the end, which is supposed to be the highest point, and that is so still at the end of the sewer opposite Mr. Buckley's.

3175. And is Mr. Buckley's house connected with that sewer?—Yes, and all Northumberland-avenue; it falls into the end of it.

3176. According to that there is always twelve inches of deposit there?—There are twelve now; that has been opened since you were here before.

3177. Was it opened up the whole way?—The two ends were opened.

3178. What was found at the Mulgrave-street end?—Four inches at the outfall of it there.

3179. Was it the day that the committee, as you call them, came to inspect, that Mr. Doyle applied to the police to take you into custody?—Yes. While waiting for the inspection the policeman asked me my business; I said I was there as a ratepayer; he said he could not interfere with me, unless I interfered with the works.

3180. Suggested by Mr. Kelly (to Witness).—In what manner can you be a skilled witness to decide in reference to the sewers or levels of the township of Kingstown?—I was a good while at that kind of work.

3181. At the construction of sewers?— Yes. I made a record of sewers as they existed in 1867 under Mr. Palles, and the Commissioners paid me for five months for that duty. I took the level of certain sewers, and that is how I knew the level of that sewer.

3182. Suggested by Mr. Kelly.—When Mr. Palles was making the sewers of Kingstown, were you handed over as an intelligent man to assist him in making the level of the sewers?—I was; I did that. There were three or four men went over them.

3183. Is your business not that of a pavier?—Yes.

3184. Did you do your business as a pavier under Mr. Doyle, and then you have turned an asphalte layer?—No.

3185. As an engineer you don't pretend to be a skilled witness?—I never stultify my senses.

3186. If a flow of water comes down Mulgrave-street by the sewer, will it divide in the two drains, and run both ways?—No; not according to the construction of the sewer there.

3187. Did Mr. Kelly run up the ladder?—Yes.

Mr. Kelly.—And I would do the same again.

3188. When the sewer was making from Mulgrave-street to Mr. Buckley's, was not the pipe inserted in that way?—Yes.

3189. Was not that pipe kept there and dammed up until the sewer at Buckley's was finished?—No, nor for forty-eight hours.

3190. Mr. Kelly.—That is all nonsense?—If you did you would never get it out of it. I could give you a reason on the diagram there why you could not.

3191. Mr. Kelly.—I saw the water there. There was a pipe laid for the purpose of carrying off the sewage of Mulgrave-street until it was stopped; as soon as the flow of water came down and struck on the sewer, it divided in both ways.

3192. (Suggested by Mr. Kelly).—What was the size of the sewer?—Three feet high by two feet at the spring of the arch—a brick arch.

3193. Mr. EXHAM.—Was that from George's-street up Mulgrave-street?—Yes.

3194. What was the size from Buckley's to Mulgrave-street?—The same.

3195. Is there much fall down Mulgrave-street?—A very great fall.

3196. Mr. EXHAM (to Mr. Doyle).—Do you wish now to give any explanation on this matter? When we were here last we invited you to give any explanation you pleased, but you declined doing so?—I did, because I was so perfectly disgusted with the persons that you chose to examine; I thought you would take a higher standing.

3197. That is for us, Mr. Doyle. When giving evidence, the peasant and the peer are, under the law, all alike, so long as they give true evidence.

3198. Mr. M'Evoy.—If it is not on the minutes—I can't find it on the minutes—but my recollection is distinct that after what occurred I moved to have a skilled person appointed to examine these sewers, and I was out-voted.

3199. Mr. Kelly (to Mr. M'Evoy).—Is that your recollection?—Yes.

3200. Mr. Kelly.—According to my recollection nothing of that kind took place, because I would always go in for a skilled person.

3201. Mr. Ennis (Town Clerk).—I have referred to my minutes for what Mr. M'Evoy asked, and I could'nt find it, and I am looking again to my minutes for it. I find that the construction of the Upper George's-street sewer was to be carried out by a committee, and on September 23rd, 1873, I find on the minutes that the town surveyor stated to the committee there was a fall of one foot on the road from Mr. Buckley's corner to Mulgrave-street, and that he had ascertained that level on the 22nd June last. He further reported—

"That the Upper George's-street sewer is eleven feet in depth, and from the invert to the surface of the road is eleven feet, being the same as that of the sewer from the Royal Marine-road to Mulgrave-street; that there is five inches of water from the proposed junction of the sewer to Mulgrave-street. This is caused by the sand running down Mulgrave-street sewer choking the sewer."

Well, then he has a long report on the subject. It was then moved:—

"That the man-hole on the Royal Marine-road be opened to find the obstruction in the main sewer; that the brickwork of the new sewer be built half way, but the arch not to be made so that the level will be more than the flow of water therein; that the junction of the sewer be not made until the obstruction now existing be removed, and also that of the new sewer drain, Upper George's-street; that the new sewer be accurately shown on the map by the surveyor; that the chairman, the mover, and the seconder of this resolution do attend next Wednesday, at eleven A.M., on this matter."

The surveyor also stated that it is not Mr. Pallas's, but his own plans that he is carrying out, which will drain the houses on both sides of the street.

"At the following meeting, in October, Mr. M'Evoy, the chairman, reported he had examined the sewer in Upper George's-street that day, and his suggestion was adopted that all man-holes of sewers be indicated by a mark; and then directions were given to the surveyor to examine the main sewer at or near Cod's-lane, to find the obstruction there and have it removed, a man-hole to be built at the spot, the work to be done under the inspection of the chairman at eleven o'clock, on Wednesday, A.M."

3202. Suggested by Mr. Kelly.—Mr. Brady, was there a stone in that sewer?—No.

3203. Was there a rock?—My suggestion was that Mr. Doyle did not commence that sewerage on any fixed plan, or in reference to what he had to do in the following year; that he did not keep near enough to the Forty-foot-road, and that he did not drain George's-street sufficiently in this direction. I say further now that the fall is the reverse of the crossing at Mr. Hearne's door to Mulgrave-street.

KINGSTOWN
June 29, 1877.

Mr. Duff.

Mr. DUFF recalled.

3204. Were you the man employed to make that sewer in 1873?—Yes; but since you gentlemen were here, I am led the life of a greyhound. I am called a "villain" and "a two-faced blackguard."

3205. By whom?—By Mr. Doyle. I assure you I was called so; and the world knows how I made my property.

3206. Are you still in the employment of the Commissioners?—Yes.

3207. Do you recollect the time that sewer was made?—Yes.

3208. Was it you made it?—Yes.

3209. Did you make it at the level pointed out by Mr. Doyle?—Quite so.

3210. Was that sewer made at a right or wrong level?—A wrong level.

3211. Were you directed to put a dam across that sewer?—I was.

3212. Who directed you?—Mr. Doyle.

3213. For what purpose?—To hinder the water going after the men.

3214. Was it going the wrong way?—It was going the wrong way.

3215. Was that the sewage stuff that came down Mulgrave-street?—Yes.

3216. Were you present the day Mr. Kelly went down the ladder?—I was on the ground over the hole, when he was higher up. I saw the dam knocked away after he came up—very shortly after.

3217. Did the water come on Mr. Kelly when he was down?—Yes; but higher up there was a dam.

3218. When Mr. Kelly went down into the sewer, was the sewer dry?—Yes.

3219. Did you see the water come in while Mr. Kelly was there?—Yes.

3220. How did the water come?—By the knocking away of the dam.

3221. Did you, after that, receive any direction about putting a pipe in?—The pipe was there, but we took it away until the work was nearly completed.

3222. I am talking of the first day. Was the pipe in the first day?—I think not, sir.

3223. Who put in that pipe?—I did, by Mr. Doyle's directions. I suggested to him to do so.

3224. For what purpose?—To prevent the water following the men, as it was running the wrong way; and I was told to mind my own business.

3225. Did you ever speak to Mr. Doyle about the levels?—I did. I told him the water was following us, and he said—"You mind your own business; you're only a servant."

3226. Can you tell me what is the difference of the levels between Mr. Buckley's end of George's-street and the sewer at the corner of Mulgrave-street?—There is at present about four inches of water or thereabouts, more or less, at Mulgrave-street; while at Buckley's end there is twelve inches, according to this twelve-inch rule which went down on the invert. The water just came above the brass end of the rule.

3227. Is there then a difference of eight inches the wrong way?—Quite so.

3228. Mr. Henry.—I would ask you to ask Mr. Duff was he tried before this Board; because the Board tried him since you were here, and found him to be in error.

Witness.—That is so. I was tried behind my back and found "guilty" by this Board.

3229. Mr. EXHAM.—Do you say that since we were here and examined you about this sewer, the evidence you gave before us was investigated by the Board?—No; and I am persecuted.

3230. Mr. Kelly.—That is not true at all.

3231. Mr. Ennis.—How it occurred was this:—At the monthly meeting in May, the town surveyor brought up a statement that on the examination of certain works, Duff had been guilty of insubordinate conduct, and the Commissioners thought Duff should apologise to him for his conduct.

3232. Mr. EXHAM.—Did they ask Duff for an explanation?

Witness Duff.—I was tried behind my back.

3233. Mr. Reilly (Town Commissioner).—We thought Mr. Doyle should not be annoyed, and we asked Duff to apologise.

3234. Mr. Kelly.—I said at the monthly meeting Duff should get a hearing.

3235. Mr. Ennis.—This was with reference to something occurred between Mr. Duff and Mr. Doyle in the month of May last.

3236. Mr. EXHAM.—I can't go into that at all. (To Witness).—Tell me; did Mr. Doyle give you the levels of the sewer?—Yes, sir; it was Mr. Doyle.

3237. (To Mr. Kelly).—Do you wish to give any evidence about this sewer?—No; I must tell you that Doyle never had such an enemy amongst the Commissioners as I am; because there never was a day that I had not something to say against him.

Mr. Frederick Barnes.

Mr. FREDERICK BARNES examined.

3238. Are you engineer to the Blackrock township?—I am.

3239. Do you know anything about this sewer?—Mr. Doyle asked me to come out, and I brought out the level and staff, and Mr. Duff held the level in the different man-holes from point to point, and it was within an eighth of an inch from point to point. I asked Dr. Roche to read the levels with me, and we compared notes, and there was not an inch wrong. I can understand when a cross sewer comes down that the sewage coming down would naturally sink below the level. In this case they should dam up the body of water to prevent it flowing in. There was no such thing as the water being so high at Buckley's corner.

3240. The Witness Duff.—There was twelve inches of water.

3241. Suggested by Mr. Kelly.—Mr. Barnes, you are an engineer?—Yes.

3242. And as an engineer, do you state that they are perfectly proper levels?—I state the levels are perfectly correct, and I made Dr. Roche correct them. I think the fall was, from point to point, a foot.

3243. The intention was to carry the sewage from Mulgrave-street to the Fortyfoot-road. What would you say, if there was a dam across the George's-street end of the sewer near Mulgrave-street, and the sewer was perfectly dry, and that afterwards upon the removal of the dam a body of sewage matter entered it coming from the Mulgrave-street sewer and flowed in the direction of Mr. Buckley's end of the sewer?—Well, I won't say exactly what occurred at that time; but they had naturally to prevent the water following when they were carrying out these works. It would not, however, affect it after the works were completed. The levels are perfectly correct now; but when I find (as I have in several parts of the township) the sewers are not properly trapped, a quantity of debris may fall down and there may be a dam formed which will stop the flow of the sewage. The sewers must be properly trapped to make all right.

3244. Mr. EXHAM.—Is the sewer in question not properly trapped?—It is not. The upper sewers are not properly trapped.

3245. If there is twelve inches of liquid deposit in the sewer at Buckley's end, and four inches at the Mulgrave-street end, what would be the result?—Well, what I would say is, that I account for it by a quantity of debris coming back and stopping the back stuff there. I took the levels of the sewer when the man-holes were open; there is not an eighth of an inch wrong in the levels of the sewer as now constructed.

3246. The Witness Duff.—At Buckley's end of that sewer, where it comes down Northumberland-avenue, there is a slant to throw the mud, and water, and stuff away; and there is at this moment three or four inches of water up in that pipe that should serve for Mr. Long's house and all the houses I connected with this pipe.

3247. Mr. Kelly.—They all have sewers at the rere of their houses.

3248. Mr. EXHAM.—Is that new sewer capable of draining all the houses in George's-street from its level?—Witness Duff.—If it emptied itself it is capable of draining what is going in, but no more.

3249. But is it from its level capable of draining all the houses from both sides of the street?—No, it is not. I should also tell you that under the crossing of the Fortyfoot-road, it should be two feet or two feet six lower to drain Mr. Buckley's sewer.

3250. Suggested by Mr. Kelly.—Do you say that from Mr. Redmond's to Mr. Manley's shop the houses have not drains?—No.

3251. Have not all those houses a sewer in the rere, which goes out through Redmond's-lane, and goes into the main sewer?—Quite so.

3252. Mr. EXHAM.—Mr. Barnes tells me you did not want to make that sewer at all.

3253. The Witness Duff.—Ask Mr. Doyle what is the square of that sewer at each end, because it is only a small square.

3254. Mr. EXHAM (to Mr. Doyle).—What is the square of it?—Well, it is either one foot ten or one foot eleven.

3255. Mr. EXHAM.—Is that the sewer Mr. Barnes said should have been made three feet by two?—Yes.

Mr. DOYLE recalled.

Mr. Doyle.

3256. Mr. Doyle.—I now wish to give you an explanation. The level is perfectly right. You can understand the sewage from Mulgrave-street with a rush of water coming down. When we open a sewer here we have to expect a rush of water. The level up to Mr. Buckley's corner is six inches. The level of the sewer at this point is about eleven feet; it is deep enough to drain the houses on both sides. At the present moment Mr. Buckley complains of the sewer running up Northumberland-avenue, opposite his sitting-room. It is this very sewer. It is built of old rubble; and this is the sewer he complains of.

3257. Mr. EXHAM.—But Mr. Buckley's complaint was this—He had expended some twenty odd pounds in connecting with the new sewer?—He did expend that money in connecting with the new sewer.

3258. His complaint is—"notwithstanding that expenditure on the new sewer, I am inundated"?—No, he complained he had to expend £17 in remedying that.

3259. You hear what Duff and Brady state—that there is twelve inches of fluid deposit in the sewer at Buckley's end, and four inches at Mulgrave-street end? Can you say or not is that the case?—I took the levels myself; but I want to tell you, from Mr. Buckley's corner to the Fortyfoot-road there is two feet of a fall. During the time we were working in this sewer there was a rumour that there was a rock in the middle of it. I opened it and levelled it, and we took away pounds of silt that came down from Mulgrave-street.

3260. Is the deposit there again?—Not at all, sir; it is clear. We had a rush of water, but the moment we got this completed we sent in men and had it all cleared off.

3261. Mr. Kelly.—The question is this:—If there is twelve inches at Buckley's end and four inches at the other, and there are so many inches somewhere else? Here are Dr. Roche and Mr. Barnes who tried it, and made this man (Duff) hold the staff.

Dr. ROCHE examined.

Dr. Roche.

3262. Mr. EXHAM.—Can you solve this difficulty, Dr. Roche? They say if you put the rod in at the man-hole at Buckley's end, in the centre of the sewer, you find twelve inches marked on the rod; and if you go to the other end there are four inches marked on the rod?—The facts are such, but the explanation will not follow.

3263. But is that the fact?—It is. I took it as eleven inches. I took it myself; and the difference between the places is about eighty-four yards, I think, but it does not follow that Buckley's end will be lower than the other end. My report, or rather my letter, on the subject was to this effect:—I think it would have been a much more efficient sewer, if that end at Buckley's had not been made so low, and that it would have been much more efficient if it had been three feet higher. The day I saw it, the water was coming down with a tremendous velocity. I say the sewer at present is efficient, and the fact that this end is eight inches lower than that is explainable by circumstances. Running water does not run according to a horizontal surface, and therefore it may not run as deep at one place as at another.

3264. Mr. EXHAM (to Mr. Lalor).—Is it not the case, Mr. Lalor, that since we were here last the Local Government Board have refused the petition for a Provisional Order?—Mr. Lalor.—No.

3265. Mr. Kelly.—They have not. They have refused us in this way:—We don't require a Provisional Order for No. 1 sewer.

3266. Have they not refused you Nos. 1, 2, and 3?—No; they say as we have Nos. 1 and 2 by agreement, "you don't require a Provisional Order." In consequence of No. 3 sewer being thrown out, Mr. Doyle had to make an alteration in the internal sewerage. They threw out No. 3 sewer long ago.

This closed the Inquiry.

Since the Inquiry closed Mr. Ennis (Town Clerk) forwarded to us a report on the sewerage, presented by Mr. Doyle to his Board on the 22nd May, 1877, with a request that we put it on our notes, which we do. (See Appendix No. 1, page 117.)

Mr. Lalor, Solicitor to the Commissioners, also sent us a statement as a supplement to his evidence, with a like request, which we thought it right to comply with as he is the solicitor for the Commissioners and acting in their behalf. For statement see Appendix No. 1, page 118.

DALKEY.
April 9, 1877.

DALKEY.—APRIL 9, 1877.

(Before Mr. Commissioner LAWLESS, Q.C., and Mr. Commissioner EXHAM, Q.C.)

Mr. Hugh O'Neill.

Mr. HUGH O'NEILL examined.

1. Mr. LAWLESS.—Are you the town clerk?—Yes.

2. Is the township under the Towns Improvement Act of 1854?—Yes.

3. When was that Act adopted in Dalkey?—On the 26th August, 1863.

4. How many Commissioners were there then?—Twelve.

5. Does the number still continue the same?—Yes.

6. Is that number now full?—Yes.

7. Do they all possess the qualification required by the Act of 1854?—Yes.

8. Was there not another Act obtained in 1867—the 30 and 31 Vic., chap. 134?—Yes.

9. I see that by the provisions of that Act the Town Commissioners were incorporated, and powers were given to them to appoint certain officers, and to make rates, borrow money, and levy tolls?—Yes.

10. What is the extent of the municipal area?—572 acres.

11. What is the valuation?—The valuation for the present year is £12,534. It was £12,246 15*s.* last year, so that you see it has been improving.

12. What is the population of Dalkey?—In 1871 it was 2,084. On the 31st August, 1875, I took the census myself, and I found there were 1,083 persons more.

13. That would make the population 3,167?—Yes; in August, 1875. I did not take the census last year.

14. Under the provisions of the Public Health Act, 1874, I think the Town Commissioners here act as the urban sanitary authority?—Yes; they do.

15. Though the population of the township is under 6,000?—Yes.

16. Do the Town Commissioners possess any property besides this town hall?—They own a bathing place that they paid £350 for; that is the only property.

17. When did they purchase the bathing place?—On the 18th March, 1870.

18. For how much?—£350; they hold in fee-simple.

19. Do you pay any rent for it now?—No.

20. Do the Town Commissioners derive any income from that bathing place?—No; it is open for the use of the public.

21. How long is this building (the town hall) vested in the Commissioners?—They have a lease of it for 150 years.

22. From whom?—From Mr. Porter; the Commissioners pay £15 a year for the town hall and the garden at the back of it. It was, as you see, an old castle, and the Commissioners took the lease of it, and got it put into repair.

23. When did they take this building and fit it up as a town hall?—It was fitted up before I came here.

24. Did they pay anything for the lease?—Yes, they paid £150 for it. They have the garden at the back set at the yearly rent of £6.

25. Does that garden represent the only property that the Commissioners receive rent from?—That is the only property they receive any rent from.

26. I perceive that your financial year ends on the 31st December in each year?—Yes.

27. What rates have the Commissioners levied for the last year?—They levied four rates last year; a rate of 1*s.* 5*d.* in the pound under the 42nd section of the Dalkey Township Act of 1867.

28. Did the Commissioners in 1863 adopt the Act of 1854 in its entirety?—No; only for the purposes of lighting.

29. Have they levied that township rate for some years?—Yes; but the amount of the rate was not always the same. In 1874 and 1875 it was 1*s.* 4*d.* in the pound, and it will be the same this year, I think.

30. Do you prepare an estimate of the probable expenditure required for the year?—Yes; and we strike the rates accordingly.

31. What other rates do the Commissioners levy?—A sinking fund special rate of 1*s.* 2*d.* last year.

32. Under what Act did they levy it?—Under the 51st section of the Dalkey Township Act.

33. Is that rate fixed by the Commissioners in their estimate with reference to their liabilities for payment of sinking fund and interest?—It is.

34. Do the Commissioners levy any other rate?—Yes, a water rate; last year it was 4½*d.*, and the year before it was 5*d.* in the pound. They levy that rate under the 43rd section of the Act of 1867.

35. How is the water supplied?—By the Corporation of Dublin, at 4*d.* in the pound.

36. Do you pay that for the supply of Vartry water?—Yes.

37. Do the Commissioners levy any other rate?—Yes; a sewer rate, last year it was 6*d.* in the pound.

38. Is that a general sewer rate?—Yes.

39. Under what Act is it levied?—Under the Sanitary Act of 1874.

40. Do the Commissioners levy any other rate?—Those are all the rates they levy.

41. What is the gross amount of those rates?—They amounted to 3*s.* 6*d.* in the pound last year.

42. I find that by the Act of 1867, the Commissioners are empowered to strike a Dalkey pier rate?—Yes.

43. Has that rate ever been struck?—It has.

44. Has there been any peirs and harbour rate struck since you have been here?—No.

45. What was the gross amount of your Dalkey township rate for last year?—It was £816 19*s.* 6½*d.*

46. How much of that has been actually received by the Commissioners?—The total amount collected on foot of the three rates—the improvement rate, the sinking fund rate, and the water rate, was £1,437 3*s.* 1*d.*

47. Does that include the arrears from the previous year?—Yes; it includes arrears and everything to the amount of £570 0*s.* 7*d.*

48. The total amount collected in the year ending 31st December, 1876, was £2,007 5*s.* 8*d.*?—Yes.

49. What arrears of last year's rates were outstanding at the time of the passing of the accounts of the year ending 31st December, 1876?—£682 4*s.* 5*d.* as appears by Mr. Finlay's report.

50. What were your other receipts for that year?—Dog licenses; rent of the garden at the rere of the town hall; hire of board room; interest on Government stock (sinking fund account); contributions towards the sanitary officers' salaries, and moneys received from Her Majesty's Government in lieu of rates. (For particulars of these payments see copy account for 1876, Appendix No. 2, page 124.)

51. Will you look to the receipt side of the Commissioners' account, passed by the auditor in February of this year?—Yes.

52. Do the items there represent the entire amount of their receipts for the year ending 31st December, 1876?—Yes; the entire amount of their receipts is there set forth. (For particulars see copy same account as in last answer.)

53. What officers are employed by the Town Commissioners?—First, myself, the town clerk.

54. At what salary?—£83 a year as town clerk, and then I am executive sanitary officer at £15 a year, and I am also sub-sanitary officer for the township.

55. Are you both executive and sub-sanitary officer?—Yes.

56. What other officers do the Commissioners employ?—Mr. Walsh, who is surveyor and engineer, at a salary of £25 a year. Then there is the collector, who is paid a poundage of 6*d.* on the amount of rates collected and lodged to the credit of the Commissioners.

57. Does he collect all the rates levied by the Commissioners?—He does.

58. And I suppose also that small amount of rent receivable?—No; I get the rent and lodge it.

59. Does the collector give security?—Yes, for £300 by the Guarantee Society. (Policy produced.)

60. Is the premium on it paid for this year?—It is.

61. Does he give his receipt for the premium to you?—Yes, and I produce it before the board.

62. Does he reside in Dublin?—He resides at 113, Seville-place, Dublin.

63. Is he engaged in any other capacity?—I do not think he is.

64. What other officers do the Commissioners employ?—Those are all the officers; there are only the workmen besides.

65. Do the Town Commissioners scavenge the town?—They do.

66. What staff have they for that purpose?—They have three men.

67. Do the Commissioners employ any sanitary staff?—No.

68. What is the annual expense of the scavenging staff?—It varies every year.

69. Are the men paid weekly?—Yes; the head man is paid 16*s.* a week; the others 15*s.*

70. Do the Commissioners keep the streets and roads in Dalkey in repair?—They do.

71. Is there any county cess levied in the township?—No; the Commissioners have the roads under their control, but the Grand Jury have the county at large charges.

72. Were the powers of the Grand Jury over the roads acquired by the Town Commissioners?—Yes, by the 11th section of the Act of 1867.

73. Is there any sanitary officer within the township?—Yes, Dr. Mayne.

74. Do the Town Commissioners pay Dr. Mayne's salary?—No; he was appointed consulting sanitary officer by the Commissioners, who are to pay him 10*s.* each time it may be necessary to consult him.

75. Does that represent the entire staff of the Commissioners?—Yes.

76. What loans have the Town Commissioners here contracted, with their date, and the security on which they were borrowed?—They obtained three loans of £2,500 each.

77. Give me the first loan in point of date?—In March, 1869, £2,500 from the Hibernian Bank, repayable by a sinking fund, and at five per cent. interest.

78. Upon what security was it borrowed?—Upon the security of the Dalkey township rate.

79. Has any portion of it been paid off?—No; but the Commissioners have a sinking fund; one-thirtieth part of that is lodged each year.

80. Has the sinking fund been kept up?—Yes, and now amounts to £416 13*s.* 4*d.*

81. How is that invested?—In Government three per cent. stock.

82. Is the three per cent. interest accumulated also?—No; we spend it the same as we do the rates. It is lodged with the treasurer, and expended on the township.

83. In 1875 and 1876 the Commissioners have received dividends upon this sinking. Why do they not accumulate the interest?—By the Act they are only bound to save one-thirtieth, and, therefore, they use the interest to aid the rates.

84. The 50th section of the Act says the amount to be set apart every year to pay off the principal money borrowed on mortgage of the rate shall not be less than one-thirtieth of the money so borrowed, but it does not say you will be at liberty to spend the income produced by that one-thirtieth; however, this matter appears to have been stated fully in the accounts before Mr. Finlay, and allowed by him?—It was. The next loan is the piers and harbour loan of £2,500, borrowed in May, 1869, from the Hibernian, at five per cent.

85. Is there a sinking fund for that loan?—Just the same as the first loan, with the same amount of sinking fund, which now amounts to £413 13*s.* 4*d.*?—That has been transferred from one bank to another.

86. Is the interest from it received and applied in the same way as in the last case?—Yes.

87. Upon what security is that £2,500 borrowed?—Upon the security of the piers and harbour rate.

88. You told us a short time ago that there has been no piers and harbour rate struck for several years past?—No.

89. Was there a sinking fund rate struck in the year 1869?—I do not know.

90. Where are the books for the years between 1867 and 1871?—I do not know. I missed the book, and when I looked for it I could not find it.

91. Do you mean to say that you have not got it in your custody as town clerk?—I have not got the rate book.

92. For the years between 1867 and 1871?—I have 1867 and 1871.

93. Have you not got the books for 1868, 1869, and 1870?—No; I have not.

94. Was there any piers and harbour rate struck in 1871 and 1872?—No; there was a Dalkey Township rate, sinking fund rate, and water rate.

95. What was done with the £2,500 raised on the security of the piers and harbour rate?—It was spent in making a new harbour called the Coolimore Harbour.

96. When was it expended—about what time?—In 1868 and 1869.

97. Do the Commissioners receive any income of any kind from that harbour?—No.

98. Do they keep the harbour in repair?—Yes.

99. Out of what fund?—There is no rate struck to do anything; there has been very little done to it. There was £16 5*s.* expended in 1876 in building a boat-slip, which comes into this account.

100. Did they ever strike a rate for the purposes of the harbour?—No.

101. You say there was another loan contracted?—Yes: a water loan on the 9th January, 1871.

102. How much was it?—£2,500.

103. From whom was it borrowed?—From Mr. John Fleming.

104. At what rate of interest?—Five and a quarter per cent. In case it was paid regularly he agreed to charge only five per cent.

105. Has the interest been paid regularly so as to save the quarter per cent.?—No; it was not paid regularly, and we have had to pay the five and a quarter.

106. Has the payment of that £2,500 been secured by a sinking fund?—Yes; there is £333 6*s.* in Government Stock.

107. Was the sinking fund put by every year?—There was one year missed before I came here, but since I have been here it has been always done.

108. Has the interest been used in the same way as the others?—Yes.

109. Have the Commissioners borrowed any further sum?—No.

110. Upon what security was the water loan borrowed?—Upon the security of the water rate.

111. How has it been applied?—In laying water mains, but it did not cover the expense of laying them. They cost £800 more than was borrowed.

112. How was that £800 obtained?—It was not obtained. The contractors did the work, and the money is still due to them.

113. Is the £800 still unpaid?—Yes, but the Commissioners are getting the money from the Government at three and a half per cent. for the purpose of paying it off.

114. Who were the contractors for that work?—Messrs. Eddington and Son, Glasgow.

115. Have the Commissioners arranged to borrow the money to pay the contractors?—They have almost got it; the Government has agreed to lend it.

116. How much have they applied for?—£841, the amount due to Messrs. Eddington.

117. Have the Commissioners applied for a Provisional Order?—They have, and the Provisional Order is confirmed.

118. Has it been passed?—Yes.

119. I do not find that this Provisional Order gives them any borrowing powers?—It is not under it they are borrowing it, it is under the Sanitary Act.

120. Mr. EXHAM.—Have you not power under your old Act to borrow £10,000?—Yes.

121. Mr. LAWLESS.—Have the Commissioners borrowed any other sums besides those three you mentioned?—No.

122. Was it a part of the arrangement with the Corporation of Dublin, that the Commissioners were to lay the water mains?—Yes, by the Act of Parliament they are bound to lay down the mains, but only within the township.

123. I think you mentioned that one of your rates—a rate of 6*d.* in the pound—was struck under the Sanitary Act of 1874?—Yes.

124. That 6*d.* makes up the full amount of 3*s.* 6*d.* in the pound?—Yes.

125. Is it not the case that the piers and harbour debt of £2,500 is now being liquidated by the Commissioners out of a rate that is not applicable for that purpose?—I would not say that.

126. Were they not authorized to borrow the money upon the security of the piers and harbour rate? What power have they to pay it out of any other rate?—This sinking fund special rate, they conceive, makes provision for it.

127. Mr. EXHAM.—Why don't you strike a rate to pay it; and why don't you keep separate accounts of each of your rates, and the payments made out of each?—If they did strike a rate it would be illegal, as they are doing nothing on the piers and harbours, and therefore could not spend the money. However the accounts of the different rates have been separated since the auditor drew attention to it.

128. Are you paying out of the sewer rate anything to the piers and harbours?—No.

129. Was not the sewer rate mixed up with the general fund?—Yes; but when the Government auditor drew attention to the matter it was kept separate.

130. Mr. LAWLESS.—You mentioned, I think, that the streets and roads of the town are repaired and kept in order by the Commissioners?—Yes.

131. In addition to the scavenging of the streets?—Yes.

132. How is the town lighted?—By thirty-six lamps; the gas is supplied by the Alliance Gas Company under a contract, but it is now run out.

133. What is the rate you pay for the gas?—A contract was entered into between the Alliance Gas Company and the Commissioners by which the gas was to be supplied at 4*s.* 6*d.* per 1,000 cubic feet, and to pay 1*s.* 6*d.* rent for each lamp post. That contract was made on the 1st October, 1870.

134. Is that the contract under which you are supplied with gas now?—No; that contract ran out on the 1st October, 1873, and no arrangement of a similar character has been made since. We now pay the same price as private consumers for the gas.

135. Who keeps the gas-lamps in repair?—The Commissioners keep the heads and glass repaired, and the gas company the posts.

136. Has there been any new contract made?—No.

137. Do the Commissioners now pay the same price as the private consumers, and also 1*s.* 6*d.* for each lamp?—They do.

138. By whom are the lamps lighted?—The men employed by the Commissioners light the lamps.

139. Mr. EXHAM.—What was the cost of the Act of 1867?—It was under £350 by special agreement.

140. With whom was that agreement made?—With the Parliamentary agents.

141. Has that money all been paid off?—There was a rate struck to pay it.

142. Mr. LAWLESS.—Will you look to the expenditure side of your last account passed before Mr. Finlay?—Yes.

143. Were the items there all expended during the year?—Yes; everything in that account is quite correct.

144. Were the several items vouched before Mr. Finlay?—Yes, his signature is on foot of the account certifying that it is quite correct.

145. I see by reference to Mr. Finlay's last report that your late collector, O'Dowd, was a defaulter to the amount of £158 18*s.* 1*d.*?—An order has been made against him for that amount, but he has no property, and a summons and plaint has been now issued against his security.

146. How long is it since Mr. O'Dowd ceased to be collector?—The last rate he got to collect was in 1873, and in 1874 he was discharged by the Commissioners.

147. Are proceedings pending now?—Yes; a summons and plaint was issued last week against one of his sureties.

148. Why is it not against the other surety also?—The other died about a year ago or more.

149. Surely it is the duty of the Commissioners to proceed against all the persons who may be made liable?—They directed their solicitor to do what was best. He submitted a case to counsel for his opinion, and he told me a few days ago that counsel advised that it would be best to go against the survivor, and that the survivor could proceed against the representatives of the deceased surety.

150. Were there two or three sureties?—Two and the principal.

151. Have any proceedings been taken against the principal—against the collector himself?—Yes, he has been served with a summons and plaint.

152. Who are the sureties?—Mr. Patrick Murphy and Mr. Byrne, who died about a year and a half since.

153. I find there was a sum of £231 11*s.* 6*d.* on the account of 1875 as arrears of uncollected rates, which ought to have been collected by Mr. O'Dowd?—Yes.

154. That was not collected in 1875, and it appears by the report of Mr. Finlay, in 1877 (his last report), that up to that time it had not been collected; have any steps been taken by the Town Commissioners to recover that amount?—The present collector got a list of the names of the people owing the rates, but after spending a year trying to collect them he only got £15 0*s.* 11*d.* In the meantime it was suggested that they should get me to collect the old arrears, and the auditor, it appears, states that it is perfectly legal for us to authorize me to collect them.

155. Mr. EXHAM.—It appears from Mr. Finlay's report that the present collector has done his best?—We have an order against Mr. O'Dowd for £158 18*s.* 1*d.*

156. Mr. LAWLESS.—Were those rates amounting to £231 11*s.* 6*d.* received by Mr. O'Dowd?—That has to be ascertained yet.

157. Mr. EXHAM.—I perceive that for some time the railway company, and some other proprietors of land were overrated. Is it the case that since that was discovered to be a fact, the railway company and others have been allowed to retain out of their current rates sufficient to make up for the over-payments they made in past years?—In the year 1871, it was discovered that the railway company and some other parties holding land were rated too high, and the Commissioners passed a resolution allowing it to be paid back if it was legal. When the auditor heard this he insisted that we should proceed against the railway company to recover any rates that they did not pay without making any allowance for the back payments. We believe we are morally bound to allow the overcharge, but proceedings have been taken. There was an agreement with the railway company that they should refund the money if the auditor did not allow it.

158. Was that arrangement made with the railway company only, or with any other land proprietor?—Any proprietor who would give the required security to pay it back if required by the auditor, but none gave the security except the railway company. Mr. Tyrrell, one of the Commissioners, stopped the rates; but we proceeded against him, and recovered the amount which was paid.

159. Have any other Commissioners done so?—No.

160. In the account for the year ending 31st December, 1875, the Commissioners take credit for a sum of £360 under the head of Law and Parliamentary costs. Is that the balance of a larger sum?—Yes.

161. What was the entire sum?—Nearly £500.

162. Were those costs incurred in opposing a bill promoted by the Kingstown Commissioners?—Yes; a bill to put the sewage of Kingstown and Pembroke into Dalkey.

163. What became of that bill?—The Kingstown Commissioners were nominally the promoters of it, but they did not take any steps as Commissioners to promote it. Proceedings were taken in the Court of Chancery for the purpose of obtaining an injunction, which were successful. They brought it to the House of Lords and they were allowed to proceed as private individuals.

164. By what authority did the Commissioners pay the costs incurred in that matter out of the rates?—Because Dalkey would have been greatly affected by it, and there was a public meeting of the ratepayers held on the subject of it.

165. Have you got any record of that meeting?—It was a public meeting; the requisition was signed by thirty ratepayers—regular notice was given and the meeting called.

166. Was there any meeting of the Commissioners consequent upon that meeting of the ratepayers?—Yes; after that meeting the Commissioners authorized Messrs. Casey and Clay to take the necessary steps to oppose the bill.

167. Can you give me the resolution passed by the Commissioners authorizing Messrs. Casey and Clay to do so?—The public meeting was held on the 8th January, 1875, and the meeting of the Commissioners was held on the same day.

168. What salary is paid to the town surveyor?—£25 a year.

169. What are his duties?—To inspect the town once a week; to attend the meetings of the Commissioners, and report everything to the Commissioners that he considers necessary.

170. Has he anything to do with the sewerage of the town?—There is a new sewage scheme going on.

171. Is there any system of sewerage in Dalkey?—There is a good deal of sewerage in the town.

172. When was it made?—Some of the sewers were made by the Grand Jury.

173. Before the year 1867?—Some of them are thirty years in existence and some of them have been made by the Town Commissioners.

174. Have any been made since the passing of the Act of 1867: how long has the town surveyor been here?—He is only here about six months. There was a surveyor here before then who acted both as secretary and surveyor.

175. Do you know anything of the existing sewerage?—Yes; I have a general knowledge of it.

176. Is the town sufficiently supplied with main sewerage?—Certainly not: the Commissioners are going to expend £4,000 in making main sewerage.

177. Have they expended any money since the year 1867 in making sewers?—I can give you the sums expended since the year 1870 in making sewers. In 1871 they expended £9 3*s.* 11*d.*; in 1872, £19 10*s.* 11*d.*; in 1873, £18 19*s.* 5*d.*; and in 1875, £60 to an engineer for making out plans and specifications for the system of main drainage, and also £130 to the same engineer to clear off his account. That is all that has been paid for sewerage since the year 1870.

178. When was the first sewer rate struck?—A rate of 4*d.* was struck in 1874 and 1875, and in 1876 of 6*d.*

179. Has there been any money borrowed on the security of that rate yet?—Not yet; but the Commissioners are about to borrow it.

180. Has anything been done by the Town Commissioners in the way of providing main sewerage for the town since 1867? I understand you to say substantially there has not?—Nothing with the exception of getting the maps, plans, and specifications, and getting the provisional order to enable them to go through the different places. As I said, they paid the engineer £190.

181. Where does that sum appear in the accounts?—£60 is in the account for 1875 and £130 in the last audited account. Last year we also paid £10 for lithographing maps.

182. To whom was this paid?—The £190 was paid to Mr. Andrews.

183. Is he your town surveyor?—No.

184. Mr. EXHAM.—Who held the inquiry here: was it Mr. O'Brien?—No; it was Mr. Robinson.

185. What staff have you for looking after the sanitary condition of the town?—There is no staff. When I discover a nuisance I serve a notice on the doctor, who, if he considers it to be a nuisance, makes a report to the Commissioners. I keep a separate book for sanitary business. (Book produced.)

186. Do you keep a book which shows the nature of the complaint, the order made on the report, the steps taken to enforce it, and the result?—No.

187. The Local Government Board could supply you with a book of such a form. Do you give any return or make any report to the Commissioners as to whether nuisances have been abated or not?—No.

188. What do you do supposing the people do not abate nuisances?—I summon them before the magistrates. I have full power to enforce the carrying out of the order made by the Commissioners, and I always do it.

189. Do you first make reports to the doctor?—Yes.

190. How often do the sanitary committee meet?—Whenever there is any business to be done. Sometimes once a fortnight.

191. I find there was a meeting of the sanitary committee on the 17th January, 1877, and none between that date and the 28th March?—If there are no reports from the doctor there is no meeting called.

192. There was notice of a nuisance on the 17th January, on Mr. Tyrrell's property, and directions were given that if it was not abated before a certain period, he was to be summoned?—Yes.

193. Is there any record of its having been abated here?—No, but it has been done.

194. Were all the nuisances mentioned in this report of the 17th January abated on notices being served?—They were.

195. What is the meaning of this—

"Meeting of Dalkey Urban Sanitary Authority, Wednesday, 28th March.—Ordered: 'That the executive sanitary officer write to the Local Government Board and state that notice of nuisances has been served on the sanitary officer, and no report been received from him; and that sickness prevails in part of the township which requires immediate attention. The Commissioners would be glad to have instructions as to how they are to act'"?

That was a case in which I, as sub-sanitary officer, served a notice on the doctor, and he did not report on it. If he does not report I have no means of bringing the matter before the Commissioners. I have no right to bring it directly before them. There was some sickness in the township at that time. The Local Government Board sent that letter to the doctor.

196. Did the doctor neglect to make a report?—He is not bound to make a report, it appears. When this question arose he referred the Commissioners to the words "as soon as may be," in the Act of Parliament. He says he is only bound to attend to it "as soon as may be."

197. Did he say he was entitled to exercise his judgment as to whether it was a nuisance or not?—I cannot say.

198. On the 25th August, 1875, a similar thing took place. Two cases were reported by you on the 5th

DALKEY.

Mr. Hugh O'Neill.

inst., and it was ordered "that the sanitary officer be required to inspect them and report within twenty-four hours," and he did not do so?—Yes. He quoted that portion of the Act, and said he was not bound to do it. The Commissioners then wrote to the Local Government Board, but they would not interfere.

199. Mr. LAWLESS.—Have you got the correspondence with the Local Government Board on this subject?—Yes, I can let you have it.

200. Mr. EXHAM.—I see several complaints here against property belonging to Mr. Tyrrell, which are continued during 1875 and 1876. Did he pay any attention to the notices?—Those are privies which required to be cleaned out. Of course that sort of work requires to be done four or five times a year. Where new works were recommended you will never see it referred to a second time.

201. Has there been any new work done in the town?—Yes; there were a number of pigs banished.

202. Is that what you call new work?—(No answer.)

203. Were the people in the habit of keeping pigs in their houses?—Not in their houses, but very close to them. The doctor caused them all to be removed, and since then there have not been any cases of it.

204. A broken sewer was reported at the foot of Vico-road. Was that set right?—Yes, I got that remedied; there is a cesspool there which must be emptied when it is full.

205. Is the house of the person referred to here near a public sewer?—There is no sewer in that road.

206. Is it then a covered cesspool?—It is. The complaint is that the sewage oozes out. When the cesspool is full it overflows on the road. I must go and get it made right again.

207. Do you think it is sufficient for the requirements of this township to have only one sub-sanitary officer who is also town clerk and executive sanitary officer?—This is a very small township, and the principal part of the houses are of a good description, so that there is but little sanitary business to be done.

208. Had you not a great deal of work lately as town clerk?—I had. I would rather not be sub-sanitary officer, though I know a good deal about sanitary matters. The Commissioners themselves proposed that I should take that office. When the application was made to the Local Government Board, they refused to sanction my appointment to the two situations, but afterwards agreed to it on being informed by the Commissioners that they could not afford to pay two men.

209. Can you say whether as a rule all houses within 100 feet of a main sewer are connected with it in accordance with the provisions of the Public Health Act?—Yes, they are.

210. What is done where there are no main sewers?—Then there are cesspools.

211. Are there main sewers in this part of the town?—Yes.

212. Have all the houses connecting drains?—Since I came here I have examined every place, and in some cases people are compelled to make them. In most cases they have them, but in some cases they have not, because the sewers are too high to carry off the house drainage.

213. Do you mean the sewers already existing?—Yes; and where connecting drains cannot be made there are cesspools.

214. Where are the cesspools situated?—In the back yards.

215. Are there any of the poorer class of houses that have no cesspools?—Every house here, so far as I am aware, has a proper convenience.

216. Is there a sewer on the road to Judge Barry's place, that discharges on the public road?—That is one of the places reported to the doctor; there is a sewer.

217. Does the sewage from it run out over the public road?—It does. It is about to be abated. I have had an answer from the doctor with regard to the place this morning—it is only a pond that has burst.

218. Mr. Perrin informs us that the mouth at the sewer is level with the road. Is that so?—Yes. The person responsible for that place was summoned before I was sub-sanitary officer, and fined £1. He put in a sewer, but something has now broken in it, and the water is coming out on the road. The doctor says (reads)—

"I hereby report to you, that it appears there is from time to time foul water flowing from John Smith's house upon the public road, and I recommend that the sewer be looked to as it appears to me defective."

Some cart passed over the sewer and broke it.

219. What is the date of that report?—The 7th inst.

220. When did you call the attention of the doctor to the place?—About a week ago.

221. Mr. Perrin says the sewer is in that way a long time. Is that so?—No; it is not.

222. Mr. Perrin.—I am sure it is in that condition for six months at all events.

223. Mr. EXHAM.—If that be so it would bear out what I say, that it is hardly fair to expect Mr. O'Neill to do his business as town clerk, and look after the sanitary affairs of the town properly.

224. (To Witness).—What hospital accommodation is here?—There is no hospital.

225. I observe that in the sanitary book there are several cases of scarlatina mentioned, and the houses are ordered to be disinfected: is there any disinfecting apparatus in the town?—No; I give the materials to the people and let them use them; in some cases I see that they take out the clothes and burn them.

226. Where do they take the clothes to?—Into a field; there was only one case in which that was done. There have been no cases of infectious disease in the town for the past two years, with the exception of a few very slight cases of scarlatina—children's cases. I served the proper notice by the directions of the doctor and there was nothing more about it.

227. Mr. LAWLESS.—I find a great many complaints about sewers not being in proper working order, and recommendations that they should be made all right?—Yes; those cases have all been attended to.

228. Some of the complaints are so far back as 1867. Do you find that the Commissioners as a body are anxious or prompt in carrying out the works necessary to be done?—Indeed they are; they always make the order which I carry out. Sometimes they summon parties to Kingstown before the magistrates, and go to a good deal of trouble to get nuisances abated.

229. Mr. Milo Burke.—I am chairman of the dispensary committee, and when examining the tickets issued during the past month I found they were 280 in number, and there was not a single case of contagious disease reported in the entire Dalkey district.

230. Were those tickets all issued within the township?—Yes.

231. Were none of them in Killiney and Ballybrack?—No.

232. (To the Town Clerk).—What is done with the manure of the town?—We have tried to sell it, but could not get anyone to buy it, and then we offered it to anyone who would take it away for nothing. One pound was offered for it once, and accepted. At present we are giving it to anyone willing to take it for nothing. Sometimes we are compelled to employ horses to cart it, and throw it into the first place we can get.

233. Do the Commissioners keep any horses and carts regularly for that purpose?—No; we only employ horses on certain occasions.

234. Have the Commissioners carts of their own?—Yes; I employ horses every Saturday.

235. Do you also superintend the scavenging of the town?—Yes.

236. Is filth thrown into the streets in Dalkey?—No.

237. When was Bullock-road scavenged?—About two months ago.

Mr. Hugh O'Neill.

238. Does the jurisdiction of the sanitary authority extend to Vico-road?—It is private property, and what is thrown out there is not a nuisance. The Commissioners never cleaned that road at all.

239. What do you mean by saying that it is a private road?—That's exactly what it is. It belongs to Mr. MacDonnell. The Commissioners never took up that road, and it was never given over to them.

240. Did Mr. MacDonnell make it an open public road?—It is not a road that can be properly called an open thoroughfare for there is a wall—at the end of it.

241. Mr. John Stevenson.—About three months ago I wrote to the Commissioners asking them to tell the surveyor to look after the condition of this road, but they replied and said they had not anything to say to it. At the same time they laid water and gas mains in it.

242. Mr. EXHAM (to Witness).—Did the Commissioners put down the mains, and do they get water-rates from the owners of houses on that road?—They do.

243. What right had they to do so if it was private property?—(No answer.)

244. Mr. Walsh (surveyor).—The matter of the roads was under my notice, being engineer to the township. In Dublin the Corporation and the gas company both lay mains in the streets, but on private roads they require that they should be properly secured before they take them up, and I think this is the case in all the towns in England and Ireland—that the road should be first made secure. Then notice is served by the Corporation that the road will be taken up from the landlord, and until then it is a private road.

245. Mr. EXHAM.—Did not Mr. MacDonnell dedicate that road to the public long ago?—No, because he has not properly paved it.

246. Mr. LAWLESS.—I find in the Act of 1847 that "all the roads, bridges, and footpaths of any township shall be made by the Commissioners at the cost of the township." Is this a road within the township?

247. Mr. Perrin.—It is; but to show you the way the roads are kept here, I tell you that within twenty yards of the house you are sitting in, you will see the main streets left with heaps of manure and stones. Some people have cut channels across the road. They do what they like with the roads here.

248. Mr. Walsh.—There are a number of private roads here which have not been handed over to the Commissioners at all.

249. Suggested by Mr. Perrin (to Mr. Walsh).—Do you know the road leading from the church? Is that a public road?—Yes, to a certain point.

250. Is not that stopped at the end?—Yes.

251. Where is the point at which it ceases to be a public road?—The church gate.

252. Why should not the same principle apply to that that you say applies to Mr. MacDonnell's road?—(No answer.)

253. Mr. EXHAM.—It is a mistake to say there should be a passage through and through. The test of its being a public road is this. Has the owner dedicated it to the public, and allowed the public to use it? As Mr. Lawless reminds me, there is Ely-place in Dublin, and there is no outlet from that.

254. Mr. LAWLESS.—I do not think anyone would say Henrietta-street in Dublin is not a public street, and it is stopped by the King's Inns.

255. Suggested by Mr. Stevenson (to Town Clerk).—Was £350 spent on the bathing-place in Vico-road?—Yes.

256. Was anything more spent?—£13 19*s.* 6*d.* was paid in 1870.

257. Was there an estimate for making the bathing-place?—The £350 was for the purchase of the land. I cannot lay my hand on the estimate now. There has not been anything spent on the bathing-place since 1870.

258. How long was that bathing-place in good order?—It was out of order when I came here. The very first gale that came scattered it into bits. There was not a vestige of it.

259. Mr. LAWLESS.—Has anything been done to repair it since?—No. It is supposed not to be fit for a bathing-place.

260. Mr. Stevenson seems to think it constitutes a kind of nuisance. Do you think so?

261. Mr. Stevenson.—It is a positive nuisance. You will see fellows there ostentatiously exposing themselves on the rocks whilst there are frequently ladies walking close by. The Commissioners have never taken any steps to put a stop to that nuisance—the indecent exposure of men bathing on the Vico-road.

The Town Clerk.—It is the first complaint I heard.

262. Mr. Stevenson.—Why, the Commissioners came down in a body one day to inspect it; and they agreed it was a nuisance, and decided on taking steps to remedy it.

The Town Clerk.—When bathing there you are almost 100 feet under the level of the road. You cannot be seen from the road.

263. Mr. LAWLESS.—The Commissioners ought certainly either do away with the place altogether, or put up such an erection as would prevent it being used in the way stated by Mr. Stevenson. They have ample powers to do so.

264. Mr. EXHAM.—Have the Commissioners considered whether the security given by the collector is sufficient?—Oh, yes.

265. Mr. LAWLESS.—How often is the collector required to lodge?—Weekly. He is checked weekly on the system of a book kept in the union.

266. Mr. EXHAM.—Would you tell me how you stood at the end of the last financial year?—There was £682 4*s.* 5*d.* due for uncollected rates, and we owed our treasurer, the National Bank, £567 14*s.* 6*d.*

267. Mr. LAWLESS.—When was the last rate struck before that?—May 24th, 1876.

268. Mr. EXHAM.—The result is that after paying your debt to the bank you have only about £100 to pay the debts you owe for lighting the town, and other matters, besides paying current accounts and expenses up to next month even if you strike your new rate then. Is not that so?—Yes.

269. Although the rate is struck in May it is due in January, and the day after there would be rate due as well?—There are a lot of new houses built every year, and although we might legally strike the rate in January the valuation book would not be prepared from the Valuation office, and we would be at a loss with regard to the new houses.

270. Mr. LAWLESS.—I do not find surveyor's salary charged in this account?—It is not in that account; he was in office that year, but his salary did not come due until March, I think.

Mr. MILO BURKE examined.

Mr Milo Burke.

271. Mr. Burke.—I would wish to give my opinion on the election and rating of voters, because the business of a Commissioner is simply to attend to the lighting, paving, and general improvement of the township. It has nothing to do with political or religious questions; and, therefore, I think the township should be represented by those having property in it.

272. Mr. EXHAM.—We cannot go into that matter. The only thing we can do is to take a note that you wish to give your opinion on that question.

273. Mr. Burke—From the formation of the township I was chairman for ten years; in October, 1873, I resigned, and did not any longer remain a member of the board. Before I had resigned my position as chairman, I had a report from Mr. O'Neill, and he told me he had reason to believe, from inspecting the books, that the collector was acting dishonestly. I came down with my son, a barrister, and after investigating the matter we found there was £70 not properly accounted for. On next day of meeting, as chairman, I stated this matter had been reported to me by Mr. O'Neill. A couple of Commissioners stood up, and stated at once that this was a very improper charge to bring against such a respectable man, and they objected that the matter should be spoken of at all. However, I considered it my duty as chairman to mention the matter to the board; and I told the finance committee they should look after the matter, and take the responsibility on themselves. Mr. O'Dowd, against whom the charge was brought, knew all about the transaction ten minutes after the board was over; so I think that persons who are not alone the acquaintances of Mr. O'Dowd, but rated at only £12 a year, are not persons to represent a growing property like this. If my advice had been taken Mr. O'Dowd would never have been allowed to run the rig he did for three years after.

DALKEY.
April 9, 1877.

Mr. Milo Burke.

274. Mr. LAWLESS.—Did his defalcations amount to the sum mentioned in the auditor's report?—Yes. In fact he managed the thing in such a way that it was almost impossible to find out how the thing was done.

275. Mr. EXHAM.—Were you satisfied during the time you were a Commissioner and since, with the sanitary arrangements here?—We were not a sanitary board all the time.

276. I see that long before 1874 numerous reports were made about pigs and other nuisances in houses?—There were. I considered the question of sewerage was one that always required the attention of the Commissioners, but from the immense pressure put upon the board for a certain number of years to do certain work, it was neglected. We had the harbour, the bathing-place, our water supply, and our town hall to get up. Then we had a highly respectable professional gentleman who sent in samples of pump-water at Dalkey without ever stating where he got it, and it turned out to be uncommonly bad; and this was one of the causes which determined our getting the Vartry water for the township. However, I am very happy to say, notwithstanding the bad opinion given of many of our pumps, they are still resorted to by the poor people in preference to the Vartry water. With regard to the sanitary arrangements, I always considered that main drainage would be necessary according as the township grew, and it is growing very rapidly. Up to the time I left the board, I have no doubt that for the most thickly-inhabited portion of Dalkey there was sufficient outlet for main sewerage; but, of course, where houses were built where there was no main sewerage, it will be necessary to carry out the system advised by Mr. Andrews, which does not concentrate the sewerage into one point, but provides seven different outlets. We incurred £500 costs in opposing the sewerage of Kingstown coming into our township; and I trust nothing of the kind will be allowed now. I believe the Commissioners have already run some sewerage into Bullock Harbour. I believe it is run into it contrary to the wishes of most of the Commissioners; and if that is allowed it will be a very serious injury, because they have made the sewerage sufficiently deep to carry off the sewage of Glasthule, and a very unwholesome portion of Kingstown.

277. Mr. LAWLESS.—It has been stated at Kingstown that this sewerage does not encroach on the Dalkey sewerage at all.

278. Mr. Perrin.—It is only on the boundary.

279. Mr. Hynes (a ratepayer) made a complaint relative to the illegal expenditure of £45 out of the rates in building a certain wall in part of the township to accommodate a private individual.

Mr. Casey.

Mr. CASEY (Town Commissioner) examined.

280. What evidence do you wish to give?—The year I became a member of the Commissioners—in 1869—there were some works done by the Commissioners, and among the rest a retaining wall was built at Mountsales-road for the purpose of keeping up the roadway. It was done in consequence of a letter we received from a Mr. M'Dermott, who threatened to take proceedings if the Commissioners did not build up the wall as dangerous to life and property. It was done, but it was generally considered there was more work done than was necessary. I took an active part in proceeding against the party I thought should be liable to pay his portion. I was defeated. This is what Mr. Hynes alluded to as a wall costing £45. It went around two gentlemen's property; but it was a retaining wall keeping up the roadway.

281. (Suggested by Mr. Hynes).—Was the wall continued to Mr. Corrigan's ground where it was more dangerous than other places?—No. It is my opinion that Mr. Parkinson, who was in possession of the ground at the time, ought to be made pay.

282. Is this a wall along the roadside?

Mr. Casey.—It is, and if it were not built there a horse or individual would tumble over the precipice. The wall was built to keep up the roadway. The ground inside is considerably under the roadway. It was for supporting the roadway.

283. Do you mean to say the owner of the ground should be made liable for making that wall?—That was the impression, I think, of one half of the board at that time.

284. Mr. Burke.—I think there was an order of the board to have that done, as it formerly belonged to the Grand Jury.

285. What year was this in?—I think in 1869. From time to time stones tumbled out of it; and whether the parties having the land on the inside had a right to build it or the Commissioners had a right, I do not know.

286. Mr. LAWLESS.—I am very much of opinion the Commissioners if they did not build it would be liable to the land-owners and the public if accidents happened; but the Commissioners would have acted wrongly if that wall were only built alongside a certain portion of the road so as to protect favourite individuals.

287. Mr. Hynes.—That is the fact; because I was inspector for the Caledonian Insurance Company at the time Mr. Corrigan's house was burnt down, and the wall at that place was in a most dangerous state, and nothing was done to it.

288. Mr. Casey.—What gave rise to the controversy was, that part of the retaining wall was done and part not done. The portions of the wall of those who were Commissioners were done, but not the other parts.

289. Mr. LAWLESS.—I can understand that ground of complaint against the Commissioners perfectly, but as to the liability of this other party to pay for it, we have not anything to say to it.

290. Mr. EXHAM.—Mr. Burke, during the time you were here you had a great deal of experience. Was there favouritism in doing work for one man and not for another?—Certainly not—by the Commissioners as a body.

291. Mr. LAWLESS.—Were there ever any complaints made of favouritism being shown by Commissioners to members of their own body, or of neglect of the interests of persons who were not?—There was a good deal of little jealousy among the Commissioners. One man would say, "Oh, you have got a gas lamp opposite your house." And another "Oh, the road is cleaned in front of your house," and so on, but nothing more than that.

SUPPLEMENT TO PART III.—APPENDIX.

APPENDIX No. 1.

KINGSTOWN.

Annual Report of Commissioners of Kingstown Township.

The Commissioners of the township of Kingstown think it advisable that, as usual, the following brief summary of the business of the Board for the past twelve months, should, for the information of the ratepayers, accompany the annual statement of accounts :—

The Board of Commissioners of the Township, including the changes consequent on the annual election, held 1st January, 1877, consists of the following members :—

Glasthule Ward—Michael O'Brien, Charles Burke Jordan, Hugh O'Rorke, J.P., Patrick Lagan, Michael Carroll, and Edward Roche, esqrs.

Kingstown East Ward—John J. Crosthwaite, J.P., John Roche, M.D., James Begg, John Reilly, and Robert Herron, esqrs.

Kingstown West Ward—Miles Kelly, James Barrett, J.P., William Donovan, John Sullivan, Daniel Sexton, and James Crowe, esqrs.

Monkstown Ward—James R. Stewart, D.L., John Doyle, and John M'Evoy, esqrs.

James Barrett, esq., J.P., was elected, 8th January, Chairman of the Board for the year 1877.

The roads, water, and lighting committee met weekly for the transaction of business during the past year, as did the finance committee, and the sewers, market, and sanitary committee. The resolutions adopted during the three preceding years have been continued, by which the accounts for all materials received and delivered afford a complete check to the committee ; and the system also adopted by the finance committee, at the same time of auditing the accounts, examining returns of storekeepers and gangers, checking work done by the water and the sanitary inspectors weekly, has been found most satisfactory.

There has been no difficulty in procuring a sufficient quantity of metalling for the roads and footways of the township. Bray Head stone has been continued to be used for the roads on which there is much traffic, and the former arrangements still exist for an adequate supply of limestone, sand, and tailings.

The consumption of the Vartry water has been kept rather under the stipulated allowance during the past year. As most of the houses in the extended township have now been connected with the mains for a direct service, and as the poorer districts of the township have been supplied very fully by the public fountains erected by the Commissioners, and those put up by the owners of the premises in these localities, the residents have now an abundant supply of this necessary of life.

The gross valuation of the township for 1876, including the valuation of Government property, which is £527 5*s.*, was returned by the Valuation Commissioners at £71,317 15*s.* Deducting for lands and railways, the net valuation for rating purposes is £65,017.

The provisions of the Public Health Act, 1874, and of the Sale of Food and Drugs Act, 1875, continue to be vigorously carried out, the following being a brief summary of the business transacted during the past year :—1,775 houses and yards inspected ; 447 persons were noticed to make sanitary improvements ; 334 nuisances were abated by service of notices ; 28 nuisances are pending abatement by magistrate's order ; 144 persons were summoned to abate nuisances ; 121 privies and ashpits were cleansed ; 121 pig-styes and yards were cleansed, and the manure removed ; 156 houses were lime-washed by the owners ; 21 privies were put in proper repair ; 34 branch sewers were constructed, and 24 were cleansed ; 24 applications relative to abating of nuisances were attended to and disposed of ; 14 lanes were cleansed several times, and the sweepings removed by the Commissioners' staff ; 2 persons were fined 10*s.* each for disobeying the orders of the magistrates ; 10 notices were served upon the sanitary medical officers to inspect common lodging-houses ; the slaughter-houses have been inspected weekly ; 45 samples of milk were procured and sent to Dr. Cameron to be analysed, and of these 4 only were adulterated—one with 50 per cent. of added water, the vendor of which was fined £5 ; the second and third with 16 per cent. each of added water, fines £2 each ; and the fourth 12 per cent. of added water, not yet dealt with.

The continued healthfulness of the township is proved by the rate of mortality, as returned by the Registrar-General in his weekly reports ; and to ensure as perfect sanitary supervision as possible, an additional sub-sanitary officer (an acting-sergeant of the Dublin Police) was appointed last September.

An inquiry was held in February last by the Local Government Board, with a view of obtaining a Provisional Order under the Local Government Acts, to be subsequently confirmed by Act of Parliament, to take powers, in the most inexpensive way, to carry out main drainage, asphalting of footways, and other public improvements ; and the sanction of the Local Government Board having been obtained to the borrowing of £8,000, for the purpose of building a town hall and court-house, and other necessary buildings, and also to the borrowing of £2,000 for asphalting, these sums were procured from the Royal Exchange Assurance Company last November, at the moderate rate of 4½ per cent. per annum. The Local Government Board have signified their consent to issue a Provisional Order to enable the Commissioners to carry out the projected works stated above, and to vary existing local Acts, with the view of having their provisions made more suited to public convenience.

(Signed),

Robert James Ennis, Town Clerk.

Kingstown—Town Surveyor's Report.

Report of Town Surveyor.

During the past year, main sewers have been contracted for, and are now nearly completed, in the following places, viz. :—Matthew-terrace and Kingstown-avenue, Tivoli-terraces, Glenageary-road, Adelaide and Albert-roads, Glasthule, Sandycove, and Castlepark-roads, Burdett-avenue, and Cumberland-street. 11,200 feet are now finished ; and for Mulgrave and Royal-terraces, Crosthwaite-park and Tivoli-road, contracts have been accepted, but as yet not started. The work is well executed and satisfactory, but owing to the large quantity of rock excavation, the progress made is tedious.

App. No. 1.

Kingstown. Report of Town Surveyor.

The water supply has been economized as far as possible, and the consumption kept within statutable allowance. For a short time, your own and the Corporation meter differed considerably in registering quantity used—both have been overhauled, and now run fairly. Owing to a burst on the Vartry main near Enniskerry, from the 14th to the 25th of October, the supply was limited in pressure and amount, causing for the time a good deal of inconvenience. All your mains and appliances are in fair order. Two ornamental drinking fountains have been erected. 1,800 houses have been inspected; only fifty notices to remedy defects have been found necessary; and seventy-four new services have been made.

The public lights have been carefully attended to, and twenty-two new lamps are now being erected, principally in the extra township, and filling up gaps where necessary. The band stand on the East Pier has been furnished with a new sun burner, and otherwise greatly improved; it, and all the seats on the Pier, well and neatly painted.

Asphalting the footways proceeds as rapidly as circumstances will permit of; and since September near 2,000 superficial yards have been laid, principally in your main streets and thoroughfares, prior to commencing in terraces and avenues.

New granite crossings have been put down in Upper and Lower George-street and Crosthwaite-park. In Glasthule and Sandycove extensive renewals have been made, and at same time the water-channels repaired.

Some new kerbing has been laid in Upper George's-street and Castlepark-road, and it has been necessary to replace a good deal of the old kerb where asphalte is used.

Maintenance of the roads has received every attention, and as a large increased duty has been necessarily incurred, owing to the roads of the extra township falling into your hands for repairs, &c., two horses, one iron muck-cart, and three extra men, have been added to the staff.

The amount of material used is as follows, viz.:—

Bray Head Stone	810 Tons.
Limestone	2,817 „
Tailings and Sand	1,305 „

A central depot for your road materials would be a great convenience; and this, together with sheds for your stock of carts and implements, would be exceedingly desirable, and conducive to considerable economy.

Francis A. Doyle, C.E., Town Surveyor.

Report of Local Government Auditor.

Report of G. W. Finlay, Esq., Local Government Auditor.

Kingstown, 2nd March, 1877.

Gentlemen,—I have the honour to report to your board that I have audited the accounts of the receipt and expenditure of the Commissioners of Kingstown township for the year ended 31st December, 1876.

I transmit herewith an abstract of accounts.

The Commissioners have made rates during the year amounting to £9,209 7*s.* 4*d.*, of which there was collected and lodged with the treasurer to the credit of the improvement fund £9,010 14*s.* 10*d.*, as also a sum of £22 17*s.* 7*d.*, arrears of rates of the year 1875 which had been declared irrecoverable, and which they at the time appeared to be, but were subsequently recovered; there was also a sewer rate of one penny in the pound collected and lodged, amounting to £271 5*s.* 5*d.*, which was placed to the credit of the Kingstown and Glasthule districts.

There were arrears of the rate of 1876 declared irrecoverable, principally on the ground that the premises were unoccupied.

It was objected to at the audit that on a former occasion the sum of £1 3*s.* 4*d.*, arrears of rate on a stable the property of a member of the board, and which was let to another member to enable him to complete his qualification for the office of Commissioner, and for which stable he was accordingly rated, was declared irrecoverable by the Commissioners, on a declaration of non-occupation in the usual form.

On inquiring into this matter it was quite apparent that the rate should have been collected, and on my expressing myself to that effect, the amount was at once paid by the rated occupier.

It was alleged that the declaration was made by the owner through mistake.

The Commissioners appear to be under a misapprehension as to the effect and force of a declaration of non-occupancy; they seem to think that they are bound to accept it as conclusive evidence that a tenement was unoccupied, although they might have the conclusive evidence of their own senses to the contrary.

The 60th section of the Towns Improvement Act of 1854 enacts that all unoccupied houses, &c., being at the time of making the assessment unproductive to the landlords, shall be exempt from taxation during the period of such non-occupation, but is silent as to the force or even the use of a declaration in determining the question, which is simply one of fact. If the facts known by the Commissioners be at variance with a declaration, they ought not to be influenced by the latter.

Objection was taken to the course adopted by the Commissioners in taking upon loan from the Royal Exchange Assurance Company a sum of £8,000 for building a town hall and court-house long before they were in a position to make use of the money, for which they were paying four and a half per cent., while it was lying idle with their treasurer at one per cent. interest.

This was, no doubt, an unwise and unbusinesslike arrangement, as the money ought not to have been taken until it was actually wanted for the purpose; but since the audit a more satisfactory one has been effected by purchasing consols with the money, which now bears three per cent. interest, still there is a loss of one and a half per cent. on the amount.

Law and Parliamentary costs, to the amount of £464, have been paid without taxation.

Possibly this amount would not have been diminished on taxation; yet it is always satisfactory to have costs submitted to the proper officer appointed for the purpose, whose certificate is a guarantee that the proper amount has been charged for the business transacted.

There was a question as to the sufficiency of a payment made by the late chairman of the Town Commissioners for materials for asphalting, which he had obtained for his private use from the Commissioners' store, but I saw no reason for holding the amount to be insufficient. The further questions raised at the audit as to the rights of the late chairman to have made use of materials provided for public use in the township, is one regarding which I did not feel called upon to express any opinion.

. . . . . .

I have the honour to be, gentlemen,

Your obedient servant,

(Signed), GEORGE W. FINLAY.

REPORT on DEVIATIONS in SEWAGE in the GLASTHULE DRAINAGE DISTRICT.

The system of sewerage for a part of the Glasthule district in the plan for which a Provisional Order was obtained, contemplated the construction of a brick sewer for 300 yards on the Breffni-road, at a cost of £450, and twelve-inch pipes in Sandycove-avenues, for a length of 300 yards, estimated at £150.

The Provisional Order for No. 3 intercepting sewer failing, the sewers in Sandycove-avenues which hinged completely on this intercepting sewer for an outfall were in consequence I may say compulsorily suspended, unless deemed advisable to create a greater nuisance at Sandycove harbour than now exists, and which could not be entertained.

Having given the design a great deal of consideration and carefully calculated the means at my disposal, I found to adhere to the original plan under the altered circumstances was a matter I could not attempt to carry out in a satisfactory manner, either financially or professionally, or do justice to the locality intended to receive the benefit of the proposed outlay.

Acting under these convictions, I adopted the system now being carried out, viz., eighteen-inch and fifteen-inch pipes in Breffni-road, in place of the brick sewer, and twelve-inch pipes in Sandycove terrace and road, in lieu of those in Sandycove-avenues.

The sewer in Breffni-road, three feet by two feet in brickwork, would not be covered by the estimate, and in addition its size was unnecessary for the duty it would require to perform, and the pipes as laid down will be more than ample for all future requirements, and the more so, as all surface water of more than half the rain basin of this district is still kept in its old channel, and thus considerably relieves the main sewer of a large volume of water and road dirt.

I have calculated the size and discharges of the present system most carefully, and assuming a population of more than the average density of London had eventually to be provided for, together with the usual proportion of rain fall and water supply in the twenty-four hours, the sewers now laid down would be more than equal to four times these requirements, and in constructing the sewer along the Sandycove-road to Albert-road, I have provided for a locality much in want of sewage, at the same time cutting off from Sandycove harbour some pollution, as well as enabling the north end of Sandycove-road to be freed from a sanitary nuisance of many years standing, otherwise difficult to get rid of.

In the event of No. 3 intercepting sewer being sanctioned and constructed, a fifteen-inch pipe laid in Sandycove-avenue, West, and turning into it the twelve-inch pipe in Sandycove-road, will further relieve the pipes in Breffni-road, should such ever be required, and which I do not consider likely to occur.

In altering the system sanctioned by the Provisional Order, changing brick into pipes and otherwise, I have done so solely on my own responsibility acting as your engineer, and in what I consider to be an equally efficient and economical plan, believing such to be my duty as your officer, and in accord with my affirmation to the best of my skill, power, and ability.

Town Surveyor.

Re KINGSTOWN PROVISIONAL ORDER.—OPINION of J. H. MONAHAN, Esq.

I am of opinion, that neither the 4th section of the Act of 1861, nor the 2nd section of the Act of 1869, affects the case. I do not see how either enactment can be held to turn the Act of 1854 into a Local Act, so as to bring it within the scope of the 5th section of the Local Government Act, or of the 26th section of the Public Health Act.

Taking the several parts of the petition in order—

Part 1. Is merely preliminary.

Part 2. Deals with following subjects:—

1. The compulsory purchase of land for the purpose of intercepting and outfall sewers.

2. The making, maintaining, and regulating such sewers.

3. Borrowing powers.

4. Power to make an intercepting and outfall sewer rate, not to exceed 5*d.* in the pound.

5. Power to Commissioners of Public Works to lend any sum not exceeding £20,000 for above purposes.

In my opinion, all these objects, except the first, are outside the scope of a Provisional Order.

They either repeat powers which the petitioners have already under the Sanitary Acts, or vary the provisions of public general statutes.

With regard to (1) I see no objection to making an order under the 4th section of the Local Government Act, authorizing the compulsory purchase of land for the purpose of making sewers in exercise of the existing powers of the Commissioners.

Part 3. Consists as it appears to me, wholly of proposed alterations of existing public general Acts, or else repetitions of their provisions, and is not within the scope of a Provisional Order.

Part 4. As to the town hall, &c., I cannot find any enactment authorizing the Local Government Board to deal with these matters.

Part 5. Except the borrowing powers may be supported as an alteration of the Local Act of 1861.

Parts 6 to 14. Appear to consist altogether of alterations of existing public general statutes.

Part 15. So far as it seeks to amend the Act of 1869 can be dealt with by Provisional Order; the provision (see page 37) making the rate book evidence for the purposes of the Act of 1854, in my opinion cannot.

Part 16. (By-laws) to part 19, the same observations apply as to parts 6 to 14.

On the whole, so much of the petition lies altogether outside the powers of the Local Government Board that it appears to me better not to hold any inquiry upon it, unless it shall have been first ascertained that the petitioners desire an order dealing with the portions within the jurisdiction of the Board.

Township of Kingstown.—Re Inquiry.

Dear Sir,—Referring to the notice received by me, I am directed respectfully to ask you, for the guidance of the Commissioners, whether upon the intended inquiry, you will go into the question of the sewers Nos. 1, 2, and 3, that is, their suitability and necessity for the respective localities, the sufficiency of the estimates of the expense of construction, and all other matters relating thereto, in addition to the question of the purchase and taking of lands for such sewers.

Apologising for this trouble,

I am, dear sir, yours truly,

John Lalor.

Henry Robinson, esquire,
21, Cambridge-terrace, Kingstown.

In Re Evidence of Mr. John Lalor.

In Re Evidence of John Lalor, Solicitor to the Commissioners of the Township of Kingstown, given before the Local Government and Taxation of Towns Inquiry Commission (Ireland), the 5th day of May, 1877.

I wish to supplement my evidence, by stating that although I had, previous to the inquiry held by Mr. O'Brien, the Local Government for Ireland Inspector, on the 7th of February, 1876, the letter from the Secretary of the Dublin, Wicklow, and Wexford Railway, of the 2nd December, 1875—(see copy herewith sent)—agreeing to permit the earthenware sewer pipe to be laid alongside of the railway, opposite Haddington-terrace and the Gresham Gardens, upon the conditions therein mentioned—(this sewer known as No. 2)—but had not at the time, or until the 17th February, 1876, as after mentioned, the letter to the Railway Company as to sewer No. 1—that on the West Pier; yet Mr. George Keogh, the solicitor, and Mr. Maunsell, the secretary of the said Railway Company, attended upon the inquiry, and lodged an objection against the Commissioners taking any compulsory powers in reference to the lands and property of the said Railway Company and were prepared to support said objection.

For letter, see Ev. 3095.

For letter, see Ev. 3095.

That said objection was lodged with the inspector of the Local Government Board.

That the agreement (copy marked No. 1 herewith sent) being prepared by Mr. Keogh and agreed to, was signed by me, opposition was withdrawn, and no compulsory powers were subsequently sought for in reference to sewers Nos. 1 and 2.

For letter, see Ev. 3095.

That the letter of the 17th February, 1876, was sent to me after the inquiry, upon my application to the directors of the said Railway Company. (See my letter, copy herewith sent). This permits intended sewer No. 1, on the West Pier, to run under or through the gentlemen's bathing place on the West Pier, the property of the said railway.

That I also had a letter from the secretary of the Commissioners of Public Works, dated 6th December, 1875 (allowing the intended sewer No. 1 to be constructed on the West Pier, upon certain conditions therein mentioned), in my possession at the time of the inquiry; yet the solicitor of the Commissioners of Public Works, as also the engineer of the said Commissioners attended at said inquiry, and the former lodged a statement in the nature of an objection, but did not oppose; and on the 12th December, 1876, the agreement this day produced, was entered into by the Harbour Commissioners of Kingstown of the one part, and the Commissioners of the Township of Kingstown of the other part.

Soon after the lodging of the petition, on the 26th day of May, 1875, I sent a case to Dr. Norwood, who prepared petition, to advise necessary proofs (being under the impression the inquiry would be held in about six weeks); and Dr. Norwood directed most full and special proofs in support of the petition, and amongst other witnesses directed to have in attendance, were engineers of eminence, scientific medical men practically acquainted with sanitary science, and contractors, &c., &c.

When the Commissioners decided on holding the limited inquiry, under Mr. Monahan's opinion, I sent a further case to advise proofs to Dr. Norwood, and in his further directions for proofs he did not, to any great extent, alter the proofs directed by his first opinion, and retaining the proofs having reference to the question of the proposed sewers, as in his first direction for proofs.

That with reference to sewer No. 1 on the West Pier, the only parties I believe interested therein were the Commissioners of Public Works as Harbour Commissioners, the Dublin and Kingstown Railway Company, and the Dublin and Wicklow Railway Company—the latter representing the Dublin and Kingstown Railway Company—and the tenant of the Dublin and Wicklow Railway Company to the baths on said Western Pier; and that I further believe the only parties interested in sewer No 2, viz., that on the line of railway, were the Dublin and Kingstown Railway Company, and the Dublin and Wicklow Railway Company—the former Company being represented by the latter.

That at the time of the inquiry, the Commissioners of the township of Kingstown had not the consent either verbally or in writing of the Dublin and Kingstown Railway Company, to the construction of the sewers Nos. 1 and 2, or the consent in writing of the tenant of the Dublin and Wicklow Railway Company of the baths, to the construction of sewer No. 1, on the Western Pier.

Letter from Local Government Board.

Letter from Local Government Board.

Local Government Board, Dublin,
23rd March, 1876.

Sir,—Adverting to the previous correspondence on the subject, the Local Government Board for Ireland desire to state for the information of the Commissioners of the township of Kingstown, that they have received the report of their inspector, Mr. O'Brien, forwarding the minutes of evidence which he took on the 7th inst. and the four following days, at the inquiry which he made as to the propriety of granting the Provisional Order prayed for in the petition of the Town Commissioners, dated the 25th May, 1875.

The petition consisted of nineteen different parts, dealing with a great variety of subjects, but, in accordance with the opinion of counsel obtained by the Local Government Board, the inquiry which they were enabled to direct was confined to three of these, namely:—

Part 2, Clause 1.—Praying for an order authorizing the compulsory purchase of land for the construction of certain sewers, intercepting and outfall.

Part 5. So far as it relates to an alteration of the Local Act of 1861; and Part 15. So far as it relates to the amendment or alteration of existing Local Acts.

As regards Part 2, Clause 1—the Main Drainage question—what the Board have to pronounce an opinion upon, at the present stage, is the giving the Commissioners control over the land required by them for the execution of their plans; but this matter is so closely interwoven with, and dependent upon several collateral questions that in order to effect a satisfactory inquiry, it was necessary that the inspector should afford to the various local parties interested in the result, the fullest facilities for placing their views on record in detail, and of exhausting the evidence which could be adduced.

The witnesses examined both in support and in opposition to the projected scheme, were taken from almost every class in a community capable of throwing light on the several controverted points.

The proposal of the Commissioners may be conveniently divided under two distinct heads, namely:—

1. That relating to the drainage and sewerage of Kingstown proper, and
2. That relating to the Glasthule or eastern side of the township.

After reference to the Provisional Order of the Local Government Board, dated the 27th day of June, 1874, called the "Kingstown Drainage Order," the petition proceeds as follows, namely:—

"That the discharge, as at present, of the sewerage of the township, is found to be productive of nuisance and inconvenience; and when the internal sewerage and drainage of the said township is improved and completed, will be still more inconvenient and injurious to the health and comfort of the inhabitants of said township if not remedied; and it is expedient that such sewage should be intercepted and discharged into the sea at deep water at the western pier, Kingtown, and at or near the harbour at Bullock, in the parish of Monkstown, places conveniently situated for the outfall and discharge of said sewage, and for this purpose the lands and premises hereinafter mentioned will be required.

"That plans of the several lands and premises so intended to be taken compulsorily, as also of the said intended intercepting and outfall sewers, and showing the lines thereof, have been duly deposited for public inspection (pursuant to the Acts in such case made and provided), at the office of the said Commissioners, No. 114, Lower George's-street, Kingstown, and are herewith lodged.

"That your petitioners have had estimates prepared by the surveyor of the said township, which show that the sums required to enable them to construct the said intercepting and outfall sewers according to the said plans, including the purchase of the necessary lands therefor, amount to the sum of £15,000 for the Kingstown drainage district, and to the sum of £5,000 for the Glasthule drainage district; making together the sum of £20,000.

"That the extension and improvement of the existing system of drains and sewers in Kingstown as aforesaid, could usefully and conveniently be carried into execution, in connection with the construction of such intercepting and outfall sewers.

"That your petitioners seek to be empowered to put in force the provisions of the Lands Clauses Acts with respect to the purchase and taking of lands and premises otherwise than by agreement, with respect to the following lands and premises, and all rights, powers, easements, liberties, and privileges in, under, and over the same, that is to say, certain lands and premises situate in the parish of Monkstown, barony of Rathdown, and county of Dublin, containing two acres or thereabouts, and required for the purpose of an intercepting or outfall sewer or sewers No. 1; and certain lands and premises situate in the parish of Monkstown, barony of Rathdown, township of Kingstown, and county of Dublin, containing half an acre or thereabouts, for the purpose of constructing an intercepting and outfall sewer No. 2; and certain lands and premises situate in the townlands of Glasthule and Bullock, parish of Monkstown, barony of Rathdown, township of Kingstown, and county of Dublin, containing two acres or thereabouts, for the purpose of constructing an intercepting and outfall sewer No. 3.

"That under the provisions of the 43rd section of the Public Health (Ireland) Act, 1874, the Commissioners of Public Works in Ireland may, with the consent of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, on the recommendation of the Local Government Board, make any loan to any sanitary authority for such objects as the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury may deem to be sanitary improvements, in pursuance of any powers of borrowing conferred by the Sanitary Acts, whether for works already executed or yet to be executed, such loan to be repaid within a period not exceeding thirty or fifty years, as provided by those Acts, and to bear interest at the rate of 3½ per centum per annum, or such other rate as may in the judgment of the said Commissioners be necessary, in order to enable the loan to be made without loss to the Exchequer on the security of any fund or rate applicable to sanitary purposes, and without requiring any further or other security.

"That your petitioners seek power to make and maintain in the line, and according to the levels shown on the said plans, the sewers hereinafter described, or some part or parts thereof, with all necessary and convenient flaps, penstocks, inlets, chambers, filters, reservoirs, connecting sewers, and other works, appliances, and conveniences connected therewith respectively, and to enter upon, take, and use such of the lands delineated on the said plans, as may be required for such purposes, that is to say, the sewers and works following:—

"A sewer in this petition called 'the intercepting or outfall sewer No. 1,' and the altering, diverting, or extending the existing sewer adjoining the western pier, Kingstown, known as 'the Harbour Commissioners' sewer,' which said intended intercepting or outfall sewer will commence at a point shown on the said plans, fifty feet or thereabouts, measured northwards from the house on the western pier, Kingstown, belonging to the Board of Public Works or Harbour Commissioners, and running from thence in a north-easterly direction in, under, or through the sea-beach or foreshore of the bay of Dublin, and said western pier, and in, under or through, the gentlemen's bathing place or baths on the said western pier, and terminating at a point on or under said pier, 3,100 feet or thereabouts from said first-mentioned point, as shown on the said plans, where said sewer will discharge the sewage into the sea or bay of Dublin.

"A sewer, in this petition called 'the intercepting and outfall sewer No. 2,' commencing at a point shown on the said plan, on the Dalkey and Bray branch of the Dublin, Wicklow, and Wexford Railway, and extending in an easterly direction to, and terminating by a junction with the existing main sewer at a point 133 feet or thereabouts southward of the railway bridge near Haddington-terrace in said township of Kingstown.

"A sewer, in this petition called 'the intercepting and outfall sewer No. 3,' commencing at a point shown on said plan, on the foreshore of the bay called Scotch bay and the foreshore of Dublin bay, and running thence along and under the said foreshore to and through fields in front of Otranto-place, in possession of Messieurs Mackaige and Massey, and the representatives of the late Robert Meekins, Esq., thence by the avenue, path, or entrance to Sandycove baths, and to and through Sandycove-avenue, west, and through premises in possession of Miss Clegg and Mrs. Reeves, or the said representatives of the late Robert Meekins, Esq., and by Sandycove-avenue, north and east, to and by the entrance avenue to premises in possession of Dr. De Meschin or Meekins, or the said representatives of the late Robert Meekins, Esq., thence through the ground of St. Kilda to the foreshore or sea beach of Dublin bay near Bullock harbour, and terminating at low-water mark on said beach, 500 feet or thereabouts westward of said Bullock harbour."

With respect to Kingstown proper two evils of great magnitude, and as to which there is, and can be no controversy whatever, exist in this part of the township.

The first of these is the discharge of a main sewer near the commencement of the west pier of Kingstown harbour, and in close proximity to the bathing places there; and the second is a somewhat similar discharge of sewage, though of a less aggravated kind, at the east pier.

The remedy which the Commissioners propose for the abatement of these two great and unquestionable nuisances is comprised in the sewers No. 1 and No. 2, the plans for which have been submitted, the latter running in a westerly direction from the east pier (where it will intercept the discharge now going out there), along the line of railway to near the station-house, at which point it will join an existing sewer called "the Harbour Commissioners' sewer," which it is proposed to utilize from this point to the western pier.

Here the combined contents of this and No. 2 sewer will be caught up by the new intercepting sewer No. 1,

App. No. 1.

Kingstown. Letter from Local Government Board.

which will then run from this point along the western pier to the elbow, a distance of about 3,000 feet, when it will discharge into the sea at a depth of water which, it is estimated, must effectually protect the locality from all possibility of injury.

The principal objectors to this scheme were originally the Board of Public Works and the Dublin and Wicklow Railway Company, who are in fact the present owners of nearly all the ground proposed to be traversed by the new sewers.

Both of these bodies and the Town Commissioners have now, however, mutually agreed to terms which will enable the Commissioners to carry out their designs without obtaining any compulsory control over the property of the Board of Works and Railway Company, the application for which they have accordingly consented to forego as far as the property of these two bodies is affected by it.

Copies of the documents stating the objections referred to and their withdrawal are enclosed herewith.

The only other objections tendered have reference to the details of the scheme, the estimated cost of carrying it out, &c.

This, according to the estimate of the Commissioners' engineer, Mr. Doyle, would be £13,747, and according to that of Mr. Cotton, C.E., who was called into consultation by the Commissioners, £14,259, or £412 more.

Sir John Hawkshaw, when Mr. Doyle's plans were submitted to him in 1873, estimated the cost of the execution of this part of the scheme, as proposed by Mr. Doyle, at £15,000, or £1,253 more than the estimate now submitted by that officer, but Mr. Cotton has in his evidence stated what is probably true as to this, namely, that "he probably put English prices on many things," and on the other hand two contractors of experience expressed their readiness to undertake the execution of the works within the limit specified.

With respect to a very comprehensive scheme of drainage suggested by Sir John Hawkshaw himself it may be sufficient to observe that the Commissioners, in the exercise of their discretion, have decided that the expense would be too great to be imposed upon the township.

When the time comes for application for a loan for the works agreed upon for the execution of the works comprised in plans Nos. 1 and 2, more detailed working plans and specifications will be necessary, and will then be submitted for approval to the Local Government Board, previous to their recommendation of the loan.

Amicable arrangements having been entered into, as before stated, with the Board of Public Works and the Railway Company, the Commissioners will no doubt find little difficulty in satisfying both of those bodies in the first instance as to all matters of detail.

After full consideration, therefore, of this part of the petition, and the proposed scheme, the Local Government Board have to state that they are ready to direct the preparation and issue of a Provisional Order enabling the Town Commissioners to have control over the land necessary to enable them to carry out the construction of the intercepting sewers No. 1 and No. 2, with outfall at the elbow of the western pier 3,000 feet or thereabouts from its commencement.

The stipulations of the Board of Public Works and the Railway Company, respectively, will be protected in the Provisional Order, so far as it relates to the taking of land belonging to them—that part of the petition having now been foregone under the agreements before referred to.

The Local Government Board have now to refer to the scheme proposed for the Glasthule or eastern portion of the Kingstown Township, which it is proposed to drain by the new intercepting sewer No. 3.

The engineer, Mr. Doyle, has in his evidence given a detailed description of the present condition of the foreshore from the point where the Glasthule River, or rather the sewer, discharges into Scotch Bay, to Sandycove Harbour; and though he has explained that the construction of the new intercepting sewer No. 2, for the Kingstown proper drainage, will have the effect of withdrawing from the Glasthule outfall a very considerable amount of the sewage at present going in that direction, namely, that appertaining to sixty-eight acres of the most densely populated portion of the district, and so, of palliating to an appreciable and sensible extent the evil he has described.

It cannot be doubted, however, that what will remain will continue to constitute an evil of very serious magnitude, calling imperatively for prompt and effective action on the part of the governing body of the township for its removal.

Some evidence has been given to the effect that what is complained of in this quarter is in great part attributable to the neglected condition of the existing sewerage, and it has been contended that greater attention to this, and the simple extension to deeper water of the present sewer would sufficiently meet the absolute requirements of the case.

The great weight of the professional testimony offered is, however, altogether opposed to this view, and no room appears to remain to doubt that owing to the entire absence of currents and the shoaly character of the foreshore there, no effective remedy can be looked for until all the sewage, public and private, at present discharging into the bay at the point indicated, is completely intercepted and conveyed elsewhere.

But while there may be no reasonable doubt on this head, the evidence shows that when the next step is approached and a suitable outfall comes to be determined on, the governing body find themselves at once confronted with difficulties of a very formidable kind.

Mr. Doyle's plan, sewer No. 3, proposes to convey the entire sewage of the foreshore from Glasthule River to Sandycove Harbour to a point of outfall 600 feet north of the entrance to Bullock Harbour.

Mr. Pallas, C.E., Mr. Doyle's predecessor in office, proposed a scheme in 1867, which selected for the purpose of outfall, a point considerably more to the north of the harbour than Mr. Doyle's, but this proposal was not entertained because it was apprehended that from its proximity to the gentlemen's bathing place at Sandycove point, it would have been destructive to it.

It was, no doubt, with the object of surmounting this obstacle that Mr. Doyle selected for his outfall a point which has at least the merit of not interfering in any way with this bathing place; but it seems questionable whether, in avoiding this, he has not encountered another of a far more serious kind, inasmuch as what he proposes has evoked the strongest hostility and opposition on the part of the great majority of the most respectable and influential inhabitants residing in the neighbourhood of Bullock Harbour, and is, whether rightly or wrongly, regarded by them as a measure fraught with danger to their health and comfort, as well as serious injury to their property in the district.

The evidence tendered on this part of the inquiry is of a very conflicting and contradictory kind.

Among the objections to this part of the scheme tendered to Mr. O'Brien, at the opening of the inquiry, was one from the land agent to the Port and Docks Board, but at a later stage this was withdrawn by their engineer, Mr. Stoney, on the Town Commissioners undertaking that the point of outfall was, under no circumstances, to approach closer than within 600 feet of the entrance to the harbour.

In a report from the engineer on Sir John Hawkshaw's proposal in 1873, the following paragraph appears:—

"The Kingstown Township boundary is a little west of Bullock Harbour, and if the outlet be not placed in the Dalkey district to the south-east of the harbour, the latter will be liable to be choked with filth and become a great nuisance.

"The farther the outlet is to the eastward the better for Bullock and the shallow coast to the westward."

Sir John Hawkshaw's point of outfall, to which this report bore reference, was much further removed from the entrance to Bullock Harbour than Mr. Doyle's, now assented to; and in the absence of any explanation which Mr. Stoney might be able to give as to the apparent difference between his views now and in 1873, it is difficult to reconcile them.

Possibly Mr. Stoney has satisfied himself, however, that the proposed distance of 600 feet will afford the harbour, as such, adequate protection from injury, and that he regards the sanitary aspect of the case and the apprehended injury to the property of the vicinity as being matters outside the immediate duties and responsibilities attaching to his Board, as no doubt they are.

Without actual experience, in fact, it would perhaps be impossible for anyone to determine positively how far the apprehensions of the inhabitants of the Glasthule and Bullock districts, as expressed in the memorials submitted at the inquiry, are or are not well founded.

Be this as it may, there is abundant evidence to show that at best the experiment would be a very expensive one, and one in which it is extremely doubtful whether the end gained would not simply amount to transferring the evil from one locality to another.

The expense of constructing such a sewer as the line proposed to be traversed by this would require, has been variously estimated at £4,958 (Mr. Doyle); £10,739 (Mr. Pallas); and £12,990 (Mr. Gray); and this, of itself, serves to show that this part of the scheme requires to be further matured, and upon full consideration of the evidence before them the Local Government Board are not prepared to issue a Provisional Order to enable the Commissioners to carry out the plan No. 3.

The Board at the same time desire to point out that any professional witness examined has expressed concurrence in Sir John Hawkshaw's opinion that by far the best outfall for the sewer from this end of Kingstown township is to be found in the Dalkey district, and there appears to be ground for hope that arrangements can yet be made between the Dalkey and the Kingstown Commissioners for effecting this object.

The Local Government Board beg to recommend both Boards to open amicable negotiations on this subject, which, if approached in the spirit to be expected from two bodies representing such important public interests, cannot fail to result in an arrangement at once beneficial to the health of those communities and to the ratepayers of both townships.

The provisions of the 25th section of the Public Health Act, 1874, to which the attention of the Commissioners is requested, bear directly upon this question, as do those of the 19th section when it may be necessary to put them in operation.

There would appear to be less ground to anticipate resistance or refusal to co-operate amicably on the part of the Dalkey Commissioners, inasmuch as they appeared at the inquiry as objectors to the Bullock scheme on the ground that it was "calculated to injure the harbour, and render it and the adjoining sea-shore offensive to some of the ratepayers of Dalkey township."

Having thus interposed to prevent the Kingstown Town Commissioners from obtaining access to the only available outlet in their own district, it would seem to follow that they cannot reasonably oppose a desire on the part of the Kingstown Commissioners, when formally submitted, to unite with them in carrying out a plan pronounced by all competent authorities to be the very best that can possibly be adopted, and which must prove both in a sanitary and financial point of view of great practical advantage to both townships.

Having thus disposed of the portion of the inquiry which relates to the drainage, the Board will proceed to refer to the proposed alterations in the Kingstown Local Acts of 1861 and 1869, and which, though not of a very important kind, appear, for the most part, to be useful and reasonable, judging from the evidence tendered in support of them by Mr. Ennis, Secretary to the Town Commissioners.

Some of the proposed alterations do not, however, appear to be supported by sufficient evidence of their necessity or utility.

The first of these amendments of the Local Acts is the alteration or amendment of the 13th and 15th sections of the Kingstown Improvement Act of 1861, authorizing the levy and application of the Kingstown "Road Rate," so as to enable the Commissioners to apply the rate to the general purposes of the township.

It may be a great convenience to the Town Commissioners to possess this power and to use it when necessary, and the Board see no objection to the same being amended by Provisional Order accordingly.

The following are the paragraphs of the petition relating to this matter, as amended by the omission of certain words now no longer applicable:—

"Part V.—Asphalting of Footways.

"That by the 13th section of the 'Kingstown Improvement Act, 1861,' it is provided:—

"That in order to raise money for carrying the several purposes of said Act into execution it shall be lawful for the Commissioners once in every year, in addition to the rates which by the 'Towns Improvement (Ireland) Act, 1854,' they are authorized to levy, to make one or more equal rate or rates, assessment or assessments, under the name of the Kingstown 'Road Rate,' provided that such rates or assessments shall not exceed a sum of 1*s.* 6*d.* in the pound in the whole in any year, without the consent of a majority of the ratepayers given at a special general meeting for that purpose convened, such majority to consist of not less than two-thirds of the persons present at such meeting, of which notice shall be given by the Commissioners, expressing that the purpose of such meeting is to consider the propriety of making an increased rate, provided always that such rates shall not in the whole in any case exceed the sum of 2*s.* 6*d.* in the pound in any year. And by the 14th section of said last-mentioned Act it is provided that said road rate shall be made or assessed on the same occupiers of premises, and shall be levied or recovered in the like and the same manner, and at the same time, or other times more convenient, subject to the like exemptions and with the like remedies, by way of appeal and otherwise, as the other rates by the Commissioners in virtue of the said 'Towns Improvement (Ireland) Act, 1854,' and the Acts wholly or partly incorporated therewith, are made or assessed and levied and recovered; and by the 15th section of said Act it is provided—

"That the rates to be levied by the Commissioners under and by virtue of said Act, shall be vested in the said Commissioners, and applied by them in carrying the several purposes of said Act into execution as hereinbefore specially provided, and to no other purpose.

"That your petitioners have, under the provisions of said Act, from time to time levied a portion of the rate thereby authorized to be levied, and applied said rates as thereby directed, but said rate has not at any time exceeded the sum of 1*s.* 2*d.* in the pound.

"That it would effect a large saving of the rates of the township, and promote the comfort and convenience of the inhabitants thereof, if the footways of the said township were asphalted, and with that object they have caused estimates to be made of the expense of forming said footways with asphalte, and from said estimates it appears that a sum of £2,000 will be required for the said purpose; and your petitioners have, by resolution, dated 29th day of January, 1875, approved of said sum of £2,000 being borrowed and applied for the purposes aforesaid.

"That your petitioners, for the purpose of building said town hall, court house, and other buildings, seek leave to borrow the sum of £8,000 for the aforesaid purpose, upon the security of said rate or rates so proposed to be levied, from the Public Works Loan Commissioners, at the rate of interest not exceeding five per cent., or from any public company, corporation, or individual willing to lend same, at such rate of interest not exceeding five per cent., and on such terms of repayment as your petitioners shall think fit, provided that such sum so intended to be borrowed be repaid within a period of sixty years from the date of borrowing same, or that your petitioners may be authorized to apply a portion of the Kingstown road rate for the aforesaid purpose, and to provide a fund to pay said sum so proposed to be borrowed, and the interest thereon, from the aforesaid parties, should it be deemed more advisable to borrow upon the security of the road rate, rather than the improvement rate; and your petitioners also seek powers to borrow upon the security of the said rate or rates, from the parties aforesaid, and at such terms as to interest and otherwise as aforesaid, said sum of £2,000, for the purpose of asphalting the footways of the said township of Kingstown."

Kingstown. Letter from Local Government Board.

The remaining part of the inquiry held by Mr. O'Brien had reference to the amendment of section 145 of the Dublin Grand Jury Act of 1844, relating to the steps necessary to be taken where there may be "obstruction in any public road caused by any trees so as to occasion danger to the public," and to the amendment of the Local Acts of 1861 and 1869, in certain particulars.

The following are extracts from the petition on these points:—

"PART XV.—LOCAL GOVERNMENT and AMENDMENT of ACTS.

"That section 12 of the Act of 1869, in case of title by descent, &c., how occupation is to be reckoned, shall be read and have effect as if among the conditions entitling the person or persons in that section mentioned to reckon the occupancy and rating in respect of occupancy of the person from or by whom such premises came to him or them as his or their own occupancy, as if the word 'succession' had been inserted next after the word 'descent' and immediately preceding the word 'marriage' in the said section. Provided always that the provisions of the foregoing section shall be held to apply to and include immediate lessors as well as occupiers.

"That the premises in respect of the occupation of which any person shall be entitled to be registered in any year as an elector and to vote in the election of any Commissioner for the township, shall not be required to be the same premises, but may be different premises occupied in immediate succession by such person during the eighteen calendar months next previous, in any succeeding years, to the 20th day of July in such year, and section of the Act of 1869 shall be read and have effect accordingly.

"That if any person shall quit or be about to quit any rateable property before he has paid the rates then payable by him in respect thereof, and do not pay the same to the collector on demand, any justice having jurisdiction where such person resides or his goods are found, may summon such person to appear before him at a time mentioned in the summons, to show cause why such rates should not be paid, and if no sufficient cause for the non-payment of such rates be shown, accordingly the same shall be levied by distress, and such justice shall issue his warrant accordingly.

"That whereas, by the Act of 1861, the management of the roads and bridges in the said township was transferred from the Grand Jury of the county of Dublin to the Commissioners elected and acting in the said township, under the provisions of the said Act of 1854, and it is expedient that the rights, powers, and authorities hitherto exercised by the said Grand Jury of the said county of Dublin, under the provisions of a statute passed in the 7th and 8th years of Her present Majesty, intituled 'An Act to consolidate and amend the laws for the regulation of Grand Jury Presentments in the county of Dublin,' within the said township, should, so far as same are applicable, be transferred to, and exercised by, the Commissioners of the said township; and be it therefore enacted that the provisions of the 145th section of the said last mentioned Act shall be incorporated herewith, and the powers in said section authorized to be exercised by the district surveyor or contractor, may be exercised by the surveyor or contractor of and for the said Commissioners.

"That section 10 of the said Act of 1869, which prescribes the qualification of persons eligible to be elected Commissioners, be amended so far as relates to the township of Kingstown, and that from and after the confirmation of this order every male householder or occupier of full age, rated to the relief of the poor at the net annual value of £20 or upwards, in respect of lands, tenements, or hereditaments, within the said township, and occupied by him, as in said section 10 set forth, shall, if duly registered, as in said Act of 1869 (as amended by this order) contained, be eligible to be elected a Commissioner under said Act of 1869.

"Provided always that evidence of actual occupation as tenant or owner from the period required by said Act of 1869, by any occupier seeking to be registered as an elector for the said township, shall be deemed to be sufficient, without the name of said occupier or owner appearing on the rate book of the Commissioners, or of the Poor Law Union, in respect of such premises under the Acts for the relief of destitute poor in Ireland.

"That section 14 of the said Act of 1869 be repealed down to the word 'rated,' immediately preceding the words 'provided always' of the first proviso of said section.

"That section 17 of said Act of 1869, and the schedule B thereto be amended, and that from and after the confirmation by Parliament of this order, it shall not be necessary for the clerk to the said Commissioners, in preparing the book for each ward containing the names of persons entitled to be electors in the said township, as required by the 17th section, to prepare said book according to form No. 1 in said schedule B, and the said clerk may omit from said book the several columns showing the particulars under the head 'Poor Rate,' and under the head 'Rate made under the 60th section of Act of 1854,' and under the head 'And so on for any other rates made under the said Act, or any local Act in force in the township, as the case may be,' and that the said form No. 1 in said schedule be therefore amended.

"That sections 18, 19, and 20 of the said Act of 1869 shall, from and after the confirmation by Parliament of this order, be repealed.

"That the 22nd section of said Act of 1869 be amended and shall be read and have effect as if the words 'excepting, nevertheless, from such lists the name of every person who does not appear by the entries made in the books hereinbefore mentioned to have paid all rates by this Act required to be paid in order to qualify such person to be or to be registered as an elector of the township,' had been omitted therefrom, and that in lieu of the forms No. 1 and No. 2 in schedule B annexed to said Act of 1869, the forms No. 9 and No. 10 in schedule No 3 to this petition annexed, be the forms in which, after the confirmation of this order, said lists shall be made out as aforesaid.

"That the 24th section of said Act of 1869 be amended, by omitting the word 'twentieth' and inserting the word 'fifteenth' immediately before the words 'day of October' in the third line of said section, and by omitting the words 'twenty-second' and inserting in lieu thereof the word 'twentieth' in the sixth line of said section, and by omitting the words 'twenty-seventh' and inserting in lieu thereof the words 'twenty-fourth' in the eleventh and twelfth and in the sixteenth lines of the said section, and by omitting the word 'seven' and inserting in lieu thereof the word 'five' in lines twenty-six and thirty-one of said 24th section of the Act of 1869, and 'copy' in the last line of said 24th section shall be held to mean a copy of any list made in pursuance of the requirements of said 24th section.

"That whereas by the 26th and 32nd sections of the said Act of 1869 it is provided that the said Commissioners may apply for the purpose of paying a sum not exceeding five guineas per day to the Revising Barrister, to be appointed as in said 26th section set forth, and by the 32nd section a reasonable sum to be by them, the said Commissioners, ascertained, may be by the said Commissioners applied for the preparing the said register and list, and that the said Commissioners may apply for that purpose any moneys coming to their hands by virtue of the Act of 1854 and the Act of 1861, or either of them, and it is expedient to amend the same; be it therefore enacted that the said Commissioners may be empowered to apply for said purposes any money whatever coming to their hands by virtue of said Acts, and of any other Act or Acts, order or orders, whatsoever.

"That the 45th section of the said Act of 1869 shall be amended by omitting from the 23rd line of said section the words 'fourteenth day of January,' and inserting in lieu thereof in said line the words 'first day of February,' and that said section shall be read and have the effect as if said words, 'first day of February,' had been originally inserted therein.

"That such portion of the 29th section of the said Act of 1869, as enacts that the decision of the barrister or assistant barrister, as the case may be, holding or presiding at any Court of Revision under said Act, shall, with respect to such revision and to the list of voters in said section mentioned, be final and conclusive, shall be and is hereby repealed, and for the purpose of giving the same right of appeal from the decision of the said barrister or assistant barrister, as the case may be, on points of law, as is given by an Act passed in the 13th and 14th years of the reign of Her present Majesty, c. 69, and entitled 'The Parliamentary Voters' (Ireland) Act,' shall be and are herewith incorporated, and shall have the same force and effects as if they were originally incorporated in the said 29th sec. of the said Act of 1869.

"That in all cases where, for any of the purposes of the said Act of 1869, the production as evidence or otherwise, for any purpose whatever, of the rate-book of the Clerk of the Union in such Acts mentioned is required, it shall be sufficient instead thereof to produce as evidence or otherwise the rate-book of the said Commissioners of the said township, as furnished to said Commissioners by the Commissioners of Valuation for Ireland, anything in any of the said Acts to the contrary notwithstanding; and the said rate-book, as prepared from the return so furnished by the said Commissioners of Valuation, shall be held to be the rate-book of and for the said township for all intents and purposes whatsoever; and as if the words 'rate-book of the Commissioners,' as made up from the copies furnished by the said Commissioners of Valuation had been included in the said Act of 1869."

App. No. 1
Kingstown.
Letter from Local Government Board.

The Board see no objection to the proposed amendment of section 12 of the Act of 1869, as to reckoning title to premises by "succession," as well as otherwise; nor to the provision as to premises occupied in the township in succession (paragraphs 1 and 2); but it does not appear to the Board that any sufficient grounds have been shown for introducing the change of the law as regards persons quitting before payment of rates. (Paragraph 3.)

It seems quite reasonable to transfer the powers as to trees causing obstruction in roads in the township to the Commissioners. (Paragraph 4.)

The amendment of the local Act as to qualification of electors and Commissioners (paragraph 5) was not pressed for.

The Board cannot approve the proposed reduction of the qualification for the office of Commissioner by occupation of premises, from £25 to £20. (Paragraph 6.)

The Board approve of the proposed provision as to evidence of actual occupation. (Paragraph 7.)

There seems to be no objection to the repeal of the first part of section 14, as to claims to be rated. (Paragraph 8.)

The proposed alteration of the law in paragraphs Nos. 9 and 10 was abandoned.

There does not appear to be any sufficient ground to make the proposed alterations in paragraphs 11, 12, and 13, relating to form of rate-books, and particulars in ratepayers' list.

The Board see no objection to the alteration of dates in the 24th section of the Act relating to claims to vote on the part of persons whose names have been omitted.

There appears to be no objection to the proposal in paragraph 15, as to fund out of which the Assistant Barrister's fees may be paid, nor to the alteration of the date at which notice of the accounts are printed from 14th January to 1st of February.

Paragraph 17 involves a repeal of a general statute, and cannot be dealt with by a Provisional Order.

Paragraph 19, as to the nomination of candidates for the office of Commissioners, was abandoned.

The proposed power of appeal from decisions of the Assistant Barrister (paragraph 18) appears to be reasonable, and the Board are prepared to give effect to it, as also to the proposal to make the rate-book of the Commissioners evidence (paragraph 20), and the usual clause as to payment of expenses incurred by the Commissioners in applying for and obtaining the Provisional Order, will be made part of the order.

Local Government Board Inquiry.

7th February, 1876.

The Kingstown Commissioners accede to the objections of the Dublin, Wicklow, and Wexford Railway Company, and agree to insert provisions in the contemplated Provisional Order exempting the lands and other property of the said Railway Company from the operation of any compulsory purchase or any right to enter upon or interfere therewith.

Also a declaratory provision confirming the provisions of the Towns Improvement (Ireland) Act, 1854, so far as to limit at one-fourth proportion the payment of any taxation.

Township of Kingstown.—Re Inquiry as to Sewers.

24, Eustace-street, Dublin,
15th February, 1876.

Gentlemen,—One of the sewers about being constructed by the Commissioners of Kingstown, and designated No. 1, is intended to commence at a point fifty feet or thereabouts, measured northwards, from the house on the western pier, Kingstown, belonging to the Commissioners of Public Works, and running along the sea slope of the western pier, and terminating at a point 3,100 feet or thereabouts from said first mentioned point, where said sewer will discharge the sewage into the sea or bay of Dublin. The course of this sewer, which is approved of by the Commissioners of Public Works, will run upon the portion of the western pier sea slope occupied by the gentlemen's bathing place. I am directed by the Commissioners of the township of Kingstown respectfully to ask the permission of your Board to run said intended sewer in, through, or under the portion of said sea slope so occupied by the gentlemen's bathing place as aforesaid. The advantages to the bathers and inhabitants of the neighbourhood of Salthill and Monkstown by the removal of the outfall sewer from its present place of discharge is so manifest, and the number and respectability of the witnesses who gave evidence as to the intolerable nuisance caused by the present discharge, and to which I refer, renders it unnecessary for me to add more, save the hope that your Board will accede to the request herein contained in the same friendly spirit as the favour was granted in the case of No. 2 sewer in your line of railway.

I am, gentlemen, your obedient servant,

John Lalor.

I certify that the foregoing is a true abstract of the accounts of the Dalkey Township Commissioners for the year ended 31st December, 1876.

Dated 23rd February, 1877.

GEORGE W. FINLAY, Local Government Auditor.

Report of G. W. Finlay, Esq., Local Government Auditor.

Kingstown, 23rd February, 1877.

Gentlemen,—I have the honour to report to your Board that I have audited the accounts of the receipts and expenditure of the Commissioners of Dalkey township for the year ended 31st December, 1876.

I transmit an abstract of the accounts from which it will be seen that the Commissioners received during the year £2,060 16*s.* 1*d.*, and that they expended under the various heads of account (including payment of the balance of £251 3*s.* 10*d.* due to their treasurer at the end of the preceding year) £2,479 12*s.* 6*d.*, and placed on deposit in the National Bank for main drainage purposes, £148 18*s.* 1*d.*, making in all £2,628 10*s.* 7*d.*; leaving a net balance due to their treasurer at the end of the year of £567 14*s.* 6*d.*

The rates made in May, 1876, viz., the sinking fund special rate, water rate, improvement rate, and sewer rate, amounted, at 3*s.* 6*d.* in the pound on the net annual value of the township, to £1,960 14*s.* 10*d.*, of which there was collected and lodged with the treasurer within the year, £1,437 3*s.* 1*d.* In addition there was a sum of £570 0*s.* 7*d.* arrears of previous rates collected and lodged.

The arrears of last rate outstanding on the 31st December last amounted to £682 4*s.* 5*d.*

Since I last reported on the accounts of this township, an order for £158 18*s.* 1*d.* has been obtained in the police court against the late collector O'Dowd, being the further amount of rates ascertained to have been received by him and not lodged to the credit of the Commissioners, but although six months have since elapsed nothing further has been done towards recovering the money. I understand that proceedings are about being instituted in one of the superior courts against the representatives of the sureties.

Nothing has been done since my last report towards ascertaining the liabilities of Mr. O'Dowd and his sureties in relation to the further sum of £231 11*s.* 6*d.* beyond handing over the list to the present collector, and which, as I have pointed out in a previous report, can only be done by application to the individual ratepayers appearing to be in arrear. If the list were placed in the hands of a more active and efficient officer, who would receive a liberal poundage on the amount collected and lodged, the true state of the case respecting those arrears could be ascertained. The longer the matter is allowed to remain over, the greater will be the difficulty in satisfactorily closing it.

I have seldom met a case in which there has been an equal amount of delay in recovering moneys that have been misapplied by a collector of public taxes; and it is difficult to believe that the Commissioners are really serious in the matter, and that they do not prefer the interests of their late collector and his sureties to those of the ratepayers whose representatives they are.

The railway company have not as yet paid the rates assessed on their line. Legal proceedings for their recovery are still pending.

There was a payment of £24 7*s.* 5*d.* during the year in the shape of interest on advances for current expenses. I have intimated to the Commissioners that expenditure of this character cannot in future be allowed, it being illegal.

I have the honour to be, gentlemen,

Your obedient servant,

Geo. W. Finlay.
